KING OF THE BELGIANS.

His Birthday Is Celebrated on Both Sides of the Ocean.

The birthday of Albert, king of the Belgians, was made the occasion of an official celebration at Havre, France. In this country it was marked by the campaign of the Daughters of the American Revolution to raise $1,000,000 for the suffering Belgians by selling small flags.

23 SUFF CRUSADERS START.

Congressional Union Envoys to West Cheered by Thousands.

Washington, April 10.—Several thousand women suffrage enthusiasts, led by a brass band, sang "Onward, Christian Soldiers" as a train left here carrying twenty-three envoys of the Congressional Union For Woman Suffrage bound on a thirty-eight day organization trip through the western suffrage states.

The purpose of the expedition is to organize the voting women of the west or bring pressure to bear upon all parties for the insertion of suffrage planks in the national political platforms.

Highways Association Opens Contest Today, Offering $2,600.

Washington, April 10.—Every person in the country interested in good roads is invited to enter a photograph contest, with prizes totaling $2,600. The National Highways association announced that it will conduct this contest and that Theodore Roosevelt, Mark Sullivan and Miss Ida Tarbell will be the judges.

The photographs selected will be used to establish here a national exhibit on good roads designed primarily to promote a nationally conceived scheme of highways.

DIED.

SPANGENBERG—On Sunday, April 9, 1916, Leonard Spangenberg, aged 76 years.

Services at his late residence, 123 Westervelt avenue, North Plainfield, on Wednesday, April 12, at 3 p. m. Interment in Hillside cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many friends, relatives and neighbors, also the Firemen's and Red Men's Societies for their kindness and floral offerings in our late bereavement in the loss of our beloved husband and father.

MRS. CORNELIUS GUINEE.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

GRAND JURORS CHOSEN

Judges C. W. Parker and D. H. Beekman Preside at Opening of April Term of Somerset County Court—Unusually Small List of Causes.

Somerville, April 11.—Judges Charles W. Parker and Daniel H. Beekman were on the bench at the opening of the April term of the Somerset County Courts today, the attendance of lawyers and others interested in court matters being unusually large. Judge Parker in his charge to the grand jury called the members' attention to their oath and also made reference to the fact that the general moral conditions of the county seemed to be excellent. The North Plainfield members of the jury are Fred A. Martin, Charles Place, Alfred K. Willett and William M. Moorehead.

Former State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen and William J. Barlow, the latter of North Plainfield, were among those called, but were later excused because they were not needed. De Witt Bowman is the foreman of the jury.

The only licenses granted at this end of the county were those of Frank Probst, of Washington Valley, and Henry Pedefious on the Warrenville road. Judge Parker stated that he had received a communication from the Council of North Plainfield requesting that licensed places be instructed to close there at 11 o'clock instead of 11:30. He then explained that the court had no power to issue such an order, but it did have discretionary powers in the matter of granting or rejecting applications.

The Judge then called Mr. Probst before him and made a request that he close his place at 11 o'clock at night. Mr. Probst said that he would be glad to accede to the court's request. Nothing was said by the court regarding Mr. Pedefious closing at an earlier hour. It was understood that because licenses were not granted in the borough at this time, the court refrained from taking the early closing hour up with the proprietors of licensed places.

The calendar for this term is unusually light, only five Supreme Court and two Circuit Court cases being listed. Judge George S. Silzer at once began the trial of cases.

POSTOFFICE EMPLOYES COMPLETE WEEK'S RECORD

During the week of April 3 to 8 actual counting and weighing of letters and newspapers delivered in the city of Plainfield has been kept at the postoffice. The result of the count shows that there were 124,023 letters and postal cards, weighing 2,556 pounds, delivered in Plainfield. There were also 36,676 newspapers and magazines delivered, weighing 9,595 pounds. The largest number of letters delivered in any one day was on Monday, April 3, when 25,791 letters were delivered. There were also delivered in Plainfield during that week 1,773 parcels post packages.

In addition to these letters there are three R. F. D. routes and one Star route, of which no count was kept. All this mail was delivered by twenty-six carriers in the city of Plainfield. No count has been kept of outgoing mail, but it may be of interest to state that in September, 1910, a cancelling machine was installed, and since that date up to April 11, 21,418,325 letters and postal cards have been mailed out of Plainfield. From December 22 to April 11, 1,418,325 letters and postal cards have been mailed. The largest single day's mailing of letters was on December 23, when 57,000 letters and postal cards were sent out of Plainfield.

That the war in Europe has decreased postal revenues is conceded by all, yet during the incumbency of the present postmaster the postal revenues of Plainfield have increased about $7,000, and it is estimated that the income at the Postoffice this year will approximate $100,000.

BUREAU EXPERTS SUBMIT REPORT

Recommendations as to Municipal Improvements Are Made.

CONTENTS NOT KNOWN

Mayor Calkins Tells of Manner in Which Suggestions Are to Be Handled by Council to Get Best Results.

Experts of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research have submitted their report on municipal conditions in Plainfield, with recommendations as to improvements to be made in the local branches of government. Just what this report contains is not yet known. It contains 250 typewritten pages, and Mayor Calkins has not yet gone over it completely. The report has been made to the Taxpayers' Protective Association, and sent by this organization to the Mayor and Common Council. It will be made public through the local newspapers and later be printed in pamphlet form for distribution.

In discussing the report this morning Mayor Calkins said:

"The Bureau of Municipal Research has just rendered its report on the survey of departments, upon which it has been engaged since last February. The report was unavoidably delayed by the series of snowstorms in March, which hindered the examination of street conditions.

"It may be recalled that when I first recommended that such a survey be made, the Taxpayers' Protective Association came forward and offered to try to finance it without expense to the city. Not having funds sufficient for a complete survey, taking all departments and also the schools, the association early this year offered to use such funds as they had in their treasury for a survey of the departments to which I made special reference in my message last January. It was later found that one or two additional branches could be included.

"Accordingly the report covers the department of finance and also the police, street, fire, alms and health departments. It is addressed to the Protective Taxpayers' Associa-

CARRIER VETERANS WILL PARADE HERE

Delegation of Five Who Have Seen Fifty Years of Service Promise to Be Present.

A delegation of letter carriers from New York visited the local postoffice yesterday to perfect arrangements for their visit here on May 30. The parade committee escorted them over the proposed line of march and they were very much impressed with the many beautiful homes in Plainfield. They have promised to bring at least five carriers who have seen a half century of service with the department and have asked that automobiles be provided for these veterans.

Definite arrangements have been made with the Central Railroad and the first section of their train will leave New York at 12:45 and the second section at 1 o'clock. As the parade will start at 2:30 this will bring them here in ample time to take their place in line. The local carriers are working hard to have everything in perfect order for the day and if the public spirited citizens help out in the financial line May 30 will be a banner day for Plainfield.

WILL PRESENT 'ADAM AND EVE.'

The Polish Hynal Club will give a play entitled "Adam and Eve" in the John III Sobieski Hall on East Second street, Saturday night, April 15. The proceeds will be devoted for relief work abroad.

LOCAL PARTIES IN NOVEL DAMAGE SUIT

Newark Plaintiff Sues for $500 and is Awarded $69.05 in Elizabeth District Court.

An automobile damage suit case in which local parties were interested and which developed numerous technical points was heard by Judge David in the Elizabeth District Court yesterday. The plaintiff was Joseph J. Mullin, the Newark undertaker, who asked $500 from Dr. Edward Sargent, of Fanwood, whose car collided with one of Mullin's horse-drawn rigs in Newark, in August, 1915. Attorney Tansey, of Newark, represented the plaintiff, while Attorney Vincent W. Nash, Jr., of this city, represented Dr. Sargent.

Mullin's lawyer sought to prove that $500 actual damage had been suffered by his client and that the accident was due entirely to Dr. Sargent's chauffeur. Five witnesses were placed on the stand by the plaintiff and two by the defendant and at the conclusion of their testimony, Judge David declared it was the first case in his experience where the stories of witnesses on either side had absolutely tallied. Not the slightest discrepancy occurred in giving the time of the accident, the rate of speed at which the automobile had gone, the manner in which the crash occurred or any of the other details.

The night in question was a very rainy one and because of this Judge David ruled that the chauffeur, as a precaution, should have proceeded at a lesser speed than the law allowed. Otherwise, he declared, Attorney Nash's contention that the accident was unavoidable would have been upheld. In conclusion he awarded a verdict of $69.05, this being the exact amount of damage that Mullin had to pay as the result of the crash. Dr. Sargent, who is slightless, had previously offered to settle the matter for $150.

"GOOD ROAD'S DAY" IN N. P. TOWNSHIP

Western Method to Be Employed Friday as a Means of Repairing Highways.

Owing to the wretched condition of the highways throughout North Plainfield township, W. de la R. Anderson, chairman of the Township Committee, has set apart Friday as "Good Roads' Day" and at that time every citizen in the township is requested to do something toward improving road conditions in front of their own property. Supervisors will inspect the work.

Mr. Anderson announces that $2 will be paid for a full eight hour days' work. The workers will gather at the Improvement Hall at 6:30 o'clock in the evening, where the Ladies' Auxiliary will serve a dinner-pail supper to all citizen-laborers. The reason for this action as explained by Mr. Anderson today is that it is impossible to get laborers for road work and he decided to adopt the western methods. He expects that between thirty and forty men will report for work, but only able-bodied laborers will be employed.

BORO PUPILS FORM LITERARY SOCIETY

Ernest Pruden, Martin McDonough and Sherman Chandler Elected Officers.

A group of North Plainfield High School pupils met at the home of Ernest Pruden, No. 38 Manning avenue, last evening, to form a literary society. The society organized and elected the following officers: Ernest Pruden, president; Sherman Chandler, vice president; Martin Mc Donough, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. Chandler, acting as temporary chairman, called the meeting until the above officers were elected. Mr. Pruden then took the chair. The order of business was taken up and a committee was appointed to draw up by-laws to be acted on at the next meeting. The society is temporarily without a name but will be decided on the next meeting. Work along this line has been lax for some time and it is hoped by the way the members took an interest in the enterprise, that it will be a success.

The following members were present: Sherman Chandler, Oscar Dilts, William Seidel, Vincent La Porte, Alfred Willett, Andrew McDonough, Kenneth Lowrie, Martin McDonough, Ernest Pruden. The next meeting of the newly organized society will be held at the home of Oscar Dilts, No. 95 Jackson avenue, on some fixed date next week and all members are urged to be present.

NEGRO BURGLAR HELD FOR COUNTY GRAND JURY

PORTABLE HOUSE TABLET SHOWN

Belgian Relief Society Decide to Keep the Plans Here Until Thursday.

CONCERT NETTED $400

Large Supply of Useful Articles Will Soon Be Shipped for the Refugees—Letter From Vicomtesse de Rancougne is Read.

At the meeting of the Plainfield Belgian Relief yesterday the beautiful tablet for the portable house was on exhibition and it was decided to put it in the Public Library until Thursday so that everyone could see it before it is shipped. Through the courtesy of Horace M. Phillips it will go to Queen Elisabeth free of all cost for transportation.

The concert Friday evening, so admirably managed by Miss Corey and Miss Miller and so much enjoyed by a large Plainfield audience, netted approximately $400 and it was resolved to buy immediately more shoes, more stockings and more trousers to be sent through Mrs. Duryea. Fifty-nine dozen pairs of stockings, 185 pairs of shoes for women and children, sixty odd shirts and woollen trousers for boys, and fifty dollars' worth of outing flannel, with a large number of spools of thread and packages of needles have been recently shipped. The four boxes sent Mrs. Duryea contained 299 new garments and 633 garments that had been slightly used and 2 boxes for the Vicomtesse de Rancougne held in all 617 pieces of clothing.

It was announced that comfort bags could be bought here for twenty cents apiece; less than cost.

The treasurer's report showed $293,-63 in hand. This sum does not include the proceeds from the concert and from it the bills for shirts, trousers and flannel already shipped have yet to be paid.

Mrs. Wallace told the society that six complete baby outfits made by mothers of district school children in Bedford and Mount Kisco had been sent her for the boxes and that a top had been given by a Plainfield member of the association for the pocket of each pair of trousers.

SPITE BURGLAR VISITS LAWYERS

Offices of Codington and Blatz Are Wrecked by a Vandal.

NOTHING IS STOLEN

Diplomas of Mr. Blatz Torn in Bits—Clock, Umbrellas, Papers and Check Destroyed by Mysterious Midnight Prowler.

What appears to have been a "spite" burglary was discovered early this morning, when the law office of Codington & Blatz, at Park avenue and Second street, was opened. During the night the rooms had been entered and they were littered with scraps of paper, broken umbrellas, clock parts and other debris created by the vandal or vandals.

Chief Kiely and Lieut. Higgins are at work on the case. It is the opinion of both that the prowler was actuated by hate rather than a desire to obtain money. The only thing of value taken was a small number of stamps, but the midnight prowler did many hundred dollars' worth of damage.

In the main office there stood a heavy mission clock. Its pendulum had been jerked out, its hands grotesquely twisted, and its face scarred. Several umbrellas in a rack in this room were bent and broken. The parts were left lying on the floor. All papers on top of tables and in filing cabinets were scattered and torn. In the office of former Judge W. R. Codington, the vandal did little damage. Some blank checks were torn up, papers disarranged and destroyed, but nothing of real value was touched. No attempt was made to open Judge Codington's desk.

The most wanton act of destruction was the tearing up of diplomas of Francis J. Blatz, president of the Plainfield Common Council. Mr. Blatz had several in large frames on the walls of his private office. The glass over these was not broken, but a pair of scissors had been used to pry loose the back and the diplomas and certificates were torn into small bits. They can be replaced.

Judge Codington was unable to give any information that might lead to the discovery of the "spite" burglar. It is clear that he carried a key as no locks were tampered with. The door might have been opened with a skeleton key.

It is believed that the intruder was in the offices for more than an hour. B. J. Schreiner, in the drug store downstairs, heard someone walking above him about 11:30. He paid no attention to it, thinking it might be the janitor still at his work of cleaning up. The clock was stopped at 12:25, however, and if the noise that Mr. Schreiner heard was made by the burglar, he remained in the rooms at least an hour, and possibly longer.

About one year ago a burglar entered the offices of Judge DeMeza and Judge Codington. He destroyed many things of value, but carried off nothing excepting a typewriter from the office of Judge DeMeza.

Mr. Blatz was out of the city this morning. He may be able to give information that will lead to the arrest of the criminal when he returns this afternoon. Lieut. Higgins has been assigned to the case, and Chief Kiely announces that no effort will be spared to run down the guilty party or parties.

QUICKER TRANSPORTATION METHODS ARE ADOPTED

Because of the large amount of work on hand which requires subcontracting some of it to other plants, the Walter Scott Printing Machine Works has just purchased a five-ton Saurer truck which will be used for transportation purposes. The company finds that through the use of the truck considerable time will be saved and delays occasioned by shipping by rail will be overcome.

The Scott concern has found it necessary to have some of its work done in Newark, Elizabeth and Bound Brook, and by means of the truck, quick transportation is possible. The company now has enough work on hand to keep the plant running full time for four years.

ANOTHER NOTE TO GERMANY.

Washington, April 11.—The United States will write another note to Germany, one which will be an ultimatum regarding submarine warfare. It is believed this decision was reached at the Cabinet meeting today. The note will warn Germany that a continuance of its present reckless submarine activity will result in a break of relations. It is expected to be sent early next week. The entire submarine situation will be reviewed and Germany will be notified that the sinking of unarmed and of neutral ships must cease immediately or the United States will sever all diplomatic relatitons.

MAYOR LATHAM'S AUTOMOBILE STOLEN

Machine is Taken From the Executive's Garage While Family is at Supper.

Thieves broke into the garage of Mayor E. B. Latham last night and stole the Mayor's new Reo four-cylinder 5-passenger touring car. Entrance to the garage was gained by prying off the door-fastening with a jimmy. The machine, it is believed, was taken about 7 o'clock, while the family was at supper, because the colored maid who happened to be in the butler's pantry at the time saw the flash of a light through the window. Thinking that it was the gardener with his lantern, she said nothing about it. The gardener, however, was away at the time. The theft was discovered at 7:30 by Leslie Latham, the Mayor's oldest son, who went to the garage to get the car to go to Plainfield. He immediately notified his father that the car was gone, and the two hurried to town and to police headquarters. A minute description of the car was given to Chief Mohan, and, under the direction of the latter the police of nearby towns and cities were notified. The maker's number of the car was 77,465, and the license number, 61,110. The car, which was a 1916 model, was purchased by Mayor Latham early in January. It had only been driven 800 miles. The car had a deep green body and black wheels. In the car at the time it was stolen were two linen dusters and two dark green robes.

The thieves took all of the tools and a square five-gallon can of black oil. Fastened to the back of the car was a new uncovered Goodrich tire. The only thing about the car to distinguish it from other Reo cars was the arrangement of the license plate. The rod which runs between the two rear lamps had been drilled through and the license plate fastened to the rod from above with bolts.

The tires on the car were chain tread, which leave deep imprints. These imprints led from the garage out of the Mayor's Prospect avenue driveway and turned south. As soon as this was ascertained, a party of four in an automobile, gave pursuit. In the party were Chief Mohan, Marshal Weimer Snyder and Leslie Latham. By stopping the car at the soft spots they were able to trace the missing car as far as Dayton's Corner, on the road to Metuchen, where they couldn't determine which way it was turned.

The pursuers were aware of the fact that the car had little gasoline in its tanks when taken and numerous garages were visited with the hope of striking the one at which the thieves must have been obliged to stop. This, too, was fruitless, and the pursuers returned to police headquarters, arriving there shortly after midnight.

The police believe that the culprits are expert automobile thieves, and they entertain small hopes of recovering the car. They believe that the machine has long since been repainted and altered so in appearance that even Mayor Latham wouldn't know it if he should see it. When asked by a reporter whether his car was insured, Mayor Latham said he had a policy which insured it against fire and he also thought that it insured it against burglary — but he wasn't sure.

UNION COUNTY COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Notice of Hearing Objections to Assessments for Street Improvements in the City of Plainfield.

ARMSTRONG MULFORD, FRANK J. HUBBARD and JOHN ABBOTT, the Commissioners appointed by the Union County Court of Common Pleas, by order entered on the fourteenth day of January, 1916, to estimate and assess benefits conferred by the permanent street improvements in the City of Plainfield, under the ordinance of said city specified in said order (said ordinance being also hereinafter specified), and the character of the work and improvements for which said assessments have been made and a description of the sections of the particular streets and avenues thereof, which are included in said assessment, being as follows, viz.:

West Third street, from the northeasterly side line of Liberty street to the southwesterly side line of Plainfield avenue:

under the ordinance of said City, entitled: "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of a Portion of West Third street in the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Concrete Pavement, and to provide the necessary funds in advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," Approved August 20th, 1914, which ordinance was adopted under and by virtue of the Act of the Legislature, entitled, "An Act to authorize the improvement of streets and highways in cities of this State, and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same, and for the assessment of the benefits of such improvement upon the lands and real estate benefited thereby," approved June 13th, 1898, and the amendments and supplements thereto, having made and filed in the office of the clerk of said court, a report in writing of their estimates and assessments, accompanied by a survey and map prepared by the City Surveyor under their direction, showing lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, respectively, the total cost of the whole work upon each of the sections of said streets or avenues improved as aforesaid, under the aforesaid ordinances; the portions assessed upon the City at large, and the names, so far as ascertained, of the owners of the said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the amount of the assessment to each owner for each of said lots or parcels of land and real estate for the said benefits, and the excess thereof to be paid by the City at large, and raised by general tax; and the other matters required by said acts of the Legislature, as [illegible] to said report and maps, [illegible] and at large appear.

Notice is hereby given that said Union County Court of Common Pleas has fixed the Twenty-eighth day of April, 1916, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the [illegible] can attend to the same, at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, as the time and place for hearing before said Court any objections that may be made to such assessments, when and where all parties may be heard, and has directed the publication of this notice.

TELLS OF MODERN PRISON METHODS

Dr. Frank Moore Tells of Great Work Being Done to Reform Young Men.

THE STUDY OF TYPES

Head of Rahway Reformatory Declares That Every Penal Institution is a Monument to the Failure of Society, Church, School, Home.

Declaring that every penal institution in the country is a monument to the failure of society, the church, the school and the home, Dr. Frank Moore, superintendent of the New Jersey Reformatory at Rahway, spoke to the women of the Monday Afternoon Club, yesterday afternoon, in the parish house of the Congregational church, on "The Modern Methods in Prisons and Reformatories," and what the latter are doing to reclaim the inmates. Years of close contact with young men sent to the reformatory has given Dr. Moore time to study individual types of youth, and as a result his remarks yesterday were both interesting and instructive. The speaker brought out a point which was made clear very recently in another public lecture given under the Monday Afternoon Club auspices, namely, that he has come to the conclusion that one-third of the inmates in reformatories are feeble minded with intellects of a child of twelve years or less.

Dr. Moore opened his lecture with a short history of the prison from the earliest days. In the time of the Romans the prisons were underground cells. In those days the punishment was not administered within but without, and in full view of the populace the criminal was lashed or otherwise punished. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries many countries practiced extreme cruelty on the inmates, probably the most horrible being that in England and France. The former country only in recent years in the reign of Queen Victoria practiced those outrages. A prisoner ship bound for Australia with a human cargo stopped in an American port—a two-decked affair. The individual cells were four by five feet in size and in this space, from four to six men were placed. Each day they would be allowed on deck for half an hour but never without a ninety-pound ball attached to them so that they would not jump overboard. Even as late as 1840, the prison at Connecticut was nothing more than an underground mine where the prisoners were chained to the rocks. Massachusetts, who always prided herself as being in advance of civilization, branded each man on the forearm with the following inscription, "Massachusetts State Prison," so that it might never be forgotten that that man was an ex-convict.

The Rahway reformatory was opened in 1901, at a cost to the State of $1,350,000. The place was for young men between the ages of 16 and 30, who had committed an offense for which they might be sent to State Prison but because of it being their first act, are sent to the reformatory. During the years of its existence 4,500 boys have been enrolled and the present attendance is 615. When a young man first comes to the institution he is taken to the office, has his picture taken, a history of his antecedents written and the nature of his crime investigated. He is given a hair cut, clean clothes, a uniform, bath and toilet articles and assigned to a room. He is put in the second grade and with six months of good behavior can be promoted to the first grade. There are three grades. The first grade is recognized by having a yellow band across the sleeve of the uniform and the first grade perfect has a red strip across the yellow. One-half the day is devoted to work and one-half to study. Each boy is impressed with the idea that he is not there to serve time but to reform and be made over. His tastes are looked into and he is set to the kind of work that he likes best and is best suited to. At the expiration of his stay he is given an examination on three counts, truthfulness, self-control and conscience. If he passes he is given ten dollars in money, a place of employment and goes out on parole.

During his talk Dr. Moore illustrated various points by the aid of a stereopticon, showing the many buildings and useful occupations at Rahway. There are 500 acres of ground surrounding the reformatory and one of the biggest and best paying industries is farming. Each boy is given a space of ground and by raising his own products develops a sense of responsibility and competition. Hundreds of articles are made for various departments of the State by the inmates.

The honor system introduced into the reformatory life about seven years ago is said to have done wonders among the boys. Dr. Moore at this point related an incident which took place when he became superintendent. The father of a colored boy, who was there but a short time and who was ungovernable, died and Dr. Moore wanted the boy to go to the funeral. Over half the officers were dubious of his return, three-fourths of the boys said he would come back, while a fourth hoped he would, because if he did not they would never be given a similar chance. So accordingly, the youth was given a suit of black clothes and necessary carfare and after being told that he was paroled on his honor, was sent to his home. He stayed over night and at 3 o'clock the next afternoon rang the bell of the reformatory. He still had ten cents left of the carfare given him. Since then over one hundred boys have been sent to various parts of the State and not one had broken his parole.

Preceding the lecture the members of the Monday Afternoon Club participated in a discussion on "Preparedness."

GRACE CHURCH CHOIR TO SING "THE DARKEST HOUR"

The annual sacred cantata will be sung at Grace church next Monday evening by the vested male choir of forty men and boys, under the direction of S. Frederick Smith, organist and choirmaster of the church. This year a new work will be given entitled "The Darkest Hour," by Harold Moore. The soprano solos will be taken by Irving Manley, the boy soloist; the tenor solo part will be rendered by William J. Tallamy, and the principal baritone part by John Richards, minor parts being taken by A. E. Sprowl and Mr. McKay, of the choir.

This interesting setting of the story of the crucifixion contains some male choruses of beautiful harmony, dramatic passages of intense nature and a solemn procession to calvary and is one of the most effective cantatas of the Lenten season. The public is cordially invited to this service.

EXPERTS SUBMIT REPORTS

tion, and is presented by that organization to the city.

"I hope it will be perfectly understood that the object in view has been merely to obtain an expert analysis of our methods of transacting business, with recommendations for the improvement of the same according to recognized standards of proved merit. During recent years there has been a great advance in the science of municipal government, and my purpose has been merely to get the best available expert advice in order to set it up where we can look at it and study it at our convenience.

"It follows, of course, that this report would be of the most use to us if it were printed in pamphlet form so that it might be leisurely studied by our officers and department heads; and it is equally desirable to have it distributed freely to our various business and civic organizations and to interested citizens. I hope that the means for dong this will be provided.

"It ought not to be necessary to say that changes in methods ought not to be lightly or hastily undertaken. I certainly hope that the impression will not prevail that we have any intention to rush things. I think we should take whatever time may be necessary to study anew our form of government and all our business methods in the light of this analysis and report. Some of the recommendations no doubt will be in line with what we have ourselves determined to be desirable, as we have had the opportunity from time to time to take up certain specific matter for consideration. To this extent the survey will serve as an endorsement of our own decision, and thus enable us with confidence to proceed with plans we already have for greater efficiency and economy. As to other matters which we ourselves have not as yet gone into thoroughly, there should be given full opportunity for a study of the recommendations of the experts. If the survey is received in this spirit, and thus put to the use for which it is intended, it will be of great value to us. We ought to have it before us for constant reference from now on as we undertake improvements and as we look about for ways and means to get good service at low cost.

"It seems to me that it is a perfectly fair statement to say that nobody is qualified to discredit this report unless he is prepared to assert that he himself knows all there is to be known about the administrative details of each of our municipal departments, and in addition knows all about the methods in use in other towns and cities."

STORY OF "THE MYSTIC ROSE"

Charming Comic Opera to Be Given Under the Auspices of Plainfield Elks.

500 PEOPLE IN CAST

Spectacular Production Will Include "Flower and Butterfly" Ballet by 300 Little Girls—Rehearsals Are Progressing Satisfactorily.

Just 306 little girls were in attendance yesterday afternoon at the first rehearsal of the "Flower and Butterfly" ballet which is a part of the big comic opera production, "The Mystic Rose," to be given in the Plainfield Theatre on May 2 and 3 under the auspices of the Plainfield Lodge of Elks. The children showed marked ability in learning the catchy songs which they will sing in the opera and seemed to be enraptured with the work expected of them as explained by Mr. Skilling.

The adults will have a second rehearsal tonight and no new voices will be accepted after this evening. Those who have watched Mr. Skilling direct say that it is an education to be under his guidance, which is no doubt true as he has had several years' experience in various cities all over the United States in directing choruses numbering anywhere from 300 to 500 for his opera. The very fact that a production like "The Mystic Rose" can be put on in four weeks shows that he knows how to get results.

Never has their been such enthusiasm over an operatic production in the city and Mr. Skilling, the author and director, says he will give the people of Plainfield and surrounding towns a pleasant surprise, accustomed as they are to witnessing first class attractions.

Inasmuch as between four and five hundred local people are participating and ten times that number are interested, a brief summary of "the plot of the play" is given. The scenic effects, according to the newspapers in cities throughout the country where the opera has been given, are exceptionally spectacular and beautiful.

The plot of the opera centers around a Japanese girl, San Kura, and her trials and ultimate happiness. A company of American tourists meet in front of "The Tea House of a Hundred Steps," near Yokohama, in which San Kura is employed. Among the tourists is a scientist, Harkins, who by prearrangement, meets a Miss Brant, whom his aunt has designed that he shall marry. As the aunt fails to arrive, Miss Brant is without a chaperon, and arranges with Miss Sue, from Akron, Ohio, to act in this capacity. Sue is in quest of an ex-actor, Izzy Wright, who had promised to marry her and subsequently had run away. Izzy, in company with another adventurer, Willie Wynn, is in Yokohama at this time, and a detective named Spots attempts to locate them. While the villagers are merrymaking under the direction of Okama, a priest of Shaman, Bun Jan, a fisherman appears with a stone, which he found in the stomach of a shark, and the priest says it is the wishing stone called the Mystic Rose, and that the one holding it may have three wishes granted. In the meantime, Harkins and San Kura fall in love. When Bun Jan finds that he receives nothing but honor for returning the Mystic Rose, he regrets his honesty, and with the help of Izzy and Willie, steals it from the Temple, that they may sell it. Their act is discovered by San Kura and also by Sue. Bun Jan, to save himself, accuses San Kura of the theft, and the priest orders her arrest. Harkins escapes with her to the forest, in company with the other Americans. Bun Jan appears on the scene, and after much hardship, wishes that he were dead, and, as he holds the wishing stone, he immediately falls dead. Afterwards Ofiama appears again to re-arrest San Kura, but she is cleared by Sue, who accuses Izzy and Willie of the theft, and also of the possible murder of Bun Jan. Willie, who now has the stone, to save himself, wishes that Bun Jan were alive and immediately Bun Jan comes to life. Finally Izzy wishes the stone were back in the temple and it immediately is. Then San Kura is made happy by the prospect of a trip to America, as the wife of Harkins. In the meantime, Spots has made successful love to Sue, and she announces she will go home too. When Izzy asks her if she did not come to Japan for him, she replies, "Not necessarily; I came to bring back a husband," whereupon she departs with Spots.

As can be seen from the above outline of the plot, many opportunities are presented for comedy. This feature, added to the catchy songs by both the chours and those taking the leading parts, together with the "Flower and Butterfly" ballet by the 300 children will no doubt result in a production which will make a record for Plainfield, both from an artistic viewpoint as well as attendance.

HORSE WAR STARTS.

Cleveland, Ohio., April 11.—One of the biggest harness horse wars in the annals of that sport is now on, with the American and National Trotting Asciations engaged in a struggle for supremeacy that may mean the wiping out of one of them. One skirmish took place in Cleveland yesterday when Homer J. Kline, secretary of the North Randall track, appeared before the delegates of Northern Ohio's Fair Circuit and attacked the National Association. Mr. Kline denounced this body as being controlled by one man power, that man being H. W. Gocher, formerly of Cleveland, but now of Hartford, Conn.

BLOODY FIGHT ON DEAD MAN'S HILL

Germans Make Important Gains and Locate Several Big Guns.

U. S. STILL WAITING

French Losses Before Verdun Have Been 150,000, Berlin Says—36,000 Have Been Taken Prisoners in 51 Days' Fighting.

Washington, April 11.—No course of action was decided upon at the Cabinet meeting regarding the submarine crisis. Final decision was postponed until Friday.

Paris, April 11.—According to this afternoon's communique, issued by the War Office, the Germans on the west bank of the Meuse last night attacked Dead Man's Hill, advancing from Corbeaux Wood. Except for the securing of a footing in a few unimportant elements of trenches, they were repulsed. East of the Meuse the Germans attacked trenches south of Douaumont village, but were thrown back with considerable losses. There were violent bombardments of Douaumont and Vaux.

36,000 Taken as Prisoners.

Berlin, April 11 (via Sayville, wireless).—More than 36,000 prisoners have been captured by the Germans on the Verdun front since the great battle for the French fortress opened 51 days ago. Official announcement of the number of prisoners taken was made today through the Overseas News Agency. It is estimated by German military critics that the French have lost nearly 150,000 men in killed and wounded. West of the Meuse River about 25 square kilometres of territory have been captured.

Take New Gun Positions.

Amsterdam, April 11.—Advices from Cologne state that there are fresh concentrations of German troops at several points north of Verdun and that the Germans have succeeded in emplacing six-inch guns in several advanced positions.

Greece to Dismiss Soldiers.

London, April 11.—A wireless despatch from Rome states that half of the army mobilized by Greece will be temporarily released from service.

Canada May Be Invited.

London, April 11.—Premier Asquith will be asked in Parliament tomorrow whether Canada has been invited to send a representative to the Economic Conference to be held in Paris by the Allies late this month.

Steamer Ellaston Sunk.

London, April 11.—The British steamer Ellaston has been sunk by a German submarine. The crew was picked up and landed today. She was unarmed. The lost steamship was last reported as having sailed from Philadelphia for Queenstown.

Coal Scarce in England.

London, April 11.—A manifesto was issued by the Board of Trade today, urging the most drastic economy in the use of coal.

Allies Reassure Holland.

The Hague, April 11.—The Dutch Foreign Office was assured today by the French Minister that neither France nor any of the other allied nations has any intention of violating Holland's neutrality.

German Losses 200,000.

Paris, April 11.—A statement issued by the French War Office today estimates the German losses in the Verdun battle thus far at 200,000.

"BREACH OF PROMISE" SUIT WILL BE TRIED MONDAY

The West End Community Center will present a "Breach of Promise" suit in the Washington School Monday night, April 17. The production promises to be well supplied with "icy stare" and "stony heart" incidents, usually attendant at such affairs. During the proceedings, "Miss Dolly Lovejoy," impersonated by W. J. Boyd, will sue "Goliath Bruce," or Arthur VanNorden, for his breach of promise to marry her.

In the court the "young woman" will be represented by J. J. Carroll and T. C. Vail will be the attorney for "Bruce." "Judge" Alonzo Foster, of New York, will preside and announce his decision at the conclusion. The affair is open to the public of the West End and promises to be a source of much enjoyment.

During the meeting, announcement was made that the $100 which was pledged toward the support of the church had been raised during the year, and another pledge of $100 was made for this year.

SHOW PORTABLE TABLET

A long letter from the Vicomtesse de Rancougne was read and the following extract will be of interest to Plainfielders:

"Appreciating the most cordial and sympathetic interest which the Belgian Relief Society of Plainfield has taken in our work, I thought it would give the women of Plainfield pleasure to have me write and tell them of all that I found here on my return after a safe voyage and many pleasant recollections of America.

"At headquarters I realized that there were many more demands and consequently greater need for our work.

"The splendid contributions and supplies which were given me by the Plainfield society are greatly appreciated, and as each box is opened, with cries of joy from all of us, the contents are at once distributed. Your country has been so generous.

"Perhaps a little description of our rooms and instances of several kinds, told by the soldiers who come would interest you. My associate, Miss Glaenzer, had arranged a 'Foyer' where Belgian soldiers who are on leave for a few hours or for several days can come and rest and amuse themselves in reading and writing and playing games. (We are so centrally located at the Louvre.) The woman in charge, who is a sweet motherly person, talks to them and makes inquiries and tries to help each case individually, for all are homeless and without their families. The place is fitted up very prettily in Belgian colors and looks so homelike that you can feel what a revelation it is to them all. Sometimes as many as 150 men come and when they go each take back with them a parcel made up of the articles which he has requested, particularly of a kind of which are so useful in French life."

Contributions to the fund have been made recently by Duncan Taylor and Mrs. Pond, of Plainfield, and by Miss Alice Brinsmade, of Brooklyn.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Let your sorefl, swollen, aching feet spread out in a bath of "Tiz."

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beauttifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

DINNER PARTY GIVEN FOR BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM ELECT

Miss Helen George, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. George, of Duer street, entertained a party of ten persons at a dinner party at her home last night. Miss George will be married to Carleton Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, of Grove street, Saturday, and the affair last night was given principally for the entire bridal party. Among those present were the Misses Ruth Day and Ruth Wean, the two bridesmaids, and Pierson Bailey, the best man. The color scheme in the dining room and parlor was pink.

SHORT BIOGRAPHIES OF MEMBERS OF BIEDERWOLF EVANGELISTIC PARTY

Plainfielders are rapidly getting acquainted with Dr. Biederwolf and members of his evangelistic party that are here for the big six weeks' campaign and in order to aid in this the following brief biographies are given:

Rev. William Edward Biederwolf, evangelist, resides at Monticello, Indiana. He is a Presbyterian minister, a graduate of Princeton University and Seminary. He studied abroad for two years in Berlin and Erlangen Universities. He is vice president of the Interdenominational Association of Evangelism, general secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, and associate secretary of the Winano Bible Conference.

Mrs. W. E. Biederwolf, wife of the evangelist, accompanies her husband in each campaign, acting as matron and hostess in the Biederwolf home in each city.

William McEwan, the soloist and choir director, was born in Glasgow, Scotland. The early years of his life were spent in and about music halls in Scotland and England as a program boy. He later became a concert singer and worked on the vaudeville stage both in England and America. He was converted in a little mission in London and then gave his talents to sacred work. He has sung for the Columbia graphonola for several years. His American home is in Binghamton, N. Y.

James Heaton, the manager of the party, was born in St. Helen's, Lancashire, Eng. Before he entered the field of religious work he served his time as a worker in glass. During the summer months he is platform manager at the Winona Lake (Ind.) Summer Chautauqua. He is the leader of the National Male Quartet and also sings the second tenor on the quartet.

Mrs. Marie F. Brake resides in Pittsburgh, Pa. For several years she held the chair of elocution and expression in the Byron King School in Pittsburg. The past several years she has been associated with Dr. Biederwolf as the director of women's work in his campaigns. She will have full charge of the shop meetings for women, business women's meetings and luncheons and the high school girls' work while in Plainfield.

Miss Helen Boals comes from Alton, Ill. She was formerly an instructor of typewriting in the Alton Business College. She acts as private secretary to Dr. Biederwolf and plays the first piano at the tabernacle. She also assists Mrs. Brake with the work among the women.

Henry A. Backemeyer's home is in Indianapolis, Indiana. He has for several years been doing concert work, being connected with several male quartets and concert companies. He took work at the McCormack Seminary in Chicago in preparation for religious work. He has charge of the cottage prayer meetings and devotional work in the campaigns. He is also the man who sells the "singin' books." "Bac" is of German parentage. He sings first tenor on the National Male Quartet.

Henry P. Sluyter (a Holland Dutchman) hails from Gand Rapids, Mich. His concert and lyceum singing career has been long and successful. He has charge of all the work with the Plainfield "kiddies" at the tabernacle. They sure like his smile. He is the baritone of the National Male Quartet. He is Dr. Biederwolf's "draft clerk"—he sees to the tabernacle ventilation.

Rev. Charles Raach, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., has had charge of the preliminary work of the campaign in Plainfield. He will direct the shop meeting work during the campaign and make every effort possible to enthrone Christ in the hearts of the men in the factories of Plainfield.

Paul L. Roberts, the newspaper man of the party, is an Indianian. His home is at La Fayette, Ind. He is of Welsh ancestry. He sings second bass on the National Male Quartet.

MR. HEATON IN—NATIONAL QUARTET IS COMPLETE

James Heaton, business manager of the Biederwolf evangelistic party, and leader of the National Quartet, arrived in Plainfield this morning. The workers are now complete. Mr. Heaton sang with the others at the Pond Tool Works at noon today, making the first appearance of the real quartet. He will appear at the Tabernacle tonight in the special musical program.

DR. BIEDERWOLF SPEAKS TO MEN AT POND WORKS

Dr. Biederwolf spoke to workmen at the Pond Tool Works at noon today. Accompanied by the National Male Quartet and other members of the party and local ministers and workers, he held the first of the shop meetings there, and more than 300 men made up an attentive audience. The quartet sang, after which Dr. Biederwolf made a short talk. The meeting closed with another selection by the quartet. A delegation to the Tabernacle meeting was arranged for. Tomorrow's shop meeting will be held at the Spicer plant at the lunch hour.

PRAYER SERVICES FOR WEDNESDAY MORNING

Only one cottage prayer meeting will be held this afternoon in connection with the Biederwolf campaign. It is at the home of Mrs. Donato Guarino, 1338 Lake street. A number were held at 10 a. m. today. Those scheduled for 10 o'clock tomorrow morning are:

Mrs. L. K. Atwood, 1145 Thornton avenue; Mrs. P. B. Hodge, 123 Plainfield avenue; Mrs. Henry S. Oliver, 230 East Fifth street; Mrs. John W. Daub, 831 West Fourth street; Mrs. W. S. Schomp, 717 West Front street; Mrs. H. R. Apgar, 29 Summit avenue; Mrs. I. H. Marvin, 207 West Sixth stret.

FIELD WORK FOR JERSEY SOLDIERS

National Guard Program for Summer Exercises Announced by Gen. Sadler.

PRACTICAL TRAINING

"Preparedness Policy" Will Not Receive Another Setback in This State—Dates for Annual Encampment of Infantry at Sea Girt.

Trenton, April 11.—Plans were announced yesterday by Adjutant-General Wilbur F. Sadler, Jr., for the summer exercises of the National Guard of New Jersey, including the Sea Girt encampment, and showing that during the coming season the State troops will experience some of the most active field work that has been undertaken in years. The programs for the different phases of work will be prepared by the regular army officers, who are to supervise the field instruction and training. A study of these programs of instruction indicates that New Jersey Guardsmen will undergo both intensive and practical training during the periods prescribed.

Last year, owing to the financial condition of the State, it was necessary to forego the Sea Girt training, and the schedule mapped out by the military authorities, as announced today, indicates, so far as New Jersey is concerned, the the "preparedness" policy will not receive another setback in this State during the coming summer.

The dates for the annual encampment of the infantry on the State grounds, in which all five regiments will participate, follow: July 8 to 15, First Infantry; July 5 to 22, Fifth Infantry; July 22 to 29, Second Infantry; July 29 to August 5, Third Infantry; August 5 to 12, Fourth Infantry.

Other instruction dates announced follow:

May 21 to 28—Camp of instruction for officers and non-commissioned officers of cavalry, Fort Myer, Virginia.

May 21 to June 4—Camp of instruction for officers and non-commissioned officers of field artillery, Tobyhanna, Pa.

June 19 to 24—Camp of instruction for officers of infantry and quartermaster corps, Sea Girt.

June 19 to 29—Camp of instruction for officers and non-commissioned officers of the medical corps, Tobyhanna. Officers who cannot attend this period may do so from July 31 to August 10, or from August 21 to 31, inclusive.

June 26 to July 26—School of fire for Field Artillery officers and non-commissioned officers, Fort Sill, Oklahoma.

July 3 to 6—School of musketry, Sea Girt.

July 31 to August 10—Joint camp of instruction for field hospital and ambulance companies, Tobyhanna.

August 16 to 25—Battery B, joint camp for field artillery, Tobyhanna, Pa.

August 20 to 29—Battery A, at Tobyhanna, Pa.

In addition to the foregoing, tentative plans of the War Department include a joint camp of instruction for the cavalry at Gettysburg, Pa., in which the squadron of this State will participate, provided the Mexican situation does not cause an abandonment of the plans. In that event the cavalry will take a practice march within the State, on dates to be announced later.

The Signal Corps Company will probably take its practice march to Denville, N. J., as has been the past custom.

In announcing the above dates, the Adjutant-General made the following statements concerning rifle practice and gunning clubs throughout the State:

"Rifle practice season will begin July 8, and continue until terminated by subsequent orders. Arrangements for rifle practice contain a new feature this year, wherein opportunity for rifle practice under proper supervision will be afforded the many rifle clubs and civilians within the State, who desire instruction in the use of arms. The range at Sea Girt is accessible to the populous sections of the State, and its facilities are sufficient to accommodate an unlimited number of persons without interfering with the regular practice of the troops. These arrangements no doubt will interest the hundred or more rifle clubs recently organized in the State, who will undoubtedly take every advantage of the splendid opportunities the Sea Girt range offers."

BOROUGH FIREMEN TAKE THREE STRAIGHT GAMES

In the continuation of the Borough pinochle tournament last evening, the firemen took three straight games from the Gaub barbarshop, and the North Plainfield Republican Club took the same number of games from the Domino Club. As a result the race for the cup is somewhat closer.

The standing of the teams follow:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Gaub's barbershop	16	11	.592
Republican Club	14	13	.518
Firemen	13	14	.481
Domino Club	11	16	.407

The Sunday-school services at the Monroe avenue M. E. church during the Biederwolf Tabernacle meetings will be held at 9:15 o'clock Sunday morning. The teachers, scholars and parents are urged to make special note of this.

PLAN MEN'S CLUB FOR NETHERWOOD

Residents' Association Discusses Subject at Trustee's Monthly Meeting.

Matters of vital interest to the residents of Netherwood were discussed in a thorough manner at the monthly meeting of the trustees of the Netherwood Residents' Association, last night. The session was held at the home of W. F. Austin, Ravine road, and the general business transacted was in anticipation of concerted action at the quarterly meeting of the association in June. All proceedings of the trustees are of a tentative nature but the worthy propositions are separated from those that are not in order to facilitate the association's doings as a whole.

One of the most important subjects discussed last night was a plan to have a men's club for Netherwood. In some respects, as the matter was broached, it was suggested that it be a sort of community center idea but lacking the numerous details of an organization of this kind. The idea has met with general favor and several of the officers have already looked over suitable properties in order to proceed quickly when the proposition comes before the quarterly meeting. It was declared that the Netherwood section would welcome a community club for men and would not only prove of benefit to the members individually but would aid in the betterment of Netherwood as a residential section.

At the request of the trustees, Postmaster A. E. Hoagland was present at the meeting to talk over the subject of mail service in Netherwood. At the present time all residents within the city limits are supposed to have a morning and afternoon delivery of mail each day but at the first of each month it frequently happens that there is only one delivery. Mr. Hoagland explained that federal regulations prohibit a carrier working more than eight hours in ten. If it so happens that the morning mail at the first part of the month is so heavy that he cannot get back in time for his second delivery he must let it go. This trouble, Mr. Hoagland said, exists in all parts of the country, and the only recourse is to report the matter to the inspector's department. This has already been done relative to Netherwood's complaint and one of the officials is expected here in a few days to decide upon some remedy. At the conclusion of the conference with Mr. Hoagland the association exhibited its good feeling toward the postmaster and his staff by donating twenty-five dollars to the mail carriers' Decoration Day Convention Fund. This is the largest amount that has yet been given by any Plainfield organization.

Before adjourning the trustees also discussed the matter of new sidewalks and more lights for Netherwood, two matters that require attention. They will be taken up for further action at the quarterly meeting when it is expected that the association will have one of the largest gatherings it has held since it began working for the benefit of Netherwood.

AUTOISTS CAUGHT HERE WITHOUT DRIVERS' LICENSES

William Baker, colored, of 181 Washington street, Newark, and John Powell, of 43 Augustus street, the same city, the former chauffeur for the Union Pacific Tea Company, and the latter his assistant, were each fined $5 by Recorder Hand in the borough court this morning. Baker was fined because he didn't have his driver's license, and Powell was fined because he was driving the truck without a driver's permit.

They were arrested in front of the Union Pacific Tea Store in the borough by Chief Weiss. The Chief, looking out of the window of police headquarters shortly after 9 o'clock, saw Powell back the truck up into a horse belonging to David E. Coon, the Somerset street grocer, which had been tied to a hitching post in front of the Union Pacific store. Chief Weiss hastened across the street to investigate, arriving just as the truck was stopped. He took Powell severely to task. Then he asked him to produce his automobile credentials. Powell told the Chief that he had a drriver's permit, but explained that he had left it in his company's garage in Newark. Turning to Baker, the Chief said, "You should have a driver's license; let's see it." Baker told the chief that he couldn't produce his license because he had lost it two weeks ago. Both men were then arrested. They were duly arraigned before Recorder Hand and fined. After the fines were meted and paid the court instructed Baker that he was not to move his machine until he obtained a new driver's license or hired a licensed driver. The truck was still stationed in front of the Union Pacific store at 12:30 o'clock.

A TEA DANSANT.

A tea dansant, to be given by the Pine Mountain Association, will be given Saturday evening, April 29, from 3:30 until 7 o'clock, in the Hartridge auditorium. The music for the affair will be furnished by Frantzen's orchestra, of New York. The proceeds will be devoted to the work being done by the association among the mountain whites of the South.

WILL UNDERGO OPERATION.

Mrs. Frederic Gaub, of 169 Duer street, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital this smorning to undergo an operation for hernia. She is under the care of Dr. J. H. Buchanan.

WOMAN DEPUTY SAVES MADMAN

Miss Kopp of Hackensack Pulls Prisoner From River.

HAD TO DISCARD HER SKIRTS

Bergen County's Female Undersheriff Proves Athletic Ability by Rescuing Insane Man Who Had Attempted to Escape — Daring Officer Collapses After Adventure.

Hackensack, April 11.—Miss Constance Kopp, who was made undersheriff by Sheriff Robert N. Heath of Bergen county because of her daring and ability as a detective, won new laurels when she leaped into the Hackensack river to rescue Tony Hajnacka of Wallington, who had been declared insane.

Sheriff and Mrs. Heath and Miss Kopp in an automobile had started for Morris Plains with Hajnacka, expecting to stop at Rutherford for a woman patient. There was trouble with the authorities over the woman, and all returned to the jail here.

Hajnacka started across a field for the river as soon as he got out of the automobile, and Nicholas Dunn and the sheriff were behind him. Miss Kopp is more athletic than either and reached the river first. She discarded her skirts and hat and leaped in as the man came up. She rescued him with difficulty, and a pulmotor later was used by Dr. Essertier.

Miss Kopp collapsed after the adventure and was placed under a nurse's care. A few days ago Hajnacka attempted suicide by cutting his throat.

ANNUAL MEETING AT WARREN CHAPEL

Reports for the Past Year Show an Increase in Membership and Finances.

The annual congregational meeting of Warren Chapel was held last night during which it was shown by reports and statistics that all branches of the organization had enjoyed a prosperous year. The pastor, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, presided as a moderate and J. W. Gavett was clerk.

It was shown by the pastor's report that the chapel now has a total church membership of 275, a gain of twenty-seven over last year. This is considered encouraging as a number of former members were lost by removal from the city or in other ways. The financial statement bore testimony to the fact that all the various departments had been working energetically with excellent results. At the present time, the finances of the church, Sunday school and other branches are in as healthy a condition as at any time in Warren's history.

The matter of electing officers was deferred on account of the nearness to the time when Warren chapel will become a separate church organization apart from the motherhood of the Crescent avenue church. This will be consummated at the annual session of the Elizabeth Presbytery which is to be held in Elizabeth next week. When this is accomplished all the present officials will be automatically relieved from office and new ones must be elected in their stead.

WAIF NOT JIMMY GLASS.

Mother Keenly Disappointed After Long Trip to Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky., April 11.—After making many trips of hundreds of miles in search of her son Jimmy, who disappeared last June from a house in Greeley, Pa., Mrs. Charles H. Glass of Jersey City is suffering another bitter disappointment. She found that the boy that she had come all the way from Jersey City to Kentucky to identify as her long lost Jimmy was not her son.

The photograph of the youngster at Pink, Ky., resembled her missing son, and she was in high hopes that she was to see him again.

Mgr. Stecher Dead.

Newark, April 11.—Mgr. Alois Stecher, rector of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, lies dead in the rectory at 44 Belmont avenue. He had been seriously ill of pneumonia for a fortnight, and death resulted from complications. Mgr. Stecher was seventy years old. As yet no arrangements for the funeral have been made.

Bremner Estate Attached.

Passaic, April 11.—Notice has been posted of an attachment on the estate of the late Congressman Robert G. Bremner by Dr. John J. Sullivan of this city, a close friend of Mr. Bremner, who was his physician during his last illness.

Newark Steel Workers Strike.

Newark, April 11.—Three hundred employees of the Carnegie Steel works in Newark, who have been receiving $2.10 for a nine hour day, are out on a strike, demanding 25 cents an hour.

THE TEMPERATURE

The temperature recorded at the State Trust Company today was as follows: 9 a. m., 47 degrees; 11 a. m., 56 degrees; 1 p. m. sixty degrees

GASOLINE AND SUGAR.

Suppose the situation were reversed as to the position of sugar and gasoline? Would the politicians not be making the same howl about the robbery in sugar that they now make about the robbery in gasoline? They surely would.

Suppose gasoline were a necessity as much as sugar is now to the poor man, and sugar the semi-luxury to the well-to-do and rich as gasoline is now. If the prices of both were pushed to the skies, as the interests that profit from war have pushed sugar and gasoline, do you think the Democratic Congress wouldn't shriek about the sugar case as they now scream over the gasoline "outrage?" They surely would.

The prices on sugar have been forced as much as have the prices on gasoline. The gasoline prices are under governmental inquiry with propositions for government competition with the Standard as a remedy. There is no proposition to put the government into the sugar producing field, as an exchange says. Yet everybody uses sugar, and only the relatively few, and they the well-to-do, use gasoline for automobile fuel. Users of sugar pay about seven cents of every dollar of the government's revenue, sugar being one of three commodities the revenues from which make up some 50 per cent. of all the government's receipts.

Everybody who uses sugar is not making an outcry because he is robbed by the forced prices on his necessity. The few who use gasoline for automobiles are making a fuss about the extortion. The government is wild with virtuous anger over the exorbitant gasoline cost, but deaf, mute, and stone blind to the robbery of the poor on sugar.

Can anyone suggest anything more inspiring than the wonderful music which was heard at the Tabernacle on Sunday night? The chorus choir and the fine orchestra, singing stirring gospel hymns, made a combination that can only be bettered by a larger group of people doing the same thing. The music of the campaign is to be a great feature, second only to the splendid sermons which Dr. Biederwolf will deliver. The excellent way in which the choir and chorus started their work, under the direction of Mr. McEwan, gives promise of a great musical treat in store during the entire period which the meetings will cover. Incidentally, not a small amount of the credit is due to Clifford A. Braider for the preliminary coaching. More than a small measure of the success is due to him.

If newspaper reports are to be believed, it is all over but the shouting which will be heard at the Republican National Convention. Teddy Roosevelt is being endorsed every day as the only man whom that party can elect, and he has been endorsed, either by acclamation or by silence, by every political boss in th country except William Barnes, and now they tell us that he will support the Colonel. The way that former prominent politicians in the Taft cabinet are getting on the band-wagon is certainly amusing.

The Daily Press will publish detailed, human interest stories of the Biederwolf campaign until the last day. It is our belief that the people of Plainfield demand the service, and they are not being padded up the first few days in order to interest a few possible new subscribers. We have also arranged to use cartoons of the evangelist at different times, as well as those of some of his helpers, and will also keep a staff of reporters busy looking for "sidelights" which are of interest to our readers.

Tom Taggart has decided not to seek Senatorship honors by election in Indiana, although he was glad to don the toga by appointment of the Governor, as a successor to a deceased member of the upper house. Some of the men with their eyes on the plum in New Jersey would do well to reach the same decision that Mr. Taggart has, for they have about as much chance of election at the hands of the people of this State as Taggart has in his.

The police have started a crusade against automobilists who drive their cars without lights and without licenses. Now that the motoring season is again under way, a few reckless drivers should be brought to time, as a lesson to others, and the Chief and his men are to be complimented on the stand they have taken.

UNLOAD CARS PROMPTLY.

Although the Public Utility Commission believes that it should not, because of temporary congestion in railroad traffic, approve a change inconsistent with the statute regulations regarding demurrage rates between points in New Jersey, and has therefore denied the application of railroads to permit the charging of two dollars a day per car after the expiration of two days of free time, it strongly recommends the prompt unloading of cars.

Shippers and consignees, it declares, should make every reasonable effort to co-operate with the railroads in relieving the present traffic congestion. It is in the interest of all that this be done.

There is no good reason, except in very exceptional cases, why a freight car should not be unloaded within forty-eight hours after its arrival. If every consignee would exert himself a little to see that this was done the accumulation of idle cars would quickly end and the congestion which has been felt everywhere would vanish.

Double demurrage rates are already charged in interstate shipments, but they should not be necessary in this State to induce all to help better transportation conditions.—Long Branch Record.

GREEK LETTER FRATERNITY HOLD REUNION IN BORO

The Phi Pi Psi, North Plainfield's Greek letter fraternity, held a reunion last night at the home of Ashley Burner, of Jackson avenue. Three of the members were absent, being away at college, and there were only seven present. The evening was spent in a pleasant way and supper was served by the host's mother, Mrs. F. C. Burner. This organization, which was organized in 1910 by several high school students, now has six of its ten members in college.

The three members who were unable to be present last night were President Duclos Van Mater, who is a freshman at Rutgers; Edmund Kenney, who is a junior at Penn. State, and C. Donald Ketcham, a senior at Clarkson Institute of Technology at Potsdam, N. Y. Those present at last night's gathering were Ashley Burner, Ralph Smalley, Frank Dunning, Franklin Lowe, Roy Love, H. Newton Spencer and Charles Beckman.

"And the Only Tune——"

Villa, Villa out for fun,
Shot the gringoes, and away he run!
And the only song he sings today
Is "Over the hills and fire away!"
—T. N. P.

Flo, Flo, in the flat below,
Bangs away on the old banjo;
She plays from six till half-past three,
And her only tune is "Mother Machree."
—H. L.

The girl who has the apartment next
Plays one tune till she gets me vexed;
I love Hawaiians, but goodness me!
I'm tired of the "Beach at Waikiki."
—H. C.

Jane, Jane, the whole day long,
Fills the atmosphere with song;
And the only tune—there is no rest—
Is "The Little Gray Home in the West."
—A. S. H.

Claude, Claude, the man above,
Plays the flute like a man in love.
And the only tune he plays is this:
"Just a Little Love, Just a Little Kiss."
—C. M. K.

A musical sport across the court
Ceaselessly bangs the pianoforte,
And the only tune we can hear him bawling
Is that old "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling."
—PINK.

Of course you have a voiceless sprite,
In the flat that's just above you,
Who loudly yells from morn till night,
"America, I Love You."

Why Hotel Clerks Go Dippy.

"Please send up a hammer and a chisel so I can break off some of this soap."

"What time does the 2:27 train leave?"

"Do you know a man in this town by the name of Jones?"

"Where can I have my lap dog manicured?"

"Can't you make that old gink in the next room stop snoring?"

"I lost my handbag when I changed cars down to the junction to come here. Can't you get it for me?"

"I want you to find out for me at once the quickest way to get to Peavey Junction, Mass."

"I tried to eat in your dining room and everything was cold but the ice water. What kind of a dump are you running here?"

The Farm Kid.

Don't tell me of the dear old farm;
I know the game from A to Z.
You see, I was brung up on one,
And it does not appeal to me.
Of course, ther's nothin' much to do
Exceptin' work from morn till night,
The only chance you get to rest
Is when there isn't any light.

You get up when the faintest streak
Of light announces it is morn;
You do the chores and then you go
And hoe the taters and the corn.
When you get simply tired out
And sick of every doggone chore,
You kin do all the chores again,
And then go out and do some more.

You milk a dozen cows or so,
And then you plow and cultivate
Or pick potato bugs awhile,
To rest yourself,—that's simply great.
Of course, when it rains good and hard
You get from work a short respite;
You simply hang around the barn,
And mend the harness until night.

I don't like to make no complaint
About the matter, but you see,
The dear old farm they talk of ain't
Just what it's cracked up to be.
But still, I don't know as I'd change
If I should have a chance, bekuz
There's drawbacks to most any job,
No matter what a feller does.

Moving Day below the border

Plainfield Theatre.

The Plainfield Theatre offers another of its classy vaudeville bills this afternoon for the first time, six especially selected acts being on the program for today and tomorrow. A miniature musical comedy, "The Girls From the Movie," with a company of ten people, handsome costumes and special scenery tops the list. The leading members are clever singers and dancers and there is lots of good comedy and catchy tunes throughout the action.

This number is supplemented by The Lee Kids, a pair of talented juvenile performers, in a specialty written for them; Hathway & Company, in the dramatic playlet, "The Child, the Book and the Telephone;" O'Niel and Dixon, "the two nuts," offering fifteen minutes of solid fun; The Great Berdardine, in his own origination, "Impersonations in Song," and Robertson and Tribbel, the cleverest of colored comedians.

Today's picture portion of the program will include the latest Pathe semi-weekly, showing the most important doings as recorded by the newspapers from all parts of the world. The seventh episode of the serial film, "The Iron Claw," will be shown Thursday, and the regular weekly installment of "The Strange Case of Mary Page," will be presented Friday. Manager Shannon is now arranging for several big vaudeville specialties and moving picture surprises that will give Plainfield something they have never had before. Watch these columns for the announcements.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

William Backer, manager of the Senior play, "The Taming of the Shrew," presented in the High School auditorium Saturday night, reports that approximately $200 was cleared from the affair.

Arrangements are now being made for the annual Alumni speaking contest that will be held in a few weeks. Harold F. Biddle is in charge of the affair, and anyone wishing to enter should consult him.

The two Triangle debating teams are making their final preparations before entering the contest next Friday night and are being coached by Harold F. Biddle. The team debating the affirmative will argue with Trenton High School in the local High School auditorium and the team making the negative will debate at Battin, Elizabeth.

DO YOU KNOW THAT

Seventy-six out of eight-seven cases of typhoid fever which occurred in a recent outbreak have been traced by the United States State Public Health Service to infected milk. Had the first cases been reported to a trained health officer the outbreak could have been stamped out promptly. When will we learn that disease prevention is sure and cheap?

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME—

EDUCATION FOR SOCIAL WORKERS

Progress Being Made in Training for a New Profession, Says Miss Edith Abbott.

Recent progress in training for a new profession, that of social work, is described by Miss Edith Abbott, of Hull House, Chicago, in a publication just issued by the Bureau of Education of the Department of the Interior.

According to Miss Abbott there are now five professional training schools for social workers, the first professional school of philanthropy having been established at New York in 1905. The example of New York in founding the first school for social workers was quickly followed by Chicago and Boston. In Chicago the settlements took the lead in this work, as the Charity Organization had done in New York city. In 1903 Dr. Graham Taylor, of Chicago Commons, and Miss Julia C. Lathrop, of Hull House, in co-operation with the extension department of the University of Chicago, organized lecture courses in practical work, which became in the following year the Chicago Institute of Social Science, and in 1907 the Chicago School of Civics and Philanthropy. In 1904 the Boston School for Social Workers was organized under the joint auspices of Harvard University and Simmons College. In St. Louis a School of Social Economy, which originated as a series of round-table meetings for local social workers, was organized in 1905; it was affiliated at one time with the University of Missouri and later with Washington University. Similarly, in Philadelphia, courses of lectures on the practical aspects of social work became in 1910 a fully organized training school, which is now called the Pennsylvania School for Social Service.

Two events have had much to do with the successful growth of these schools, according to Miss Abbott. The first is the series of grants of money made by the Russell Sage Foundation, which was organized and endowed for "the improvement of social and living conditions in the United States." In the autumn of 1907 the trustees of the Sage Foundation made what might be called substantial "grants in aid" to the four professional schools of philanthropy then organized—those in New York, Chicago, Boston and St. Louis. The grants to the schools were in the first instance specifically given for organizing departments of social investigation, no doubt in the belief that the work of investigating and studying adverse social conditions might be in some measure delegated by the foundation to the schools of philanthropy. The Russell Sage Foundation "grants" meant for all the schools the appointment of additional members of the faculty, and through the facilities for granting studentships, fellowships, or scholarships to promising university trained men and women, an improvement in the quality of the student body.

Another fact of importance in the recent growth of the schools was the generous endowment of the New York School of Philanthropy during the year 1909—10 by the will of the late John S. Kennedy, of New York, by which the school was assured of an income from a sum which will ultimately amount to more than a million dollars. The endowment of one of the professional schools, giving it an assured position of permanency and growth, has been of assistance to all the other schools in sustaining the growing public confidence in the importance of their work and the necessity for providing them with the equipment needed to do that work well. Whatever has made it possible for any one of the schools to improve the character of its work has reacted favorably upon all the schools by setting a new and higher standard to which the level of work in each school must be raised.

The report lays emphasis upon the development of "field work" in connection with the professional training of social workers. Miss Abbott declares:

"The most characteristic feature of the school curriculum, the feature that has most sharply differentiated the work of the school of philanthropy from that of the department of sociology in the university, has been the organization of field work, and upon this a growing emphasis has been laid. Field work in this sense has come to mean a system of social apprenticeship. From the first the professional schools have realized that social work could not be undertaken without actual practice work in the office of a good social agency; that students could learn how to do only by doing under expert supervision."

"FUNCTIONS OF THE FAMILY."

The regular meeting of the Washington School Parent-Teacher Association will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. Harold F. Biddle, of the High School faculty, will speak on "The Functions of the Family." A full attendance is desired.

WASHINGTON—PARKER.

Miss Bertha Parker and C. Washington, colored, were married Saturday evening, at the parsonage of the Shiloh Baptist church, Rev. E. W. Roberts, the pastor, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wills and A. L. Wills, of Plainfield, are spending a few days in New York city and are stopping at the Wolcott Hotel.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Theda Bara, in "Gold and the Woman," at Proctor's Tomorrow.

There have been many photoplays with "Preparedness" as the keynote, some of which have but recently appeared in this city, but today at Proctor's the Triangle Film Company presents a feature that in its effects in arousing patriotism in the hearts of the populace and awakening the average person to the delicate position in which this glorious country of ours now stands, will far outshadow anything yet attempted in this direction. The name of the production is "The Flying Torpedo," with John Emerson, the famous dramatic star, in the leading role. It is produced on huge and spectacular lines, dealing with the invention of an American genius, which, if perfected, would protect this country from annihilation and massacre at the hands of a hostile foe. It shows with vivid realism how a hostile nation attempts to get possession of this invention, how our noble land is invaded by these fanatic demons, how we are on the verge of destruction and annihilation at their hands, when our distinguished inventor comes to the rescue with his flying torpedo and saves this country from a fate far more degrading than that of Belgium. A charming love tale is interwoven among this more scientific and spectacular version of the story, and the whole production is one that will go down in the annals of history as one of the momentous photoplay features ever attempted and conveived by the brain and genius of man. No man, woman or child, with a spark of love or patriotism for the welfare of their adopted land, can afford to miss this spectacle, its power and effect on the mind is beyond mere description of words; it is the acme of perfection in setting for the right side of this engrossing question of "Preparedness" against war. In addition, today, an uproarious Keystone, "The Village Blacksmith," is shown, and the sixth episode of "Mary Page" also appears. Tomorrow, Theda Bara will be shown in "Gold and the Woman," her latest photoplay, and announcement is made that this feature will appear one day only. On Saturday, in addition to Charlie Chaplin, in "Caught in the Cabaret," and "Musty Suffer," little Em Gorman, the talented child actress, will appear in person, and also on the screen, in "The Little Orphan."

CHAMPIONSHIP DEBATE AT RUTGERS COLLEGE

Flemington and Metuchen School Teams to Strive for Coveted Trophy.

With both teams about evenly matched and both determined to win, the championship debate at the Rutgers College Gymnasium this Friday evening promises to be the finest exhibition of high school debating ever staged in this State. Metuchen's plucky team of three girls is in excellent speaking condition and promises to seriously challenge Flemington's envious supremacy in debating. The school that shall carry off the honor shall receive a large bronze trophy in recognition of its victory.

The local school is planning to send a large delegation and expects to enter into a competitive singing and cheering contest. The school that shall be adjudged to have the best song and yells shall be awarded a large Rutgers banner.

Immediately following the debate President Demarest, of Rutgers College, will give an informal reception to all guests and friends. Special train and car schedules have been arranged by many of the schools and every effort will be made to have a large number attend from Plainfield. Admission will be by ticket, a limited number of which have been given to the local school and can be secured by request.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Hen Gives The Ugly Duckling Some Good Advice.

Had Never Seen Anything So Beautiful.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"WHEN the hen advised the ugly duckling to pur like a cat," daddy began the bedtime story, "he answered her: 'But I would rather swim. It is so nice to feel water rushing over your head and to float on it! It is great fun to dive to the bottom!'

"'That would be fine fun!' cried the hen. 'I think you have gone mad! Ask the cat. He is the wisest creature I know. Ask him if he is fond of floating on the water or living under it. I say nothing about myself. Ask your mistress, the old woman. There is no one in all the world cleverer than she. Do you think she wants to float on water or dive under it?'

"'You do not understand me,' said the ugly duckling.

"'Well, if we don't understand you who will? I suppose you don't consider yourself cleverer than the cat and the old woman, not to mention me. Don't make a fool of yourself, my child. And thank your stars for all the good advice we have given you. And have you not lived in this warm room, had our good society and learned something from us? But you are a fool. There is no pleasure in associating with you. I really mean you well. I tell you home truths. There is no surer way than that of knowing who one's friends are. You just see about laying some eggs or learn to pur or to send out some sparks when your back is rubbed the wrong way.'

"'I think I will go out into the wide world,' said the ugly duckling.

"'Oh, do so by all means!' said the hen.

"So away went the duckling. He found some water and floated on it and ducked under it and had a lovely time. But every living creature snubbed him for his ugliness. Now the autumn came, and the leaves of the trees turned yellow and brown. The wind took hold of them, and they danced about. The sky looked very cold, and the clouds hung heavy with snow and hail. A raven stood on a fence and croaked, 'Caw, caw!' from sheer cold. It makes one shiver to think of it, the poor duckling was in such a bad case.

"One evening the sun was just setting in splendor when a flock of beautiful large birds came out of the bushes. The ugly duckling had never seen anything so beautiful. They were dazzling white with long waving necks. They gave a strange cry, spread out their magnificent broad wings and flew away from the cold to warmer lands and open seas."

"Oh, daddy, what kind of birds were they?" asked the children.

"They were swans," said daddy, kissing them good night.

"Thank you, daddy!" cried Jack and Evelyn.

WHY NOT?

the warning rather picturesquely yet emphatically when it says, "Alcohol is the handmaiden of pneumonia, which produces ten per cent. of the deaths in the United States." There is nothing peculiarly novel or original in the declaration. Physicians in every city are saying the same thing. You hear it from Dr. Haven Emerson, of the New York Board of Health, and from Dr. William C. Hassler, city health officer of San Francisco. Few, however, have put it more strongly than has Dr. William Evans, former head of the Chicago health department. "Now is the time to get on the water wagon and to stay there," insists Dr. Evans. "Whisky and every other form of alcoholic drink are pneumonia-getters. Alcohol lowers the fighting defense of the human body against all forms of disease, but especially against pneumonia. This has been proven by careful scientific tests. It is a universally recognized clinical fact. This is one of the points on which the laboratory men and the practicing physicians are in full accord. If an ordinary man gets pneumonia the chances are three to one that he will get well. Whisky drinkers who get pneumonia do not have a three-to-one chance of life."

A new disease has been added to the already long list of ailments to which drinkers are subject. Not only is the drinker weakening his whole system, sowing the seeds of impaired liver, kidneys and heart, pulling down the walls of resistance which enable him to throw off an attack of pneumonia, but one who has been a whisky drinker for seven years or longer is preparing himself for delirium tremens. Beyond delirium tremens stands the new disease, wet brain, as Dr. W. A. Evans calls it in an article in the Chicago Tribune, and from this disease only one patient in four recovers.

Wet brain is said to be the discovery of Drs. Sceleth and Beifold, the former of whom was for many years physician to the bridewell, in Chicago, and during that time he has cared for about 2,500 "drunks" each year. A great many of these cases have had delirium tremens and many of them have had wet brain. Most of the patients suffering with wet brain died and autopsies were made on them. After an attack of delirium tremens the patient often develops wet brain. He lies in a quiet stupor, for from two to twelve weeks, if he does not die from pneumonia or some other disease in the meantime. Seventy-five per cent. of those who develop wet brain die, many from pneumonia, some from Bright's disease and some from other conditions.

Dr. Evans concludes the article with these words:

"Every drink is a mixed drink. There are no other kinds. When a man takes a drink, however simple it may be, he mixes in some degeneration of his nerve cells, some chance of delirium tremens, and a few other ingredients. Let him understand that he also pours into the glass about one finger of wet brain."

HOT DISHES FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

U. S. Department of Agriculture Suggests Economical Bills of Fare for Lunch.

Washington, D. C., April 11.—In the belief that a hot dish at noon, if only a bowl of milk soup or a cup of good cocoa, is highly important to school children, many schools throughout the country are either supplying a regular hot luncheon to school children, or are providing a single hot dish with which the children coming from a distance can supplement the cold food in their lunch baskets. In most cases the children bring money with them and buy the dishes at cost price.

To assist schools wishing to undertake this desirable activity, either through teachers or groups of co-operating mothers, the home economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in Farmers' Bulletin, No. 712, suggest the following economical and easily-prepared bills of fare for the school lunch:

1. Vegetable-milk soup, crackers, rolls, fruit, plain cake.
2. Meat and vegetable stew, bread and butter, sweet chocolate.
3. Boiled custard, lettuce sandwiches, fruit, cookies.
4. Dried codfish chowder, crackers, fruit, maple-sugar sandwiches.
5. Bean soup, crackers, baked apples, sponge cake.

In addition, the school can serve hot cocoa, cooked fruits, berries and liquid or other foods which it is difficult to carry in baskets. Almost any school, by the use of paper cups, can make good milk available to children at noon. The school can also place on sale good simple cookies, zwieback, or crackers supplied from the outside.

In a number of city schools the pupils are provided with trays and help themselves to foods placed on a counter. At the end of the meal they return the trays and dishes and thus reduce the amount of help required. In some large cities a trained supervisor is employed to regulate all the public-school lunch rooms. In other schools the preparation of lunch is made a practical exercise for classes in cooking and domestic science.

It is in the small country schools with only one teacher, however, that the midday meal presents the most difficult problems. Only a teacher with ingenuity and enthusiasm for her work can carry out the plan, and even with such a teacher the active co-operation of parents is highly important.

The simplest equipment includes a large kettle, measuring cup and spoons, paring knife, mixing spoon, dish pans and towels. The pupils should be willing to bring plates, cups, bowls and spoons from home. The boys and girls can easily make curtained shelves for the utensils. A fireless cooker, which permits the preparation of meat stews, meat and bean soups, and cereal mushes, can easily be made by the pupils as a class exercise.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To bleach white goods which have become yellow with age, wash in the usual manner, then plunge them into thin boiling hot starch. Allow them to remain in the starch until cold, wring them out and hang to dry in the bright sunlight. The result will be worth the effort.

Every mother who has a bottle-fed baby knows how quick the holes in the rubber nipples get too large. The great trouble is to regulate the flow of milk properly. As a rule the child gets it too fast. This causes indigestion and colic. Try inserting the blunt end of a pencil into the rubber nipple. Heat a darning needle red hot and sear the hole over a few times. If care is taken, can be done just right. If you happen to close the holes altogether, pierce another with a small needle. You can also use a certain brand of dried beef jars for the bottles with these large nipples. They are just right and are the ten-cent size—hold about four ounces and are not so heavy for small baby to hold.

Rubbers for High or Low-Heeled Shoes—Buy a pair of ten-cent rubber heels; place them in the heels of rubbers when wearing low-heeled shoes, and remove them when wearing high heels.

KITCHEN HELPS

When spreading butter on sandwiches or toast do not try to soften the butter, but heat a silver knife by placing it in boiling water. The difficulty is overcome at once.

Nothing else sweetens vessels in which milk has been kept so well as a solution of baking soda and hot water, in the proportion of a level teaspoonful to a quart of warm water. Let the solution stand in the vessels long enough to get cold. Pudding dishes or pots and pans which have been burned are easily cleaned this way.

SANDWICHES.

Lettuce Sandwiches make a fine lunch or supper dish. Mix peanut butter with milk until it is soft enough to spread. Cut and trim sandwich bread, spread with the peanut butter, lay lettuce leaf on one slice, spread with salad dressing and sprinkle with chopped olives or nuts. Lay on the other slice of bread. Can be cut in fancy shapes for special occasions.

Green Salad Sandwiches—Cream butter and add to it enough cayenne pepper, mustard and onion juice to give it a delicate flavor. One must not overseason, because it makes the secret apparent, while a little care makes it seem to belong to a salad. Spread on very thinly sliced bread (graham or white). A lettuce leaf may be used with white bread sandwiches.

Chocolate Sandwiches—Melt three squares chocolate with a little butter and sugar. Stir into it finely chopped walnuts and spread between thin slices of wheat bread. This makes a delicious sandwich.

THE TABLE.

Clara's Cake—One cup sugar, 1½ cups flour, eleven tablespoons sweet milk, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon baking powder, one egg. Flavor with vanilla. Cream sugar and butter. Add egg well beaten, flour and baking powder and flavoring. Bake in square tin and put a Mocha frosting on top.

Saratoga Flakes—Take wafers, put on bit of butter, sprinkle with paprika and crisp in the oven.

Pineapple Salad—One slice pineapple on lettuce leaf, celery and Bermuda onion; use cream mayonnaise; garnish with radishes; slice onion in cold water over night. Use canned pineapple.

Cream Sauce for Rice—Two cups milk, two scant tablespoons corn starch moistened with milk, pinch salt, one beaten egg, sugar to taste, teaspoon vanilla. Bring milk to boil, add corn starch and sugar, salt; boil few minutes; add beaten egg and vanilla after removing from fire.

Cabbage Salad—One stalk celery, one-half head cabbage, two tablespoons sugar. Chop cabbage and celery very fine, then add sugar and enough salad dressing diluted with a little vinegar to cover. Cover with a weight for about two hours.

Drop Dumplings—One cup flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, milk to make a soft dough. Drop into boiling stew and keep covered about twenty minutes. Serve with meat.

Date Pudding—One cup granulated sugar, two whole eggs, two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one cup English walnuts, one cup chopped dates; bake in slow oven forty minutes. Serve with whipped cream. Better if baked day before.

NEWS AND VIEWS

THE W. C. T. U.

The place formerly occupied by one of Spokane's most notorious saloons is now a "brilliantly-lighted, clean-smelling" market where "chops, cabbages and groceries replace the foaming brew" once sold here in great abundance. At the same counter where "red noses" were formerly in line, a fair maiden now dispenses "red roses," and at the site of the former "big bar," young men are now busy dealing out fresh meats of all kinds. Nobody but the former brewer or saloonkeeper complains that "business is ruined under prohibition." "Spokane is feeling right smart peart under prohibition, thank you!"

One of the results of the dry law in many small cities in Washington is the increased patronage of public libraries by men, mostly loggers and men employed in mills and camps. In January in one small town, 150 men readers were listed. In one evening there were twenty-seven men in the reading room who had not been there before.

The Elma (Washington) Chronicle states that no arrests have been made in that place for disorderly conduct, drunkenness or fighting since the town went dry, January first. Formerly there were several arrests of each class named, every week. The Chronicle adds, "The peace officers all over the State are having an easy time of it since the dry regime began."

Hoquiam, Washington, seaport and lumber city, has so little for its police to do since the State went dry, it is expecting to reduce the police force. Only one arrest the first eight days of February and that for leaving an automobile on the street after dark with no lamps lighted! Remarkable, too, is the fact that not a single complaint has been made relative to "blind pigs." Prohibition prohibits!

Prohibition has already done much toward improving conditions among enlisted men at the Vancouver barracks, according to the reports of army officers having charge of these men: The cases of intoxication have been reduced to a minimum, as have also the number of cases of "absent without leave," a term frequently used to tell of an over-indulgence in liquor.

In Chehalis, the prosperous county seat of Lewis county, Washington, not a case of drunkenness was reported during January. Only forty-eight liquor permits were issued by the auditor's office for the entire county.

The liquor people find their advertisements extolling the medicinal virtues of alcoholic drinks for colds, grippe, pneumonia and kindred ills practically nullified during the month of March by the admonitions from the city health departments. According to these bulletins, for many individuals it is really a choice between getting on the water wagon or into the hospital ambulance, for, they say, if you permit yourself to hobnob with John Barleycorn, you will be an early victim of pneumonia. BUCK HERZOG IN FAVOR OF SCOUTS.

The baseball war started a regime of economy in the major leagues that resulted in expenses being cut at every possible point. One of the items cut off the list by several clubs was the elimination of their scouting staffs. It was figured that the big expense of carfare, board and lodging, in addition to a good salary, would be saved by taking a chance on picking up recruits on the recommendation of friends of the club and by watching the records. Now, with the minor league and college season just beginning, several teams are considering the re-employing of their scouting staff. Buck Herzog, of the Reds, is one of the firm believers in scouts. He thinks it is a good investment to have a set of experienced and reliable men pass their judgment on a player before signing him or paying a minor league team a big price for his services. Buck believes that a scout can save a club many times his salary by warding off players who have been enthusiastically recommended, but who are not fast enough for the major leagues. The Pirates have a scout out on the coast who has not sent one man to the team since he was employed(yet Barney Dreyfuss figures he has saved the club a big bunch of money, as he warned the Bucs against several players Dreyfuss had contemplated purchasing. Of the list four of them were picked by some other major league club and turned back in each instance.

Watchung Council, K. of C., Saturday night finished its most successful basketball season. The team met with only two defeats—one by a one-point margin, and the other to a better team of college players. Making 507 points against their opponents' 277 is a worthy record, when it is considered that their rivals included such combinations as the Plainfield A. A., Canadians, St. Joseph's College, St. Paul's Parish House, and the Recreations. The Columbus Club quintet doesn't rank among the first class teams of the State, nor do any of the other local fives, but the "Kay See" combination is one of Plainfield's best teams.

Early season baseball interest here should wax warmer than it has in a long time. The diamond season is later starting than it has been in many years, and the fans are already getting hungry for the sight of some exciting games. If next Saturday is warm, the local teams that open that day will probably play to record inaugural throngs.

BIG LEAGUE BALL CLUBS OPEN SEASON TOMORROW

HOW BIG TEAMS OPEN SEASON OF 1916.

American League.

Detroit at Chicago.
St. Louis at Cleveland.
Washington at New York.
Philadelphia at Boston.

National League.

Pittsburg at St. Louis.
Chicago at Cincinnati.
New York at Philadelphia.
Boston at Brooklyn.

Tomorrow is the big opening day for the major leagues, and King Baseball will again come into his own when his nobs, the ump, shouts "play ball," when the blare of the band and the cheers from the big grandstands in eight American cities welcome the trained athletes to the field of glory and clean sport.

Many new names will be seen in the line-ups, and not a few "comebacks" from the land of the outlaws. The stars of the minor leagues have been sifted in the stern meshes of the try-outs and the veterans have gone safely through an equally severe inventory as to their usefulness.

The baseball magnates are predicting a record-breaking year in baseball. With the Federal League out of the way, the stars of baseball have been more closely organized into faster baseball clubs, and the stigma of rows between baseball owners has been removed from the game. The salary checks may be a trifle lower for some of the stars, but the game is still baseball, it has its rewards and honors, and its heroes of the diamond stand out more strongly than ever as idols of the American sportsmen.

BAYONNE HIGH NINE TO PLAY P. H. S. TEAM HERE

Manager Percy Stelle has announced the filling of one of three remaining vacant dates in the P. H. S. baseball schedule, as Bayonne will appear on Parker Field Wednesday, May 17. Athletic relations with Bayonne were only begun by the local schoolboys this last winter, when a closely contested basketball game on the P. H. S. court gave the Red and Blue the first victory.

QUEEN CITYS WANT TO MEET TEAMS PLAYING SUNDAYS

The Queen City A. C. will line up this season as follows: McGonegal, c. Butler, p; Semer, 1b; Trotter, 2b; Houston, ss; V. Mullen, 3b; Randolph, lf; L. Paritz, cf; Veland, rf.

The Queen City nine would like to book games with such teams as the Farmers' A. C., Highlanders, Chelseas or any other teams, for Sunday dates only. Address S. Houston, captain, Orchard place, City.

HERBERT VOLLMER CRACKS ANOTHER SWIMMING RECORD

Another world's swimming record fell before the speed of Herbert Vollmer, metropolitan and intercollegiate champion, at the New York Athletic Club last night. Before a crowd that fairly jammed the "Mercury Foot" natatorium, Vollmer defeated three of the fastest men in the country, including Perry McGillivray, of Chicago, the title holder, in the 220-yard national championship, and at the same time took 1 2-5 seconds off the existing mark of 2 minutes 24 4-5 seconds for competition in a 25-yard pool. While the victory was not unexpected, Vollmer's success in gaining a lead of five yards on the champion came as a decided surprise to the prognosticators.

75 PRO. GOLFERS JOIN.

Herbert Strong, secretary of the Organization Committee of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, states that already he has received seventy-five applications for membership in the new body. The professionals who are on the Organization Committee held another meeting yesterday, when it was decided to hold the tournament for the Rodman Wanamaker trophy some time in the autumn. A professional tournament is to be held at Van Cortlandt Park on July 17 and 18.

SWIMMING CLASSES TO BE FORMED TOMORROW NIGHT

Swimming classes will be formed in the Plainfield High School tomorrow night. A class for girls will use the pool from 7:30 o'clock to 8:30. The young men will be given instruction in the gymnasium, beginning at 8:15 o'clock, and will later adjourn to the pool.

MISS DORFNER ENTERS.

Miss Olga Dorfner, of the Philadelphia Turngemeinde, holder of the American women's swimming record for 50, 100 and 220 yards, says she will participate in the 100-yard national championship for women, which will take place in San Francisco, July 4. It is said that Miss Claire Galligan, of the National Women's Life-Saving League, New York Division, who recently won the 500-yard national title, also will compete in the championships.

CORBETT TELLS HOW HE TAUNTED SULLIVAN.

"I don't believe in a man going after the champion any more than he has to," remarks Jim Corbett.

"When Frank Moran fought Willard he played right into the champion's hands by forcing the thing. He was a mark for Willard's left every time he got near him. When I fought Sullivan I went into the ring on the theory that he was the champion and had to do the showing. So you see when I began to dance around John L. he roared like a bull about it. I had my answer all ready for him.

"'You're the champ,' I said. 'I'm in here to be whipped. I'm not in here to whip you. Come on, you big rummy; come whip me.' Was John mad? I laugh when I think of it. I never knew a man to be in such a rage before. The madder he got the easier he was to thrash."

MILAN OUT AFTER 100 SACKS.

Washington's Star Outfielder Sure He Will Show Bag Pilferers the Way.

Clyde Milan, the Nationals' star outfielder, is out to show the American league base stealers the way to pilfer the bags this season. Clyde states that he is speedier this spring than he has been since 1912. Last season baseball experts figured he had a splendid chance to beat out Ty Cobb in the bag purloining line. He started off well, but fell by the wayside toward July.

CLYDE MILAN, WASHINGTON'S STAR OUTFIELDER.

This year he expects to pilfer at least a hundred or more sacks. Milan is considered one of the greatest fielding center gardeners in the game today as well as one of the speediest. While he has not been classed as a heavy stick artist, he is a timely hitter.

Basketball Rule Solons Write for Suggestions

Local collegiate basketball officials today received the following questionaire sent out by the rules committee, which is endeavoring to learn the true conditions of the sport and the best methods to improve it:

1. Popularity of basketball—Was there any marked increase or decrease during the past season? If so, what reasons can you give for the change?

2. Roughness—Is it increasing or decreasing? If there is any marked trend in either direction, to what do you consider it due?

3.—Coaches—As a whole, do they know the rules? Do they teach their players to observe the rules?

4. Officials—Do they know the rules? Do they enforce them? Have you any suggestions with regard to selecting and administering the approved list of officials?

5. Personal foul rule—Is it strictly enforced? Do you approve of it?

6. "Jump ball"—Should the players jumping be restricted with regard to playing the ball a second time until it has touched one of the eight other players? If so, to what extent?

7. Do foul goals play too important a part in games? Should the relative value of foul and field goals be changed, for instance, by making the ratio 1 to 3? Should the player fouled be required to make the free trial? Either of these changes would tend to increase fouling. To offset this, would you favor having three personal fouls disqualify?

8. Is the dribble satisfactory? Have you any suggestions to make with regard to it?

9. Should the number of steps a player may take in throwing for goal be limited in the same way as in starting a dribble or in making a pass—Rule 8, Section 1, Note?

10. Can you suggest anything more the rules can do to lessen holding, charging and blocking?

DEAL SENDING SPEAKER TO CLEVELAND NEAR COMPLETION

Cleveland, Ohio, April 11.—James Dunn, president of the Cleveland Baseball Club, arrived here yesterday to close the real with Boston by which "Tris" Speaker will come to Cleveland. He was in communication with Speaker by long distance telephone, and talked salary with him. Speaker is said to want $12,500 a year for two years, and a $5,000 bonus.

Robert McRoy, vice-president of the Cleveland club, declined to say what Cleveland players would go to Boston in the Speaker deal, but it was intimated by others interested in the affairs of the club that "Sam" Jones, pitcher, and either "Bill" Wambsganss or Fred Thomas, infielders, would be the men traded. Thomas is now in New Orleans, having been left there when the squad came North from the training camp. Wambsganss has been slated for the regular second base job on the Indians. If he is included in the deal, Turner will be shifted to second and Evans will play third, unless a new infielder is bought.

The club is known to be in the market for such a man, and efforts have been made to get Maisel, Boone or Baumann from New York, but have failed so far.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

MISS SPENCER AN APRIL BRIDE

Becomes the Wife of R. Dudley Green, of Westfield, at Home Ceremony.

A RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Bridegroom's Father Officiates—Miss Roberta Spencer is Maid of Honor and Frederick MacDonald, of Elizabeth, Best Man.

In the presence of one hundred and thirty relatives and friends, Miss Aleta F. M. Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gibby Spencer, of Grove street, became the bride of R. Dudley Green, son of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Green, of Westfield, last night at 8 o'clock, at a pretty wedding solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, the father of the bridegroom officiating at the ceremony.

The bride, who wore a gown of Georgette crepe and a veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses, was attended by her sister, Miss Roberta Spencer, as maid of honor. The latter wore a gown of pink taffeta and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Frederick MacDonald, of Elizabeth, acted as best man. Miss Helen Barnard, of Franklin, Pa., was the flower girl, and Alexander Spencer, a brother of the bride, was the little ring bearer. The former wore a frock of white net and carried a basket of jonquils and marguerites.

The ceremony took place in the parlor under a bower of flowers and ferns. The prevailing color scheme in the rooms was pink, green and white; carnations, roses, ferns and palms making up the decorations. As the bridal party entered the parlor, Miss Helen Spencer, another sister of the bride, played the wedding march. Miss Spencer was given in marriage by her father. Immediately following the ceremony, Miss Edna Mantz sang "O Promise Me," after which a reception was held for the attendants.

The ushers were Andrew Stiglitz, George MacDonald and Newton and Engene Spencer, the two latter brothers of the bride. Guests attending the reception were from California, Cleveland, O.; Philadelphia, Bethlehem, Westfield, Rahway, New York and this city. Included in the gathering was Mrs. J. D. Dixon, of Monteca, California, a relative of the bride. Mrs. Green was the recipient of numerous handsome presents, among which were articles of cut glass, china, furniture and silverware.

Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Green left for a wedding trip, the destination being unknown. Upon their return they will reside in Westfield, a newly-furnished home awaiting them. Both the bride and groom hold a large circle of friends in both this city, the borough and Westfield. Mrs. Green is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Spencer, the former being an ex-surrogate of Somerset county. Mr. Green was graduated from New York University with the class of 1914. He is also a graduate of the Westfield High School. At present, Mr. Green is employed in the Westfield National Bank.

J. V. E. VANDERHOEF IS CHOSEN SUPREME OFFICER

J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of the borough, has been made supreme treasurer of the Fraternal Life Benefit Society, a national organization, incorporated under the laws of Pennsylvania, to do a fraternal life insurance business. The supreme lodge headquarters is located at Pittsburgh. Mr. Vanderhoef has already decided to make the State Trust Company, of this city, depository for the organization and the account will prove to be a big one, it is said.

The Sesame Club will meet at 10:30 Thursday morning at the home of Miss Dunham, 327 East Sixth street.

HONOR MEMORY OF MR. SPANGENBERG

Funeral Services Today Largely Attended by Friends and Business Associates.

With an impressive service attended by many friends and former business associates, the funeral of former Councilman Leonard Spangenberg was held this afternoon in his late residence on Westervelt avenue. The Rev. Dr. Birney S. Hudson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, of which Mr. Spangenberg was a member, officiated. During the service, duets were sung by Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Vincent. Dr. Hudson paid a splendid tribute to Mr. Spangenberg's memory, and laid emphasis on his kind and genial disposition and the high ideals and principles which he always practiced in business and private life.

Covered with a blanket of Easter lilies, the coffin was placed amid a wealth of floral offerings. The burial was in Hillside cemetery, where prayer was offered by Dr. Hudson. The bearers were: Judge Walter L. Hetfield, Arthur T. Gallup, Isaac R. Giles, Charles L. Moffett, John H. Doane and John C. McLaughlin. Two of the bearers, former Councilmen Walter L. Hetfield and Arthur T. Gallup, are the only remaining members of the famous "Big Six" of which Mr. Spangenberg was a member.

Among the out of town friends who attended the service were: Leonard Hentz, of the brokerage firm of Henry Hentz, New York, of which Mr. Spangenberg was a former member; Miss Mary Hentz and Miss Anna Wickoff, of New York; Townsend Cocks, Montclair, treasurer New Jersey Car Spring and Rubber Co.; James T. Mac Murray, East Orange, former city clerk, and Mrs. Grace M. Cocks, Newark.

SMITH, MANAGER OF KENSINGTON, QUITS

Will Leave Saturday Night, After More Than a Year of Service.

C. V. Smith, manager of the Hotel Kensington, will leave that hostelry Saturday night of this week. Mr. Smith is said to have submitted his resignation two weeks ago, effective April 15. His successor has not yet been named. Mr. Smith has been with the Kensington for more than a year and a half. Before coming to Plainfield he was in the theatrical business. He took charge of the Kensington last year when the change in ownership was made and he has had much to do with the increase in business since he assumed the duties of manager. While here, Mr. Smith has made many friends. He is a member of Plainfield Lodge of Elks, No. 885. While Mr. Smith will not discuss his pans, it is said that he will leave Plainfied at once.

W. W. GALLAWAY MAKES EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS

W. W. Gallaway, the druggist at West Third street and Grant avenue, has been making extensive improvements in his store to take care of the constantly increasing business. The partition has been removed in the store, giving him double the space he had before for the display of his goods, while an added feature is a handsome up-to-date soda fountain, equipped with all the latest appliances. Since establishing his drug store in the West End, Mr. Gallaway's pharmacy has been a popular place for residents of that section of the city.

—Emile Lacours, of 229 Somerset street, has severed his connection with the Lincoln Market.

MYSTERY IN THE DEATH OF HUNTER

Negro in Fight Saturday Succumbed to Brain Trouble Last Night.

CORONER IS NOTIFIED

Autopsy Will Be Performed This Afternoon—Was Father of Girl Shot Four Times by Claude Bibb—Police at Work on Case.

Circumstances of the death of Edward Hunter, colored, at Muhlenberg Hospital last night, caused Chief Kiely to report the case to Coroner Westcott at Elizabeth, and an autopsy will be performed on the body here this afternoon to determine the exact cause of death.

Hunter was in a fight on Front street, Saturday. He was arrested with Leslie Davis and Luther Jackson, both colored, and was to have been tried in police court tomorrow morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was stricken with a mysterious attack that effected his head Monday night at his home, 243 East Third street, and was taken to the hospital, where he died last night without having regained consciousness.

Hunter was the father of Iona Hunter, the negress who was shot four times by Claude Bibb here two months ago. The woman and Bibb, who later shot himself, both recovered. He and his daughter came to Plainfield about one year ago from Louise county, Virginia.

Saturday afternoon, Hunter was drinking in a saloon in the borough of North Plainfield, in the company of Luther Jackson, when Leslie Davis, a friend of the Hunter family, came in. Davis soon saw that Hunter was drunk, and started to take him home. Jackson followed them to the corner of Somerset and Front streets, and wanted to know why Davis was taking Hunter off. Davis refused to let the man go and Jackson struck him. A policeman arrested both men before they really fought. He also arrested Hunter because the negro abused him. So far as can be learned by Chief Kiely, Hunter was not struck at any time. The men were not tried Monday, but their cases were passed until tomorrow morning by Judge De Meza. Davis and Jackson are both watched, pending a verdict of the coroner.

As soon as the police were notified of the death of Hunter, they began an investigation. It was learned that the man had suffered similar pains in the head before and had refused to get medical attention. At the hospital it was said that he had died of brain trouble.

WOMEN'S CLUBS OF FIFTH DISTRICT HERE

Miniature Federation Meeting is Being Held Today at the Congregational Church.

Women's clubs of the fifth district of the State Federation are guests today of the Monday Afternoon, Rasores and College Clubs at the parish house of the Congregational church. The morning session convened at 11 o'clock, when the time was taken up chiefly with presentation of reports. There are about seventy-five representatives of various clubs in attendance. At noon luncheon was served to the visitors and club members.

The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock, the feature of which will be an address by Mrs. Charles Stockton, president of the State Federation. Her subject will be "The Advantages of Federation Work For Club Women." The afternoon program is designed especially in the interest of Plainfield women. This is the first time that a meeting of this kind has been held in this city and it has aroused much interest.

POSPONES AUCTION

On account of the women's mass meeting to be held in the First Baptist church tomorrow afternoon, Robert Murray, auctioneer, has postponed the aucion sale announced for that time at 322 West Front street. The sale will be held on Wednesday, April 19, at 1:30, and Thursday, April 20, at the above address, when the contents of two dwellings will be disposed of; also three van loads of storage goods, all in fine conditions. See advertisement in another part of the Daily Press.

COMES TO TERMS.

Cleveland, April 12.—Tris Speaker today came to terms with the Cleveland team, signed a contract and will be in center field for the Indians this afternoon.

KING'S DAUGHTERS TO GIVE THREE PLAYS

Cup Bearer's Circle Will Entertain at High School on Friday, May 5.

Under the auspices of the Cup Bearers' Circle of The King's Daughters, three short plays will be given at the Plainfield High School on Friday night, May 5, the proceeds to be used for the work of the circle.

The plays selected are "The Open Door," "That Brute Simons," and "Our Aunt from California." The cast for "The Open Door" comprises Mrs. Maxwell E. Perkins, Mrs. Edward Waring, Miss Hope Ivins, Miss Edith Griscome, Mis Lillian King, Mrs. E. L. Suffern, Miss Katherine Titus and Brown Rolston.

Mrs. J. Hartley Mellick, Donald McGee and Harold Underhill will present "That Brute Simons," while the women taking part in "The Open Door" will present "Our Aunt from California." Rehearsals are now being held frequently for all three plays.

Between the plays the quartet from the Watchung Troop will favor with popular selections, and Walter L. Rrighter will give a monologue. There will be other attractive features.

DEMOCRATS FAVOR SMALL BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS

Petitions favoring the adoption of the small Board of Freeholders against the present large board will soon be put in circulation throughout the county, according to several prominent local Democrats. The reason for this proposed action is said to be based on developments in the investigation of the accounts of the late James C. Calvert, for many years county clerk. According to report some of the blame for the conditions as found is placed on the freeholders, and many supporters of the small board plan are strong in favor of a change this year.

GERMANS LOST 30,000 IN DAY

Spectacular Struggle Goes on in Air So Poisonous it Cannot Be Breathed.

SLIGHT GAINS MADE

Brandenbergers Break Through the French Front in New Attack With Liquid Fire—Kaiser Takes Offensive on Greek Frontier.

Paris, April 12.—French war statement:

German infantry attacks with liquid fire were renewed west of the Meuse river in the sector of Verdun last night, the War Office announced today in an official communique that the Teutons assaulted the French positions in Caurette woods, between Cumieres and Le Mort Homme (Dead Man's Hill). Both were repulsed. A violent bombardment of the French positions is being maintained from the Douaumont-Vaux front. All night leng the German guns hurled shells against the positions of the French. French military critics estimate that the German losses in their attacks on both sides of the Meuse, Sunday, reach at least a division and a half (30,000 men). More than a division of Bradenburgers were hurled against the French positions in Cailletto Wood on Tuesday, and against the French positions on both sides of the wood. The attack was made by four columns over a front two miles wide. The object of the first column was to throw the French back on Bras. The second column sought to recapture Caillette Woods and check the steady advance of the French in that region. Third column was to reoccupy Vaux, with the fourth was sent against the slope of Fort Vaux. The assaults were delivered through a yellow haze caused by the tear shells which the German artillery had fired against the French lines before the infantry was sent forward. For miles around the atmosphere could not be breathed and the men fought with their poisonous gas masks, making a strangely grotesque picture. The French line held like a stone wall except in the centre, where the enemy took some trenches. They were busily engaged in consolidating their new positions at sundown, when French reserves counter-attacked and the Germans were driven back, losing about 100 as prisoners.

Greeks Defy Government.

Paris, March 12.—A dispatch from Athens published here, says that the police there arrested several persons at the celebration of Greek independnce yesterday for shouting, "Down with the government!"

Germans Fear Flank Attack.

Saloniki, April 12.—That the German Allies fear a flank attack through Bulgaria by the Anglo-Franch forces is indicated by their present activities. The Allies in the northern part of Greek Macedonia are extending their lines. In order to meet any attack on their left wing the Germans and Bulgarians have begun building stronger fortifications along the Melinik-Nevorkop line, in the section of Petrich. The Germans are concentrating heavy forces and great masses of guns and ammunition around Petrich. Petrich is in Bulgaria, 30 miles northeast of Lake Boiran. Melinik and Nevorkop are northeast of Petrich.

Germans Attack near Greece.

Athens, April 12.—German troops assuming the offensive on the Serbo-Greek frontier have captured the fortified position of De Vetepe.

Refuse to Release Germans.

Washington, April 12.—Great Britain's reply to the American protest on the seizure of Germans and Austrians from the American steamship China was made public today by Secretary of State Lansing. Great Britain refused to release the Germans, whom she seized on the ground that they were conspiring against the interests of the Allies in the Far East.

Steamer Smeaton Sunk.

London, April 12.—The British steamship Smeaton, owned by the Great Western Railway, has been sunk by a German submarine. The crew was landed today. The Smeaton was a small vessel of 369 tons and hailed from Plymouth.

Torpedoes Sank Ships.

Amsterdam, April 12.—The report of the findings of the Dutch Shipping Council, investigating the sinking of the Dutch steamships Tubantia and Palembang, has been issued. As to the Palembang, the report says that there were three explosions—the first from a drifting mine; the second from a torpedo, and the third also from a torpedo. Regarding the Tubantia, the report says the explosion was caused by a Schwartz Kopf torpedo, as evidenced by the finding of pieces of metal in the hull.

MINISTERS AND CHRISTIANS WALK DOWN SADUST AISLE TO PLEDGE WORK FOR BIEDERWOLF

MORE THAN 500 CHURCH MEMBERS IN PLAINFIELD ANSWER CALL OF EVANGELIST AND PUBLICLY ENLIST AS AIDES IN THE GREAT CAMPAIGN.

5,000 HEAR SERMON; COLLECTION IS $205.45

McEwan Ill, But Heaton Takes Charge and Musical Program is Enjoyed—Subject of Sermon is "Why Have You Called Me?", and Biederwolf Tells Church Its Part in the Revival Services.

Fifteen Plainfield pastors and more than 500 Christian men and women walked the sawdust aisle at the Biederwolf Tabernacle last night to consecrate themselves to a greater love and a greater work for God and to publicly pledge themselves to prayer and effort for the success of the evangelistic campaign now under way.

"I think I can hear a girl or a boy calling 'Hurry! Hurry! Church; I am sinking into Hell'," Dr. Biederwolf dramatically exclaimed in the peroration of his plea for a real religion of service. "And where," he asked, "is the Church of Plainfield?"

"Sitting on the bank of the river of temptation playing bridge or tangoing up and down the beach," was has own answer, "while the youth of the town are led to destruction. What are YOU going to do about it?"

Despite threatening weather which brought rain before the meeting was over, more than 5,000 attended last night's service and a feature that was pleasing to Dr. Biederwolf was that there were at least 400 members of the chorus choir present. The big pine temple was not filled, but there were only a few rows of seats left in the extreme rear and not many vacant ones in the sections reserved for the choir.

A note of sadness was sounded when Dr. Biederwolf announced that Mr. McEwan, choir leader and tenor soloist, was ill at his home in Binghamton, N. Y., and would not be present for the service. Mr. McEwan went to Allentown to sing Monday evening and was suddenly stricken ill there. He was taken to his home. Dr. Biederwolf received a telegram this morning stating that he would not be able to reach Plainfield today, but giving no details. His condition will be known here tomorrow. James Heaton, business manager of the party and second tenor in the quartette, led the music for the evening and succeeded so well that the musical program was greatly enjoyed by every one who had attended with this in mind.

Special features of the service were a volunteer solo from a woman in the audience, for which Dr. Biederwolf presented her with a song book; the rendition of "O Praise Ye" by a trio made up of Mr. Backemeyer, Mr. Heaton and Mr. Sluyter; a tenor solo by Mrs. Backemeyer; the singing of "Lead Kindly Light" by the National Male Quartette, and the reading of Tennyson's last poem, "Crossing the Bar," by Mrs. Brake. It was the first appearance at the Tabernacle of the full quartette, and the audience enjoyed its work greatly.

At the close of the service, Dr. Biederwolf asked that all those in the audience who were Christians and were really interested in the success of the campaign remain for a few minutes after the others had gone.

VILLA SURROUNDED, CAPTURE CERTAIN

Carranza Permits U. S. Troops To Send Supplies Over Railroads.

Washington, April 12.—The Carranza agency in Washington today asserted that they had received advices that Villa has been surrounded by Carranza and United States forces and that his capture or death is certain shortly. The advices to the agency said that Villa's force has been cut down to about 150 men.

U. S. Using Railroads.

General Carranza for the first time has given the use of the Mexican Central Railway in sending supplies from the border to General Pershing's expedition in Mexico. General Funston today notified the War Department that nine cars of oats and hay had been forwarded to United States Consul Latcher at Chihuahua over the Mexican Central line.

70 Bandits Are Killed.

El Paso, April 12.—A dispatch from Torreon says that a battle took place at Pasaje between the garrison of Carranzista soldiers and bandit followers of Contreras Chiceros lasting five hours. The bandits fled after 70 of their men had been killed.

WORK ON NEW EAST END SCHOOL PROGRESSING

The City Board of Education held a routine business meeting last night, when reports were received showing that work had been started on the new East End School and was progressing satisfactorily. The report came from the East End Civic Association.

Most of the evening was devoted to a discussion of plans for the comiLg year, and the various committees made some timely suggestions. There was also an informal discussion regarding commencement plans, which will be announced later.

IRVING-JEFFERSON PARENT TEACHER ASS'N ELECTS

Officers were elected and reports for the year were presented at the annual meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Irvington-Jefferson School, held in the Irving School yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance, about fifty of the sixty-seven enrolled members being present. These officers were chosen: President, Mrs. Juan A. Babcock; vice president, Mrs. C. O. Pierson; treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Force.

The reports of the officers for the past year showed that the association was most successful in its work. The sum of $10 was appropriated toward the fund being raised to establish a milk station in the East End. There was an informal discussion of plans for the coming year and several suggestions will be adopted.

WILL SELECT PHONOGRAPH.

BONDS SHOULD BE ISSUED, IS CLAIM

Mayor Latham Advised That Improvement Certificates Would Not be Legal.

EXCEPTION IS TAKEN

Judge VonMinden, Borough Attorney ,Tells Council That Bonds Are Not Absolutely Necessary—Bids to Be Advertised for $10,000.

As a preliminary step to the approaching special election it was resolved at last evening's adjourned session of the Council to issue $45,000 of bonds to pay for the additional cost of constructing the sewer. The Council had proposed to raise this money, if authorized to do so by the voters, by the issuance of improvement certificates. The Mayor, however, had been told by the borough's legal advisers on sewer matters that no more money could be raised in this manner and that bonds should be issued. Judge Rene P. F. Von Minden, the borough attorney, took exception to this view, stating that the people of a municipality could vote from time to time to raise as much money by general taxation as they cared to for improvement purposes and that improvement certificates could always be issued against such appropriations.

Judge Von Minden gave his opinion as one who thought the advice tendered to the Mayor was wrong and not as one who thought that improvement certificates should be issued instead of bonds. The Judge told the Council that he favored the issuance of long term bonds because they would be easier on the taxpayers. The Mayor said that he thought the bonds should be issued for a term of from fifteen to twenty years, but here he informed his colleagues that the borough's legal sewer advisers had told him that the bonds should not be for a longer term than five years because in the face of the present amount of outstanding long term bonds it would be placing too much of the cost of the sewerage system upon the next generation. The Mayor stated that five year bonds would be too great a hardship on the taxpayers.

Judge Von Minden stated that if the bonds could only be issued for a term of five years then it would be preferable to raise the money by improvement certificates. He said, however, that he saw no good reason why the bonds couldn't be used for a term of fifteen or twenty years, and payable by installment from 1917 on, as desired by the Council. The Mayor stated that he would consult the lawyers again.

A resolution was passed to advertise for bids for the remaining $10,000 joint sewerage bonds of an issue of $30,000. These bonds will bear 4½ per cent. interest and will be retired at the rate of $1,000 par value a year from 1948 to 1951 and at the rate of $2,000 a year from 1952 to 1955. The bids will be opened at a meeting to be held on May 24. No bids will be received for less than par and accrued interest.

A communciation was received from the Hall Printing Press Company complaining of the condition in which North avenue from Chestnut street to their property entrance was in as a result of the sewer work. The letter stated that several trucks hauling heavy machinery had been stuck by the macadam caving in and that the deliveries were being held up on account of the condition of the street. The concern stated that they were large taxpayers and asked that the Council do something about the matter. Councilman Castner stated that since the letter had been written the street had been fixed with several loads of cinders and that it was now in good condition.

The Dunellen Building and Loan Association was granted permission to hold its annual meeting in the lower room of the Borough Hall tomorrow evening.

A letter was received from the Defender Fire Company giving the names of the firemen in good standing. These follow: George I. Apgar, Jr., Peter Benson, Harry Cooke, C. H. Dodwell, W. S. Frederick, Melvin Fritts, John P. Fenner, Albert C. Giddes, Joseph J. Hague, E. J. Merlich, Theodore Kuldoshes, Joseph M. Maier, Herman Pfeister, C. E. Richards, T. J. Ronayne, Eugene Smalley, C. F. Starker, John Stilgen, Harty Shugars, Joseph F. Teeling, Fowler W. Vail, C. C. Vail, C. T. Voorhees, Charles Wrage, George Zink.

A letter was received from the Aetna Insurance Company enclosing a check for $50 covering the first two weeks' expense of Harry Dodwell, the sewer inspector, who was injured the forepart of December. Mr. Dodwell had submitted two bills to the borough. One of these bills was for $100. This was from Drs. Longbothum and Platt and covered the operation and care. The other was for $45. This covered hospital changes. In remitting a check for only $50 against the $145 the insurance company informed the Council that while the New Jersey compensation law provides medical aid during the first two weeks, the reimbursement cannot exceed $50. The Mayor asked Chairman Williams, of the collecting sewerage committee, whether the borough was now let out of the case. Answering in the affirmative, Mr. Williams said that the entire matter was now in the hands of the insurance company. He stated that the insurance company had been paying Mr. Dodwell $7.50 a week, which is half of the salary he received as inspector, since December 3. He told the Council that Mr. Dodwell was getting along well but that his injury is permanent.

The treasurer's report for the month follows: Receipts—balance last report, $1,394.78; recorder's fines, $34.50; North avenue drain note, $1,261.18; Public Service, streets, $27.50; tax and interest, $218.99; total receipts, $2,936. 85. Expenditure—Warrants honored, $2,042.06; balance, $894.71.

Chairman Castner, of the street committee, reported that the streets were being scraped under the direction of the new street commissioner. Under the report of this committee it was voted to advertise for stone to keep the streets in repair for a year.

Chairman Williams, of the building and parks committee, reported that a call had been re-issued for bids on roof of the Borough Hall. He reported that the Public Service Railway Company had yet to forward its check for $100 covering its share of expense for leaving sheathing in the sewer trench on Bound Brook road, opposite the small park.

Chairman Williams, of the collecting sewerage committee, reported that work had started on Mountainview terrace. He said that the sewer work was progressing satisfactorily. The Mayor here stated that H. K. Corbin told him the North avenue work would be completed by May 1.

A "Cotton-Drift" Mattress—the Sealy—Guaranteed for 20 Years

Pure virgin cotton, cleaned and ginned, is blown by compressed air into a high container, from which it drifts into a press underneath.

When the "cotton drift" is twelve feet deep it is automatically pressed down to the size of a mattress and slipped into the ticking.

The mattress is made on the plantation which grows the cotton. The cotton goes into the mattress fresh from nature, with its long fibre curly and buoyant. Compressed from 12 feet down to less than one the cotton becomes resilient, elastic and buoyant, and retains these qualities practically forever.

Sealy mattresses are guaranteed for twenty years. One in use for twenty-five years was cut open recently and the cotton was found to be still elastic.

Being elastic, a Sealy mattress is not tufted nor built in layers. The cotton merely "drifts" into shape. It is always smooth and even, and does not grow lumpy nor hard.

In the West when a hotel wishes to attract more trade it advertises that its beds are equipped with Sealy mattresses.

Full bed size, 54x76 in., with rolled edge, $24.

Smaller sizes, $20, $21, $22 and $23.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Adv.

Corporation Notice.

ALTERING AND WIDENING OF CENTRAL AVENUE.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council has fixed the twenty-fourth day of April, A. D., 1916, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., as the time and place for Albert H. Atterbury, J. Fred MacDonald and Arthur E. Smith, the commissioners appointed by the Common Council pursuant to the ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to alter and widen Central avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey," approved December 6, 1915, and the resolution of the Common Council in the premises, adopted April 3, 1916, to meet and proceed with the discharge of their duties and hear all persons interested in the premises, and make their estimates and assessments under said ordinance and said resolution and the statutes in such case made and provided.

The street to be altered and widened to extend from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, the center and side lines of which street, as well as the width thereof, being particularly described in said ordinance, and shown on map therein referred to, and on file in the office of the City Clerk, entitled "Map showing proposed altering and widening of Central avenue, from West Front street to the Central Railroad of New Jersey, City of Plainfield, N. J., September, 1915."

The land to be taken for such altering and widening of said Central avenue on the northeasterly side thereof from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, includes a strip four and three hundred seventy-five thousandths feet wide, being property owned by Charles B. Lufburrow, Ella B. Benson, Charles P. Sebring, Estate of Juliet Runyon, Mary Augusta Runyon, Calvary Baptist church, Plainfield Reform Club, and Wadley & Goodenough.

The land to be taken for such altering and widening of said Central avenue on the southwesterly side thereof, from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly side line of West Second street, includes a strip six and three hundred and seventy-five thousandths feet wide, being property owned by Walter F. Manning, Estate of Lebbeus L. Manning (Elizabeth Manning, Walter F. Manning, Carrie E. MacIntyre), Mary McNamara and Abrams & Kunzman. The land to be taken for such altering and widening of said Central avenue on the southwesterly side thereof, from the southeasterly side line of West Second street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, includes a strip three and nine hundred and seventy-five thousandths feet wide, being property owned by P. Ballantine & Son (a corporation), as shown on said map and said ordinance, to which reference is hereby made for a more detailed description.

DOUBT REPORT VILLA IS DEAD

Pershing Fears Story Is Only Bandit's Ruse.

PURSUIT TO BE CONTINUED

Natives Seem to Credit Rumor Pancho Villa Has Succumbed to His Wounds. Aviators Search For Grave—Don McGregor's Death at Hands of Villistas Confirmed.

U. S. TROOPERS KILL MORE OF VILLA'S BAND.

Field Headquarters Punitive Expedition, South Namiquipa, via Wireless to Columbus, N. M., April 12.—An unofficial report reached here that Troops K and M of the Seventh cavalry in a brush with Villistas south of Satevo killed a number of them and captured thirty-five.

Eight Villistas who were wounded in the Columbus fight were found after the band were routed.

El Paso, Tex., April 12.—American army officers greeted the report that Pancho Villa is dead and buried with the remark, "Too good to be true."

While many did not credit the report, there were some in official and other circles who were inclined to believe there was a good chance that the bandit leader had died of his wounds. It has been established without question that Villa was wounded.

General Gavira, commanding the Juarez forces, said that from the last reports he had received regarding Villy the bandit chief was dying of blood poisoning. The story of the actual death of Villa coming on top of this information led many to credit it. The fact also that nobody had seen Villa personally since his rout at the hands of the American cavalry forces at San Geronimo two weeks ago, two days following the receipt of his wounds, adds further strength to the report of his death and burial.

There is no doubt that the report is general throughout the region where the American forces are now operating after Villa that he is dead. His exact burial spot is referred to by many of the natives in the vicinity of Satevo, who say that his grave is near Santa Ana, twenty miles southwest of Satevo, General Pershing's latest advance base.

A Mexican business man arriving from Chihuahua City said the report of Villa's death had been current in that city since Sunday night and that it was generally credited. The report, according to this man, said his death took place on the Tarasca ranch, between Guerrero and Tabocate. The wound which caused Villa's death was inflicted by an outraged father, whose daughter Villa had wronged. A similar story as to the cause of the death wound was brought to El Paso by C. B. Smith from Parral. Villa is said to have killed the father with his own hand.

Trying to Find Grave.

American aerial scouts have been ordered to the scene to attempt to locate the grave. Meantime General Pershing has kept his men in the field on the trail of the band known to have last been with Villa. This band was last reported to General Pershing, according to news brought to the border by aviators, as being at Bacabuiriachic, thirty miles west of Santa Ana.

An official connected with the American state department in Juarez learned from advices to American mining companies that a band of Villistas, believed to be the command last seen with their chief, was following the valley of the San Pedro river toward Guadalupe y Calvo, which is one of the strongest natural fortresses in southwestern Chihuahua. It is a high plateau hidden among the mountain peaks, and not more than two men or horseback can pass along some of the ledges at a time. Villa and his men knew this rendezvous of old, and if he is not dead the mining men say they are convinced that this will be his destination.

The news of the reported death of Villa was brought to the border by Lieutenant H. A. Drague and E. S. Gorrell of the American aviation corps, who had heard the story from many natives in the country around Santa Ana, Satevo and Cusi. They said all the natives generally believed it.

A telegram over the Mexican Northwestern railroad from Pershing's headquarters also brought the news, and Mexican officials declared they had received the same news and credited it, adding, as usual, that the mission of the American forces in Mexico had now been accomplished.

Native Describes Grave.

A telegram over the Northwestern railway's wires said that a native had described Villa's grave at the headquarters of General Pershing, going so far as to tell about a small rude wooden cross at the head of the grave, which was dug on a hillside beneath some blossoming mountain laurel. The Mexican offered to pilot the Americans to the spot.

There is a suspicion in army circles on the border that the story of Villa's death is a cleverly concocted scheme of the wily bandit himself to throw the American troops off his trail long enough to give him a chance to get out of their reach. Americans generally do not believe that Villa, if alive, has ever succeeded in getting as far south as reports have put him.

According to Aviators Gorrell and Drague, the Villa bands were known to have camped south of Parral as late as two days ago, as they had all been located in the vicinity of Satevo, a little to the west. American forces should have clashed with some of these bands since that time, they reported on reaching Columbus. They also said a small band of bandits was known to be still in the vicinity of Guerrero, and the American forces had been sent out after these, who also have been located and attacked by this time.

From numerous sources the American forces have secured confirmation of the Carranza claims that Villa was wounded some time ago. The natives universally report him ill and say that travel appeared to rack his body with agony.

Hunt For Villa Goes On.

Reports of the death of Villa began first to reach the American forces on Sunday. Suspecting a ruse to delay the Americans, General Pershing gave instructions to his staff to keep the campaign under way and lose no time in rounding up the different bands whose whereabouts had been reported to him by his scouts. He explained that if they hesitated in the hunt while attempting to establish the authenticity of reports of Villa's death they might not be able to overtake the bandit.

General Pershing has his troops scattered in all directions out of Satevo, some of them south to a point very close to Parral, and it was believed when the aviators left camp for Columbus that he had the band of men last seen in company with Villa encircled so that they could not escape. If this was true then the band heard from as headed for Guadalupe y Calvo probably belongs to the Arrieta brothers of Durango.

Santa Rosalia Looted.

The aviators brought the news that Villistas had looted Santa Rosalia, south of Chihuahua City, recently. This was the report current around Satevo when they left. Santa Rosalia is a former noted Mexican health resort.

Confirmation was received on the border by way of messages from Pershing's camp of the killing at Minaca some time ago of Donald McGregor and Herman Blankenburg. J. H. Locke, the only foreigner who escaped alive from the place when the Villa band raided it and who first told his story of the murders at Cusi, has reached General Pershing's headquarters, where he related the details of the murder.

According to Locke, the two men were butchered without warning. Blankenburg started out to the Heimpel hotel the morning after the Villistas had captured the town, and his head was split open by a Villa soldier, the first one encountered in the streets. The same man, seeing McGregor behind a window in the same room that Blankenburg, McGregor and Locke had occupied together, shot him.

Locke escaped from the room during the night while the Villistas and Carranzistas were fighting. He was in hiding near the town for two days until the Villistas left, when he was told by the natives of the murder of his companions. He then slipped out for Cusi. Later he encountered the American army advance column, and since that time he has been with the soldiers for protection.

UNITED STATES COURT SELLS APPAM CARGO

Newport News, Va., April 12.—The sale of perishable cargo on the steamship Appam, a British craft now held as a prize by German naval officers, will take place today, by order of the United States District Court. U. S. Marshal Saunders will conduct the sale. Pending the outcome of the controversy as to the ownership of the vessel and its cargo, the money received from the sale of the cargo will be impounded by the court.

The vessel is held by the United States Marshal, having been seized by order of the court in February, the British owners having brought libel proceedings in the federal court. Argument on the libel and the question of the ship's ownership will be heard by Judge Waddill at Norfolk next Tuesday. Lieut. Hans Berg, the German naval commander who brought the ship into this neutral port after its capture by the sea raider Moewe, will defend the German claim to the vessel and its contents as a prize of war, and will claim that the vessel has the right to enter American ports under a treaty between the United States and Prussia.

United States marines have been guarding the vessel during its docking and discharge of perishable cargo. The German prize crew is still aboard.

TO CONNECT SOUTHEAST.

Paducah, Ky., April 12.—The longest continuous train route in the world will be the culmination of steps now being taken here to connect the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road with the Burlington route, thus forming a through service from Jacksonville, Fla., to Seattle, Wash. The two railroads have petitioned for a right of way through the business district of the city in order to connect the two lines and form the missing link between the far northwest and the far southeast. It is believed that the roads will be allowed to carry out their plans.

CHICAGO HAS SOCIETY WEDDING

Chicago, April 12.—Miss Grace Meeker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, of this city, will be married this afternoon at four to Ambrose Cramer, of Lake Forest, Ill. Among the bridesmaids is Miss Lolita Armour. Many New York society people have come for the event, which is one of the most important of the spring weddings. The ceremony takes place at the Meeker residence.

WOMEN AID WAR ORPHANS.

New York, April 12.—Some of the most prominent women in America, among them Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. John R. Drexel and Mrs. Levi P. Morton, are patronesses of a Shakespeare Flower Fantasie to be given tonight at the Plaza Hotel, for the benefit of a plan for the rescue of the orphaned children of the war countries.

ASKS TIME TO PAY FOR BASIN

Lehigh Valley Road Opposes State's Request For Delay.

SCHOOL FUNDS INVOLVED

Argument to Be Heard April 26 on Why New Jersey Should Be Given Time to Refund—Case Dates From Year 1889—$125,000 Amount in Question.

Newark, April 12.—Vice Chancellor Stevens will listen on April 26 to arguments why the state should be given a year more to raise the $125,000 which must be given the Lehigh Valley Railroad company for the "big basin" in Jersey City.

Gilbert Collins of Gillins & Corbin, Jersey City, counsel for the railroad, opposed the granting of the order before the vice chancellor and will renew his arguments April 26.

The assistant attorney general said that when the decree of the court of errors and appeals was handed down March 6 it was too late to secure the necessary appropriation from the legislature and payment of the sum would be a hardship until the legislature shall meet again.

The Lehigh Valley Railroad company bought the "big basin," which is the outlet of the Morris canal, from the riparian commission in 1889 for $48,000. The courts held that the riparian commission was without authority to make the sale, and the matter was fought through the courts until last month, when the court of errors and appeals upheld the lower courts.

The court ordered that the "big basin" should revert to the state and that the $48,000 paid for it, with interest at 6 per cent, should be returned to the railroad. The interest from 1889 brings the amount due from the state to about $125,000.

In opposing the granting of time for the payment Attorney Collins said that the $48,000 went into the school funds and should be paid out of that fund. The assistant attorney general replied that it would be unfair to the schools to abstract this large sum and that to do so would mean a considerable sacrifice, as $380,000 of the fund is invested in securities, which might not be disposed of readily.

GREECE ANGERED BY LANDING OF ALLIES

Demands Explanation of Occupation of Island.

Athens, via London, April 12.—The allies have landed troops on the Greek island of Cephalonia, on the west coast of Greece, principally at the island's chief seaport, Argostoli, and at Lixuri, five miles to the north.

The landing, explained officially by the French and British diplomatic representatives to the Greek government as being intended to establish a naval base "for defensive purposes," has caused a new sensation in the Greek capital. The Greek premier, M. Skouloudis, has sent a strong protest to London and Paris against the allies' action, terming it "a fresh infringement upon Greek sovereignty."

The significance of the landing of allied troops on the largest and most important of the Greek islands in the Ionian sea is twofold—it practically completes the "iron ring" which has been gradually drawn around Greece by the allies through the establishment of naval bases, and secondly it represents a powerful base for possible future operations against the Austrian, German and Bulgarian armies in Albania as well as against the flank of an army which might attempt a drive on Saloniki.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY.

Chicago, April 12.—Attorneys Patrick H. O'Donnell and Charles E. Erbstein and five other defendants will be placed on trial today. They were indicted for conspiracy to suborn perjury and subornation of perjury in connection with testimony given in the trial of former police officials who were found guilty of accepting bribes from the "burglar trust."

CALIFORNIA LAND FRAUD CASE.

San Francisco, April 12.—The government's case against F. A. Hyde & Co to prevent issue of patents on 1,600 acres of land alleged to have been secured through fraud, will be resumed today. Registrar Sanford of the U. S. Land Office, will examine the purchase papers, which the L. F. White Company, lumber dealers, promised to introduce This company claims that it bought 160 acres of the land involved, in good faith.

DISCUSS WORK OF WOMEN.

Chicago, April 12.—A conference of the Middle West members of the Women's National Agricultural and Horticultural Association opened here today at the clubrooms of the Chicago Art Institute. The general subject of the conference is the achievement of women in agriculture and horticulture. Six half-day sessions and one evening meeting are to be held.

MANY DEAD IN BIG DU PONT EXPLOSION

Bluefield, W. Va., April 12.—Three persons—one man and two children—are dead, a number of houses in ruins, telephone and telegraph communication with the outside world cut off, and the plant of the DuPont Powder Company at Nemours, Mercer county, eight miles from here, wrecked as the result of four explosions at 3:20 o'clock this morning. Details of the explosion are lacking.

positions for a month and a half, the British attacked with all their forces. The battle lasted six hours. The enemy, at the beginning of the fight was able to enter some of our trenches, but those who were not killed with the bayonet were driven out. More than 3,000 dead were left in front of the trenches. Among the British troops taking part in the battle was the Thirteenth Division, which formerly fought at the Dardanelles, where it suffered heavily.

RESUME OF THE FEDERATION WORK

Missionary Societies Have Accomplished Much During the Past Year.

REPORT OF SECRETARY

Mrs. Titus Gives An Interesting Review of Meetings Held—Complete List of Officers for the Coming Year.

Mrs. Emma W. Titus, secretary, has prepared the annual report of the Plainfield Federation of Women's Missionary Societies, 1915-16, which covers all the activities of this organization which is made up of representatives of city and borough churches. The report follows:

"In looking back over the work of the Federation for the year just concluded, it may seem that the year has not been so full of interest, nor the results so conspicuous as in the preceding years, but that the spirit of those who founded the Federation still lives and has its influence we who have taken an active part in the work of the year can attest, and their wish is that the Federation may go forward with renewed energy and a more consecrated effort for higher attainments that it may prove an influence for good in the community.

"There have been held two executive meetings, two public interdenominational meetings, two special sessions for prayer and one rally for young people during the year.

"At the executive meeting in May, the secretary was directed to have a new set of resolutions printed, also folders containing the names of the new officers and members of the two standing committees. The secretary was further asked to prepare a list of the members of the Federation who were willing to speak in other churches than their own and their subjects, and send it to the chairmen of the different missionary societies.

"After some delay this was accomplished, and the literature sent out as directed. The secretary is happy to report that through this means, Federation speakers were secured for no less than eight meetings that were reported to the secretary, and it is probable that there were other similar arrangements not reported.

"It is hoped that the women who so kindly undertook this work this winter will let their names stand for another year, and perhaps the number may be increased.

"Copies of the resolutions and folders were sent to the officers of the Federation, the presidents of the different missionary societies, together with the printed lists of speakers, were sent to the Home Missions committee at their first meeting in the fall, and were distributed at the First Baptist church on November 18, the first general meeting of the Federation, as required by the resolutions.

"Postals have been sent out by the secretary for all meetings but one, when, by a misunderstanding, the secretary of committee sent the notices. An effort has been made to reach the churches east and west, from Elizabeth to Somerville.

"From November 14-21—Home Missions Week—the Federation in accordance with its established custom, observed the week with a series of meetings as follows:

"On Wednesday, November 17, in the Y. W. C. A. a special session of prayer was held at 10:45 a. m., Mrs. Wardner presiding. On Thursday, November 18, at 3:30 p. m., in the First Baptist church an interdenominational meeting, and on Friday, November 19, at 3:30 p. m., in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, a Home Missions rally for young people.

"The interdenominational meeting on the 18th was opened by singing 'Jesus Shall Reign.' This was followed by the reading of the lesson from scripture by Mrs. Ralston. Rev. Dr. P. B. Strong led in prayer, and the address was made by the Rev. Dr. J. C. Day, superintendent of the Labor Temple in New York city. His subject, 'The New Challenge to the Old Church,' was the occasion of a most interesting address, but the comparatively small congregation was a source of regret to those interested in promoting these meetings. At the young people's meeting on Friday afternoon a lecture illustrated, called a chalk talk, was given but there were but twenty-two children present. On Wednesday, February 24, the day of prayer for Home Missions in the Congregational church, the Federation arranged two sessions of prayer. In making this arrangement the committee felt that while it was an experiment it might be wise, in that it provided for the convenience of all. The morning session at 10:30 was led by Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, and that in the afternoon by Mrs. Edward J. Read.

"The program provided by the board was closely followed. The addresses, The Church a National Force, The Church a Reclaiming Force, The Church An Educative Force," each followed by prayer, composed the program for the morning session. In the afternoon the addresses were: The Church a Healing Force, The Church An Integrating Force, and were followed by an address by Mrs. Ralston, whose topic was: 'Sources of Power.' These addresses were followed by special prayers. The day was one full of the spirit of devotion and interest. The attendance in the morning was 23. In the afternoon somewhat larger.

"The Federation brought its work for the year to a close on Thursday evening, March 9, when in Grace Episcopal church Dr. Rudolph B. Tuesler, of Tokio, Japan, told of his work in St. Luke's Hospital in Tokio, Japan, and of his efforts to secure funds for the building and equiping a new and thoroughly modern hospital. Dr. Tuesler's work is of special interest to the Federation in that while under the control of the Board of Missions of the Episcopal church, it is undenominational in character, and largely supported by Christians of all sects, to whose wants spiritual and physical, it ministers.

"In February, Mrs. Ralston appointed a nominating committee with Miss Julia J. Nott, of the First Presbyterian church, chairman. The following women were named: Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, First Baptist; Mrs. David H. Rowland, Grace P. E.; Mrs. John M. Whiton, Congregational; Mrs. C. M. Anderson, First Methodist; Mrs. Edwin Shaw, Seventh-Day Baptist; Mrs. E. C. Parse, Trinity Reformed church.

"On March 16, Mrs. Ralston appointed as the auditing committee, Mrs. Edward Baker, Jr., Temple Baptist; Mrs. J. Hervey Buchanan, First Baptist church.

"The secretary takes pleasure in thanking the officers of the Federation and the members of the executive committee for their co-operation and consideration and especially for their very thoughtful kindness when she was unable to meet with them. The members of the Press have promptly published notices sent them, for which the secretary desires to record her appreciation. She also desires to thank the members of the standing committees who published the notices sent them in their several churches, and the secretaries of the missionary societies in the different churches, who filled out the blanks sent them in the spring, and for the information they furnished."

A. W. TEN EYCK'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Abraham W. Ten Eyck, whose death occurred after a long illness last Saturday, was held this afternoon from his late home in Long Branch, and burial was made in the cemetery at that place. Mr. Ten Eyck was eighty years of age, and was a retired farmer. He is survived by six children. These are Mrs. Norman C. Sears and Abram Q. Ten Eyck, of Plainfield; John G. Ten Eyck, of Westfield; Mrs. Edward Lomis, of Middletown, Del., and Mrs. William H. Higgins and Walter Ten Eyck, of North Branch.

A SPLENDID ACHIEVEMENT

EVERY real service rendered the public receives its reward.

The Jacob Ruppert Brewery for half a century has been conscientiously supplying the public with its favorite beverage in its purest and most wholesome form.

The public's appreciation is substantially shown by its patronage of the Ruppert Brewery.

1,000,000 BARRELS OF BEER NOW ARE REQUIRED TO MEET THE ANNUAL DEMAND FOR THE RUPPERT PRODUCT—a splendid achievement and an unmistakable endorsement of the Ruppert standards.

The demand for pure, wholesome Beer is steadily increasing, not because people drink more Beer, but because more people are learning to recognize the food and tonic value of Beer and moderately indulge in its use.

This increasing demand justifies the meaning of true temperance as expressed by the World's foremost Physicians, Scientists and Clergymen.

Recognizing the growing tendency toward temperance and that Beer is the temperance beverage, we recommend the moderate use of

—biggest savers for farm and garden

Why worry along with slow out-of-date implements and meagre results? Planet Jr tools are far more economical—they do 3 to 6 times the work, get bigger, better crops, and outlast several ordinary implements. Fully guaranteed. You are actually losing money whenever you cultivate without them.

No. 72 Planet Jr 2-row, 2-horse Pivot-wheel Cultivator saves a man, a team, and a cultivator every day it is used. Cultivates 2 rows of corn, potatoes, beans, etc., at one passage, even if rows are crooked or irregular width. In check rows and listed corn it also beats any other tool. Can be equipped with spring-trip standards, discs, sweeps, hoe steels, and furrowing shovels. Specially hardened cultivating steels add 50 per cent to wear. Also spring lift, new this year.

No. 8 Planet Jr Horse Hoe and Cultivator is stronger, better-made and capable of a greater variety of work than any other horse hoe made. Non-clogging steel wheel. Depth-regulator and extra-long frame make it run steady. Adjustable for both depth and width. 15 other styles of one-horse cultivators—various prices.

Let us equip you with one of these savers.

Why Have You Sent For Me?

Sermon of the Rev. W. E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Tuesday Evening

"Why Have You Sent for Me?"

Dr. Biederwolf announced as his text Acts 10:29: "I ask, therefore, for what intent have you sent for me." These were the words of Paul to Cornelius.

The evangelist said in part:

It's easier to preach the Gospel in these days than it used to be. There was a time when a man who preached the Gospel kept his head on his shoulders with difficulty and even then he sometimes lost it. Some of us preachers lose our heads when we try to preach, but not like they used to. They used them chopped off in those days.

Paul and Silas and the rest of them used to go down on the street corners and preach, but they usually landed up in the cooler—that's the Hoosier term for jail, bastile, guard-house, you know; and sometimes it went pretty hard with them.

On one occasion, you may remember they were brought before the council and a certain member of the council, Gamaliel by name, stood up and said to the Jews: "You'd better leave these men alone if what they are doing is of man, it will come to nothing anyhow, but if it is of God you can't stop it and if you try you'll be fighting agaist God." And old Gamaliel had a good deal more sense than a lot of people in the church today. If this city is like every other place we go you've got a lot of members of your churches here who have already gotten their hammers out and have been knocking and criticising these tabernacle meetings. Well, you travel in mighty poor company. Every booze fighter, every blacklegged gambler, every cussing, swearing, damning old infidel has been doing the same thing, and if that's your crowd, line up with it and when the fight's hottest we'll be out in the open and know where each other stands. I'm on the other side. There's no use to fight against God. He ran this universe a good while before you got into it and I guess He's good for a few days more.

Revival Will Prosper.

I believe this undertaking is just as much of God as was the gathering in the household of Cornelius. If it is, it's going to prosper. But that will not be the worst of it, for a good deal of time and a good deal of energy and a good deal of money will be wasted and the unbelievers in the church will say, "I told you so," and the cause of Jesus Christ will be brought into disrepute. But if this work is of God it is going to prosper in spite of all that all the devils in hell can do to stop it. And they'd try to do a plenty. You can bank on that. A revival such as we may have, if you will only give yourselves to it always strikes terror to the heart of hell. The devils will growl and snarl and snap and all their agents on earth will cuss the tabernacle and damn the evangelist and revile the preachers and sneer at God and train all the guns of hell against these meetings, if they amount to anything—and if they don't amount to anything—why then hell won't take any more notice of them than earth does.

Now, God did great things for Cornelius and his friend and what He did for them He is waiting to do for you. Several months ago the call came to me and to my associates at Alton. We believed the call was from God and now we are here and we ask therefore for what intent you have sent for us.

Well, I know the very first thing you will say. You will say, "Well, Biederwolf, we haven't sent for you to preach us any new Gospel." If you have you've sent for the wrong man. The world doesn't need any new Gospel and the biggest part of it doesn't want any. And this old sin-cursed ball of humanity is crying in the night of its need a little more for the Christ of God than some of us have dared to believe; and that minister of the Gospel, may God forgive him, who stands in the pulpit of his Christ and substitutes for the sweet story of Jesus these fascinating mixtures of ethical culture, and current opinion, and what the higher critics think—as though that made any difference—is deceiving himself and denying his God and giving to a hungry world a stone for bread.

The word of God says one thing and you think another, and so of course God is wrong and you are right. You have an idea and an opinion of your own that you got out of your own little match box of a brain and you set it up against the revealed wisdom of Almighty God. You're a fool. When God says one thing and your opinion says another, your opinion can go to perdition for all I care.

Some of these would-be religious wise-acres remind me of a character in one of Moliere's plays. He said, "The heart is on the right side and the liver's on the left." "Oh," said another, "I always thought the heart was on the left side and the liver on the right." "Well, it was formerly," replied the other, "but we've changed all that."

Don't Need New Gospel.

My, but it's uriprising what some of these latter day saints do find out. No sir, this world don't need any new Gospel. Have you been thinking that it does? Well, you've got another think coming to you, old fellow.

And yet it is true that there are more curious vagaries and peculiar eccentricities of thought and perverted forms of religious belief and practice, more isms and schisms and sposms and fol de rol tommy-rot to lead people away from God today than ever has been the case since Christ first pressed his claims upon the human race, and so subtle and fascinating have been some of these spiritual speculations and cunningly devised philosophies that some of the choicest among the people of God have drifted away from the moorings of their former sweet faith.

I sympathize a good deal with the old lady who went to visit some of her city relatives. They planned a fine itinerary for her. They took her here and they took her there. One morning after she was there for a few days she came downstairs with her valise all packed and they said: "Why, Antie, you ain't going home yet, are you? We haven't taken you to near all the places yet." "Yes," she said. "I am going home; you took me to hear David Swing and he took away my Christ, and then you took me to hear Bod Ingersoll and he took away my Bible, and then you took me to hear Jennes Miller on dress reform, and she took off my corsets, and now I'm going back home to the farm where I can hear the cows low and the hogs grunt and worship my God in peace."

Here's Mrs. Eddy—that is, she was here; she's there now; and all of the —well I don't say it. And here's Russell—Edwards Tate Russell. He had it doped out that the world would come to an end in October, 1914. He didn't know any more about that than a Jack Rabbitt. The Bible says that even Jesus didn't know.

The Hindoes are here with their Yogiism. How many of you can see the end of your nose? Well, if you can do that you can become a Yogi. Just sit down and fix your mind and your eye on the end of your nose and breathe through your left nostril and do it long enough and you can think yourself away into Nirvana and become holy and be like a God and you don't need any Christ at all to save you from your sin.

Raps Sun Worshippers.

And there's a lot of narrow-browed gullibles in this country who get down on their knees and worship the sun whenever it comes up. Yes, sun worshippers! More nonsense than ever before.

And here is Madame Tingley and other followers of Madame Blavatsky ridiculing the Christian faith and offering us in its place a dreamy philosophy of what they call "Cosmic Progress," that's warranted to make a God out of a monkey if you give the monkey time enough to grow. Theosophy, they call it. So don't throw the bootjack at the tom cat on the backyard fence; it's only your neighbor's daughter come back to practice her music lessons.

If old Plainfield ever falls on her knees and repents of her sin and iniquity—and God knows, you've got a lot of it—all this rubbish I've been talking about and all the damnable heresies hell ever belched forth will never do it, but it will be when the burning truth of this old world of God gets into your heart, and God helping and hard. I expect to answer to God for the way I do it and you'll have to answer to Him for what you do with it. I'm not going to preach any new Gospel.

In the next place, I've not come to preach the old Gospel any better than these ministers have preached it before me. If good preaching would have saved you, you would have been on your knees long ago.

I'll put new clothes on the Gospel, of course—a new dress of languages. I don't suppose Mr. McEwan will sing just as you would if you were to do it in his place. I hope not, at least. And I won't preach just like you would if you were to try it. A fellow said to Sam Jones once: "Jones, if I preached like you, I'd lose my religion," and Jones replied: "Well, if I preached like you do, I'd lose my congregation."

Trouble With the Church.

The trouble with the church is that the life of so many of us is a disgrace to the profession we made. And then, there's too little difference between the church and the world. There's a lot of you here tonight and if you would tell the truth —and you would not lie—you know very well you'd say you care more for your cards and the dance than you do for your vow to Almighty God that you'd renounce the world, the flesh and the devil. I'm not saying anything just now against your cards and your dance and the theatre and the rest of your nonsense, but the trouble is you don't amount to two shucks as a spiritual force. There's the trouble. A lot of you go to church and have a kind of regard for religion but as for having a firm grip on God and denying yourself for the sake of Christ and the weaker ones, and as for being ready to strike hard, staggering blows against the iniquity and damnation that is rife in the community you are nothing but flat failures in the House of God, and you know it. So there you are.

No wonder, wife, you can't get your husband for Christ. Your life is too much like his, though you profess to be a Christian and he don't. You go to the same places he goes and you do the same things he does and you are not any better than he is and he knows it.

People are asking why it is we can't get the world to come and join the church. I can tell you why. The church has gone a little bit too far and joined the world. Listen to me! You let the church get right and stay right and I'll tell you what will happen; the world will come and batter down her doors to get on the inside.

Now the second thing is this—we need to depend absolutely upon God.

My, but so few of us in these days know what it means to wrestle with God in prayer. It's a lost art. If you haven't got a successful minister, it's because your minister hasn't got a praying congregation behind him. You've got a sort of a cold storage proposition over at your church. You shut your preacher up in an ice box and then blame him for not sweating.

It will not do to blame the minister of the Gospel as long as you are neglecting to hold up his hands that the cause of Christ might prosper. To your knees, then, ye people of God, and let us pray! Pray until Heaven is propitious; pray until the windows go up; pray until the clouds open; pray until there is sound of abundance of rain; pray until the floods of blessing come.

In the third place this undertaking involves a call to service. It is time to ask: "Lord, what will thou have me to do?" Too many of us want to live in the twenty-third Psalm where it says: "Lord, make me to lie down;" and all the time the Lord is saying get up and go to work. Get down to pray and get up to work, will bring a revival any time if we are right with God.

SAWDUST AND SHAVINGS

There was a fine crowd in the "Pine Temple" last night. The spirit of the Plainfield people is being brought up to a high tension under the pressure of Dr. Biederwolf and his party.

McEwan the director of the great chorus choir, went to Allentown, Monday, to have a big rally with the Allentown choir, but was suddenly taken ill and had to go to his home in Binghamton, N. Y. Dr. Biederwolf received a telegram, but it contained nothing concerning the time when he may return. The evangelist did say, however, that he would not be surprised to see "Mac" turn up sometime today.

"Sunny Jim" Heaton arrived in town yesterday. Looks as if he has the right stuff in him. Welcome to Plainfield, "Jim."

The trio, consisting of Heaton, Backemeyer and Sluyter, sang "Praise Ye" (from "Atilla), to perfection.

After the singing of one of the hymns, Mr. Heaton asked if anyone would volunteer to sing the chorus as a solo. After a few bars were played on the piano a lady (the name withheld) finished the chorus in professional style. Dr. Biederwolf, through Mr. Heaton, presented her with a hymn book. He told her she should be singing in the choir.

Mrs. Brake, who formerly held a position as voice trainer in a Pittsburgh school of oratory, gave an excellent rendition of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar."

Dr. Biederwolf commended the Public Service for the kind attention which they have been giving the Tabernacle goers.

In commenting upon and commending the Plainfield newspapers, the evangelist told the people not to borrow the paper from a neighbor, but to take advantage of the low subscription rates which are now being offered. He also told a story about a fellow who went over to his neighbor's to borrow a penny newspaper and on his way back climbed through a wire fence and tore a hole in a pair of five-dollar trousers.

Look for the little white pin on the lapel of one of your acquaintance's coats and ask him what it means. Plain white with a red cross.

"A lot of you fellows out there look as though your pockets are full of money."—Biederwolf, just before the offering.

"Ladies' hats." A word to the wise is sufficient. Hats off!

Mr. Backemeyer rendered a beautiful solo last evening. He is one of the four soloists which make up the National Male Quartette, the best in the country. They sang "Lead Kindly Light" in a most impressive manner.

Tomorrow night is "Dollar Night." Come tonight and hear about it.

The ushers broke all previous records for taking up the offering last night. Time—one minute and forty seconds. Dr. Biederwolf noticed it, too. He publicly complimented them.

Dr. Biederwolf stated last night that if the Christian people do not pray and attend the cottage prayer meetings, there will be a lot of disappointed people in Plainfield.

The party received a royal welcome in the Pond Tool Company's plant yesterday.

Dr. Biederwolf gave a quiet talk to the chorus choir about the absence of "Mac," asking them to kindly support Mr. Heaton in the absence of Mr. McEwan.

Tomorrow afternoon at the First Baptist church. A big women's meeting, directed by Mrs. Brake.

Dr. Biederwolf announced last night that he would positively begin preaching at 8:15 each evening.

There was a great demand for the red song book last night. Mr. Backemeyer said that over half a thousand people bought books last night.

A "Lost and Found Department" has been established in the book room at the main entrance of the Tabernacle.

Cottage prayer meetings are being held at 10 o'clock each morning.

Shop meeting will be held in the International Motor Works tomorrow at the lunch hour.

"Sunny Jim" Heaton says that little Jimmie, Jr.'s new baby brother is a bouncer. Says he's exercising his lungs already to be a singer.

A mammoth meeting was held in the Spicer Manufacturing Co.'s works this noon. Mrs. Brake spoke to the women of the office force, while Dr. Biederwolf and the National Male Quartet conducted a service with the men in the factory.

BIEDERWOLF CAMPAIGN

More than 2,000 of the congregation, exclusive of the orchestra and choir, were in the seats when the time limit was up and the evangelist explained to them that he wanted to exact three important promises of those who felt that they could keep them. He first explained that the holding of such a series of meetings was a serious proposition, as it meant the creation of an atmosphere that would mean Heaven or Hell for some people, and he urged every man or woman in Plainfield to do his or her best that none spend eternity in perdition. Dr. Biederwolf asked three things of the church people who had remained.

The first was a promise that they would attend every meeting for the first three weeks, unless they had an excuse that they could give to God on their knees in prayer. Almost half of those in the building made this promise.

The second was that they make it the rule of their life to call the attention of at least one unconverted man or woman to the services each day. Practically all gave him this pledge.

The third was that they promise to watch those about them in the meetings and to encourage and assist any who might evidence an inclination to accept Jesus Christ, and walk with them to the front of the Tabernacle. "Please don't let anyone come down here alone," Dr. Biederwolf urged. "I have the greatest admiration for the courage of a man who will walk here alone." He said that he was asking this of the ministers, too, and asked all who would make the promise to come to the front. Fifteen local ministers walked down the aisle and lined up in front of the platform facing the audience, and at least 500 members of the audience followed. When Dr. Biederwol allowed a little more time, about fifty more responded, and they were consecrated to the work before them with a prayer by Dr. Strong.

After they sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," they gave their names to Mr. Roberts as they filed out of the Tabernacle.

At the opening of the service, Dr. Biederwolf called attention to the fact that only ten cottage prayer meetings were held this morning. There should have been at least thirty-five or forty, he said, and he urged local people to give up their customary duties or pleasures and devote extra time to the campaign; saying they might as well tear down the Tabernacle as to hope for success without effort.

He then called to the attention of the audience again the importance of subscribing for one of the local newspapers during the campaign, to be sent to a friend in some other place. Dr. Biederwolf expressed his thanks to both papers for the manner in which they had handled the services and explained that it was not for himself that he wanted news of the revival circulated, as he had more calls last week than he could fill in a year. One reason why the special subscriptions should be given, he said, was as a mark of appreciation to the newspapers, and he added that any man with a thimbleful of brains could see that a newspaper that printed two sermons in one day lost money on the proposition. A second reason was for the sake of the friend to whom the paper would be sent; a third, that it would be for the sake of Plainfield, and the fourth, that it would be for God's sake. He told of the special offer being made by both papers for the six weeks of the services, and said that each local paper had a table in the rear where subscriptions would be received.

The scripture lesson was read by the Rev. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist church. Dr. Biederwolf's subject was "Why Have Yon Called Me," and in his sermon he arraigned the church man and woman, demanding that they live up to the true ideals of Christianity if they sought to have him accomplish good. His sermon will be found in full in another column of the paper.

It was announced that Thursday night of this week will be dollar night, when every one who attends will be asked to drop a dollar in the collection plates. Thursday night of next week will be birthday night, when all will be expected to put in a penny for every year they have lived. Old people are especially invited, said the evangelist.

Beginning Wednesday night, Dr. Biederwolf will begin to preach promptly at 8:15 each evening. Services will start at 7:30.

Saturday night there will be a big street parade after the services, to Front street, and a fifteen-minute street meeting in the heart of the business section.

DELEGATIONS WILL BE WELCOME AT TABERNACLE

Churches and organizations of various kinds in the community surrounding Plainfield will be welcomed at any of the tabernacle meetings in delegations on any week night. Some of the best seats in the tabernacle will be reserved for these incoming delegations.

It will be necessary, in order to have the required number of seats set aside, to communicate the number of persons coming and the date chosen to come, at the earliest possible time to Rev. Edwin Shaw, Plainfield, N. J.

It is requested that all incoming delegations carry a banner of some sort designating the place and organization which they represent.

PRAYER MEETINGS FOR THURSDAY MORNING

Eleven prayer meetings will be held in the homes of Plainfielders tomorrow morning. All will begin at 10 o'clock and will be over promptly at 10:30. They will be held in the following places:

Mrs. Newman W. Currie, 508 Central avenue.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, 234 Eact Ninth street.

Mrs. W. Cook, 220 Morris avenue.

Mrs. E. H. Holmes, 131 West Sixth street.

Mrs. Pangborn, 133 Berckman avenue.

Mrs. J. Hedburg, 1335 West Fourth street.

Mrs. G. Q. Dolliver, 82 Fanrhr

Mrs. G. Q. Dolliver, 82 Fairview avenue.

Mrs. R. G. Parr, 1142 Evergreen avenue.

Mrs. Clifford D. Manning, 35 Myrtle avenue.

Mrs. Chester Cox, 727 West Third street.

Mrs. S. T. Perrin, 670 West Seventh street.

COLLECTION WAS $205.45.

Last night's collection at the Tabernacle totaled $205.45. It was the first real plate collection of the meetings, as the big figure reached Sunday was increased by a number of checks at the morning service. Dr. Biederwolf was pleased when the figure became known.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH SOCIETIES GATHER

"Church Day" is Observed by Women—Attractive Programs at Both Services.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church held "Church Day" yesterday in Vincent chapel. Included in the gathering were the members of the Home and Foreign Missionary Societies and the Ladies' Aid Society. "Church Day" is only another name for the monthly business meeting of the three societies for women of the church. It has been found that this combination of the three societies in a general meeting is much more satisfactory. The plan has proven so interesting in the past eight months that it will doubtlessly be continued indefinitely. At noon the committee served a delicious luncheon to those present, the menu consisting of creamed oysters, baked potatoes, peas, rolls, chocolate pudding, whipped cream and coffee.

The work of the societies is co-operative and it is the aim of the members to incite a wider field of interest in the organization of the guild which will embrace the three societies and every woman in the church and congregation. No dues will be required of guild members or obligations of any kind other than a desire to come to the meeting on "Church Day." The Methodist women are making a name for themselves along the line of cordiality and hospitality. They have thrown open their door, especially their kitchen door, to further the women's meeting of the Biederwolf campaign. Six meetings are to be held between the hours of 11 and 2 for all women of the city, especially working women, or those unable to attend the evening meetings. The women of the sixteen churches interested will divide the work of the lunches which will be served at each meeting at Vincent chapel.

Other business which came before the meeting yesterday was the placing of memorial flowers in the church on Sunday, the arranging for Palm Sunday and Easter decorations and the "house warming" to be given Dr. and Mrs. Anderson upon their return to the newly decorated parsonage.

BOY THREW ROCK AT CAR AND HIT WOMAN

Miss Helen Jahn, of Scotch Plains, was struck on the forehead and painfully injured about 7 o'clock last night, when a boy threw a rock through the window of a Second street car on which she was riding. The car was in the West End. Its conductor said that he saw three boys, one of whom threw a rock as the car passed. They ran away and could not be found. Miss Jahn was attended by Dr. Pittis and later went to her home. The act was not reported to the police until almost noon today, but Chief Kiely detailed a man to work on the case at once.

Prices of dyestuffs are higher than a cat's back.

But in many sorts of textiles, the relative cost of the dyes to the completed product is so small, that even an enormous increase in the cost of dyes does not of itself produce any heavy advance in the final price of the product to the consumer.

Thanks to our volume of business, as well as to mill orders booked way in advance—we have been able thus far, not only to maintain our usual high quality of manufacture (all wool and absolutely fast color), but to keep prices down to their normal.

Price comparisons are never odious so long as they accrue to your benefit. Look around if you've time and see just how reasonable our prices are for this Spring.

GIVE BIEDERWOLF A CHANCE.

There are many Plainfielders who scoff at the idea of their being influenced by the sermons of the Rev. William E. Biederwolf, who is here conducting an evangelistic campaign. Will they fearfully keep away from his meetings? This will be a confession of the weakness of their own position. Every man, woman and child in the entire city should attend at least one of the meetings, even if only out of curiosity. The meetings are interesting and there is plenty of good music. No matter what your religious convictions, no matter what your ideas of conversions made under excitement and in public, give Dr. Biederwolf once chance to convince you. If you are right in the belief that he cannot preach you into a better life, nothing will be lost. If you are wrong something will be gained. Try it once, anyway.

Closing the saloons in the Borough of North Plainfield at 11 p. m., each night, the same as in Plainfield proper, will be a step toward good government that Mayor Smalley and members of the Council there have a right to take pride in. There is not, and never was, a logical excuse for the difference in hours. Plainfield tells its whisky-sellers they must close at 11 p. m., and they must stand by and watch hundreds of dollars a month that might have been theirs go across the bars of their fortunate neighbor a few blocks away. It is such discrimination that has made prohibition laws a farce in Southern States, and we wonder that Plainfield saloon men have not revolted long ago.

Plainfield should be big enough to profit from the experience of other cities.

Running wild with only a horn, the ambulance will figure in a horrible accident soon.

BARNES DENIES IT.

When William Barnes, Jr., denounces as false the report that at a recent Harvard dinner in Boston he had admitted the possibility of Roosevelt's nomination, and that in such event he would support the Colonel his denial carries conviction. It has all the earmarks of truth which the original story lacked. Whatever else may be said against Barnes, nobody has ever accused him of being a trimmer. In his statement issued yesterday he declares that "Mr. Roosevelt is an enemy of the American republic and the most pernicious influence in this country upon the public mind—not even excepting Mr. Bryan."

That sounds like Barnes; that is just exactly what Barnes would be expected to say. It is not necessary to attribute his venom to the bitterness of his recent defeat in the New York primaries, because the seeds of his hatred of Roosevelt were planted even before the latter was Governor of New York, and its roots have ever deepened with time. Not a little of Roosevelt's strength with the common people is due to the fact that he has earned the undying animosity of Barnes and others of his ilk. Like President Cleveland, he is loved for the enemies he has made. For Barnes to have admitted the truth of the Boston story would have done Roosevelt appreciable harm. On the contrary, his denial is an asset for the Colonel.—Newark Evening News.

NAMES RICHARD P. HUGHES NEW HEAD OF STATE PRISON

Trenton, April 12.—Richard P. Hughes, of Florence, was appointed by Governor Fielder yesterday to succeed the late Thomas B. Madden as head keeper of the State prison. He will serve until the next session of the Legislature, when an appointment will be made for the full term of five years.

Mr. Hughes was born in Florence in 1876. He has been a member of the State Democratic Committee for the last five years. He also served as a member of the Burlington County Tax Board. He was a member of the district Board of Education for fourteen years. He was one of the organizers of the First National Bank of Florence, of which he is a director. He has three children.

The salary of the head keeper is $3,500 and maintenance, including a residence on grounds belonging to the state opposite the main entrance of the prison.

Plainfield Theatre.

The return of the established form of vaudeville and pictures to the Plainfield Theatre yesterday after a lapse of several days because of other attractions, met with a hearty response on the part of patrons. Large audiences were in evidence afternoon and night, and the excellent bill presented gave satisfaction to everyone. Big hits were made by the miniature musical comedy, "The Girls from the Movies," with its company of ten and special scenery; the Lee kids, two clever children; ONeil and Dixon, who are billed as "The Two Nuts," who put over a steady flow of nonsense; Hathaway and Company, in the dramatic playlet, "The Child, the Book and the Telephone"; "The Great Barnardi," a clever impersonator who mystifies the spectators as to whether he should be called a "Mr." or "Miss," as he sings in the female tone; and Robertson and Tribbel, clever colored comedians. Every number was encored heartily, in some instances the performers having to take several curtain calls.

The picture portion of the program today will include several comedies and dramas, one and two reels that have just been released. Tomorrow, the seventh episode of "The Iron Claw" will be the big film feature, and those who are following "The Strange Case of Mary Page" will see more of the trial revealed in the eighth episode, Friday.

An entire new change of vaudeville—six acts in all—will be on the boards tomorrow.

Augmented by a cast of forty players, each in their particular line a star, Salem Tutt Whitney, a comedian who has made his worth felt in every theatre in which he has appeared, will be the bright conspicuous attraction at the Plainfield Theatre on Monday, matinee and night, April 17. Mr. Whitney will offer his latest and what is considered his best vehicle, George Washington Bullion Abroad. The popular colored dispenser of mirth will be supported as formerly by the Smart Set Company, an incomparable aggregation of negro entertainers who have already earned an enviable reputation throughout the country. The piece affords opportunities for endless fund and is a concoction of hilarity, song, melody and vaudeville specialties in which numerous features, surprises and novelties are introduced in rapid succession. A scenic investiture that can bear comparison with any similar offering has been provided. The plot, what little there is, is plausible and the situations and actions irresisitble and spirited. It is just the kind of a show one would expect from a troupe of this kind, in which the artists are always on the qui vive to entertain the public in a manner both inimitable and up-to-date. In the cast are J. Homer Tutt and Blanche Thompson, a prima donna with a remarkable voice.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The primary election for the selection of delegates to the Democratic and Republican national conventions will be held two weeks from yesterday. The preparation of the ballots has already been started in this city, and the list of polling places has been made up. The polls will open at 1 o'cock on Tuesday, April 25, and will be open until 9 o'clock. There will be no registry day, and anyone who voted at the last general election will be eligible to vote in the primaries unless he has moved into a new district in the meantime. Those who are entitled to vote, but only after filing an affidavit with the city clerk, are as follows:

Those who moved into a new district; those who have attained the age of 21 since last election; those who have become naturalized since the last election; those who failed to vote at the last election, and those who claim citizenship through the naturalization of either parent since the last election.

Affidavits in these cases take the place of registry, and upon being filed in the city clerk's office, the name of the voter will be added to the proper district poll book.

The regular Republican support in Bayonne is to be thrown to State Senator Walter Edge for Governor and former Governor E. C. Stokes for United States Senator, according to reports. The Edge and Stokes sentiment will be crystallized at a dinner to be given by the Republican city committee on May 13. Both candidates are expected to attend. While the machine support will go to Edge and Stokes, there is some sentiment among the rank and file for Colgate for Governor.

According to the State organizer, Matthew J. Dukiet, the Polish Republicans in the State are for Colgate for Governor and Stokes for United States Senator.

PLAN BABY WELFARE EXHIBIT IN WEST END

Morris Abrams has kindly loaned his store at 521 West Third street, to the Baby Welfare Committee for the exhibit which is to open Saturday afternoon. One feature of the exhibit will be a baby contest. A prize will be given to the babies who pass the best health examination. The entries for this contest can be made Tuesday and Thursday of next week from 4 to 5 in the afternoon, and the prizes to the winners will be given out on the following Saturday.

Every baby who enters will receive an American flag, and the ones who win will receive prizes in money. There will be a first, second and third prize. The test that will be made will be weighing, and measuring the babies to ascertain the height, size of head, chest and abdomen, and comparing these measurements with those of the table published by the Children's Health Conference at the exhibit in the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Babies who enter must be under 22 months of age.

The exhibition will be open to the public every afternoon and evening, with the exception of Sunday. The hours will be from 3 to 5:30 in the afternoon and from 7:30 to 9 in the evening. The Monday Afternoon Civic Section has charge of the general arrangements for the exhibit.

Farmers Combine to Get Higher Prices.

Farm and Fireside tells us that a number of Michigan farmers decided to co-operate in building a warehouse whereby they could market their produce in sufficient quantity to pay for shipping and get better prices than customary. The result was 400 per cent profit on the investment. Here is an account of this experiment as told by one of the farmer warehouse men:

"We organized by selecting a president, secretary, treasurer and five directors. Having incorporated the company under the laws of the State of Michigan, we issued stock at $10 a share, with a limit of five shares to any one member, and built a warehouse 30x60 feet, two stories high, with 11-foot basement. The building has a capacity of 18,000 bushels of potatoes, exclusive of the upper story.

"We hired a manager by the year to run the house, and the business has already become so large that he has nearly all that he can do alone. I bought two shares, which cost me $20. I sold 700 bushels of potatoes at 10 cents a bushel more than I would have received had I marketed them in the usual manner, also ten bushels of red kidney beans at 50 cents a bushel above the usual market price. So my warehouse stock brought me a profit of $75. I purchased flour at a saving of one-half cent a pound, shelled and cracked corn at a saving of 25 cents a 100 pounds, and the same could be said of middlings, oil meal and cottonseed meal, should I desire to purchase any of those articles.

"The above is just a statement for last year only.

"This is the first time in my life that I am aware that any of my money has given me 400 per cent. profit in one season."

- Proctor's Theatre -

AT PROCTOR'S TONIGHT.

If one were to canvass any city in the United States to find who the most popular screen actress is, the majority of film fans would readily assert that they admire Theda Bara above everyone else. Miss Bara is now recognized as the world's greatest emotional star, and also the most popular of photoplay actresses. She is appearing at Proctor's today only, in her latest and one of her greatest film successes, "Gold and the Woman." It is unnecessary to delve into the merits of the production, for it is an established precedent that a William Fox feature is perfection itself, and with the additional merit of having Theda Bara in the leading role, the result is a supreme film entertainment, and Proctor's will no doubt accommodate one of the largest crowds in its career as a popular palace of amusement. In addition today, beside other features, the seventh episode of "The Iron Claw," with Pearl White, in the leading part is shown. Thursday a big double-feature program greets the patrons of Proctor's. Bessie Barriscale, one of Triangle's most famous stars, and as versatile and charming an actress as there is on the screen today, is seen in a play combining romance with terrific battle scenes and thrilling incidents entitled "Bullets and Brown Eyes." Hobart Bosworth, the talented enacter of powerful emotional roles, is seen in "The Target," a story with a punch in every foot of film, and Fred Mace is also presented in an uproarious Keystone comedy, "The Village Vampire." Friday, Laura Hope Crews, appears in the Paramount picture, "Blackbirds," and the second episode of "The Social Pirates," is also shown. Saturday will be a gala day for the children, for Little Em Goman, one of the most talented of child actresses, will appear in person, in addition to being featured on the screen in "The Little Orphan." Charile Chaplin will also appear on Saturday in "Caught in the Cabaret," and Harry Watson will disport himself to the delight of his many admirers in "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer."

The midweek prayer meetings of the Presbyterian church, at Pluckemin, which have been held during the winter at the homes of the different members, will be in the chapel hereafter.

The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of the Reformed church here will be entertained the afternoon of April 25 by Mrs. James L. Stillwell, at Burnt Mills.

Miss Edna Voorhees, of New Brunswick, was the recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Doren, near Readington.

George Lane has been engaged to manage the farm of S. S. Brown at South Branch.

Mrs. Robert Heeley, of Bedminster, left today to spend a week in New York.

There were no services Sunday in the Lamington Presbyterian church, owing to the pastor, Rev. Henry C. Sperbeck, being in Somerville with his son, Warren Sperbeck, who was taken there for treatment.

Mrs. Harry McMurtry and daughter, Miss Catherine McMurtry, of Pluckemin, are home from a visit to Newark and New York.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stern have moved from Neshanic Station to Hopewell.

"LOVE'S LOCKSMITH."

The operetta, "Love's Locksmith," the music of which was written by Albert Mildenberg and the words by Anelia Huber, will be presented in Bethel chapel on Thursday night, at 8:30 o'clock, for the benefit of the chapel. The scene of the opera is laid in France and depicts music of the Napoleonic period. Miss Rebecca DeGlaphenield Norcom will sing the soprano solos.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

An Ugly Duckling Makes Some New Friends.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"AN ugly duckling lay in a swamp hours after a hunting party had gone home. When all was quiet again he ran across fields and meadows just as fast as he could. He ran and ran, but the wind blew so hard that he hardly made any headway. Toward night he reached a poor little cottage. It was such a miserable hut that it could not even make up its mind to fall over. So it just stayed standing. The wind whistled so hard around the duckling that he had to sit on his tail to resist it. It blew harder and harder. Then he saw that the door of the hut had fallen off one hinge and hung so crookedly that he could creep in through the crack. He found that an old woman lived in the hut with her cat and her hen.

"The cat, which she called Sonnie, could arch his back and pur and give off electric sparks—that is, if you rubbed his back the wrong way. The hen had quite tiny short legs, so she was called Chuckie Low Legs. She laid good eggs, and the old woman was as fond of her as if she had been her own child.

"In the morning they discovered the duckling, so the cat began to purr and the hen to cluck. 'What on earth is that?' cried the old woman. She could not see very well and thought the stranger was a fat duck that had escaped from some duck yard. 'What luck! Now I shall have duck's eggs—if only it is not a drake! We must find out about that!'

"So she kept the duckling on trial three weeks, but no eggs came. The cat was the master of the house and the hen the mistress. They always spoke of 'we and the world,' for they thought that they were half the world and by far the best half. The duckling once said that there might be two opinions about that, but the cat would not listen to him.

"'Can you lay eggs?' he asked scornfully.

"'No,' confessed the duckling.

"'Will you have the goodness to hold your tongue, then?' he said. Then he added, 'Can you arch your back, purr or give off sparks?'

"'No,' said the duckling.

"'Then you had better keep your opinions to yourself,' replied the cat.

"So the duckling sat in one corner nursing his ill humor. Then he began to think of the fresh air and the sunshine. A great longing seized him to float on water, and at last he could not help telling the hen about it.

"'What on earth is the matter with you?' she cried. 'You have nothing to do! That's why you get these freaks in your head! Lay some eggs or take to purring! Then you'll get over it!'"

Household Hints

USE WORN BLANKETS

As the worn part of a cotton blanket is in the center, tear the blanket down the middle and stitch selvage together. Put a thick layer of cotton between, knot firmly and very closely and bind edge. This makes a very warm and durable pad to use between mattress and sheet.

"SUNSHINE BASKET"

Secure a large, oblong basket with a handle and line it to resemble a baby basinette, with white crepe paper inside and out, leaving the paper in a flounce outside, then wind the handle in paper. From friends or relatives obtain handkerchiefs, money or anything to gladden a shut in. A fine idea is to tie a new paper dollar in a walnut shell. Wrap everything in white paper and tie with ribbons. Attach to the ribbons cards telling when each package is to be opened. It is fine to have a different hour each day. The donor's name is in each package.

This certainly affords great pleasure to an invalid.

TO CARRY BOTTLES

When traveling it is often necessary to carry bottles of medicine. Press the cork in securely and dip each bottle in melted paraffin half way down the neck, then wrap each bottle in tissue paper. Oils and all medicines may be packed safely.

This is also an excellent plan for carrying bottles of milk to feed a baby.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

On Wash Day, if the weather is bad, rinse, blue and starch your clothes as usual, fold them up as small as possible and lay them where they won't get rusty. When the weather comes off nice, hang them up to dry. This also bleaches the clothes, and you can keep them this way for three or four days if the weather is cool.

Can Sourkraut about four weeks after being made, to keep the kraut sweet and also to have it ready for use at any time, even in summer. We use sourkraut after it has been canned two years and find it as good as when first canned. The kraut must be canned before it is allowed to get very sour. Celery cooked with sourkraut is especially delicious.

Onion and Tomato Souffle—One pint cooked tomatoes and one pint cooked onions form basis of this dish. Make a drawn butter with one tablespoon butter and one tablespoon flour. When mixed hot in the skillet, add one cup tomato liquid. When this boils up smooth and creamy pour it over tomatoes and onions, which have been put in alternate layers in a pudding pan. Cover top richly with browned bread crumbs and bake ten or fifteen minutes. Cabbage and onions can be prepared the same way, or cabbage, onions and tomatoes may be used together.

CRACKER HELPS IN ENTERTAINING.

Crackers lend valuable help when guests arrive unexpectedly, and a few boxes of your favorite varieties, sweet and otherwise, should be kept in reserve.

If a hot dish is wanted, butter unsweetened crackers, put in layers in deep baking dish with grated cheese between, seasoning each layer with a very little salt and a sprinkle of cayenne; cover with boiling milk and bake until top is brown. The crackers swell to twice original size and the cheese melts. An egg may be beaten up with cold milk and used instead of the hot milk. This will form a delicate custard.

To use as sandwiches, use soda or any unsweetened crackers. For filling, free sardines from skin and bone, add equal quantity from skin and bone, add equal quantity of hard-boiled egg, rub to a paste and season with cayenne and lemon juice. Salmon may be prepared in similar manner. Neufchatel or cream cheese may be mixed to a paste with chopped olives go well with cheese; also sweet red pepper. Any of the potted meats make a good filling.

For sweets, use graham or any of the slightly sweetened crackers. These may be put together after being slightly buttered, with a filling of chopped nuts and raisins; or chopped dates and preserved ginger; shredded cocoanut mixed with powdered sugar and a little sweet cream.

Spread unsalted crackers with marshmallows cut in pieces. Sprinkle with nuts and candied fruit finely chopped. Cover with another cracker and set in oven a few minutes to melt marshmallows. Or, use the marshmallow cream, which can be had at grocers.

South Plainfield.

The cotton merchants of New York who owned the carload of cotton which was partly destroyed by fire last week, are having the cotton repicked and shipped to their warehouse in New York.

The Spicer Manufacturing Co. has purchased another automobile truck for the purpose of carrying their Plainfield men to and from work. This makes three new trucks which have been added to their bus force within the last month.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Shrope have been entertaining their daughter, Miss Evelyn Shrope, of Passaic, for a few days.

Former Freeholder George Bunting has returned to his home in New Market after being the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Louis D. Randolph, of this place.

Daniel Sofield, formerly employed as a brakeman for the Lehigh Valley Railroad, has resigned his position, having accepted a position as a drop forger's helper with the Spicer Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Randolph have returned home from a visit with Mrs. Randolph's aunt, Mrs. J. Bennett, of Metuchen.

William Bohl, of Newark, has been spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Albert Randolph.

Mrs. Daniel Delaney and daughters, Hilda and Lottie, have returned home, after spending a few days with Mrs. Delaney's mother in Newark.

Miss Myrtle Bailey has resumed her studies at the Plainfield Business College, after being confined at the home of her parents with illness, for the past two months.

Miss Lillian Hogan, a trained nurse, has gone to Three Bridges, where she is in charge of a case.

Mrs. William Everhardt and son John are spending a few days with Mrs. Everhardt's parents in Reading, Pa.

Mrs. John Connely, of Carteret, and Mrs. F. Callahan, of Plainfield, have returned from a visit with Mrs. J. Connely's uncle, James Leahy, of this place.

Mrs. Nathan Snyder was the guest of relatives in Easton, Pa., yesterday.

Mrs. Frank Miller, formerly of this place, but now of North Plainfield, has been visiting friends here.

Mrs. James Wilson and sister, Mrs. Hugh McCaffrey, have returned from a visit with friends in Plainfield.

FINAL REHEARSAL OF LENTEN CANTATA "BETHANY"

The final rehearsal of the Lenten cantata, "Bethany," was held in St. Joseph's church last night, and the singing of this beautiful music, so appropriate to the Lenten season, dealing, as it does, with the last days of Christ on earth, promises to be a musical treat tonight, when it is presented to the public. No admission will be charged, but a collection will be taken up to defray the expenses.

The soloists will be Miss Irma Good, Mrs. F. Ward, R. H. Randall and A. B. Dunham. Mrs. Harry G. DeMeza will be at the piano and Stephen Haff at the organ. J. E. Bailey will direct the cantata.

YOUNG PATRIOT WRITES POEM

Battleship Contributor Puts His Endorsement of Plan Into Verse Form.

DIMES COMING IN FAST

Daily Press Fund Has Passed the $160 Mark—Three New Names Added This Morning—Buttons May Be Had at This Office.

One little friend of Marjorie Sterrett this morning submitted a patriotic poem to the Daily Press, together with his ten-cent contribution to the ship fund. Marvin A. Green, of 609 West Seventh street, is the poet and the piece of poetry would be a credit to one many years older than he claims to be. He is twelve, and the letter accompanying his dime indicates that he is a real patriot. He says in his letter:

"Enclosed find ten cents for the Marjorie Sterrett battleship fund. Also find an original poem which I wrote recently. I have read a great deal about the fund and think it a very fine thing."

The poem follows:

The battleship America
Will proudly sail the seas;
Of our gigantic navy,
The proudest of all these.

For was not this same battleship
Built by the children's dimes,
To help in our preparedness
Of these preparing times?

'Twas little Marjorie Sterrett
Who sent the letter, famed,
And in the letter was the plan
That little Marjorie named.

And now with this preparedness,
Which is growing more and more,
We hope our dear United States
Will be spared the blight of war.

Albert Dolliver and Sarah Newmiller also added their names to the list today, Miss Newmiller sending the following letter with her dime:

"Enclosed you will find ten cents towards the Marjorie Sterrett battleship fund. It is a good plan to be prepared."

BRAKEMAN FALLS UNDER CARS BUT IS NOT HURT

Lawrence P. Boyle, a brakeman on the P. & R. railroad, fell between the cars of his train at Bound Brook shortly before 9 o'clock last night. He was picked up and brought to Plainfield, where Dr. Pittis attended him. The man was found to be only slightly bruised and he continued his run to Jersey City.

MOTORCYCLE HIT HIM AND THEN RAN AWAY

Dominick Colucci, of 751 Midway avenue, reported to the police this morning that he was struck by a motorcycle at 5:50 last night while riding his bicycle on Watchung avenue, near the bridge. The man on the motorcycle did not stop, he said, but he gave the license number as New Jersey 6818. His wheel was broken but he was not injured.

COLORED G. O. P. ENDORSE COLGATE AND MURPHY

Colored citizens of Scotch Plains met at the latter place last night and organized a Booker T. Washington Republican Club, after which Col. Austen Colgate was endorsed for the Gubernatorial nomination and Franklin Murphy was endorsed for United States Senator. Both prospective candidates were praised and commended for their service and qualifications.

These officers were elected: President, Henry Staats; vice president, William Phillips; secretary, Edward Byers; assistant secretary, Joseph Polk; sergeant-at-arms, William Irby. The organization was effected by C. H. Lynch, of Elizabeth.

ASSAULTED RABBI, IS CHARGE AGAINST BOYS

Charging that they assaulted Rabbi Cantor, of the Jewish congregation on West Third street, four boys were arrested yesterday on charges of disorderly conduct. They were Lawrence Green, Peter Kline, Frank Walsh and Jake Valinsky. Rabbi Cantor made a complaint to the chief yesterday, saying that as he was passing the boys Monday afternoon they threw something at him. He jumped out of the buggy in which he was riding and ran toward them, whereupon one of them, said to be Green, hit him with his fist. They were arraigned in police court this morning, but the Rabbi did not show up and Judge DeMeza remanded them back for trial tomorrow.

STOLE BABY'S TRICYCLE.

Harry Hann, of 319 West Front street, reported to the police this morning that someone stole his baby's tricycle from his front yard some time yesterday.

The Women's Missionary Society of Hope chapel will postpone their meeting, which was scheduled for tonight, until some time in May.

G. A. TRIMBLE WANTS TO GO TO CONGRESS

Announces His Candidacy and Issues a Statement Regarding His Principles.

Charles A. Trimble, of Elizabeth, who recently announced his candidacy for the Congressional nomination on the Republican ticket, issued a statement today in which he declares at some length the principles upon which he will wage his campaign.

Charles A. Trimble.

Among other things he declares himself to be in favor of preparedness, in peace, but not at the sacrifice of national honor or security; in protection, in a merchant marine, the extension of the rural free delivery, in an old age pension, in the immediate repeal of the vicious and objectionable stamp, or war tax and an immediate revision of the tariff, and finally insists that every material right of an American citizen must remain inviolate.

RECREATION NOTES

Swimming classes will be resumed tonight in the High School pool. The women will have the use of the pool from 7:30 until 8:30. The men will meet in the gymnasium for gymnastics under the direction of Mr. Keene from 7:30 until 8:45, when they will have the use of the pool.

Miss Scarborough's class will meet in the Washington School tomorrow night. The game room will be open and the social club will meet in the auditorium.

The Glee Club will hold an important rehearsal tomorrow night.

PERSONAL.

George Griffin, of West Seventh street, has been confined to his home for the past week suffering from an infection of the foot, caused by stepping on a nail.

Fred Harding, of Spooner avenue, has returned home after a brief visit in Philadelphia with William Todd, formerly of this city.

Mrs. W. W. Warnock, of Craig place, who suffered a paralytic stroke a week ago, continues to show improvement daily.

Mrs. Frederica Gaub, of Duer street, who underwent an operation in Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday afternoon, was reported today as resting comfortably.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Long, of West Third street, are spending two weeks with relatives in Philadelphia.

KIRK—HYLKEMA.

Miss Margaret Kirk, of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kirk, of Ireland, was married in Grace Episcopal church, yesterday afternoon, to Joseph P. Hylkema, of 209 West Second street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Bailey, assistant rector of the church, in the presence of only the bridal party. A reception was afterward tendered the couple at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin May, of Woodbine avenue, where supper was served to a gathering of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Hylkema will make their home in North Plainfield.

WEDDED AT PARSONAGE.

Charles Walter Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis, of Clinton avenue, and Miss Viola Estelle Stutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Stutz, also of Clinton avenue, were married this morning at the parsonage of the Monroe Avenue Methodist church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, with Mrs. Lewis, mother of the bridegroom, as the only attendant. Following a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will make their home in the West End.

CAUGHT ON BLIND BAGGAGE.

Harry Rorh and Mathew Martin were arrested last night on a charge of trespassing, having been caught on the blind baggage of a passenger train while passing the local depot. They will be tried in court tomorrow morning.

ATHENIANS ISSUE CLAIM.

The Athenian basketball team, which recently sent out an open challenge to any team disputing its claim to the city basketball championship, today formally claimed the title. The colored lads' defi went unanswered.

The story depicted concerns the daughter of a Mandarin who eloped with her father's secretary. The father pursued them, and would have killed them had not the gods changed the two into a pair of turtle doves. At the time of the elopement the willow was shedding its leaves, hence the name of the design.

159 CASES UNDER CARE DURING MARCH

Charity Organization Society Reports Activities for the Past Year.

The report of the Charity Organization Society for March shows 159 cases under care, a few more than there were in February, when there were 151. Usually the more temperate weather of March has its effect in lessening the number of those who need help. When we were moaning over the endless winter this year, perhaps we did not think what it meant to the incapacitated, the out-of-work, and in short all those whom the C. O. S. helps. But the report shows how bad weather really accentuates the hardships of the poor.

There are a good many times when financial aid is not necessary. Fifty-two cases were treated satisfactorily without it this month.

The C. O. S. is in a position to get and give accurate information about people to other agencies. In March there were 17 such cases investigated. Thus duplication of effort was prevented. Such co-operation with out-of-town and local organizations for social betterment is very important.

Of the 107 families who received financial aid during the month there were only eight for whom some definite plan of relief was made. Thus forethought and care, by the C. O. S., have placed 99 families in a position to go on, and perhaps eventually to overcome the inability to care for themselves entirely. The following table shows the reasons why these 99 families needed aid, and the amounts given:

Number.	Status of male head of family.	Amount.
17	Dead	$64.43
29	Incapacitated	111.28
36	Non-supporting	174.33
15	Insufficient income	10.70
2	Out of work	10.90

The eight families who received temporary relief need it for the same four reasons given in the table.

Now if we examine the causes, we see that the biggest problem is that of the man who will not support his family. This is the largest group, and the amount spent is within a dollar as much as that spent on the families where the need comes because of the death of the male head or because he has become incapacitated.

In Plainfield when a man refuses to support his family he is sent to jail. This is not uncomfortable for him, and the disgrace is lightly borne by anyone who cares so little for the responsibilities of life. When he is so punished his family is in as great need of help as it was before. Many communities have a more economic and practical way of dealing with this form of delinquency, in the shape of workhouse, or statutes which compel a man to spend his nights in jail, and work at some job during the day. In any case his pay is taken charge of by the proper authorities, and goes in part or in whole to the support of his family. Some solution of this problem should be made for the ultimate benefit of this community. The question of non-support has been scientifically met throughout the country, including many places in New Jersey. The C. O. S. can give relief to the families of vagabond husband and fathers, but the police power of a State, county or community must be relied upon to compel the delinquent work and share his earnings with his family.

At Dayton, Ohio, the inmates of the workhouse leave the prison every morning to go to their usual work, returning to spend the night in cells. On pay days the keeper sees to it that the prisoner's earnings go to their dependents, their creditors, and any surplus goes into the savings bank or a building and loan association. A recent report tells of an inmate, convicted of non-support, whose family was well provided for, the grocer, the butcher and the coalman all paid up, and there were $100 in the savings bank to the prisoner's credit when he had yet some weeks to serve.

Somerville

The Monday Evening Club was entertained Monday evening by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Cornelison, in Summit street.

The monthly meeting of the Past Councilors' Association, Jr. O. U. A. M., of Somerset county, was held last night in Oakland Council chambers at Readington.

Dr. Louis T. Reid returned Saturday from a trip to Savannah.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Southwicke have returned from New York, where they spent four months, and opened their home in West End avenue.

Paul C. Beardslee and family have moved to one of the houses owned by J. Culver Voorhees in East Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blum have been spending a month in New York.

Mrs. Anton Schieferstein and daughter, Ina, were guests for a week of Mr. and Mrs. John Coles, in Rahway, returning Saturday.

Mrs. Andrew Johnson and Miss Emma Vanderveer, of Newark, are guests of their brother, George Vanderveer, north of Somerville.

The Board of Education in Raritan has organized with Isaac D. Dalley, president, and Arthur C. Swinton, vice president.

Mrs. Stanley Cass returned Friday from Astoria, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. George Skillman have returned to their home in Belle Mead after spending the winter in Trenton.

Miss Kitty Samson, who has been spending the winter at Atlantic City, has returned to her home at Belle Mead.

Westfield.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church will be held this afternoon at the home of Miss Ella Ferris in Prospect street.

The park lake is to be cleaned and put in condition for the summer by the Park Board, with many additions to the landscape scheme.

The Westfield Democrats will hold their first meeting of the year next week to get ready for the campaign.

REV. DR. BUCKLEY RETIRES AFTER FIFTY-SEVEN YEARS

Stamford, Conn., April 12.—At the close of the annual session of the New York East Methodist Conference the Rev. Dr. James M. Buckley on his own request was retired. Dr. Buckley until four years ago was editor of the New York Methodist Christian Advocate, which position he held for more than thirty years. He is known as the "Maker of Methodist Bishops." He is eighty years old and has been a clergyman fifty-seven years.

Bishop Luther B. Wilson, the presiding officer; the Rev. Dr. David G. Downey, Book Editor of the Methodist church, and others paid high tributes to the work of Dr. Buckley.

The Conference, following the lead of the New York and Newark conferences, adopted a unanimous resolution asking the committee on the Episcopate of the quadrennial General Methodist Conference, which meets at Saratoga Springs next month, to return Bishop Wilson to the metropolitan district for the next four years.

HOW JIM SCOTT GOT BASEBALL START

Jim Scott.

Jim Scott, big league star, got his start in this way: In 1907 Oskaloosa in the Iowa State league had eleven pitchers and no catcher. The manager wired to Chicago for a catcher and through mistake Scott was sent out. He was determined to pitch in the first game after his arrival, and did so well that he was signed to a contract before the end

JOHN OVERTON HAS GOOD CHANCE TO LOWER TABER'S WONDERFUL FIGURES FOR THE MILE RUN THIS SUMMER

When Norman Taber ran the mile in 4:12 2-5 last July, athletic followers generaly believed that the former Oxford University student had set up a mark that would defy the efforts of years and years of competition, and yet just a little over nine months after Taber did that wonderful eight-furlong performance in the Harvard Stadium we find that there's another boy coming along who appears to have a chance to tumble Taber's mark. Johnny Overton, of Yale, is the lad whose shadow falls athwart the glory of Taber.

Those who have watched Overton's work this winter cannot help but believe that he is one of the greatest milers developed in this country. The keen gray eye of Ernie Hjertberg, the Swedish coach, who visited this country this winter, spotted Overton's rush to the front long before it had assumed dangerous proportions. Ernie whispered: "There is the greatest runner in America." The old war horse knows Yankee runners from every angle, and from our point of view that remark he made in praising the Yale athlete was one of the most flattering boosts a runner ever received.

Overton's race in the 1,000-yard indoor national championship proved well that the Yale flier has it in him to run a terrific mile. In that race Johnny, running supposedly way under his distance, tied the world's indoor record, and did it under wraps. He went out and made his own running, and came bowling up to the tape with plenty of reserve. If Johnny can perform thusly at the "1,000," what will he do when he settles down to the longer distance in the spring?

It is well known that Billy Queal, who is watching Overton's condition, has not the slightest fear that Johnny will "crack" before the intercollegiate games. As yet Overton has done no hard training at all. His work has been mostly speed running, and the races he has engaged in have gone the rest.

Granted, then, that Overton will be as fit as a fiddle at the "intercollegiate," it must be admitted that he holds either of the distance at his mercy. There's not a miler in the colleges who will class with him. He'll beat them all a block. D. Potter, of Cornell, may give Overton a battle in the two-mile race, but it's hard to picture even that excellent youngster beating Overton.

It's altogether unlikely that the Yale coaches will be foolish enough to ask Overton to start in both races. Tel Berna, of Cornell, tried that to his sorrow in 1912. Moakley sent Berna into the two races in hopes of garnering a few more points for Ithaca, but the attempt resulted in a dismal failure. Tel was able to place in the mile, but the effort "cooked" him, and he was run off his feet in the longer event later in the afternoon.

The sensible thing will appear to be to send Overton after the mile race—and the world's record. He will never get another chance like this one. The race will be run on the Harvard Stadium track, on which every world's record at the mile since Tommy Connem's was made. Experts tell us that there is no advantage in running on the Harvard track, but a close perusal of athletic records reveals the fact that every one of our fast milers has done seconds faster on the Cambridge track than on any other.

Billy Queal believes that Overton will run much faster when warm weather comes than at present. The Yale flier is a Southerner, and he has always shown a preference for hot weather running. Queal is a quiet fellow and he won't say a word about believing that Overton can beat Taber's mark, but it's dollars to doughnuts that Billy is pointing the wonderful Eli racer in that direction.

GOLFER CARTER RETURNS.

Philip Van Gelder Carter, junior metropolitan champion, arrived in New York yesterday, bringing with him his new title of North and South amateur champion. Carter has had a remarkably successful season in the South this year, having won five consecutive tournaments at Pinehurst. He will rest for awhile, and then shoulder his bag again for the Lakewood tournament at the end of this month.

DUNDEE LICKS BLOOM.

Johnny Dundee, the Italian aspirant for Freddie Welsh's lightweight championship title, again demonstrated last night that he is the master of Phil Bloom, the Brooklyn lightweight, when he outpointed the latter in the feature ten-round bout at the Broadway Sporting Club of Brooklyn. The contest was one of the fastest and most interesting witnessed in the Brooklyn club's ring in recent weeks.

TO PLAY EUCHRE FOR CUP.

Following the conclusion of the tri-church euchre tournament between the teams of St. Mary's, St. Joseph's and St John's, in St. Joseph's Hall tomorrow night, the three teams will play an extra match for a silver trophy. The tourney, which ends tomorrow night, has been won by the St. Joseph's players, who won both the previous rounds.

FLETCHER WORKS AN OLD GAG ON MATTY.

Arthur Fletcher is the wit of the Giants. He has a quick, original answer for about every question that is put to him. One morning a few weeks ago he was walking up from the ball park along the tracks of the I. G. and N. railroad at Marlin Springs, and Matty said to him:

"Say, Fletch, who is the president of the I. G. and N. railroad?"

"I don't know," said Fletcher, "but I'll find him pretty soon."

"Find him?" said Matty. "How can you when you don't know him?"

"Well," said Fletcher, "I'm on his tracks now."

Matty was revived with difficulty.

VET CATCHER FEARS ONLY SLOW RUNNERS

Sullivan Expects Stars to Steal, But Others Take Him by Surprise.

Billy Sullivan, the Detroit Tiger battery coach, has some original theories regarding the thwarting of base thieves' evil designs.

Few catchers were more successful than he when he was at the height of his career, and even last season, after nineteen years of service in the professional game, he didn't allow the path burners of the American Association to take any liberties with him.

Anything that he has to say on the subject of making the speed demons behave, therefore, is of particular value to young backstops who are just breaking in.

One of Sully's most interesting ideas is that the really dangerous base runners are not the men who at present have reputations as stealers, but are those who try to burglarize seldom. This sounds paradoxical, but when Billy gets through explaining it you can see there is something in it worth considering.

"In all my career in the American League," says Sullivan. "I did not fear the star base runners. To me they were the least troublesome of all because I knew that they were going to try to go down on the first or second ball at the time, and I could govern myself accordingly. If you know when a man is going to try to steal and the pitcher will not give him a flying start, it is usually comparatively easy to throw him out.

"Clyde Milan hardly ever stole a base on me, and some of the other fliers weren't much better. Just as soon as one of them got on I would say to myself, "That guy is going to steal right away," and when he did make a break I was ready for him.

"This theory, of course, applies only when the pitcher will hold the men on. If any of the fast fellows who know how to slide can outguess the twirler and get the jump on you it's all off. Many and many a time runners have stolen bases on me standing up when I wasn't in any way to blame. Often I wouldn't even try to throw, because it was a waste of effort when the man on the mound wasn't attending to his part of the business. I don't care how wonderful a catcher's arm may be nor how fast he gets the ball away, he has to have the co-operation from his battery partner or he is going to look bad in the eyes of the fans, who blame everything on the man behind the bat and nothing on the one who often is directly responsible.

"The men I really fear when they get on are those who seldom try to steal. You don't know how to figure those fellows at all, and they are apt to get the start on you and slow up. Some of the slowest men in the world have stolen when I was catching, because they happened to take me by surprise. You never would think of calling for a pitch on such heavy-footed fellows, of course, and the tendency is not to pay much attention to them until it is too late.

"I have heard a lot about the wonderful base running of this young Maisel, but I will bet that if the catcher will always be looking for him to start on the first or second ball they will throw him out so often it will astonish him."

CONNIE MACK HAS HOPELESS TASK

Athletics Look to Finish No Better Than Eighth.

PIRATES PICKED FOR CELLAR

General Opinion Among Experts Is That Corsairs Will Keep Philadelphia Boys Company In Misery—McInnis and Strunk Only Athletic Stars.

Not very long ago a Philadelphia humorist penned one of the most clever lines he has written. He wrote, "On March 15 the Athletic team will leave Gloucester, Mass., for its spring training."

Unless you know that Gloucester has the privilege of housing Stuffy McInnis, first baseman extraordinary of the Philadelphia Americans, the humor of this clever bit is lost. Stuffy is most of the Athletic team.

Like a Hope diamond among a lot of glass trinkets, Stuffy stands out among the remains of the once famous Athletics. However, it will take more than Jack McInnis to keep Connie Mack from starving in the cellar during the coming season, and nearly every baseball expert awards Philadelphia last place in the American league, with no close competitors.

In the National league it is predicted that Barney Dreyfuss and Jimmy Callahan, owner and manager respectively of the Pirates, will be housed in the last trench in the National league by October. If any one cares to picture Barney having a good time just think of him in last place!

McInnis is not quite the Athletic team, as the club still retains two other of its brilliant lights of former years, Catcher Wally Schang and Center Fielder Amos Strunk. Schang, of course, is one of the game's leading catchers, ranking with Schalk and Snyder, while Strunk may be classed with the top notch outfielders.

The lineup of Mack's team is likely to be changed considerably during the season, as the Athletic boss has several star collegians who will report to him in June.

At present it looks as though the club will for the early part of the season start with Oldring, Strunk and Walsh in the outfield and an infield comprised of McInnis, first base; Lajoie, second base; Crane, shortstop, and Pick, third base. Crane was farmed out to Richmond last year, while Pick, who formerly belonged to Washington, also worked under Jack Dunn in the Virginia capital. With Schang behind the bat this would not be such a bad club were it not for the pitching.

It was the pitching which made the Athletics a joke club last year. Three pitchers who are nothing but kids themselves—Bush, Wyckoff and Bressler—are the veterans of the staff.

Bullet Ball Joe Bush at certain times has looked good, but oftener he looked very bad, and, though Mack still insists he will be a pitching wonder, there are many who doubt it. Wyckoff, who, like Mathewson, won his pitching spurs at Bucknell, looks like a find and the only real pitcher Mack has. Bressler looked like a comer in 1914 and was called a second Plank, but he fizzled sadly last season.

The rest of the Mack pitching staff is as green as grass, though most of Connie's pitching awkwards saw service last year, when they hung up a base on balls record which should live forever. The most promising one is said to be Myers, a tall right hander from the Raleigh team, who struck out eleven Senators when he made his American league debut last fall.

Pittsburgh does not look as hopeless as the Athletics, and the Pirates may give St. Louis a rub for seventh place, but the majority of experts cannot figure them in a class with the other six clubs of Tener's league.

Jimmy Callahan has taken over a club which, though not particularly weak in any spot, does not size up as a first class team. The only strengthening the club has received has been in the acquisition of a couple of Federal leaguers. Arthur Wilson, the former Giant, should help Pittsburgh behind the bat, but the ability of Harry Moran, the former Newark left hander, is still to be determined.

There probably will be few other changes in the club from the team which finished Fred Clarke's administration in Pittsburgh last fall.

Callahan may have picked up a few pitching recruits, though the club has a pretty fair pitching staff, Mamaux being a young marvel. This boy is all that saved Pittsburgh from the cellar last season. Adams, Harmon, Cooper and Moran round out a fair corps of twirlers.

WRIGHT TABOOS SWEETS.

Penn Oarsmen Must Obey Ten Rowing Commandments.

Coach Wright has announced the rules governing the training of the Pennsylvania crews, and they were posted in the boathouse to let each man see clearly what is expected of him during the rowing season.

Among the various "don'ts," chiefly governing diet, appears that of candy and other sweet stuffs. Coach Wright detected several candidates munching chocolates on the way home after rowing and immediately formulated a set of rules, ten in all, covering the proper retiring hour, diet, etc.

RECORD ENTRY IS RECEIVED FOR BROOKLYN HORSE SHOW

With nearly 600 nominations for the sixty classes, the largest number of exhibits ever received for the event, the annual Brooklyn Horse Show will open tonight at the Riding and Driving Club, Prospect Park Plaza, Brooklyn. The exhibition will continue the three following nights, with a matinee on Saturday.

The representation of owners of heavy harness horses is much larger this year than last, the entries being more numerous and of better quality. Among those who will show in this division are: Miss Isabelle Wanamaker, Philadelphia; John L. Bushnell, Springfield, O.; J. Campbell Thompson, Feix M. Warburg and other prominent exhibitors.

There will be many contestants in the jumping classes, and these events will, as usual, be one of the spectacular features of the show. For the honors in the many saddle divisions there is a large list of exhibitors, many of them from this city. G. Jason Waters and J. Garner West will judge the military mounts. Besides the National Guard entries, several have been made by the officers at West Point.

EVERS SELLS HIS TROY STOCK.

Troy, N. Y., April 12.—John J. Evers, captain and second baseman of the Boston National League team, yesterday disposed of his interests in the Troy State League baseball team. Evers is said to have made this move at the suggestion of the management and owners of the Braves, who expressed a desire to have his entire services and interest, and did not want him to be hampered in any way by the worries attendant upon another ball club. Manager Lew Wachter, of the local team, purchased Evers' stock.

DUKE LOWERS TANK MARK.

New Haven, Conn., April 12.—Duke Kahanamoku last night defeated Yale, Wesleyan and New York Athletic Club swimmers in an exhibition meet in the Carnegie pool. He won every event in which he competed, and furnished a sensation by lowering the figures for the Yale tank in the 100-yard swim. In this event he outswam Smith and Cann, both of the New York Athletic Club, and finished first in 54 4-5 seconds.

N.P.H.S Errors Allow Seton Hall Men to Win

North Plainfield High School was treated to a 11-0 defeat at South Orange yesterday afternoon, when they met the Seton Hall reserve team. The boroughites were unable to dent the pan, securing only one hit.

Inexperience was the chief characteristic which marked the playing of the locals, a difficulty which will be overcome after a few games, when the new men get their bearings. The fielding of the visitors was wretched. They committed eleven misplays, a number of which were on simple throws. It was the inability of the N. P. H. S. defenders to grasp the ball at opportune moments and utilize the advantage, that proved their undoing. The winners were able to secure ten of their runs on errors.

Although the showing of the local boys was far from good, they were not playing any mediocre combination by any means. Manager Poll had scheduled the contest with the Seton Hall Prep. team. He received a belated message, stating that there would be no Prep. nine this season, but that a team of reserves could be mustered instead. The nine which faced the boroughites was composed of college men, some of whom are on the 'varsity. Connolly, who faced the North Plainfielders for half the game, being a first string pitcher.

Captain "Luke" Dilts was on the mound for the invaders, and pitched excellent ball. The Seton Hall players were able to garner six hits from his delivery, only two of which were branded. The local lad had plenty of speed and curves, puzzling his opponents to such an extent that eleven of them took three swings and sat down. His team mates supported him in a disheartening manner, Mair behind the plate letting four of his strikeouts go for naught by letting the third strike elude him, these errors paving the way for runs.

In the initial inning, the homesters harvested more than half of their crop, securing six runs. Dilts got off to a bad start by hitting the first two runners, who were advanced to second and third respectively when Collins bunted. A high fly to centre field which the wind made impossible to catch, scored both men. A base on balls and three errors were responsible for the other three runs. The game from then on had the semblance of a baseball match.

TWO GIANT PLAYERS HURT, UNABLE TO PERFORM TODAY

New Haven, Conn., April 12.—Third Baseman Hans Lobert and Catcher Lou Wendell were injured so severely in yesterday's game with Yale that neither player will be in the opening game of the season for the Giants at Philadelphia today. Lobert will probably be out of the game about a week. He made a three-bagger on his first time at bat yesterday against Yale, and, in sliding to third base, wrenched his knee. He immediately retired from the game, and an examination of his leg showed that he would not be able to play for a few days.

Wendell loosened the nail of the first finger of his right hand in the ninth inning. He and Palermo crossed each other in signals, and the ball, striking Wendell's bare hand, glided beyond his reach, while two base runners moved along.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

CARRANZA ORDERS AMERICAN SOLDIERS TO LEAVE MEXICO AT ONCE, VILLA HEADS NORTH

FRESH OUTRAGES REPORTED FROM SONORA—U. S. TROOPS FIRED ON BY CITIZENS AS THEY ENTER TOWN OF PARRAL.

WASHINGTON WITHHOLDS COMMENT ON CRISIS

First Chief Insists Bandit Band Has Been Destroyed and That He Has Situation Well in Hand, and Demands That Invaders Be Called Back Home—Note No Surprise.

Washington, April 13.—Carranza's latest note to the United States demands that all American troops be withdrawn from Mexican soil, and at once. It was received in Washington this morning. The note asks for the disoccupation of the territory occupied by American troops in view of Villa's party having been destroyed and Mexican forces having relieved those in pursuit of the bandits a few days after the events at Columbus.

With the note came news of fresh outrages against Americans in Sonora, fifteen Americans reported having been trapped there by Villa bandits, which means that Villa has turned in his tracks and is heading for the American border again. This alone would mean a call for more troops to handle the situation, according to military experts, and the attitude of Carranza, while not unexpected, makes the situation extremely critical.

A band of Villa followers, believed to be about 1,000 in number, has attacked and sacked the town of Sierre Mojada, five miles across the Coahuila line and eighty miles east of Jiminez, destroying thousands of dollars' worth of American property.

It is believed that Villa himself perhaps was among the raiders. The news was received in El Paso by the representative of one of the largest mining concerns in Mexico, and is accepted by him as authentic.

The State Department has not received General Carranza's demand for the withdrawal of American troops from Mexican territory. It is expected that it will be presented by Senor Arredondo today. The demand note comes as no surprise to officials, inasmuch as it has been forcasted for some days. Officials believe that by proper diplomatic handling, Carranza can be held off and the present expedition be allowed to continue.

Lansing Declines Comment.

Washington, April 13.—Secretary of State Lansing today declined to comment on the new Mexican Note, saying he had not yet received it. It is now being deciphered at the Mexican Embassy and will be presented to the American Government late today.

Wilson Cancels New York Trip.

Washington, April 13.—President Wilson has reached no final decision regarding his New York trip, but probably will be detained in the White House because of the delicate stage that both the German and Mexican situations have reached. The trip probably will be cancelled later in the day.

Fletcher Fears to Go.

Washington, April 13.—H. P. Fletcher, ambassador designate to Mexico, conferred with Secretary Lansing today. It is understood his departure for Queretero has been indefinitely postponed, owing to Carranza's attitude toward the presence of American troops in Mexico.

Shot at U. S. Troopers.

San Antonio, April 13.—Gov. Guitierrez, of Chihuahua, has notified Consul Fletcher that Carranza soldiers and civilians at Parral exchanged shots last Wednesday noon with American cavalrymen, who slipped into town before the Carranzistas saw them.

CUP BEARER CIRCLE IS TO GIVE THE PLAYS

It was explained to the Daily Press this morning that the plays to be presented May 5 by local King's Daughters are to be given by the Cup Bearer's Circle, which is made up of the young women of the Episcopal church. There are thirteen circles in the city union.

WIFE MAKES COMPLAINT AGAINST THE OTHER WOMAN

Mary Walker, arrested on complaint of the wife of Thomas Kane, was not tried in police court this morning but the disorderly conduct case against her was allowed to go over until Monday of next week. It is charged by Mrs. Kane that her husband has been paying attention to Mrs. Walker and has been visiting her at her home. A complaint was also made against Kane but he left the city before he could be arrested. Attorney Robert Newton Crane will represent Mrs. Walker and she was released in the custody of her attorney.

COLLECTION ONLY $95.68.

The collection at last night's meeting was $95.68. This was the smallest, by far, of the entire metings. Tonight will be "dollar night," and all persons are expected to bring at least a silver offering, if they cannot afford to give a dolar. Dr. Biederwolf said last night, "God has said, nothing about copper and nickel.' 'silver and gold are mine,' but he said Now if you have any of God's money turn it in tomorrow night."

BOYS ON PROBATION FOR ASSAULTING RABBI

Two of the boys arrested for assaulting Rabbi Cantor, of the West Third street Jewish congregation, were put on probation by Judge De Meza in police court this morning. Peter Kain must report to the officer during a period of two years and Lawrence Green must report regularly during the next year. Frank Welsh, Jacob Valinski and William Goff were released by the judge. The rabbi testified that the boys threw at him while he was passing down West Third street and that when he ran to catch them one of them struck him in the mouth.

GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

Harry Rowe and Matthew Martin, two boys who had started for New York to make their fortune and were taken off the blind baggage of a passenger train at the local depot, were warned of the dangers of stealing rides on trains by Judge DeMeza this morning and were released on suspended sentences.

FINED FOR BLOCKING TRAFFIC.

Leon Carrar, charged with violating the traffic ordinance while driving a wagon down Front street yesterday, was fined $5 and costs by Judge DeMeza in police court this morning.

GREAT GIFTS TO BENEVOLENCES

Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church Raised $37,000 for All Purposes.

CHANGES IN BOARDS

John Leal Retires as Elder After Thirty Years, and H. Otis Newman is No Longer on Deacons' Board—Rev. J. O. McKelvey's Regrets.

Nearly $37,000 was raised for all purposes by the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, over $24,000 of which went into benevolences, according to reports given at the annual meeting held last night. It was one of the most successful years in the history of the congregation.

John Leal, who has been an elder of the church since April 7, 1886, declined re-election, and as a fitting tribute to the splendid service he has given, a resolution was passed authorizing Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, who acted as moderator of the meeting, to appoint a committee to draw up a proper resolution to express the regret of the people of the church at Mr. Leal's decision. This committee consists of William D. Murray, Andrew J. Gavett, Augustus V. Heely, George H. Frost, George P. Mellick, Harry C. Munger and Deuse M. Van Vliet.

As a successor to Mr. Leal, W. A. Garrigues was chosen and Townsend Rushmore was re-elected as a trustee. Elders re-elected were Andrew J. Gavett, Emerson E. Parvin and James E. Kimball. To succeed Mr. Garrigues as a trustee, Duncan W. Taylor was named, and Henry W. Brower and J. Whitney Baker were elected deacons in place of John Doull Miller and H. Otis Newman.

Dr. Zelie also appointed a committee to express the appreciation of the people of the church of the long years of service as deacon by H. Otis Newman in a resolution which will be presented to him and spread on the records of the session.

REV. HOWARD CLARKE CALLED TO THIS CITY

Congregational Church Invites Him to Succeed Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

Rev. Howard Clarke, who, for the past seven years, has been pastor of the Congregational church at Bernardsville, has been given a unanimous call to the Congregational chrch, this city, to succeed Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, who resigned some time ago. The formal call was approved at the annual meeting of the latter church last night. It is expected that Mr. Clarke will accept the call.

Mr. Clarke has occupied the local pulpit twice as a supply preacher, and on both occasions he made a favorable impression upon the congregation. He is a young man, married, and during his seven year's pastorate at Bernardsville has done excellent work, according to report. Should he accept the call here he will receive a substantial increase in salary.

John M. Whiton presided at last night's meeting, with A. H. Nielsen as clerk. The various reports showed the church to be in excellent condition. Two deacons, E. L. Suffern and Alonzo Weseman were reelected. The members of the official board whose terms of office were reelected, with the exception of Alexander Millar, who resigned. A. C. LaBoyteaux was elected to take his place. The other two officers chosen were James McClymont and J. A. Powlison. A. N. Neilsen was reelected clerk of the church and society for another year.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING

The Washington School Parent-Teacher Association held an interesting meeting in the school auditorium yesterday afternoon. Children of the lower grades entertained with instrumental and vocal selections. Harold Biddle, of the Plainfield High School faculty, gave an address on the subject of "Books and Reading." During the meeting it was announced that the annual election of officers and reading of reports will take place on May 10. Mrs. J. E. Kimball presided during the meeting. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Notice to persons owing to the city of Plainfield tax on personal property.

Pursuant to Act of the Legislature of New Jersey passed in 1916 the collector is compelled to publish in the month of April a list of all delinquent personal taxes, together with the name and address of each delinquent, and to repeat such publication two weeks later of the same list, omitting names of those who have paid in the meantime. The expense of advertising, ten cents for each name for each publication, must be added to the tax and paid as part thereof. The first publication pursuant to this law will be made on Saturday, April 15, and the second on Saturday, April 29, 1916.

TAKE CREW THAT SANK THE SUSSEX

French Know Identity of Submarine Guilty of Torpedoing.

GERMAN ASSAULT FAILS

Holland Faces Bread Famine as Result of English Blockade—Kaiser's Note to U. S. Will Be Given to Lansing Today.

Paris, April 13.—Official announcement was made today that the German submarine which sank the steamer Sussex was sunk on April 5, and that the U-boat's identity is known to the French Government. The boat's commander and crew are reported to be in a prison camp of the Allies.

An Assault is Prevented.

Paris, April 13.—Another attempt by the Germans to assault the French positions on Hill No. 304, northwest of Verdun, on Wednesday, was prevented by the French artillery, it was announced by the War Office today. After a violent bombardment of the hill, the Germans prepared to throw heavy masses of men forward, but the curtains of fire from the French guns kept them from carrying out the enterprise. The night was generally calm on the Verdun front, the communique stated.

Deny Berlin Statements.

Paris, April 13.—The French War Office today denied the claim of the German War Office that 35,876 prisoners had been captured at Verdun. The French version is that the Germans have taken less than 17,000 French at Verdun, including the wounded.

Russian Ship is Sunk.

Paris, April 13.—The Imperator, a Russian sailing vessel, has been sunk in the Mediterranean by a torpedo from an Austrian submarine. A Dutch steamship has landed nine of the crew on the Spanish coast.

Money is Contraband.

London, April 13.—A royal proclamation has been issued extending the list of articles where hereafter will be treated as actual contraband. Included in the list are gold, silver and paper money, and all negotiable instruments and realizable securities.

Only Brown Bread for Dutch.

Amsterdam, April 13.—The Dutch Government orders only brown bread to be baked after April 24, owing to the insufficiency of the present imports of flour and grain from America. Efforts are being made to obtain permission from the Allies to grant an increase in the amount that can be passed through the blockade.

Austrian Submarine Sunk.

Rome, April 13.—Recent reports of the destruction of an Austrian submarine near the Italian coast were confirmed by the Minister of Marine today. The submarine, it is believed, struck a mine.

German Note is Here.

Washington, April 13.—The State Department expects that the official text of the German Note will be decoded in a few hours and will be placed before Secretary of State Lansing for consideration this afternoon.

Holland Line Suspends.

New York, April 13.—The temporary suspension of the Holland-America Line of steamship traffic between this port and Rotterdam is the result of strike conditions existing on the other side, and which must be settled before any sailing can be announced by this company. At the New York office of the company it was learned that no ship has left Rotterdam since March 23, owing to the above conditions.

MISS KREWSEN HELD IN TOMBS

Well Known Plainfield Nurse Accused of Robbing Houses in Somerville.

ADMITS HER GUILT

Breaks Down When Brought to Face Accusers—Detective Totten and Capt. Flynn Recover All of Stolen Articles in Rooms Here.

Charging that she rifled houses where she was employed as a trained nurse, Miss Helen W. Krewsen, of Plainfield, was arrested in Brooklyn on Tuesday and is now being held in the Tombs pending action of the grand jury of Somerset county.

In Miss Krewsen's room at 531 West Front street, Plainfield, has been found several suitcases full of cut glass, linen, bric-a brac and other articles taken from the homes of Mrs. Helen Ogden, Mrs. Frances Ackerman and Mrs. Canfield, of Somerville. These women are complainants against the local nurse.

Evidence against Miss Krewsen is being presented to the Somerset county grand jury this afternoon by County Detective George Totten and it is expected that an indictment will be returned against her when this body reports tomorrow morning. The specific charge will be grand larceny.

When arrested at the home of Harry Drage, 611 Seneca avenue, Brooklyn, where she was nursing, Tuesday afternoon, Miss Krewsen denied her guilt. Detective George Totten, of Somerville, and Detective James Kessler, of Brooklyn, searched her rooms and found a number of articles with initials of Mrs. Ogden, Mrs. Ackerman or Mrs. Canfield. The nurse then insisted that these had been given her by the women while she was in their homes. Detective Totten had asked Mrs. Ackerman and Mrs. Canfield to accompany him, and when they faced Miss Krewsen and accused her of

JEWELRY BUSINESS CHANGES OWNERSHIP

George W. Hayes Buys Old Established Shop of J. Hervey Doane.

One of the most important business changes that has been noted locally in several years was made known this morning when it was announced that George W. Hayes had purchased from J. Hervey Doane, the latter's jewelry establishment at 113 Park avenue. Mr. Hayes has been associated with Mr. Doane in conducting the shop for the past fifteen years and recently has been in sole charge because of the proprietor's absence due to illness. It is because of Mr. Doane's health, which has been impaired for a long time, that the change in ownership was decided upon.

The Doane jewelry business is perhaps the oldest established in the city. It was founded many years ago by the late John A. Clare, in a frame building occupying the site of the present Coward structure. Mr. Doane succeeded Mr. Clare in 1880 and a few years later when the old building was torn down to make room for a more modern one, the business was conducted temporarily across the street. When the Coward structure was finished, Mr. Doane moved back to the store which he has occupied ever since. By strict business-like methods and giving the public the very best in repair work as well as an up-to-date stock to select from the establishment became one of the most successful in this vicinity.

Mr. Hayes is a native of North Carolina, where he acquired his knowledge of the jewelry trade and since coming to Plainfield he has made a host of friends. It is his intention to greatly increase the stock and enlarge all departments in order to make the place the "last word" for Plainfield shoppers seeking anything an up-to-date concern of this kind should have. Mr. Hayes is an expert at repairing clocks, watches, and will have able assistants in taking care of this department as well as the optical department which has been a feature of the store.

TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR.

Through a typographical error in the monthly report of the Charity Organization Society published last night it was stated that "of the 107 families who received financial aid during the month there were only eight for whom some definite plan of relief was made," the word "not" being left out between the last two words in the sentence. The remainder of the paragraph told of "99 families assisted," so that the error in the first sentence was obvious to readers.

PLAINFIELD MUST LAY ASIDE OTHER THINGS AND DO GOD'S WORK, INSISTS DR. BIEDERWOLF

EVANGELIST TAKES MINISTERS AND CHURCH MEMBERS TO TASK FOR HOLDING ANNUAL MEETINGS DURING REVIVAL.

ATTENDANCE 2,500-COLLECTION ONLY $95.68

Smallest Crowd of Campaign Hears Sermon on "Winning Souls"—Biederwolf Calls Attention to Promise and Contract That There Shall Be No Competition to Services.

Church people in Plainfield are not doing their part to make the evangelistic meetings a success, according to the pulpit declaration of the Rev. William E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle last night. Ministers were included, and the six or eight who sat in seats alloted to Plainfield pastors did not escape from the denunciation of the evangelist.

Biederwolf called attention to the fact that at least five annual church meetings were being held last night. He did not attribute the small attendance—there were less than 2,500 present—to these meetings, but he asked that it be remembered that he had a promise and a written contract to the effect that all church work should be laid aside during the revival meetings, and he insisted that if the promise could not be kept the contract be lived up to.

"Plainfield does not show enough regard for God's services," said Dr. Biederwolf. "Sometimes the church people schedule lectures or other entertainments on prayer meeting night, which is wrong. If a church member does not want to go to prayer meeting, he or she should at least make it a rule not to go anywhere else on these nights. The ministers have a right to object to conflicting meetings on Wednesday night, and yet they have sanctioned annual congregational meetings while the Tabernacle services are in progress. I have also been informed that the King's Daughters are arranging for a series of lectures to be held during these services. Everywhere else I have gone the King's Daughters have been among the most loyal workers, and I am surprised that they should arrange conflicting meetings while we are trying to do the Lord's work here."

Dr. Biederwolf said that unless pastors, church members and all Christians were ready to lay aside all other work for the Tabernacle meetings, his party might as well go on to another city.

Last night's sermon was on "Winning Souls," and the evangelist told of the many things necessary to this work; also its importance in the life of a Christian.

He said that many people were charging that he was being paid for his work here and in other cities and admitted the truth of such statements—adding that he was being paid well. Dr. Biederwolf told of a meeting where he preached a sermon after which an aged German couple came to the pulpit and eagerly shook his hand. The woman cried as the man told her that Dr. Biederwolf was the preacher who had saved their son before he died of smallpox while acting as a volunteer nurse for fellow troopers during the campaign of 1898 in Cuba. "There," he said, "was pay; big pay," for the work he had done in saving the young man, yet he was still on God's pay roll. He urged every member of the audience to get on the same pay roll, but told them first that only those who were right with God could lead others to Him.

Last night's service was opened by a number of songs by the chorus choir, led by Mr. Heaton, and the audience, after which the Rev. J. Y. Broek led in prayer. After a selection by the quartet, Mr. Sluyter sang a baritone solo, which was received with applause. Mr. Heaton then made the announcements, all of which will be found in the program printed in another column, and then Dr. Biederwolf called on the quartet again. They sang "Heaven," a song first heard in a negro school in Texas. There was rhyme in the song, but little reason, yet in it there was harmony in pleasing sequence, which is the higher definition of music. The chorus ended with the line, "Ever'body that talks 'bout Heaven don't git there." The song was the best received of any yet heard at the Tabernacle meetings.

It was announced that Mr. McEwan was still detained at his home in Binghamton, N. Y., because of illness, but that he was expected to be on hand tomorrow evening.

After the sermon, Dr. Biederwolf talked to Christian members of the audience in a corner of the building, while the choir rehearsed. He urged a Christian co-operation in all the meetings, calling attention to a number of entertainments planned for the near future here, which may prove conflicting, and asking loyal attendance and work from each one.

Dr. Biederwolf's sermon will be found in another column of the Press.

DAILY PRESS WILL TAKE ITS READERS TO SEE BIG HIPPODROME PRODUCTION

Special Excursion From Plainfield on Monday Night, May 1—Cost of Trip, Including Carfare, Best Seats in Hippodrome and Incidentals Will Be $1.75 for Each Person—Show the Greatest Ever Produced on the Stage—Hippodrome Now Celebrating Its Eleventh Anniversary and the Program is Filled With Novel Attractions.

Those who have seen the wonderful spectacle now showing at the New York Hippodrome have been unanimous in the opinion that it is the greatest production the world has ever witnessed and that every man, woman and child in the country should make it a point to see it. With this idea in view, the Plainfield Daily Press has arranged for a special excursion to the Hippodrome on Monday evening, May 1, when anyone in this section of Central New Jersey wishing to see "Hip, Hip Hooray" will be taken to the Hippodrome, given one of the best seats in the house and brought back home for a little more than the ordinary cost for carfare alone, $1.75. The best Hippodrome seats will be at the disposal of the Daily Press party, and as the accommodations are limited, application should be made at the Daily Press office the first day that the ticket sale opens. Announcement of this date will be made in these columns in the near future. Watch the Daily Press for further details regarding the big undertaking.

The eleventh anniversary of the New York Hippodrome is being observed this month and the current pageant of delights, "Hip, Hip, Hooray" has firmly established it as a national institution which is now recognized as the amusement center of the world. The Hippodrome is now enjoying the record success of its career. The many hundred novelties of "Flirting at St. Moritz," the "Tower of Jewels," "Toyland," "The Kat Kabaret," and its innumerable other attractions have made the Hippodrome the talk of the country.

A special Central Railroad train has been chartered by the Daily Press and it will leave Plainfield about 6 o'clock on the night of May 1. This will afford the excursionists an opportunity to take a stroll along the Great White Way, and the return trip to Plainfield will be made immediately after the performance, arriving here at 12:30 Tuesday morning. Provision will be made for the care

Old Timers' Sporting Blood Still Tingles With Cock Fight Memories

Many times during the past winter the "Hot-Stove Leaguers" have "reminicised" about the cock fights which held the big hand of popularity in this vicinity a score of years ago, a number of those who were ringside rooters for the feathered scrappers still being "residenters" of this place. There were no Tex Rickards in those good old days to stage the arena matches in a velvet-carpeted ring, and those who squandered their shekels for this sporting pastime didn't worry about ticket speculators.

A majority of the feature attractions were staged with local birds as principals and not a few of the matches were settled in the "Shoe-Box," a famous old roadhouse located on South avenue. The managers of the fights had to keep out of the shadow of the law and frequently it became necessary to shift the scene of battle at the eleventh hour to some cellar or barn. But the law's hand finally swooped down on the sport and a batch of spectators and a couple of star birds were taken into custody by the Westfield police some seven years ago during an interesting setto in an old ramshackle barn on Westfield avenue. Since then, the sport has practically passed out of existence, but at least one of the old-timers continues to raise the game birds. He is Billy Linden, of Westfield road. Linden was recognized in days gone by as the owner of some of the finest specimens of fighting cocks and even to this day he takes pride in his barnyard stock, having in the assortment, several of the prettiest shaped and colored cocks in this section.

Billy Lee, Constable "Bob" Walpole and Charlie Machine are some of those still living who were on the "inside" of the big matches pulled off around here when the sport was at the zenith of popularity. Frequently the side bets ran into thousands of dollars and the gate fees generally in force amounted to fifteen or twenty-five dollars. Farmers from the countryside came to witness the fights and brought with them a roll of greenbacks that would sink a ferry boat. Some went home broke, while others had a tidy fortune left the next morning after treating the boys who had been less fortunate.

Sometimes the fights lasted into the early morning hours and oftentimes it became necessary to declare a truce in order that the ringside watchers might get back home by milking time. One occasion was especially noteworthy. A Californian and a Long Island bird had been matched for a $1,000 side bet. The admission tickets were sold at $5 and $10, and spectators arrived at Scotch Plains from New York, Hoboken, Newark, Jersey City and other sporting centers. The main included thirteen matches and the California bird had copped the first six out of seven rounds, when the fight was brought to an abrupt finish. John Ward, of Harrison, N. J., who was the referee, declared that he had to return to his blacksmith shop and ordered a postponement. The sports who had wagered their week's pay on the result of the fight created a near riot, and the big Harrison smith was lucky to get away with his life. It was a snowy morning, and when he arrived in Harrison a line of horses a half a block long were waiting in front of his shop to be shod.

The bets were called off and Lynus Walpole, Sr., who was one of the spectators, is authority for the statement that they aggregated a sum in the vicinity of $10,000. Many there are in Scotch Plains who would like to see the old sport revived, but the Jersey laws are strict against such a pastime, and certain it is that cock-fighting will never regain its popularity.

WHERE LOCAL PLAYERS ARE GOING TO PERFORM

Scotch Plains and Fanwood Will Contribute Largely to Baseball Teams.

With each succeeding day of spring and with the general opening of the baseball season not far distant, managers of baseball teams all over this section are signing local players and pretty soon there won't be enough in town to form a battery, let alone a team. So far, six local players have agreed to play with semi-pro. teams on Saturdays.

Eugene Lidgate, of North avenue, will do the catching for the Media team of the Delaware County League. That is the same league that "Home Run" Baker made famous, and local fans expect "Lid" to further the cause. Frank Hand, who surprised everyone by turning down an offer from the Philadelphia Americans, will be at the receiving end of the Pacers' battery, of Perth Amboy, in their Saturday and Sunday games. "Nib" played with that team two years ago, when it was in the Atlantic League, and as he will be teamed up with the same pitcher, Cliff Randolph, things should be humming.

The manager of the Plainfield A. A., has announced that he has landed three local tossers to play with him. Frank Lee will probably do part of the twirling. Henry Albert will cover first and Joe Albert will probably take care of shortstop or third. The T. A. B. S. management, one of the teams in the Plainfield City League, has been dickering for the services of Tony DeNitzio, considered the best shortstop in town, and he will likely be seen in action on that team. George Baldwin and Jimmie Grey, two veterans of the local teams of years gone by, expect to remain inactive this season, but there are several more in town yet who have berths waiting for them.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE

Partly out of respect to the memory of Booker T. Washington, the negro educator, who died some time ago, and partly for the naming of the organization, a large number of negroes of the "Big Woods" section of the township, at a meeting on Tuesday night, formed what will be known as the Booker Washington Republican Club. Meetings will be held from time to time for the discussion of political problems. The officers follow: President, Henry Staats; vice-president, William Philips; secretary, Edward Byers; assistant, Joseph Polk; sergeant-at-arms, William Erby.

STARTS IN BUSINESS AS CARPENTER AND BUILDER

Albert D. Macauley, formerly with Anthony Albert, has started in business for himself as a carpenter and builder, assuming charge of his initial contract this week. He has started work on the new home being erected for William Hvag at Springfield road and Union avenue.

Mr. Macauley has been identified with the carpentry trade for a number of years, and has earned a reputation for himself as a careful and reliable workman. He is one of Scotch Plains' best known and most highly-respected citizens and he has the well-wishes of all for prosperity in his new enterprise.

LOCAL CHATTER

The paper mill will close down tomorrow long enough to have a few repairs made.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Lightowler and daughter have returned to their home on the Valley road after spending the winter in New York.

Arthur Webber, of Park avenue, has accepted a position with Meyer Brothers, the Scotch Plains grocers.

The next to the last of the weekly Lenten services will be conducted in the Episcopal church tomorrow afternoon.

Abram Wade, of Stanberry avenue, is slowly recovering from an illness that has detained him at home for severay weeks.

The members of the Lend-a-Hand Society of the Baptist church will meet in the church chapel tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Townsend, of Russell road, entertained the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Episcopal church at her home yesterday afternoon.

LAST COURT GAME.

Local basketball fans will have what will probably be their last chance of the season to see a game, when the Parish House first team plays the Hanson Place Church Five, of Brooklyn, the return game of the year. The first contest was lost by the locals after a great game, but playing on the home court they should have the advantage this time. It is booked to start shortly after 8 o'clock.

CHANCE TO SEE BIG HIPPODROME SHOW

Daily Press Will Take Scotch Plains and Fanwood People to New York May 1.

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Daily Press a special excursion to the New York Hippodrome will be conducted on Monday evening, May 1, the train leaving the Fanwood Central Railroad depot at a time to be announced later. The entire cost of the trip, including railroad fare, the best seat in the Hoppodrome and all expenses from the time the party leaves Fanwood or Plainfield until it returns will be $1.75 for each individual. This is an approximate value of nearly $5 for $1.75 and it is probable that at least 300 persons will be included in the Daily Press party.

Further announcement of the sale of seats, time for leaving and other details will be made known in these columns. Watch the Daily Press each day for instructions and begin now to prepare for the biggest theatre excursion that has ever left Plainfield or Fanwood for the Great White Way.

There are probably dozens of people in Scotch Plains and Fanwood who have been fortunate enough to see the wonderful Hippodrome show and it has been pronounced the greatest spectacle ever put on the stage. The eleventh anniversary of the Hippodrome will be observed this month and the world's biggest playhouse is now enjoying the record success of its career. The current pageant of delights, "Hip, Hip, Hooray" has firmly established the Hippodrome as a national institution which is now recognized as the world's amusement center.

MARRIAGE RUMOR AN ENIGMA FOR PARENTS

Former Local Girl Mixed up in Tangle at Spring Lake.

Local people will, no doubt, be somewhat amused over a tangle that is now one of the main topics of conversation at Spring Lake Beach, N. J. The whole affair hinges around Miss Elsie Trout, who, it will be remembered, spent her summers in the borough until a short time ago, and daughter of Dr. William Trout, treasurer of that place.

Mr. Trout is busy trying to figure out how it is that his daughter is credited with having married twice. The records of Weehawken, N. J., show that an Elsie Porter Trout was married on January 31, 1914, to an Edward Keeny Smith, of Brooklyn, while from Virginia comes the announcement from his daughter that on March 29 last she was married to a Richard E. P. Ham, a newspaper man. Smith denies that he is married to Miss Trout, and so up to the present time the mystery remains unsolved.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

Building seems to be showing some slight signs of increasing here. Mrs. Tony Albert is about to start the erection of a two and a half story dwelling on Paterson road, while a New York contractor has commenced the building of a modern dwelling on Midway avenue for a New York party. Extensive alterations are being made to the home of Dr. M. A. Hall, on South avenue, and George Palcanis will shortly remove from Scotch Plains to his nearly-completed house on Russell road, the borough.

NEIGHBORHOOD MEETING.

A district neighborhood meeting will be conducted in the Fanwood firehouse tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church. Considerable local work has been done during the Lenten season for the inhabitants of the Jersey pines, a section of the State that vies with the Kentucky mountains, and a missionary worker from that section has been secured to speak.

South Plainfield.

At the meeting of the Piscataway Township Committee held in New Market on Tuesday, the Committee, at the resquet of a delegation of South Plainfield citizens, voted to appoint William Everhardt as a uniformed police officer for South Plainfield. John Geary, Judge Kaine and Collector William Hamilton pointed out the necessity of having a uniformed officer for this place. The Committee feels that in the appointment of Mr. Everhardt they will have a very capable officer. He has been a special officer for the Lehigh Valley Railroad for the past five years. Mr. Everhardt was also connected with the Pennsylvania State constabulary at Wilkesbarre for several years. His duties with the township will begin on May 1.

A farewell party was tendered to Mrs. Shurig by a number of her friends last night. She expects to move with her family to Brooklyn the first of next week. The evening was spent in singing, dancing and playing games. Musical selections were rendered on the piano by the Misses Nellie and May Harlow, Grace Norman, Edna Shurig and Harold Store. Refreshments were served at a late hour, at which time all guests departed for their homes. Those present were: Mrs. George Bradburry, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. Samuel Clauson, Mrs. William Norman, Mrs. J. Blanchard, Mrs. William Clancy, the Misses Grace Norman, Nellie and May Harlow, Winifred Saverd, Nettie Smith, James Leahy, Richard Riely, C. Brown, William Ball, Joseph Horn, John Geary, John McCaffrey, Carl Frica, John Hogan and Joseph McGauley; Harold Store and Leo Polling, of Plainfield.

Judge P. F. Kaine has been appointed health inspector by the Township Committee.

Harrison White, a retired policeman of Jersey City, is building a home for his family on his property which he recently purchased on McLean terrace.

Henry Lammers is remodeling his farm house and is moving the building to his property directly across from his home. Julius Duckhardt, the local carpenter and builder, is in charge of the work.

Mrs. Robert Horn is improving from a recent attack of rheumatism.

John Nelson quietly celebrated his sixtieth birthday at his home on Oak Tree road yesterday.

Mrs. William Hamilton has returned from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Peter McDonough, of Plainfield.

NO TRACE FOUND OF MAYOR'S AUTO

Police Are Searching the Country for Machine Taken From Garage.

With the odds decidedly against them, the local police are still working vigorously to recover the automobile stolen from the garage of Mayor E. B. Latham Monday evening. Postal cards with the description of the automobile and an offer of a reward of $100 from Mayor Latham have been mailed by the police to the police chiefs of all the principal cities and towns in Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut and this State.

Marshal Patrick Tarpey visited the department of automobiles of the New York police yesterday. He went with a clipping from a New York newspaper in his pocket which described how Patrolman Rohr, of the traffic squad, had made a spectacular capture of a stolen auto on Broadway, opposite Bleecker street, Tuesday morning. The article stated that the automobile had been stolen from the chief of police of Dumont, N. J. The first two letters of that word are the same as the first two letters of Dunellen and Tuesday night Chief Mohan called up the Dumont police head to find out whether he had lost an automobile. The reply was in the negative and Chief Mohan entertained hopes that the captured automobile belonged to Mayor Latham. Hence Marshal Tarpey's visit to New York.

Marshal Tarpey upon arriving at his destination was informed that the machine, which was a Ford and not a Reo, was the property of the chief of police of Passaic. The marshal's visit may yet bear fruit because he succeeded in enlisting the hearty co operation of the New York police.

He was furthermore told that a six-day professional bicycle rider might be the leader of the gang who "pulled the job off." This man, it is alleged, makes a practice of stealing automobiles from garages while families are at supper. He has been operating for some time in this State and Pennsylvania but detectives have thus far been unable to get him.

The local police have this man's description and they are endeavoring to ascertain whether he was one of a gang of four men, whose presence was noted by certain persons on the main thoroughfare every day for a week previous to the robbery, and who have not been seen since.

That the fellows who pulled off the job had been hanging about this place for several days at least, sizing up the situation, there can be little doubt. This is as good as substantiated by the fact that thieves endeavored to break into Van Sickel's garage at Bound Brook, Friday evening. They were frightened away by a man who happened to be sleeping there.

Mrs. John Murphy, who has been in the St. Peter's Hospital at New Brunswick for the past fifty-seven days, was taken to the Post Graduate Hospital in New York city in H. E. Nelson's taxi yesterday.

Mrs. William H. Clum, of Lincoln avenue, is able to be out following a long illness.

The choir of the First Baptist church held a rehearsal at George Hadley's home last evening.

DeWitt Fulton continues to improve from his illness.

J. C. Siedentop, of Walnut street, has taken a position in the Plainfield office of the International Motor Company.

VALUABLE HORSE INJURED ON RAILROAD TRACKS

One of a team of gray horses owned by Arthur Brokaw, of Plainfield, suffered an injury at the Prospect avenue railroad crossing yesterday when its hind right foot became caught between a rail and planking, tearing off the animal's shoe and loosening its hoof. Mr. Brokaw at the time was on his way to Prospect avenue with a load of stone from J. Y. Wilson's crusher in Plainfield. The horse was unhitched and after receiving "first aid" treatment was slowly led to the Park Hotel livery. Dr. Winter, the veterinary, of Plainfield, was summoned and the animal was later taken to Plainfield in a horse ambulance.

Herbert Schwoerer, who is employed at the Gabrielle & Schall factory as a pipe fitter, burned his foot with acid on Tuesday. He is under the care of a physician.

Elliott Penrose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Penrose, who has the measles, is better.

Frank Penrose has taken a position with the Harrington leather works.

Mrs. Fred Stryker, of Somerville, has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Fritz, of Penfield place.

Miss Elizabeth Sullivan, of New York city, is visiting her cousin, Miss Clara Gray, of First street. Miss Sullivan is recuperating from an operation for appendicitis.

Watchung.

The Watchung Chemical Engine Company held its monthly business meeting Tuesday evening at fire headquarters. After the general routine of business the Firemen's Relief Association held its annual meeting. The following officers were elected: President, George Mobus; vice president, William H. Titus; secretary, William E. Patte; trustee for three years, George A. Schmidt; delegate to State convention, William Walker.

The Junior Christian Endeavor will meet tomorrow afternoon at the chapel. Walter Snoden will be the leader.

Miss Marguerite Doyen is visiting friends in Collinsgdale, Pa.

Mrs. George N. Beeching is ill at her home.

QUARTET IS POPULAR AT INTERNATIONAL PLANT

A crowd of more than 350 workmen attended the services of the Biederwolf party at the International Motor Works plant today at noon. Dr. Biederwolf was not present and the short talk was made by the Rev. E. E. Peterson, of New York. Two selections were sang by the quartet, but the workmen were not satisfied and demanded an encore. The men crowded into the assembly room, and sat on cars, engine and shelves to hear the service.

YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET.

The monthly meeting of the Young People's Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church will be held at the home of Miss Louise Grotmann, 959 Arlington avenue ,tomorrow night.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS AT ANNUAL MEETING

First Presbyterian Church Elect Officers and Discuss Plans for the Year.

The annual church and congregational meetings of the First Presbyterian church were held last night in the chapel of the church. Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor, presided at the church meeting, when Eugene M. Cave, and Charles M. Hummer were re-elected elders for three years, and A. V. Searing, Sr., and Joseph C. Allen were re-elected deacons for three years.

The various reports of officers and committees were received, showing the church to be in a flourishing condition. Rev. Lewis Bond reported for the Italian Mission, stating that progress is being made with the plans for erecting the mission building on East Third street. Mr. Bond also reported for the home department.

F. O. Dunning presided at the congregational meeting which followed. T. E. Currin, Jr., and E. P. Morris were re-elected trustees for three years, and George B Wean was elected trustee for three years to succeed W. F. Hamilton, resigned, and Albert L. Schomp was chosen trustee for two years to succeed C. E. Bond, resigned.

William H. Shotwell, treasurer, presented an interesting report, the finances being in excellent condition. There was also a report from the finance committee regarding the new budget system. It was voted to repair the church.

GIFTS TO BENEVOLENCES

The report of the church treasurer, Joseph W. Sandford, showed total recepits of $13,411.28 for current expenses, and expenditures as follows: Salaries, $6,230; music, $3,326.70; light, $168.54; repairs and supplies, $1,216.11; Sunday-school, $500; insurance, $16.70; pulpit supply, $320; parsonage, $1,056.65, a total of $12,834.70, leaving a balance on hand on April 1 of $576.58. The receipts from pew rents were $12,653.54, and Mr. Sandford reported that out of 243 pewholders, only seven were in arrears.

For the chapels the treasurer reported the following receipts: Bethel, $275; Hope, $1,406.22; Warren, $1,310, and from the session, $5,400, a total of $8,391.22. The amounts paid out for their operation were $1,638.37 to Bethel, $3,627.82 to Hope and $2,929.67 to Warren, and a short balance on the preceding year of $87.54, leaving a balance on April 1 of $107.82. The mortgage on Warren chapel, which is soon to become a separate church, was reduced $500 during the year, leaving $5,500 still to be paid.

The benevolences were reported by Dr. Ellis Hedges, clerk of the session, as having been divided as follows: Foreign missions, $5,626.79; home missions, $4,377.76; support of chapels, $5,600; American Bible Society, $25; Publication and Sunday-school work, $261.50; deacon's fund, $1,172,-94; freedmen, $312.17; ministerial relief, $1,500; general assembly, $233; temperance, $127.09; aid for colleges, $179.05; church erection, $175; education, $240; local charities, 1,686.74, and miscellaneous, $2,600.96, a total of $24,117.40, which added to the congregational expenses brings the total amount raised to $36,951.10.

In the Crescent Avenue church there are 1,154 members; Bethel chapel, 133; Hope chapel, 382, and Warren chapel, 274, a total of 1,943. The Crescent Avenue Sunday-school numbers 352, Bethel 235, Hope 615 and Warren 378, a total of 1,580. The congregational gain for the year was 74 and the Sunday-school gain was 29.

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, speaking for Warren chapel, which is soon to become an independent church, described feelingly his regret that after twenty-three years as the pastor of the church, the ties with the mother church were to a certain extent to be broken off. He told of the great changes that have come in the Crescent Avenue church while he has been connected with it, and expressed appreciation for the friendships he has made and which he expects to continue. Warren chapel, he declared, will always realize the old relationship of the mother church.

Rev. W. L. Imes reported that Bethel chapel's year had been one of encouragement and growth, with a net gain of 27, the total membership being 133, and an average attendance of 41 in the morning and 92 in the evening. The Sunday-school has 235 members, with an average attendance of 158, and an increase of 137 members over the preceding year.

G. Herbert Condict regretted that he was compelled to state that Hope chapel was without a minister, but a committee has been named to find a new man for Rev. Frederick L. Green's place. The various organizations there are in the meantime carrying on the work. There was a net gain in money of $250 raised over that of the preceding year, largely through the efforts of a very active Ladies' Aid Society, and by the young men. There are 28 new members in the church and the Sundays-chool now has 614. There is an increased demand for facilities, and something is going on every night, as many as seven meetings having been held there in one evening. An athletic board has been organized to have charge of activities of the kind throughout the week. On the whole the outlook for the future is very bright.

Afred DeNise, of 20 Grandview avenue, has purchased an automobile.

Walter Harper, of 149 Manning avenue, has returned from a hospital in New York city, where he submitted to an operation on an ear a month or so ago.

MIDDLESEX FERTILIZER WORKS TO BE MADE SANITARY

Residents of New Era appeared before the Board of Health of Piscataway township at New Market, this week, to protest against the odors coming from the Middlesex Fertilizer works, formerly owned by Theodore Glaser. They called the Board's attention to the agreement made two months ago that injunction proceedings were to be started against the concern. The delegation was informed that the Board had instructed its counsel, R. P. F. von Minden, to prepare the case, but that in the meantime the plant changed ownership, being taken over by the Middlesex Fertilizer Company.

Robert Guttridge, representing the company, was present at the meeting, and stated that the plant would be put in a sanitary condition within ten days, at which time he invited the Board to make an inspection. In view of this injunction proceedings have been suspended.

MISS ELIZABETH CONROY DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Following an illness of nearly three years with a pulmonary complaint, death came at 2:30 this morning to Miss Elizabeth M. Conroy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Conroy, of Fairview avenue. She was in her twenty-fourth year and had always made her home in the borough, where she was born. Miss Conroy was graduated from the North Plainfield High School with the class of 1911, and while a student there took a prominent part in the girls' athletics, being especially proficient in basketball. She was possessed of a happy disposition which never flagged during her long illness, and which served to draw a large circle of friends still closer. For a short while previous to the failing of her health she was employed as stenographer in a New York office.

Beside her parents, Miss Conroy is survived by three brothers and one sister. These are Frederick, Russell and Ronald Conroy and Miss Florence Conroy, all residing in the borough. Russell Conroy has been studying at the University of Vermont, at Burlington, and was summoned home today.

The funeral will be held at the parents' residence, Saturday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, and will be in charge of Rev. C. S. Gillespie, pastor of Grace M. E. church, of which the deceased was a member. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery theft she broke down and is said to have confessed to having systematically robbed them.

MISS KREWSEN IN TOMBS

News of her arrest will create a sensation here. She was well and favorably known both professionally and socially. Miss Krewsen has been an active church worker in Plainfield for many years.

To Detective George Totten, of Somerset county, and Captain John Flynn, of the local police force, is due the credit of working up evidence against Miss Krewsen and bringing about her arrest. There is in the local police station now three big suitcases crammed full of articles taken from her room on West Front street, all of which have been identified by Mrs. Ogden, Mrs. Ackerman or Mrs. Canfield as their property. More of the stolen articles have been traced. None were sold but when a friend of Miss Krewsen in North Plainfield recently gave a linen shower the nurse presented her with a number of valuable pieces that were stolen from the home of Mrs. Ackerman.

It was the very popularity of Miss Krewsen that led to her arrest. Mrs. Ackerman, at whose home she stayed several months ago, recommended her to a friend. Mrs. Ackerman was attracted to her not only by her work as a nurse but because of the love the two Ackerman children showed her while she was in the house. In attempting to reach Miss Krewsen, Mrs. Ackerman called a friend with whom the nurse was staying only a short time ago. In the course of the conversation the friend remarked that Miss Krewsen had been using towels with Mrs. Ackerman's initials. Many things of value had been missed during Miss Krewsen's stay at the Ackerman home but she was not suspected, the family believing that servants had carried them off. Mrs. Ogden, who is a sister of Judge Clarence E. Case, of Somerville, and Mrs. Canfield, who lives just outside the city, were called and each admitted that they missed articles around the house while Miss Krewsen was there in her professional capacity. The case was then put in the hands of Detective Totten, who enlisted the aid of Captain Flynn.

Miss Krewsen was arraigned before a Brooklyn magistrate Tuesday afternoon and was remanded to jail for 30 days to await extradition papers. In testifying in court there she gave her age as twenty-six, but it is said that she is near forty. At times she has been known here and in other cities as "Mrs. Krewsen," but no information as to the time of her marriage can be secured. She has been keeping company with a Brooklyn man for some time and was living at the home of his married sister when arrested. Miss Krewsen had a patient in Plainfield about one month ago.

Has Served Ten Years of Life Term.

FAMOUS MURDER RECALLED

Nation Wide Protest Saved Life of Last Woman in State Sentenced to Be Hanged—Killed Woman Who Stole Paramour's Love From Her.

Trenton, April 13.—Anna Valentina, the last woman sentenced to be hanged in New Jersey, has been paroled by the court of pardons. She had served almost ten years of a life term to which the death penalty had been commuted on the very eve of the day set for her execution. About a year ago the woman was transferred from the state prison to the woman's reformatory at Clinton, where she is now confined.

The case of Anna Valentina attracted attention throughout the country, and while she was awaiting execution in the Bergen county jail a petition was circulated in the middle west in her behalf. It contained the signatures of 100,000 persons and was presented to Governor Stokes, then ex-officio chairman of the court of pardons. After a long deliberation the court decided to commute the death penalty to life imprisonment.

The crime for which Anna Valentina was convicted was shooting and killing another woman who taunted her with having broken up the home which Anna had helped to build with her own hands. She was then the common law wife of an Italian, the father of her children. For years Anna had worked and slaved for the man who subsequently deserted her, and it was her hands which laid the bricks of their little home. Frenzied by the taunts of the woman who had won the affections of her paramour, Anna shot her to death. Her trial and conviction followed in short order.

The court also granted 114 paroles. Among the number was William C. Armstrong, sentenced to one year in the Essex penitentiary for conspiracy in connection with the wrecking of the Roseville Trust company, of which he was an employee. Armstrong had given testimony which was instrumental in convicting other officials of the bank.

William Allen of Passaic, serving a thirty years term for murder, was paroled. Fourteen years ago Allen turned state's evidence, resulting in the conviction of John Shephard, who was hanged for the murder of an elderly business man.

The court refused to parole John Cargere, formerly proprietor of a garage in Lakewood, who was convicted as the head of a gang of automobile thieves operating extensively in New York and Philadelphia. Cargare was fined $1,000 in addition to a sentence of from one and a half to three years' imprisonment.

NEW VILLA TRAIL INDICATED BY RAID

Sierra Mojada Looted, American Property Destroyed.

El Paso, Tex., April 13.—A band of Villa followers numbering several hundred and possibly a thousand has sacked Sierra Mojada, five miles across the Coahuila line and eighty miles east of Jiminez, destroying American property worth many thousands of dollars and looting the town.

The news, which may prove to be of the highest importance, as it is believed here that possibly Villa himself was among the raiders, was received here by the representative of one of the largest mining concerns in Mexico and is accepted by him as authentic.

The bandits made their attack on the town on April 5. They went there from Escalon, a junction point on the Mexican National railroad, sixty miles southeast of Jiminez and about an equal distance southwest of Sierra Mojada, which has its connection by the Mexican Northern railroad. On their way to Sierra Mojada they sacked the small town of Corrillo.

The belief that Villa himself may be directing the operations of the bandits is supported by a report received from Ojinaga stating that Colonel Riojas, the commander there, had information that Villa had doubled in his tracks and was 200 miles southwest of that town. Ojinaga is directly across the border from Presidio, Tex., and about 150 miles north of Sierra Mojada.

WILL AWARD R. A. PRIZES TONIGHT

Harry Radin and Chas. Montross Will Get Awards at Westfield.

Bowlers who represented Fireside Council, of Westfield, in the Royal Arcanum League, will receive the bulk of the prizes to be distributed tonight at their headquarters in Westfield.

The champion Fireside Council team will receive the first team prize and the high team score honors. Fireside finished the season with thirty victories in three dozen games. High team score honors were captured with 975. The champs also cleaned up in the team average race, but there was no team average prize. Cranford and Rahway will pull down the second and third team average trophies. Resolute Council pinmen, of Elizabeth, just missed a trophy, landing in fourth place with seventeen wins and ninetsen defeats.

The Elizabeth Journal's individual high score trophy goes to Charles Montross, of Fireside Council. Montross and Schreiber, of Resolute, were tied with 256 for the honors. Montross won on the roll-off. Schreiber takes second honors, a silk umbrella. The third prize goes to Mason, of Cranford.

Bill Ehmling, of Fireside Council, hauled down the individual average prize with a splendid average of 1834 for thirty-three tilts. Harry Radin, of Painfield, was second with 178.21. Ray Husbands, of Resolute, was third with 177.30, and Montross landed in fourth place with 176. Montenacourt, of Cranford, will pay the Goerke-Kirch Company a visit for a dollar's worth of merchandise, his average of 15.97 being the nearest to the 160 mark.

SWIMMING CLASSES FORMED AT P. H. S.

Encouraging Progress Made by Recreation Committee on the Initial Evening.

There was a splendid showing last evening at the Plainfield High School when the gymnasium and swimming pool were opened for the first time by the Recreation Committee. The work in the gymnasium under George Keene is proving to be especially attractive and both men and women are availing themselves of the unusual opportunity which the Recreation Committee is offering. Last evening, plans were made to organize a private class for women at a slightly advanced fee. This class will also be given a course of training in the gymnasium which will prepare them for the instruction which is to follow in the pool. Mr. Keene will meet with this class at 8 o'clock in the gymnasium, and give the members, aside from the regular setting-up drills, such work as will reach and develop the muscles of the back, chest and limbs brought into play while swimming. Dry land swimming exercises, correst swimming strokes and proper methods of breathing and relaxation will comprise a part of the course. This private class is limited in membership, and application should be made at once to Miss Lillian Lamson, the supervisor of recreation, by those desiring to enroll.

The men's class will meet at 8:15 o'clock on Wdnesday evenings. Following the work in the gymnasium, Mr. Keene will continue instruction for men in the swimming pool. All kinds of water sports will be enjoyed such as racing, diving, etc.

PRAYER MEETINGS TOMORROW MORNING

There will be nine cottage prayer meetings in Plainfield tomorrow morning. All begin promptly at 10 o'clock. They will be held in the following homes:

Mrs. Robert Love, 138 Grove street.

Mrs. E. S. Glover, 935 Park avenue.

Mrs. Randolph Stout, 428 Spooner avenue.

Mrs. Joseph Webber, 408 West Third street.

Mrs E. V Jones, 915 West Fifth street

Mrs. John Carter, 327 Clinton avenue.

Mrs. H. Avery, 213 Watchung avenue.

Mrs. Asa F. Randoluh, 521 Central avenue.

GYMNASTICS AND BOWLING.

Saengerbund Hall was alive with activity last evening. The turning section of the Gesang Turn Verein met upstairs and went through the regular order of gymnastic exercises, and on the bowling alleys downstairs the Luthman "5" took two games out of three from a team composed of the following members of the Turn Verein: E. Anderson, B. Anderson, Charles Meyer, H. Rummel and Burt Vail. The regular monthly meeting of the Turn Verein will be held this evening.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING.

The annual meeting of the North tion will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Somerset School. There will be an election of officers, and all members are requested to be present.

OFFICIALS WORKING ON CITY BUDGET

Public Hearing for Citizens Will Be Held Thursday of Next Week.

The finance committee met last night with Mayor Leighton Calkins for its third long sesion on the budget. Archibald Cox, president of the Board of Education has also attended these meetings, in pursuance of the policy inaugurated last year, by which the school authorities attend Council budget meetings in order to get first-hand an understanding of the needs of the various city departments. The Board of Education will shortly begin estimating its budget; and the Mayor and councilmen are invited to be present, in order that they may also be familiar with details of school needs.

The Mayor and Finance Committee will hold a public hearing on the city budget in the Council Chamber on Thursday evening of next week, April 20, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which all citizens are invited to be present, the same as last year, so that the budget items may be explained. Prior to the meeting the estimates will be given to the local papers. It is hoped to publish them at least by next Tuesday.

ELKS DONATE $25 TO POSTAL CONVENTION FUND

Plainfield Lodge of Elks at its regular weekly meeting last night, donated twenty-five dollars to the fund being raised to entertain the thousands of attendants who will attend the letter carriers' convention in this city on Decoration Day. The members were enthusiastic in their pledge of support to the gathering and will aid the local committee in every possible way.

The meeting last night was the first in charge of the officers installed last week and was largely attended. Exalted Ruler Walter Marder occupied the chair. At the conclusion of the business session a Dutch supper was served and an informal program of entertainment enjoyed.

ENGAGED NEARLY A MONTH; FRIENDS JUST HEAR OF IT

Friends of Maurice Zimmerman, advertising manager of Tepper Brothers, were surprised today when announcement was made that his engagement to MissDorothy Kimmel, of 597 Barbey street, Brooklyn, had been made known at a reception held at her home on March 25. For the past six years Mr. Zimmerman has been connected with the local store and is popular among his business associates and many other local friends.

He has been active in the work of the local Y. M. H. A. and was stage director for the recent minstrel show produced by the Y. W. H. A. His fiancee is popular among the younger set in Brooklyn and has been active in social circles. No date for the wedding has been made known.

"THE APOSTLE AGE IN KOREA" SUBJECT OF TALK

"The Apostolic Age in Korea" was the subject of the fifth of the interdenominational mission study lectures given in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Helen Barret Montgomery. The speaker told of the early missionary foothold in the kingdom and rapid advance made among the people, who are very studious and quick to grasp any new teaching. The lectures will be concluded next Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Montgomery will speak on "Christianity's Chance in Japan." Rev. Charles M. Anderson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, presided at the devotional meeting, preceding the lecture. Rev. John Y. Broek will preside next week.

KING'S DAUGHTERS ELECT.

The Brightside Circle of The King's Daughters elected the following officers on Tuesday: President, Mrs. Frank W. Jones; vice-president, Mrs. Emily Cory; secretary, Mrs. C. Frank French; assistant secretary, Mrs. Hubert Holden; treasurer, Mrs. Daniel Clawson. Three new members were received. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, May 10, at the residence of Mrs. Cory, Watchung and Jackson avenues, at 3 p. m. Mrs. Frank Dunning will lead the devotional service.

GARDEN CLUB MEETS.

The Plainfield Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Thomas R. Van Boskerck, Prospect avenue, yesterday afternoon for the regular business session of the club. There were forty in attendance. Mrs. F. O. Herring, the president, presided. During the afternoon, Maurice Full, of New York, spoke on "Dahlias." Arrangements were made during the meeting to hold a picnic sometime in May, the exact date and place to be announced later.

A CARNATION DANCE.

A carnation dance will be given under the auspices of the Red Raven Club, in Moose Hall, Wednesday night, May 3. A carnation will be given every one attending the affair. Tickets for the dance are selling rapidly and every indication points to a very successful affair. The committee in charge comprises D. V. Mazzacco, chairman; R. McGoldrick and J. Frederickson.

ARREST FOUR IN SHIP FIRE PLOT

Prisoners Confess German Conspiracy Here.

VON PAPEN IMPLICATED.

New York Police Uncover Gigantic Conspiracy to Destroy Hundreds of Steamers Carrying Supplies to Entente Allies—Money Furnished by Dismissed Teuton Envoys, It Is Claimed.

New York, April 13.—The arrest of four men by the police of this city has uncovered a gigantic conspiracy to set fire to hundreds of steamships carrying supplies for the allies on both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans.

The specific charge against the men is that they manufactured and caused a fire bomb to be placed on board the Kirk Oswald, which sailed from this port on May 2, 1915.

A confession by Captain Charles von Kleist, one of the four prisoners, says specifically that more than 200 fire bombs were manufactured and that the money for the manufacture of the bombs and for the purchase of a remarkable chemical compound was furnished by Francis von Rintelen, a lieutenant captain in the Germany army, who is now a prisoner of war in England, and by Captain Franz von Papen and Captain Karl Boy-Ed, respectively military and naval attaches of the German embassy, who were dismissed from the country last December.

The four men who were placed under arrest at police headquarters by Captain Thomas J. Tunney of the bomb squad, acting under directions from Deputy Police Commissioner Guy Scull, are said to have worked directly under orders from the three Germans mentioned above. They are:

Men Under Arrest.

Captain von Kleist, sixty-seven years old, born in Germany, lives at 1121 Garden street, Hoboken, N. J. He is a retired German army captain, skilled in chemistry.

Captain Otto Wolpert, forty-four years old, born in Germany, superintendent of the Atlas Steamship company, a subsidiary of the Hamburg-American line, living at 94 Mayolls street, Bloomfield, N. J. Recently before the federal grand jury Captain Wolpert refused to answer questions as to whether he knew Von Rintelen by that name or by the name of Fred Hansen.

Captain Eno Bode, forty-nine years old, superintendent of the Hamburg-American docks in Hoboken, living at 18 South Hillside avenue, Glen Ridge.

Ernest Becker, thirty-two years old, born in Germany, an electrician, living on Friedrich der Grosse, a North German Lloyd liner at Hoboken.

Both Von Kliest and Becker have made statements to the police in which they have admitted that they handled the fire bombs. Von Kliest's story especially brings into the conspiracy the names of German army and navy officers, and, taken in connection with the vast amount of evidence that Captain Tunney and his men have been gathering for practically a year, links up Captain Robert Fay as another representative of the German government in the conspiracy to blow up ammunition ships.

The Evidence Complete.

Although the police were careful to confine what information they gave out to the attempt to destroy the Kirk Oswald, it was clear from their guarded remarks and from what little was made public of the statements of Von Kliest and Becker that they have uncovered the methods by which bombs were placed on scores of ships sailing from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Seattle.

The police also learned that while Rintelen was the first one to put up money in connection with the work—his mission to this country involved every means necessary to prevent shipments of arms and supplies to the allies—Captain von Papen, after Von Rintelen's departure, and Captain Boy-Ed put up money, and after their dismissal from the country the work devolved upon still other men.

The evidence against the four men under arrest is said to be practically complete. Before any of the four was taken into custody the police discovered in the house of one of the men a bomb which was an exact duplicate of the one found on the Kirk Oswald when she arrived at Marseilles on June 8 last. The police had located the factory in which more than 200 of these bombs were manufactured, have ascertained the nature of the chemicals used in the bombs and found parts of bombs in the possession of still another man.

How Bombs Were Made.

The nature of the bomb and of the chemicals used in themselves prove the device was the work of a scientist. The bomb consists of a lead pipe about six inches in length and an inch and a half in diameter. Into one end of the pipe was placed a cuplike piece of aluminum, and the end of the pipe where the aluminum cap was fastened had a cover with a small hole into which a lead screw fastened. Into the aluminum cup was poured an acid which in two or three days' time would eat through the aluminum, and upon contact of the liquid in the cup with a powder stored in the other part of the pipe immediately caused an explosion and fire. This fire was so intense that it destroyed both the aluminum and the lead and set fire to the cargo. The bomb itself was equipped with a piece of tin by which it was fixed in a stationary position.

The bombs were usually placed in some box or other part of the cargo. The design was to have the liquid eat through the aluminium and cause the fire after the ship had got well out to sea. From the evidence gathered it seems that among the chief objects of attack were ships carrying sugar. It is said that sugar is being used by the allies as a component of certain explosives. It is believed, however, that the fire bombs were placed in coal bunkers, in cargoes of magnetos and other cargoes of inflammable materials.

Many Clews Followed.

The arrest of the four men and the unfolding of the plot are regarded as a remarkable piece of detective work. For practically a year Captain Tunney and his men have been working day and night on thousands of clews with the hope of discovering the method by which the bombs were made and how they were placed on board the ships. In that time they have trailed thousands of men in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, and have followed others to Boston and Philadelphia and followed clews indirectly to San Francisco and Seattle.

They have consulted chemists and other scientists with the idea of gaining information concerning the making of bombs and the various ingredients. When there was a lull in sleuthing Captain Tunney would call his men together at police headquarters and for hours at a time they would work over problems in chemistry dealing with explosives and liquid fire. All the time they had one aim in view—the unraveling of the ship fires.

Among the men who followed clews were Lieutenant Busby, Detectives Barnitz, Barth, Fennelly, Wallace, Jenkins, Walsh, Coy, Murphy, Sterett, Carell, Terra, Puglinani, Santinelli and Kiley.

While these men were following various clews and after they had received from the French government, through the American state department, the bomb which was found on the Kirk Oswald, [illegible] a definite clew from Captain Tunney's men [illegible] in Hoboken.

RICHARD HARDING DAVIS.

Noted Author Drops Dead at Telephone.

Richard Harding Davis, well known as a novelist, playwright, writer of short stories and a war correspondent, died suddenly of angina pectoris within a week of his fifty-second birthday. He went to Vera Cruz with the recent Mexican expedition and later visited the European battlefields.

R. H. DAVIS DEAD.

Noted Author and War Correspondent Dies While Telephoning.

Mount Kisco, N. Y., April 13.—Richard Harding Davis died suddenly of heart disease in his home, Cross Roads farm, six miles from Mount Kisco. His wife found him dead beneath a telephone instrument in the library, whither he had gone to dictate a telegram.

After returning from Saloniki on Feb. 5 Mr. Davis maintained his customary buoyant good health until two weeks ago, when pain in the chest was felt. His physician found that the trouble was angina pectoris. If Mr. Davis knew how serious his ailment was he kept the secret from his friends.

"The Joyous Book of Spring Lies Open, Writ in Blossoms" on Our Prettiest Hats

They are $5.00

350 new, sparkling beauties, expressing in every exquisite color and every lovely line their joy at forming part of the great Easter festival.

Large hats, small hats, middle-sized hats! The happiest ideas of Varon, Reboux, Maria Guy, Georgette and other hat creators adapted to sell for this very small sum. $5.00.

You never saw prettier or better models at this price. One is a delightful sailor of shirred georgette in rose color, with leghorn crown, rose velvet piping and a rose and mignonette cluster. Another is a tailored affair of dark green straw with wings of beautiful ribbon caught back with two large straw pins.

The other 348 hats are fully as lovely in their own ways. All the season's colors and straws. A marvelously fetching array, at $5.00.

BAMBERGER'S—THIRD FLOOR.

New Crepe Meteor Sport Frocks for Women, $17.98

They are fashioned with coats as chic as the pictures you see on the magazine covers; Norfolk effects, with stitched plaits; reglan sleeve styles, with the plaits pressed in and NOT stitched, and a variety of other effective modes.

Collar and cuff ideas are new and very charming. Your choice of self-tones or white. Colors include maize, silver gray, leather, monks' hood, flesh, turquoise, navy, white, light blue, Kelly green and black.

The skirts are full and very simply cut, as sport skirts should be.

"Sport suits," these charming frocks are called, but for shopping, walking and calling a woman could not find a more delightful style.

They belong very much to the present mode, and are decidedly low priced at $17.98.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Adv.

UNION COUNTY COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Notice of Hearing Objections to Assessments for Street Improvements in the City of Plainfield.

ARMSTRONG MULFORD, FRANK J. HUBBARD and JOHN ABBOTT, the Commissioners appointed by the Union County Court of Common Pleas, by order entered on the fourteenth day of January, 1916, to estimate and assess benefits conferred by the permanent street improvements in the City of Plainfield, under the ordinance of said city specified in said order (said ordinance being also hereinafter specified), and the character of the work and improvements for which said assessments have been made and a description of the sections of the particular streets and avenues thereof, which are included in said assessment, being as follows, viz.:

West Third street, from the northeasterly side line of Liberty street to the southwesterly side line of Plainfield avenue:

under the ordinance of said City, entitled: "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of a Portion of West Third street in the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Concrete Pavement, and to provide the necessary funds in advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits." Approved August 20th, 1914, which ordinance was adopted under and by virtue of the Act of the Legislature, entitled, "An Act to authorize the improvement of streets and highways in cities of this State, and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same, and for the assessment of the benefits of such improvement upon the lands and real estate benefited thereby," approved June 13th, 1898, and the amendments and supplements thereto, having made and filed in the office of the clerk of said court, a report in writing of their estimates and assessments, accompanied by survey and map prepared by the City Surveyor under their direction, showing lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, respectively, the total cost of the whole work upon each of the sections of said streets or avenues improved as aforesaid, under the aforesaid ordinances; the portions assessed upon the City at large, and the names, so far as ascertained, of the owners of the said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the amount of the assessment to each owner for each of said lots or parcels of land and real estate for the said benefits, and the excess thereof to be paid by the City at large, and raised by general tax; and the other matters required by said acts of the Legislature, as by reference to said report and maps, will more fully and at large appear.

Notice is hereby given that said Union County Court of Common Pleas has fixed the Twenty-eighth day of April, 1916, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the Court can attend to the same, at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, as the time and place for hearing before said Court any objections that may be made to such assessments, when and where all parties may be heard, and has directed the publication of this notice.

FRELINGHUYSEN'S ELECTION URGED

Federation Club Women Want Somerset Co. Man Sent to United States Senate.

PRAISE HIS RECORD

Board of Freeholders Are Requested Through Resolution to Adopt County Work Farm Plan—Mrs. Chas. W. Stockton Makes Address.

A resolution urging the Board of Freeholders to use their influence in securing a county work farm for Union county read by Mrs. Allan Cowperthwaite, president of the Monday Afternoon Club, was unanimously endorsed by the representatives of the clubs attending the miniature federation of the clubs of the fifth district of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, held in the parish house of the Congregational church, yesterday afternoon, and a motion was made and carried that the secretary should forward a set of the resolutions to the Board of Freeholders. The afternoon session of the federation began at 2 o'clock with an address by Mrs. Arthur Proal, of Nutley, who told of the work done in The Pines. Although the inhabitants are bright and receptive to suggestions, they have absolutely no sense of morality and are urgently in need of material help. During her talk Mrs. Proal told of what the social helpers down there have contended with and she made a plea for the co-operation of the various clubs in the State in helping to carry on this work of enlightening the men and women.

"The Responsibility of Club Women" was the subject of a talk given by Mrs. Charles W. Stockton, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. She especially urged the members of the various clubs to open their organizations to the women who need just such opportunities to acquaint themselves with live topics and who through no fault of their own are found lagging behind in current events.

Miss Alice Lakey, executive secretary of the American Pure Food League, spoke to the members urging them to use their influence in asking their husbands to vote for the election of Joseph S. Frelinghuysen for United States Senator. She cited some of the legislative measures which he has enacted along purer food lines and said judging from what he has done in this State much national legislation can be expected from him. It matters not what party politically he is affiliated with, said Miss Lakey, but his principles are those for the protection of the home and nation.

Mrs. Charles W. MacQuoid, of Roselle, vice president of the fifth district, presided during the session.

There are thirty-three clubs enrolled in the fifth district and of this number about fifteen were represented at the federation meeting yesterday. All told there are nine districts in the State Federation with a sum total enrollment of members of 17,000.

LURING HUGHES IS AN OFFENSE—WORKS

Senator Against Effort to Tempt Associate Justice.

Washington, April 13.—A strong protest against the attempt to draft Associate Justice Hughes of the supreme court as the Republican nominee for president was voiced in the senate by Senator Works, Republican, of California. In a speech dealing with social and political conditions in the nation the senator declared the use of the name of Justice Hughes as a candidate "is an offense to him and to the country."

"If any member of the supreme court is tempted by an offer of a nomination for president of the United States and refuses the offer because he is a justice of the supreme court and for that reason cannot conscientiously accept a nomination to a political office or engage in politics he will have rendered his country a great and lasting service," said Senator Works.

The speech made a strong impression on the senate. It formed the chief topic of discussion in the senate cloak rooms and among the politicians, and there was much speculation as to whether Justice Hughes might deem it necessary to make a statement as to his attitude. The best judgment of the Republicans in congress appeared to be that no statement would be made.

PROPOSALS

For Furnishing Crushed Stone and Materials for Culverts and Cross-Walks to the Borough of North Plainfield:

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield at the regular meeting, April 7, 1916, notice is hereby given that the Mayor and Council will meet at the Council Chamber, Somerset Street, in the said Borough on Friday, April 21, 1916, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which time and place said Mayor and Council will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone and for furnishing materials for culverts and crosswalks, as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1916, the bids to state the price per ton of 2,000 pounds, for furnishing each or any of the following sizes, the bid on each size to be independent of bids on any other size, viz.:

Fine screenings of crushed stone, one-half inch crushed stone, one inch, one and one-half inch, and two and one-half inch crushed stone.

In such quantities, and delivered at such time and places in the Borough as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The above must be of the very best quality trap rock, free from weathered stone, dirt, clay or other foreign matter, and in every way acceptable to said Street Commissioner.

All stone furnished must be weighed on such scales as said Street Commissioner may from time to time direct, and a voucher or way bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or to his authorized representative.

Every bidder to whom any contract for crushed stone is awarded, must enter into written contract to furnish and deliver the same in strict compliance with the aforesaid terms and must furnish bond satisfactory to said Council, in the sum of $1,000 for the strict performance thereof.

At the same time, sealed proposals will be received for furnishing the following materials for culverts, crosswalks, flagging and curbing. The bids on each item to be independent of bids on any other item.

Cover stone for culverts not larger than 4 feet by 3 feet by not less than 3½ inches in thickness, per square foot.

Curbing 16 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Curbing 20 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone, 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone, 30 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Flagging—4 feet wide and 1½ inches thick, per lineal foot.

Flagging—Concrete walks 4 feet wide, 4 inches thick, per lineal foot. For specifications, apply to Borough Clerk.

Concrete curbs, per lineal foot. For specifications apply to Borough Clerk.

All to be of the best hard blue stone equal in quality and durability to stone from the Hudson river quarries.

Upon receipt of such bids or proposals the Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or their agents desire to be then and there present; and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes.

The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved.

By order of the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield, April 7, 1916.

FREDERICK A. MARTIN,
Borough Clerk.

A WORD TO "AN OLD SUBSCRIBER."

The Daily Press has stated so many times that it does not seem possible that any of our readers could have failed to notice it, that we will not print communications on any subject, unless the writers sign their names to be appended at the time of publication. This rule is enforced because we believe that a large number of people who see an unsigned letter in a newspaper, think that it has been written in this office, and the editor is taking advantage of a cowardly method of expressing an opinion that he is afraid to stand for publicly. There is only one kind of a letter that we will not print when a signature is attached and that is a communication which might make us liable for prosecution for libel. All of these statements are prompted by the fact that in yesterday's mail was received a letter in which an attack was made upon Dr. Biederwolf for his remarks regarding Wall street, which were delivered on Sunday night. There are a large number of people in this city who are identified with Wall street houses, and they naturally resent some of the statements which were made. We rather expected that someone would want to take the clergyman to task in the columns of the Press. But for the benefit of the writer of the letter which we received, signed "An Old Subscriber," we must again call attention to the rule in question. If he will send us his name to be appended at the end of the letter, we will be very glad to print it. Otherwise we regret that such publication is impossible.

Another organization is patterning after the example set by the Plainfield Business Men's Association. The Hudson Dispatch tells of a worth while step which has been taken by the Hoboken Board of Trade in behalf of the retail merchants, who have adopted the following pledge: "The undersigned, being affiliated with the Hoboken Board of Trade, is restrained by pledge from placing advertisements in programs, journals and similar publications, from purchasing tickets for any function and from making contributions, without the application having been approved by the Board of Trade." The spending of money for "advertising" in dance programs is a waste of money, as was learned some time ago by Plainfield merchants. There is no selling force, no business advantage, except the paying of tribute to customers who feel that custom entitles them to this form of "graft" or blackmail.

The Newark Evening News calls attention to the energetic canvass of the State which is being made by Rev. I. W. L. Roundtree, a Trenton negro, who is seeking election as an alternate-at-large to the Republican National Convention. Mr. Roundtree's contention is that the party owes at least this much recognition to the colored men who have been loyal to the party. There have, of course, been times when this class of voters have not been ardent supporters of the Republican ticket, but such occasions have been rare, and no man has been more active or more influential in keeping them in line than Dr. Roundtree. As the News says he "is not on the 'regular' ticket for alternate-at-large, but this is no reason why he should not be elected. His vote will show how much gratitude there is in the party for past services, not to mention those that it hopes for in the future."

Governor Fielder has named a foreman of an iron works, who has had no experience in handling criminals, as keeper of the State prison, to succeed Thomas B. Madden, who recently died. Thus are the faithful politicians rewarded, in spite of the fact that the conduct of the prison may suffer seriously. His principal qualifications for the office apparently come from the fact that he is a member of the Democratic State committee, of the Burlington County Tax Board, of the Board of Education at Florence, where he lives, and because he once entertained the Governor over night when he was running for office. Knowledge of modern prison methods is evidently not requisite for a position of responsibility in New Jersey, as has been the case of late years even in a politics-ridden State like New York.

We cannot imagine anybody being busier than Tax Collector William R. Townsend is at the present time, since it has become known that he will publish the names of the delinquent personal taxpayers within a few days. The people are literally shoving their way into the office at the rate of a hundred or more a week to avoid the unpleasant publicity.

If you want to get the real, pithy, interesting sidelights on the Biederwolf meetings, do not fail to read the "Sawdust and Shavings" column in the Daily Press each night. They are being written by a young man who has been especially engaged for the purpose, and contain much that the regular reporters do not see.

What's the Use.

What's the use of all this noise—
Of all this fuss and argument?
Why these tiresome speaking tours?
Why is all the money spent?
What's the use of making us
Sit down and hear a lot of bunk?
Why must we take pointers from
Some leather-lunged and long-armed lunk?
What's the use of those brass bands,
But to add a jarring note?
We made our minds up long ago—
We all know how we're going to vote.

Plainfield Theatre.

Six new acts, every one of them a feature in itself, comes to the Plainfield Theatre this afternoon for the last half of the week. The list is headed by Cunniham and Company, a troupe of clever performers, coming direct from the leading Broadway houses and presenting the same offering which kept them in New York for several months. The five other numbers have a wide variety—making certain to please the most exacting vaudeville patrons.

Hundreds of movie fans are following "The Iron Claw," the sensational Pathe serial which is now in its seventh episode. This will be shown in the theatre this afternoon and tonight. It has proven one of the biggest film features Manager Shannon has ever secured and its constituents are increasing each week. Another absorbing serial, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," is shown every Friday. The Pathe semi-weekly is shown at the Plainfield Theatre each Tuesday and Friday, and, in addition to these specialties, every bill at the playhouse includes one-and two-reel comedies and dramas.

N. P. H. S. NOTES

The four candidates who are striving to be the representatives at the Rutgers College oratorical contest, have each given their selection in the chapel exercises. The four, namely, Laura Martin, Emily Pleydell, Irving Roddy and Ernest Pruden, will appear at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday afternoon to give the same orations.

The boys of the senior class have received invitations from New York University to be the guests of the college this Friday and Saturday, when the annual "prep" day will be held. At that time N. Y. U. will meet Stevens on the baseball field, while there will also be a large interscholastic track meet.

Some of the members of the senior class will be guests at Rutgers College tomorrow afternoon, when Rutgers College plays Colgate University on the baseball diamond, while they will also be present at the interscholastic debate that evening.

Mr. Earley has received tickets from the authorities of Rutgers College which will entitle the pupils to be present at the debate tomorrow evening between Flemington and Metuchen High Schools.

DISCOVERS PROCESS FOR MAKING 'OVERLAY'

Invention of William J. Trembath Promises to Be Valuable Aid in Printing.

After ten years of hard work, W. J. Trembath, proprietor of the Trembath Press, has discovered a process of making what is known in the printing world as an "overlay" at a cost which promises to revolutionize the printing industry. The overlay in its first state is merely a print from a photo cut. With an especially prepared powder and chemical solution this print is developed to a point where it will itself produce prints in a clearer and sharper tone than the cut. Two thousand impressions can be taken from an overlay. The holders of the patents of the overlays on the market today are demanding such a price for making them that the small printer cannot do any of the work, the charge for the shop right being alone $200 a year.

Mr. Trembath will apply for a patent for his process of making overlays. He says that he will do away with the shop right fee and will make overlays at a figure which will be in reach of the small shop. That this will be reasonable is certain because Mr. Trembath can make them for a half a cent apiece.

Mr. Trembath has been in the printing business for twenty years, starting in the shop of the Courier-News Publishing Company when that concern was owned by F. W. Runyon. Three years ago he did special service for the Auto Press, of College Point, L. I., as expert in printing and half tone work. In working out his process Mr. Trembath would often leave his bed in the early hours of the morning for the purpose of working out some idea in preparing the compositions which turns the print of a photo cut into an overlay.

"BETHANY" GIVEN AT ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH

Large Congregation Enjoys Fine Rendition of Sacred Cantata by Chorus Choir.

"Bethany," the sacred cantata rendered in St. Joseph's church last night was sung in a beautiful manner by the soloists and the large chorus. The edifice was filled to its capacity by members of the congregation and their friends. The words were written by William ApMadoc and music by W. Rhys-Herbert. "Bethany," the simple and sweet home of Lazarus (sung by Randall Trumpe), and his sisters, Mary (Miss Irma Good) and Martha (Mrs. F. M. Ward), wherein Jesus (Alvah Dunham), "the homeless one," often found rest and comfort, and where some of the wondrous deeds of the Master took place, are the scenes of the work.

Part one dealt with the visit of the disciples from Jerusalem who pay tribute to the quiet and renowned village as they approach it, who, when in the presence of the Master seek His words of truth and wisdom, are received lovingly, are taught the parable of the Good Shepherd and of the departure of Jesus to the night-shades of the hills, where He prays and communes with His Father. The second part opened with the news brought to Jesus of Lazarus, sickness and death, the sorrow and lamentation at the Bethany home, the coming of Jesus to awake him, the dialogue with Martha concerning the resurrection, the raising of Lazarus, the rejoicing over the miracle, the departure of Jesus, again to the hills, his hour drawing nigh, the disciples' forebodings of trouble befalling their Master, and their final rejoicing in the hope that the kingdom of love, truth and righteousness would soon be established upon the earth.

J. E. Bailey directed the work, while Mrs. Harry DeMeza and Stephen Haff presided at the piano and organ respectively. The chorus was as follows: Sopranos, Misses Frances Newman, Elsie Moulton, Ida Callaway, Mary Donnolly, Gertrude Mead, Sarah Carney, Edna Ryan, Mable Saffron, Nora Bergen, May Barry, Pauline Triano, Marjorie Barry, Flora Godfrey, Virginia Godfrey, Elizabeth Harper, Dorothy Sutton, Helen Moran, Catherine Howe, Loretta Carney, Marie Fenton and Mrs. Thomas Derrick; altos, Misses Elizabeth Day, Kitty Leahy, Elizabeth Calver, Mable Callaway, May Utzinger, Mrs. George Aller and Mrs. Albert La Rock; tenors, E. D. Young, Percy Bailey, Jack Cannon and George Feaster; bass, Thomas Martelle, Harold Mead, Clarence Smith and Edward Wagner.

Proctor's Theatre

A big double feature photoplay entertainment holds forth at Proctor's today that will be greeted with delight and unbounded joy by the many film fans who will take advantage of this treat. Bessie Barriscale, the versatile and popular Triangle star, is seen in a role entirely different from any she has yet attempted to assume. She is featured in "Bullets and Brown Eyes," a Thomas H. Ince production, telling the story of a tender and delightfully charming romance, interlopated with terrific battle scenes that will fairly have the spectators on their feet with excitement and intense interest. The other stirring dramatic production today is "The Target," featuring Hobart Bosworth, one of the most talented leading men of the screen. "The Target" is a powerful story with an engrossing theme, written especially to suit Mr. Bosworth's personality, and that he does justice to the part that he is entrusted with goes without saying. His support is excellent, the photography is perfect, and the scenic settings and backgrounds are supreme in every sense of the word. "The Target" is a feature that cannot be seen every day, and one that is capable of stirring the heart to the depths of human emotion. To provide variety, an uproariously funny Keystone comedy is presented on the same program, entitled, "The Village Vampire," and starring Fred Mace. Tomorrow Laura Hope Crews, the talented Paramount star, who will be remembered in her previous photoplay success, "The Fighting Hope," is seen in her latest effort upon the screen—a picturization of "Blackbirds." She appears in this production as an entirely different woman than in her former picture, and plays the clever queen of a band of crooks who operate all over the world. When presented as a stage production at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, Miss Crews scored a dramatic triumph as the star of the production in the same role in which she appears on the screen. In addition, tomorrow, the second episode of "The Social Pirates," the new and fascinating series, is also shown. Saturday will be a wonderful day for the kiddies, for there are three comedy creations that will produce continual laughter. Charlie Chaplin appears in "Caught in the Cabaret"; Harry Watson creates storms of laughs as "Musty Suffer," and Mutt and Jeff disport themselves in a rip-roaring comedy. The most novel of all the features Saturday, however, is the personal appearance of little Em. Gorman, the talented child actress and emotional star, who will be seen at each performance, in addition to her appearance on the screen in a mammoth five-part dramatic masterpiece entitled "The Little Orphan." A day for the kiddies, indeed, and one that will long be remembered hereabouts.

William Desmond and Bessie Barriscale in "Bullets and Brown Eyes," Triangle-Kay Bee Play.

AT PROCTOR'S TODAY.

FRENCH REPULSE GERMANS.

Crown Prince's Troops Lose Heavily Near Douaumont.

London, April 13.—The German assault on the Verdun front west of the Meuse was renewed. Troops advanced on Caurettes wood, between Le Mort Homme and Cumieres, using flame projectors, but were repulsed, according to the French official report.

The German activity in that region during the rest of the day was confined to severe artillery bombardment of Hill 304.

Berlin reports that German troops in the operations against Verdun yesterday gained some ground in Caillette woods, southeast of Fort Douaumont, but Paris in denying this success says the attempt cost the crown prince's troops heavy losses.

Jersey City will be the first city in the United States outside of Washington to indulge in egg rolling.

BERGEN INDORSES VICK.

Democratic Committee Want Him as Delegate to Convention.

Hackensack, April 13.—The Bergen county Democratic committee indorsed Walter W. Vick of Rutherford and Robert T. Johnson of Newton as candidates for delegates to the national Democratic convention.

There is a third candidate for delegate, Francis Coyne of Phillipsburg, whose defeat is urged in resolutions passed by the committee. Coyne is described by opponents here as an anti-organization and anti-Wilson man.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— What an Ugly Duckling Met In a Marsh.

A Horrid Big Dog Appeared Beside Him.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

WHEN the children came and perched on the arms of daddy's chair he told them this story: "All the creatures that lived in the duck yard treated an ugly duckling so badly that one day he flew away from home. Finally he came to a big marsh where wild ducks lived. He was so tired from flying and so unhappy from loneliness that he stayed in the marsh all night. In the morning the wild ducks flew up to take a look at their new comrade. 'What sort of a creature are you?' they asked. The duckling turned from side to side and greeted them as well as he could. 'You are frightfully ugly,' said the wild ducks, 'but that does not matter to us, so long as you do not marry into our family.' Poor duckling! He had no thought of marrying. All he wanted was to lie there and rest.

"So he stayed there two days. Then two wild ganders came who were not out of their shells long, and so were rather pert. 'I say, comrade,' they told the poor duckling, 'you are so ugly that we have taken quite a fancy to you. Join us and be a bird of passage. There is another marsh close by and some charming wild geese there—all sweet young ladies who can say 'honk.' You are ugly enough to make your fortune among them!'

"Just at that moment bang! bang! was heard up over their heads. Both the wild geese fell dead among the reeds, and the water turned red. Bang! bang! went the guns, and whole flocks of wild geese flew up from the rushes, and shot peppered among them again. There was a grand shooting party, and sportsmen lay hidden in the marsh. Some even sat on the branches of trees that overhung the water. Blue smoke rose like clouds over the pool.

"The water dogs wandered about in the marsh. Splash, splash! the reeds and rushes bent under their heavy feet. It was all terribly frightful for the poor duckling. He twisted his head around to get it under his wing, and just at this moment a horrid big dog appeared close beside him. His red tongue hung right out of his mouth, and his eyes glared wickedly. He opened his big mouth and showed his sharp teeth to the duckling and splash—went on.

"'Oh, thank heaven!' thought the poor duckling. 'I am so ugly that even a dog won't bite me!'

"So he lay there in the marsh while shot whistled among the reeds and bang after bang rent the air. Late in the day it became quiet again, but even then the poor duckling did not dare to get up. He waited several hours longer, and then he got up and hurried away from the marsh as fast as he possibly could," daddy finished, with a hug for Jack and a kiss for Evelyn.

Household Hints

RECIPES.

English Muffins—Sift together one quart flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt and half teaspoon sugar. Mix in one and one-quarter pints milk and beat into a stiff griddle cake batter. Set muffin ring on hot and well-greased griddle and when muffins have been cooked on both sides to a delicate brown pull them apart in the center and toast lightly. Butter well and serve hot.

Crumpets—Sift one quart flour with two teaspoons baking powder. Beat two eggs and add one quart warm milk and water, a tablespoon of sugar and a teaspoon salt. Make batter thicker than for ordinary batter pudding. Have griddle hot, rub it with little butter, place muffin rings, well greased, upon griddle and half fill them with the batter. The turning must be done carefully. Put away and when they are to be used toast quickly but not too crisply, and butter.

MENU LIST.

BREAKFAST.

Sunday—Corn flakes and bananas, pork sausage, mashed potato cakes, muskmelon.

Monday—Grape nuts or shredded wheat, hash, poached eggs on toast, stewed pears.

Tuesday—Oatmeal, eggs in nest, white sauce; cold boiled fried potatoes, applesauce.

Wednesday—Oranges and corn flakes, calf's or hog's liver and bacon, creamed potatoes, sliced peaches.

Thursday—Wheatena or farina, fried eggs, raw fried potatoes, hot biscuits and jelly.

Friday—Milk toast or grape nuts, boiled eggs, dried beef and gravy on toast, sliced bananas.

Saturday—Oatmeal, egg vermicilli, fried potatoes, applesauce.

DINNERS.

Sunday—Veal or beef roast or chicken, mashed potatoes, cranberries corn, apple pie and cheese.

Monday—Sliced pork shoulder, baked sweet potatoes, fried apples, lima beans, lemon pie.

Tuesday—Sirloin steak, escaloped potatoes, string beans, beets, baked apples, wine sauce.

Wednesday—Pork chops (loin) tomato sauce, baked white potatoes, applesauce, baked beans, grape pie.

Thursday—Ground steak roll, cold boiled fried potatoes, macaroni and cheese, apple dumplings.

Friday—Fresh ham breaded, mashed potatoes, cranberries, peas, peach shortcake.

Saturday—Beef stew, riced or baked potatoes, cranberries, peas, peach shortcake.

Saturday—Beef stew, riced or baked potatoes, baked or stewed tomatoes, bread pudding with hard sauce.

THE TABLE.

Italian Rabbit Stew—Disjoint rabbit and cook in one quart water. When half done, add salt and one tablespoon ham or bacon frylngs; cook until nearly done, then add one onion cut fine, one green sweet pepper, one cup cooked tomatoes and one cup cooked macaronio. Let simmer fifteen minutes; serve on platter with meat surrounded by macaroni.

Picked Rabbit—When the hunter brings in a number or rabbits, pickle some. Boil until tender, season, remove from kettle, pour vinegar over them (enough to cover). This will keep them some time.

Always remove all fat from rabbits before cooking and they will not be strong.

Virginia Fruitcake—Heat two cups milk, add one teaspoon butter, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two inches vanilla bean, one-fourth quart fruit sirup. After mixing together, add one cup cream beaten stiff, one cup flour. Cook for a moment two tablespoons sugar in three tablespoons water, then pour into this the whites of two eggs beaten stiff, one-half handful of raisins or a grated nutmeg, and beat all together. Bake in moderate oven. This cake will keep about six weeks if put in airtight tins, and it only costs twenty-nine cents to make it.

Cheese Canape—Spread soft cream cheese on toast and garnish with chopped olives and red peppers.

Steamed Date Pudding—One-half pound dates, one cup brown sugar, two cups bread crumbs, one-quarter pound suet, one tablespoon flour, one tablespoon molasses, two eggs, grated rind and juice of one lemon. Chop suet and dates. Add remaining ingredients after testing eggs. Steam three hours.

EDUCATOR'S NOTEBOOK

New York—The "modern school" suggested by Dr. Abraham Flexner, assistant secretary of the General Educational Board, an institution in which the modern child would be taught life and not Latin, has brought much comment to the Board since the plan was first suggested a few weeks ago. The discussion of the idea was welcomed, and as was expected there is much difference of opinion over the radical principles involved. The school as Flexner would have it would provide a process of education based on the objects and processes which the child sees about him, to the exclusion of theoretical and traditional studies. Formal grammar, ancient languages, theoretical studies in modern languages and the bulk of history and of pure mathematics are the subjects which would be removed as useless and cumbersome. According to Dr. Flexner, the modern school should have reading, writing, spelling and figuring, and actual activities in science, industry, aesthetics and civics. And these studies would be forwarded with the use of "the accessible world" as a laboratory to train children "with an eye to the realities of life and existence."

Philadelphia—Educators from many sections of the United States are assembling here this week to discuss matters of vital interest to the school teachers of America. The conference, which is known as "Schoolmen's Week," is being held at the University of Pennsylvania, extending to Saturday. Dr. Frank P. Graves will deliver today an illustrated lecture on "The Evolution of Educational Methods." Among the speakers who have come from a distance is Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, dean of the College of Education, University of Minnesota.

Cincinnati—Another innovation in education has been completed successfully by the Cincinnati public school system. Yesterday between a dozen and 20 young men were graduated from the first school for baseball umpires. The unique school is a tribute to the prominence of sport in American every-day life, and an attempt to put sport on an efficient basis. If the American people are to flock into the open and see the good old game played, it has seemed necessary that it be played right, and that the essential elements of impartiality and accuracy be assured through scientific methods. The school was opened last November, in response to a request from the amateur baseball players. William Hart, former National League umpire, was in charge of this year's class, and William Carpenter, an umpire in the International League, taught the class which will be graduated a year from now.

New York—The Barnard College addition, which was donated by Jacob H. Schiff, in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of his arrival in this country, will cost close to half a million dollars, and work will soon be begun on its construction. The building will be known as Students' Hall. It will be open the year around, and will serve as the college center for social and religious activities. Mr. Schiff was one of the original trustees of the college and its first treasurer.

San Francisco—The millinery art and dancing are among the innovations that will be introduced this summer at the summer session of the University of California. Dean Hart, of the Summer School, has arranged for Miss G. Louise Ayres, a pattern hat designer, of New York, to show the women the art of millinery. And from far-off Warsaw, in Poland, will come Edward Kurylo, master of the Imperial Russian ballet. Other new and unusual courses have been arranged.

Cambridge, Mass.—Reforesting of Harvard's famous yard will soon begin, and the famous elms will again command the university grounds. Thirteen perfect specimens of the elm have been seucred in the couutry, and will be transplanted in a unique manner. The funds for the work were provided by Arthur H. Lea, of Philadelphia, a member of the class of 1880. He has engaged New York movers to uproot each of the 40-year-old elms that have been selected for Harvard's yard. The truckmen will protect every limb and every root, and the moving will be done at night, when there is less evaporation of moisture from the roots. Great craters are being dug for the new monarch of the yard. The destruction of the Harvard elms by moths and other pests has been gradually eliminating this feature of Harvard scenery. The spaces will now be filled, and future Harvard men will have their elms.

Washington—Much interest is taken in the bill for national aid to vocational education, introduced in the Senate by Senator Hoke Smith and in the House of Representatives by Congressman Dudley M. Hughes. The bill authorizes grants of money by the United States Government to the States, and establishes a Federal Board of Vocational Education. The grants are to be conditioned upon the maintenance of a specified standard of efficiency in the local agencies. For the first year a total of $1,700,000 would be appropriated, and this would be increased until in nine years it would reach $7,200,000. It is proposed to have the supervision of this great fund placed in the hands of a board of citizens representing the various interests concerned.

London—That English educational systems will undergo radical changes in the near future is the opinion of eminent educators. Headmaster Alexander Devine, of Clayesmore School, Winchester, has bitterly attacked the English system of class distinction in school life. Professor Devine says he views with deep concern the widening of the gulf between class and class, which has shown itself strongest in the matter of education. It is necessary for the students in the English elementary and preparatory boarding schools to belong to the gentry. To come from one of these schools almost settles a young Englishman's status in society. Positions in public life and the dignified branches of commercial life are limited to these school men. The name of their school has a similar influence to the fraternities in the United States, but it carries weight among all classes of people. "Never again will men and women be quite as they have been in the past," says Professor Devine. "We shall be a lost nation indeed if after this war we are not a very different nation."

Washington—A bill has been introduced by Senator Walsh, of Montana, amending the Statehood act of Montana, the Dakotas and Washington by providing that all lands granted by that act for educational purposes shall be disposed of only at public sale at not less than ten dollars an acre, the proceeds to form a permanent school fund, the interest only to be spent in support of the schools.

Boston—The Massachusetts Institute of Technology is arranging for the dedication next June of its great new plant across the Charles river in Cambridge. The full membership of undergraduate will remain over for the event, which is made additionally important because it is the fiftieth anniversary of the famous scientific school.

RECREATION NOTES

The Washington School will be open tonight for the following activities: Social club meeting in auditorium; Glee club rehearsal in kindergarten room; sewing class meeting; game room will be open, and roller skating will be held in basement.

Tomorrow night the Dunbar dance will be held and the Dramatic Club will meet.

TO SING "THE CRUCIFIXION."

Stainer's "Crucifixion" will be rendered at the Church of the Holy Cross on Tuesday evening, April 18, at 8 o'clock, by the full vested choir and augmented choir under the direction of Charles Davis, organist and choirmaster. The soloists will be W. J. R. Thiers, tenor; William Holmes, baritone. Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will officiate.

MOTHERS' WORK

Cultivation.

By Burges Johnson.

My mother says I'm much too small
To have a garden of my own.
She says I take no pains at all
To tend my plants, from spring to fall;
That's why they haven't grown.
She says they can't get tall and strong
Unless they're watered right along.

I want to let my mother know
That I can truly do a lot.
I'm big enough to help, and so
I'm making baby sister grow—
She's such a tiny tot.
And things won't grow, the folks all say,
Unless they're watered every day.

Standards and Tendencies.

The law of imitation, not the law of heredity is the potent factor in shaping the lives of our children into channels that will ultimately become their permanent idea. Character is caught, not taught. Children in their adolescent period are possessed by a tremendous craving for excitement, and of an emotional power that must be harnessed in the right direction, not checked off. This power is bound to bubble forth and seek its most natural level. Right surroundings will bring about the proper standard, and the effort to clamp down the lid on youthful effervescence, leaving the field barren of a substitute just as powerful in its scope is nothing more than invitation to subtle influences inimical of character building.—Mrs. Meigs, to State Congress of Mothers.

Prevention of Choking.

Prevent choking accidents by not allowing children to hold small objects in their mouths while playing. Screws, pins, beans, grains of corn, or little whistles should not be held in the mouth.

Choking.

For choking, slap the person on the back between the shoulders. A very young child who is choking will often be helped by raising the arms as high as possible above the head. Another way is to hold the child with its stomach on your knee and its head bent down while you slap the back gently. If a small object has been swallowed, sometimes it causes less trouble to let it through the body than to try to get it outu. In this case the patient should eat a quantity of bread or potatoes, which will help to carry the object through and prevent it from hurting the body. Do not give castor oil or other laxative.

The Problem of Bullying.

Bullying is an exaggerated, cruel form of teasing, and the solution seems to be in meeting the question of guiding the child into a happy occupation of work or play. The question is less one of punishment to bring control than of device for giving proper scope to these characteristics. If he has skill or ability which will enable him to stand at the head and he will hold that pace by honest effort, his desire to rule and reign will have that foundation under it that removes arrogance. If he is not able to excel and must give vent to his feeling of superiority by the enforced submission of the weak, his main chance of working out his impulse naturally and normally will be in play. If the bulying boy can dril a squad of younger boys it will help him. If he can umpire a ball game he will get the necessary moral relation between responsibility and leadership and learn to use his superior strength in helpful ways.

Lantern Slides for Schools.

The Department of Public Instruction takes pleasure in announcing that, through the interest of the curator of the State Museum, Silas R. Morse, it will be able, after September 1, 1915, to loan a limited number of sets of lantern slides for the purpose of illustrating various phases of school work.

Through the co-operation of the different State Departments—Education, Geology, Forestry, Fish and Game, Library, Road, Board of Health and Agriculture—about 2,500 slides have already been procured. More than 1,000 of these are for the exclusive use of the Department of Public Instruction and will be loaned, for educational purposes, to superintendents, principals, teachers and school officials, without charge except cost of transportation.

The slides now on hand include the following: Places of interest in New Jersey, 100 slides; historical sites in Philadelphia, 25 slides; United States Mint, Philadelphia, 50; Washington, D. C., 100; Niagara Falls, 60; Florida, 25; Yellowstone National Park, 30; Grand Canyon of Colorado, 25; Panama Canal, 25; primary education, 100; literature, 75; physical geography, 300; geology, 75; history, 75; American history, 50; physiology, 50; agriculture, 50; forestry, 100; industries of New Jersey, 50; manufactures, 50; travel, 75; people and customs, 100; transportation, 100; comparison of school buildings, 50; birds, 90; mammals, 50; miscellaneous, 150. It is hoped that additions will be made from time to time.

All applications and correspondence concerning these slides should be adressed to S. R. Morse, curator of the State Museum, Trenton.

Serving Its Twenty-ninth Year. PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1916. Sports Dept. Tel. 3000—Extension 3.

Pictchers Main Factors In 1916 Pennant Fights

Other things being fairly equal, it is the club that is strongest in the box that wins pennants, and it is interesting to consider the coming major league race from that viewpoint. There will be no great change in the pitching staffs of the various clubs, on account of any acquisition of Federal or minor league talent. With a few brilliant exceptions, the Gilmore circuit twirlers did not show any great class, and the recruit crop this year does not promise anything sensational. Of course, the Mathewsons, Johnsons and Alexanders of the future may be devoloped this annum, but at the moment of rushing to press they are not visible to the nude eye.

In the American League, the pitching honors seem to belong on past form to the Red Sox. On a paper judgment the world's champions seem to have a considerable margin over the best of their competitors. The Griffith hurling staff, headed by the great Johnson, might be chosen as standing second to the Sox. Rowland's White Sox loom more formidable in other departments than in pitching, and the same is true of the Tigers. With an air-tight defense, their pitchers may be classy enough to give the Red Sox a bitter struggle. Great as is the Washington club in the twirling department, it does not look like a pennant possibility. If old Gettysburg Plank can do as well in the American as he did in the Feds, and Davenport and Weilman live up to expectations, the humble Browns are very likely to lose their taste for humble pie and aspire to pennant cake. The Yanks, Athletics and Clevelands don't look dangerous in the pitching department when viewed from the front elevation of the season. Connie's youthful slabsters look promising, but there is little likelihood that the redemption of the promises will occur in 1916.

The one best bet in the National League pitching department seems to be Brooklyn. There are a lot more "ifs" connected with the Tener twirlers than now appear in the American League, however, and the pitching strength of a majority of the clubs seems very problematical. Dell, Pfeffer, Rucker, Smith, Coombs, Mails, Marquard and Cheney look like a very nice table for Uncle Wilbert. Marquard, of course, is a perambulating interrogation point, and Cheney and Coombs are also in the "if" class. If Robbie's veterans come across with the goods, the triumphant song of the Robins is going to be heard in the land. The Braves have a large "if" in Bill James. If the big Californian should succeed in getting rid of the kink in his shoulder, Stallings would have a pitching staff almost invincible. Pat Moran's prospects in the pitching division are all sicklied over with doubts and misgivings. Alexander was the big noise in winning last year's flag for the Phillies, and if he is as good this year as last all may be well along the Delaware. Without the best services of Grover the Great, it is difficult to see where the Phils will have a chance to repeat. Joe Tinker's outfit includes several good pitchers, but no star of the first magnitude. The Cubs have Vaughn, Pierce, Lavender, and Hendrix, McConnell, Seaton and other Feds on their pitching staff. The Giants can put little dependence on their old standby, Christy Mathewson, and will have to depend on Benton, Tesreau, Perritt, Stroud and Anderson. The Reds look to be considerably improved in pitching, and Callahan has four good men in Mamaux, Harmon, Adams and Kantlehner. The Cardinals will depend on the old staff, which measures up pretty well.

"Cobb Best Player, and Stallings Best Manager"

"It's a hard thing to pick a winner in the National League race this season," says Dick Hoblitzell, Cincinnati's representative on the Red Sox world's champion team. "The eight clubs were wonderfully balanced last year and they have all been braced up for the coming struggle. If a shade can be given any team before the start, I'd slip it to Boston and do it on account of George Stallings. In my opinion Stallings is the greatest manager in the National League. He knows baseball and he knows his men; he can call the turns in the game, and he can make his men go at almost superhuman speed. Only the long lay-off of James and Evers kept Boston from winning in a walk last year, and the only thing that keeps me from picking the Braves right now to develop to an overwhelming degree, has been added to a couple of other teams.

"The Reds? Looks like a real ball club. I don't want to criticize Charley Herzog as a manager, because he is still learning the intricate points of the managerial game, but I have to give it to Buck as the fleriest individual ball player there is, a veritable demon, and likely by the force of his own example to carry a club along with him.

"I'm unhesitatingly picking the Red Sox as the sure winner of the American League. It's a grand ball club, and the more I see of it, the more delighted I am to have landed with such a crew. The class is there, and I don't see how you can keep such a club from coming through. Of course, like everybody else, I was surprised to learn that the team had asked waivers on Wood, Collins, Cady and Thomas—but the team is able to take care of itself even without these four others, great players though they are. Wood hasn't been as strong physically as before, though he's good enough even when in poor health, to beat most adversaries. Collins has announced his retirement anyhow. As to Cady and Thomas, Carrigan evidently intends to depend on Sam Agnew. Say, there's the greatest catcher of them all! Talk about Archer's matchless throwing, on my word, this Agnew is a better thrower than Archer; the best pegger that ever I saw shoot a ball to second.

"Yes, we have a great ball club, but no club can ever count itself safe when matched against one lonely player, which the same is Tyrus Cobb. I only wish the Cincinnati fans could see Cobb in action day after day—then they could appreciate what a man he is. Cobb's skill is beyond his physical limitations. He tears himself to pieces. He wrecks himself each season by his wonderful performances. He stole 96 bases in 1915 and he'd have stolen 116 if he hadn't worked himself to a shadow. He's the gamest player that there ever was, and his mind never stops planning and inventing. There's only one Cobb. That's all.

"One trick Cobb pulled on Derrill Pratt, the Brown's second baseman, was almost incredible. Cobb, stealing second, lost his balance, shot over the bag and flew away out in centre field. Pratt got the ball, and grinning, waited for him. Cobb moped back to the base, meekly surrendering, and deliberately held out one foot for Pratt to take him on. Pratt pawed at the foot, like a flash the foot disappeared, and Cobb, hurling himself over and over like a whirling dervish, came in and speared the bag with one hand!"

SPORTING NOTES

Revival of the twenty-four hour auto race is a possibility this summer at the Sheepshead Bay track.

The golfers have had their fling at Pinehurst, and are playing in another tournament at Asheville today.

The Southern League opens the baseball season in the South tomorrow. The American Association gets under way on Saturday.

The ponies will finish their canterings on the Bowie track tomorrow, and will be seen at Havre de Grace on Saturday.

The busy Ted Lewis will tackle Harry Trendall in his bailiwick, St. Louis, for ten rounds tonight.

Pat Moran, the silent manager of the National League champions, is confident that Alexander, his star twirler, will round into form within a few weeks.

California has its big track and field meet on Saturday, the Stanford and University of California boys being the rivals.

Jack Dillon and Billie Miske will entertain the boxing fans at St. Paul tomorrow night with a ten round bout. The cost of boxing bouts is going up, Dillion getting three thousand bucks

The Brooklyn Horse Show opened yesterday; and there are many novel features. The timber-toppers have eleven classes, including the Grafton long jump. There are five classes of military mounts, the star feature of these classes being the endurance control ride of fifteen miles, to be run on Saturday.

The tennis list for the season of 1916 has been issued by the United States National Lawn Tennis Association. It sanctions an open tournament today at the Ojai Valley Club, at Nordhoff, Calif. June, July and August are the big months in this sport.

The annual Memorial Day regatta of the New York Rowing Association will bring together this year an unusually speedy bunch of athletes. Single sculls, doubles, quadruples and eight-oar events are on the card. The races will be started at noon and the double referee system will be used.

The most spectacular race in the history of motor competition is to be staged on the snow-clad summit of Pine's Peak, 14,000 feet above the sea. The contest board of the A. A. SCORING RULES TO GUIDE FANS

Interpretations of Little, Perplexing Things in Baseball.

POINTS CLEARED BY HEYDLER

Secretary of National League's Recent Symposium Makes a Valuable Addition to the Accurate Literature of Our National Sport.

The pitcher has ever been the dominant factor in a baseball game. More rules govern his work and prescribe how it shall be performed than handicap or enhance the efforts of the other eight players.

The baseball public, even that part of it which is usually well informed, never has thoroughly understood the rules for determining runs earned off pitchers and the basic principles governing the determining of games won and lost where two or more pitchers participate for the same team in the same game. These rules are the result of years of experience and are considered as near perfect as expert baseball knowledge can devise.

John A. Heydler, secretary of the National league, has sent to each official scorer of the league a copy of the rules to determine the perplexing questions arising under these two heads. The rules follow:

1. When the pitcher is relieved by another, with runners on bases, charge up all such runners, in case they score, to the first pitcher. The relieving pitcher, coming into the game "cold" and possibly in the midst of a batting rally, cannot be held responsible for runners he may find on the bases, nor should he be charged up with the first batsman he faces reaching first if such batsman had any advantage because of the wild pitching of the first pitcher.

2. Where the relieving pitcher goes in with the score tie on even innings he must win or lose the game regardless of the number of innings or how effectively the first pitcher may have pitched. If the first pitcher is relieved with the score in his favor and later the score is tied up off second pitcher, then the latter wins or loses. A tie game at any stage (with no one on bases) must be considered to all intents and purposes as the start of the new game for the second pitcher.

3. Where the first pitcher is retired after pitching, say, seven innings he is entitled to the benefit of all runs scored by his side in an equal number of innings. For instance, Brown of the home club has pitched seven innings, with the score 2 to 0 against him. He is taken out when his turn at bat comes in the seventh. Before close of that inning his team has scored two runs. Brown retires with the game a tie, and the next pitcher becomes responsible.

4. Do not give the first pitcher credit for a game won, even if score is in his favor, unless he has pitched at least the first half of the game. A pitcher retired at close of fourth inning, with the score 2 to 1 in his favor, has not a won game. If, however, he is taken out because of his team having secured a commanding and winning lead in a few innings, then he is entitled to the game.

The good judgment of the scorer must determine on whether the pitcher is relieved because of ineffectiveness, or because he has a commanding lead, or because it becomes necessary at a critical stage to replace him by a stronger batsman.

5. Regardless of how many innings the first pitcher may have pitched he is charged with the loss of the game if he is retired with the score against him and his team is unable thereafter to tie or overcome that lead.

The following rules and suggestions are submitted for your guidance in determining runs earned off the pitcher:

An earned run shall be scored every time the player reaches home (before fielding chances have been offered to retire the side) by the aid of, first, base hits; second, sacrifice hits; third, stolen bases; fourth, bases on balls; fifth, hit batsmen; sixth, wild pitches; seventh, balks.

The intent of the rule is to include under the heading of earned runs all the factors that produce runs for which the pitcher is chiefly responsible.

Use your best judgment where differences of opinion arise regarding earned runs, particularly when one pitcher substitutes for another. Give the pitcher the benefit of the doubt on fielding errors and in determining the base to which a runner should have been held with perfect support on part of fielders.

An error made by pitcher is the same as though made by the other fielder and should not be charged against the pitcher's earned run record.

No run can be earned that scores as result of batsman having reached first on a fielding error or passed ball.

No run can be earned after the fielding side has missed a chance or chances to retire the side.

Do not score a double play in a case where an error intervenes between two putouts, thus breaking the continuity of the play.

Do not give an assist to the infielder who, with a runner on first, makes a bad throw in fielding a batted ball to that base and on which play the batsman is safe, but the first runner is subsequently retired in trying to advance.

Picture of Local Scholastic Champions, and Their Trophies, Taken.

At a meeting of the members of the Plainfield High School championship basketball team held yesterday afternoon, Robert McDowell was unanimously elected to the position of captain for next year. The past season was "Mac's" first year on the Red and Blue quintet, but he was one of the best forwards on the squad and pulled many games from the fire. The other players that will be left are Kyle and Snyder.

A picture of the entire squad was taken, the loving cup presented by the Daily Press and the medals given by the B. A. A. holding a prominent place. Those in the picture were Captain William Whelan, Carlton Dunham, Sheldon Coudray, Arthur Kyle, Robert McDowell, Gerald Linke, William Snyder and Herbert Peacock.

THIRTY-TWO ERRORS IN SCHOOLBOYS' BALL GAME

The baseball team of the New market School defeated the Whittier School team, of Dunellen, by the score of 10 to 5 on the local grounds yesterday afternoon. Both teams played loose ball, making a total of 32 errors. The Dunellen boys left town complaining bitterly of the grounds and promising to reek vengeance when the return game is played on their field.

MODEST DRESS FOR GIRLS.

Columbia University Social Director Suggests Clothes For Students.

Here are the rules for modest dressing that Miss Lucetta Daniell, social director of Teachers' college, suggests for Columbia college girls:

For the morning a neat blouse and ankle length skirt or a one piece frock of dark, substantial material, with white collars and cuffs.

For the afternoon, light colors and modestly cut necks.

Evening costumes may be low and short sleeved, but should not be entirely sleeveless.

RICH MEN'S SONS SHINE IN SPORT

Millionaires Win Honors in Various Strenuous Pastimes.

GOULD GETS WORLD'S TITLE

Young Jay In Class by Himself as Court Tennis Player, Williams Star in Lawn Tennis, Marston in Golf, Topping, Astor and Fields Are Others.

With fat bank rolls and nothing particular to do sons of many of our most prominent millionaires are now devoting themselves to the business of winning sporting titles. And they are making good. It is getting to be almost a regular thing for one to pick up newspapers and see the Goulds, Wanamakers, Marshall Fields, Astors and Fleischmanns taking conspicuous places in the sporting news.

These scions of wealthy families don't go in for what are known as the tame games. They prefer more action and pastimes which require "sporting blood," the sensation of a ninety mile an hour jaunt through the clouds in an aeroplane, the exhilaration of a thrilling polo match or the skill and stamina one must bring into play in a hard tennis set-to.

These moneyed youths—many of them could write their own checks for a fortune—are intently serious about their sport prospects. They have given up the idea of competing in games just to amuse a society gallery and are now keen about winning titles for their trophy rooms.

Heading the list of these young millionaire sport champions comes Jay Gould, son of George Gould, the railroad magnate. Young Jay possesses that rare distinction of being a world's champion in court tennis. With all the expensive sports open to him, Jay Gould some years ago decided on court tennis. At the Gould mansion in Lakewood, N. J., the future world's title holder learned his game from the ground up. For two years he practiced with a private tutor. When he was ready to make his public debut young Gould had few opponents to fear, and he went through them with express speed. In no time he won the American title. Then he sent a challenge abroad, and England replied with George F. Covey, the greatest pro star in the game. Covey and Gould met at the Philadelphia Racket club on March 19, 1914. Gould won seven sets to one.

A mention of the country's best tennis players would not be complete without R. Norris Williams, who comes from an immensely wealthy Philadelphia family. When but eighteeen years old Williams "made" the American team that invaded England in 1913 and returned with the historic cup. The following year Williams defeated Maurice McLoughlin for the American championship at Newport, which was one of the biggest surprises the games has ever known. Williams lost his title to William Johnston last year. Now he's getting ready to recapture his honors.

George Church, a strong contender for national tennis titles this season, is another youngster who'll never need to worry about the wolf coming near his door. Church captured the intercollegiate title in 1914, when he represented Princeton.

Golf can easily supply its share of millionaire competitors, with Maxwell R. Marston heading the list. He now holds the New Jersey state title. Then there's Henry Topping, who was recently presented with a $900,000 Fifth avenue (New York) mansion. Topping accompanied Travers, Ouimet, Evans and Herreshoff to England in 1914 and went further in the English championship than either Travers or Ouimet. In the same year Topping was runner up for the French title at La Boulie.

Polo especially appeals to the young millionaire sportsmen. Marshall Field 3d of the famous Chicago dry goods family cut a wide swath in polo circles in the south with his fearless riding.

There's sixteen-year-old Rodney Wanamaker, whose sensational playing at Pinehurst, N. C., has already stamped the Philadelphia youth as a future candidate for the international four. The same is true of Thomas Hitchcock, whose father is a celebrated horseman. Young Hitchcock, like Rodney Wanamaker, has shown his fitness for being regarded as future international material.

Automobile racing can show its number of millionaires. Grover Bergdoll, son of a wealthy Philadelphia brewer, not only races, but makes his own cars. The Bergdoll Special, which he always drives in a big race, he made himself. One of the youngest present day pilots is Caleb Bragg, a wealthy Californian, who is one of the cleverest drivers in the race.

One of the latest recruits to aerial sport is Vincent Astor. The young heir to the Astor millions owns two of the fastest hydroplanes in the United States, which he delights to pilot at his Rhinecliff (N. Y.) estate on the Hudson.

In the west there is Max Fleischmann, who already is a licensed aviator, one of the few society pilots in this country. Young Fleischmann has his own hangars and aeroplanes just outside of Cincinnati.

VICTORSON'S EXCELLENT PITCHING GIVES P. H. S. ITS FIRST CONTEST

Dunellen Boys' Work Against Trenton Mutes a Pleasant Surprise—Allows One Hit in Five Innings, and Whiffs Six Batsmen in First Two Innings—Timely Stickwork Gives Locals 8-2 Victory.

Playing a great brand of ball for so early in the season the Plainfield High School baseball team eisily won its first game of the season yesterday afternoon on Parker Field, trimming the Silent Workers from the Trenton School for the Dumb by an 8 to 2 score. By consent of both captains the game was limited to seven innings, or the score might have been more one-sided. The visitors did all their scoring in the third inning, while the Red and Blue cohorts scored in the second, third and fourth innings.

Victorson, during the five and a half innings he was in the box, showed rare form. He struck out nine of the silent ones and allowed only one hit. Hutchcroft, too, pitched some good ball the short time he was in, but was inclined to be a little wild.

Victorson started off the first inning by strike out three out of the four men to face him and walking the other. The locals were also retired on Dunham's base on balls, Kyle's sacrifice, Mills' grounder to pitcher and Apgar's fly to left field. "Vic" again registered three strikeouts out of the first four men to face him in the second inning. Starting off for the locals, Linke got to first on an error, went to second when Noonan walked and rode home with the first counter on McDowell's clean single to left field. Noonan took third and McDowell second on the throw-in. Lewis' single to center sent both men home, but he was caught stealing second on a throw from the catcher. Victorson took the count for three strikes and Dunham died on an infield hit.

The Silent Workers garnered their two runs in the next session on a scratch hit by Doyle and his steal of second just before "Vic" walked Crampo. Crampo was out in attempting a double steal, but Doyle got to third. Shaw walked and stole second, and Doyle rode home, followed by Shaw on a single by McCormack. P. H. S. got another in the last half. Apgar got a life on a wallop bringing him home from the midway station

Two strike-outs and a fly to center retired the visitors and gave the locals a chance to double their score in the fourth. McDowell's base on balls and steal of second, and walks by Lewis and Victorson filled the bases, when after both Dunham and Kyle had flied to left, Mills' passed ball on the third strike allowed the three to romp home. Mills got around the four bags on a steal of second and a long fly to left by Linke.

The fifth and sixth innings went without anyone scoring, and the visitors were retired in their half of the seventh after Hutchcroft had passed three men in succession.

Not an extra base blow was registered in the game, the stiff wind being partly responsible. Noonan, Kyle, Apgar, McDowell and Linke, however, did some hefty sticking and at opportune times. Only two strike-outs were made by the local schoolboys. The Patch forces showed enough in their first game of the season to give indications of a successful schedule. "Vic," if he keeps up his present pace, should be a star in schoolboy circles even though it is his first year in the box.

"SOUL WINNING"

Sermon of the Rev. W. E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Last Night.

Text, Prov. 11:31—"He that winneth souls is wise."

The Germans have a word they call "Undiegdenk." It means absent-mindedness. Some people say that's what's the matter with the church. I don't think so. There's nothing very criminal about it. A fellow gets to wandering around among the multiplicity of things that crowd a busy man's brain so that he sometimes overlooks the thing at hand he ought to do and really meant to do. His intentions are all right.

Like the fellow who wanted to take a bath. He went up to the bath room, took off his clothes and stepped into the tub. He stood there a few seconds, scratched his head and said, "Let me see; what did I get in here for."

But to say that's what is the matter with the church is entirely too charitable. She's suffering from an invalidity of another kind and far more serious in its nature. The individual Christian is pretty much what he wants to be and what's true of the component parts of a thing is true of the sum total of the thing itself.

I'm afraid the trouble is she sees and knows her one supreme business of the hour, but she does not and will no do it. It's Heart disease the church is suffering from. It's in the pulpit and it's in the pew. I am afraid some of our thological seminaries are boring the guns too small for the load we've got to fire. A lot of preachers have forgotten what they were called of God to do if they were ever called at all.

Sail Trimmers in Pulpit.

And then there are too many sail trimmers in the pulpit. Do you remember what John the Baptist did when he saw the lecherous old king in his congregation with his brother Philip's wife? He loaded his rapid firing gospel gun with the powder of God's wrath and rammed in the bullet of the Seventh Commandment and shot it into him good and hard.

If all the preachers whose mouths have been shut and whose lips have been padlocked because of expediency or fear or a man-pleasing spirit, would make a confession of it we would know one of the reasons at least and one of the big ones why the church has played the harlot so much and gone off to live with the world.

I don't know what kind of a judgment God is going to bring on this nation if society don't soon cry a halt in the reckless, Godless extremes to which we are going. It was this thing that rotted the heart of Rome, sung Babylon into hell and made licentious Cleopatra's kingdom on the Nile a hissing and byword among the nations of the earth. And if American society keeps agoing in the course it's running now, God only knows, but it won't be long until it's rotten ripe for destruction, too.

And the saddest thing about it is that the church has forgotten her vow and is hitting the pace with the rest of the bunch. God have mercy in a Christian home that can't get along without a deck of cards and God pity the church member who can feed her soul and be satisfied on the sensual indulgences of the ballroom and the moral rot of present time society in general.

Heart Disease in Church.

A Georgia town went wet a short time ago and here is the reason given by one of the prominent citizens of the place: "If we are going to stand for our women folks to wear the diaphonous, the shadow and split skirts, tight form fitting and vulgar decollette gowns, and our younger women learning to dance the Tango, the Turkey Trot, the Texas Tommy, the Bunny Hug, the Grizzly Bear, the Boll-Weavel Wiggle, the Calf Canter, the Flea Hop, the Buzzard Flop, and so on down the line—the men folks may as well have their saloons and the whole bunch go to hell together."

Now you know what the trouble is. It's heart disease. The church knows her business but she don't seem to like her job. You know what the business of the church is. It's to win this world to Jesus and your business as an individual member of it is to do your part of the job.

It's the biggest business in the world. I think if it were given heaven to do that angels would vie with archangels and Cherubim with Seraphim in their haste to reach the earth to undertake it. But as Jeremy Taylor says, "When God would save a man He does it by way of a man." And no other human achievement can begin to compare with that of personally clasping a man by the hand and leading him to Christ and to heaven. When Paul led the Phillipian jailer to Christ he did a bigger work than Christ did when He raised Lazarus from the grave.

It's a great thing to sit on a throne and mold the destiny of a nation; it's a great thing to be the commander of some vast army if the sword has been drawn for conscience and not for conquest; it's a great thing to be a Marconi, a Sir Oliver Lodge, a Tennyson, a Cernegie or some other genius of invention or science or literature or finance, and these can rightly be called great men, but believe it, there's a greatness of another kind that surpasses all these like the blazing light of the sun surpasses the pale light of a tallow candle.

The Glory of Saving.

There's an old legend and it runs something like this. "A king called his artist to him and said, 'Make me a man,' and the artist chiseled a superb figure from the snowy marble and brought it in before the king. But the king cried, 'It can't breathe, make me a man.' Once more the artist went away and this time he molded a masterly figure out of wax and it was so rich in color and so life-like that the blood seemed to be coursing through its veins and he brought it in to the king's palace. And the king was pleased with the genius of his artist, but he ran his hand over his masterpiece of workmanship, he cried, 'It is cold; make me a man.' And then the artist went into the streets and found a beggar; he cleansed him and dressed him and brought him to the king and said, 'Oh, king, I could not make a man myself, but here is one God made and whom I have found and saved.' And the king said, 'Well done; the man who saves is nearly like in greatness to the God who makes.'"

God has blessed my own life in many ways. He has made it possible for me to sit at the feet of the world's greatest teachers that I might pick up a few crumbs from the table of their vast learning; He has given me an iron constitution; He has given me what I need of this world's goods and more so that I might give to others; He has permitted me to speak daily to thousands of people and blessed the effort until I have seen vast audiences of men and women swayed by the power of the Holy Spirit like a field of ripened grain overswept by a storm of wind in July. And for all these things I thank Him from the depths of my soul, but I thank Him most for the privilege He has given me and the joy of taking many a lost soul by the hand and throwing light upon the path that has led it to the redemption that is found in Jesus Christ.

When Matthew Henry, the great Bible Commentator, was dying he said, "I would think it greater happiness to gain one soul for Christ than mountains of silver and gold for myself." And when Lyman Beecher was on his death bed they said of him, "You have known a great deal, tell us what is the greatest of all things," and he said, "It is not theology; it is not controversy; it is to save souls."

No wonder the Bible says, "He that winneth souls is wise," and no wonder it says, "They that are wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever."

Making It Personal.

Now, let's take a little while and look into this business of saving souls. I want to make it personal. There's no use pouring medicine on the roof of a hospital, and you can pack a library with good books, but that isn't what it's for.

Now in the first place: A man to do this kind of work must be right, of course, in his own heart. If what you are speaks so loud people can't hear what you say you had beter not touch this work at all with your unholy hands. You might as well expect hell to rise up and sing the doxology as to expect people to put any confidence in you as long as they know you are inconsistent in your life.

One of the reasons Charles Dickens didn't become a spiritualist was because he went to one of their seances and he asked the medium to call up for him the spirit of Lindley Murray, an intelligent gentleman friend of his. Well, the medium rung up central and got in connection with the headquarters of hell and in due time the spirit appeared and Dickens said, "Are you Lindley Murray?" And the spirit said, "I are." "You're a liar," Dickens said: "If you were Lindley Murray, you'd use good grammar." People have no use for a miserable old sham.

In a meeting like this a prominent church officer walked up to an editor and asked him to become a Christian and the editor looked at him in utter amazement and he reminded him of a trip they had made to a neighboring city, of a card party where beer was served and of a theatre party and the stories told in the hotel room after it was over, and he said, "You'd better go and talk to some one who don't know you quite as well as I do."

And out in a town in Illinois there was an old Methodist who had a poor woman wash for them every week and paid her the magnificent sum of 50 cents. One day when it rained he asked her to stay for dinner and when the old skinflint came to pay her he kept out 25 cents for the dinner and then he had the face to go to her in a revival meeting and ask her to become a Christian. She said she felt like spitting in his face. If it had been me and I hadn't been a Christian, I'd knocked four kinds of pork out of him right in the meeting. I might have done something, anyhow.

You Know Your Own Heart.

Now, you know well enough whether people have got respect for you; you know well enough what kind of a life you are living; and if you're an old deadbeat and you've skinned the grocery-keeper; if you lie a little once in a while to gain a point; if you call yourself a Christian and keep beer in your cellar; if people can't tell the difference between you and the worldly bunch you are sometimes seen with—then let other people do the personal work and you come down and get down on your own miserable knees where you belong.

Now when the heart is right, what next? Four things.

1. You must realize the value of a soul. Jesus Christ sets it over against the whole world, and says, "What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul, or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

Here's a man who has lost his health and you say, "It's sad;" another man has lost his wealth and you say, "it's sad;" and here's a man who has lost his child; death came and stuck its black hand out and grabbed it away, and you say, "It's sad," and your sympathy goes out. But here's a man who has lost his soul. Like Faust, he sold himself to the Devil. His god was money and lust; and yet people will stand by his coffin and see his body go down in the grave and instead of being shocked with horror at the thought of the judgment awaiting his soul and the eternity into which he must go and what it means for him, they think usually of just another citizen gone, and he's forgotten almost before the hearse gets back to the shed.

People will feed their bodies and starve their souls; they will insure their automobiles and let their soul go to the devil. The soul side of their nature doesn't seem to have any value. But you know better.

Criminal to Trifle With Souls.

I heard of a man who trifled with a precious stone on shipboard until he lost it over the side of the boat. But what is the most priceless jewel compared with a soul? Think of how it can shine for God in this old world so stricken with sin and then think of its immortality — to live and shine among the redeemed of God or to go out into the midnight of eternal sin and be smitten with its curse forever — think of this and then tell me how could we ever be so thoughtless and so indifferent and so criminally careless as to trifle with another man's soul or with an opportunity to save it for Christ and for heaven.

2. Then you must realize in the next place that a soul without Christ is really lost.

A house burned down in Albany, N. Y., some time ago and the father and son went down in the basement dining room to drag out a big piece of valuable furniture. It got wedged in the door and they couldn't budge it another inch. The father was pulling and so he was outside in the hall, but the son was pushing and so he was penned up in the basement room. The flames broke in and the smoke rolled round about him. The frantic father threw himself against the sideboard, but it was no use and realizing the extreme peril and the horror of the situation, he ran around to the basement window. He grabbed hold of the iron bars imbedded in the masonry and with superhuman strength he bent them almost double and tore them from their fastening and pulled his boy right out of the very mouth of the flames. A friend of mine told this story to illustrate this point in my sermon, and the Christian people were mightily stirred. I had another friend who heard him do it and he tried it the next Sunday. He told how that father made a battertng ram out of himself and almost telescoped himself trying to butt that furniture out of the door, and how like a wild-eyed madman he ran around the house and took hold of those bars and twisted and pulled to the bursting point of his veins and tore them out and pulled his son out through the hole. But the audience was not moved and there was no response and he asked his wife to tell him what was the matter, when he got home. He said he thought he was doing it just fine! "Yes, dear," she said, "you did it very well, but you forgot to tell the people the house was on fire!"

"That Ain't What God Says."

To act like that when there is no fire is the part of a maniac and when there is no sense of impending peril and no realization that a soul without Christ is lost and in awful danger, there will be no heart-straining effort to save.

No wonder the church is asleep on her job with Universalism and Unitarism and Spiritualism and Theosophy and Christian Science and a lot of other unchristian ignorance saying, "Tut, tut; don't get excited; we'll all be little gods after a while." And so nobody is lost. But that ain't what God says.

3. The third thing is this: You must realize your own responsibility in this matter. Can you imagine a house in flames and a woman in the second story window crying, "Help! Help!" and some fellow going along the road and saying, "Madam, you no doubt are finding yourself in a serious predicament; if in some way you can get a ladder about thirty feet long and lean it against the window you will no doubt find it to your interest to use it in crawling out of that building." And yet that's about the extent of the average church member's interest in the salvation of those who are not Christians. You appreciate your responsibility about as much as a dead fireman appreciates the sound of the gong ringing the alarm for fire or a dead soldier appreciates the trumpet call to arms.

Our Brother's Keeper.

Mighty God, help us! How will we ever amount to anything unless we appreciate that in this as in everything else that pertains to the welfare of others that "we are our brother's keeper," and God some day is going to put a question to a good many of you that'll make you ashamed to look in his face.

4. And then finally you must have a passion for souls.

I recall the splendid Christian life of a friend of mine in Scranton, Pa. He was a specialist in medical practice and because of some severe affliction of his own in connection with the spinal column he could walk only with great difficulty. He leaned a bit to one side and a little back. He was really an object of pity in this respect, although you would not notice his body so much because of the attraction of his great soul within it.

I had gone back to Scranton after some years of absence to speak to men only in the opera house. Twenty-five hundred men were present and God marvelously moved them. They came seeking Christ in such numbers I had to call them upon the stage by a narrow stairway running up from the orchestra pit. Directly I saw this crippled man wobbling up the stairway in the midst of the crush and I thought, "Oh, why does Dr. Dean try to come up here now just to grasp the hand of his old friend? Why doesn't he wait till the close? But in a moment more he reached me and said, "Hello, Biederwolf; here is a man who wants Christ; isn't he a fine looking fellow?' And there my old friend stood, his face shining with an inexpressible joy. He had persuaded the big strapping fellow by his side that he needed Christ and had pushed him down the aisle and was helping him up the steep, narrow, crowded stairway and I thought every second as I saw him coming that he would slip or be pushed off and injured. But it was the soul he wanted for his Master. How long would it be until this old world would lift up its head and salute its Christ if only the church had a spirit like that? It's not the ability we need. God will make completely over against that man who is willing and wanting to win souls for Christ. It's the passion for the lost we lack. God give it to us in these days.

Prayer, Patience and Persistence.

But wait; we're not quite through. When all this has been said, there's something else. He that winneth souls is wise. There are three things—prayer, patience and persistence. With these you are bound to win.

1. Prayer. It is said there is a time for everything and so there must be a time to quit praying; and there is. The time to quit praying is when God quits giving.

Hold on to God. Don't be like the woman who had a little cottage at the foot of a mountain and prayed one night for God to take the mountain away and next morning as she saw it where it always was, she said, "Just as I expected." Be like the woman who was praising God for the conversation of her husband and when someone asked her when he was converted she said, "Oh he isn't converted yet but he's going to be."

You can take "no" for an answer when you pray for some things, but never when you pray for a soul, for it's not the will of God that any should perish and when you ask for anything according to God's will it must be done if you live right and do your part.

Pray definitely for God to regenerate that soul and live expecting Him to do it, and if you die, die believing it shall be done.

The Story of a Prodigal.

Do you know that story of the Godless young man who left his home to get away from his mother's prayers? After 16 years he came back. He reached the village in the eventime. He knocked at the door and sure enough a stranger opened it. He said, "Go across the way; there's an old man who has lived there for twenty years; he can tell you." And when he knocked at the neighbor's door the old man said, "Why, Jack, is this you? Jack you're too late; no letter ever came but your old mother watched every train, thinking it might bring her boy back and she died praying for you. We took her out last week and laid her under the willow tree in the graveyard just by the church." And the young man made his way out to it. There was no way to mistake the grave. And he stood there in the deepening shadow of the night and his eyes filled with tears and at last he fell down upon his knees and bowed himself over his mother's grave and cried aloud and said, "Who will pray for me now since mother's gone?" And there on his knees by the grave he answered his mother's prayer and gave his heart and his life to his mother's God. "Unanswered yet? Nay, do not say ungranted.

Perhaps your part is not yet wholly done.
The work began when first your prayer was uttered,
And God will finish what He hath begun."

Must Also Have Patience.

2. The second thing is patience. I read in Stanley's history of the Jewish people a legend about Abraham. He was sitting in his tent door when he saw an old white-haired man bent with age and leaning on a staff and he invited the dusky, tired old fellow to turn in. When they sat down to eat the old fellow commenced to eat without praying and Abraham asked him why he didn't thank God for his meat, and the old man told him that he worshipped fire only and acknowledged no other God. And Abraham said, "Get out, you miserable old heathen" and he put him out of his tent in the darkness of the night and told him to beat it. And Abraham went to bed and in the late hours of the night he heard the voice of God. And God said, "Abraham, Abraham!"

And Abraham said, "Yes, Lord, here I am."

And God said, "Abraham, where is the old man I sent you this evening?"

And Abraham said, "He denied thee Lord, and I put him out."

And God said, "Abraham, Abraham, I have borne with that man for a hundred long years; couldn't you have borne with him for one night only?"

I know it's sometimes hard to be patient; they're stubborn and unyielding and sinful and Godless and many an old husband and father or someone else that ought to be saved has had enough prayer and warning and waiting to save an intelligent and thoughtful man of brain and heart 10,000 times over, and yet you can't budge them. But God's patience has been tried more than yours could possibly be. He's had to put up with the insolence and the insult and the sin not only of that man or of that woman, but he had to bear with you. How long was it before you gave up your cussedness and pitched your beer bottles on the dump heap and your cards to the furnace and ripped your ball room clothes into carpet rags and let God come into your life? Let's remember all this and ask God for more of His patience and His forbearance and His long-suffering and we'll be wiser in winning souls than we've ever been before. God help us!

Keep Everlastingly at It!

3. The last thing is persistence. And by that I mean patience in activity. I mean getting on the job and staying there and helping God answer your prayer. Keek everlastingly at it.

A fellow said, "I'm about discouraged; I've tried for a long time to win my friend for Christ and I can't stir him."

"How long have your worked with him?" someone said.

"About two weeks," came the reply.

"And how long after you were first spoken to was it before you became a Christian?" was next asked.

"Well," he said, "it must have been about five years."

"Then," said the other, "you've got four years, eleven months and two weeks in which to stick to your friend before he has as good a chance as you had."

God has said, "He that goeth forth and weepeth bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing bringing his sheaves with him," and by all the love you bear for anyone for whom Christ died, by all the joy of acceptance and by all the misery of neglect which depend upon that soul's decision I beg of you to pray the prayer of faith, to be patient until the day of God's good pleasure and to be persistent in tender, thoughtful service, and if here upon this earth you do not see the travail of your soul and be satisfied, then as sure as God is heaven's eternal King, when He comes again to make up His jewels, you shall come with rejoicing, bringing the ripe sheaves of your harvest with you and sit down side by side in the kingdom with those for whom you prayed and waited and toiled until watering with your tears the precious seed you sowed you left it in the hands of God and came at his silent call to take your place among the redeemed about the throne.

We Must Get Busy at Once.

And now what shall we do? What is the order of the hour? It's to get busy and win souls. Begin at once. I hate this everlasting getting ready to get ready. When Stonewall Jackson wanted to get over the Shenendoah River in twenty-four hours' time he told his old bridge builder to get the thing done as quick as he could and said he had ordered his engineer to prepare the plans and hand them over immediately. About ten hours later he asked old Miles, for that was his name, how he was getting along, and the old man said, "General, the bridge is built; I don't know whether the picture is done or not."

He that winneth souls is wise. My brother preacher, it's the personal touch the world is dying for and it's this touch that will be remembered.

One of our American preachers was once to preach in the pulpit of the famous Scotch minister, McCheyne. He asked for some one who knew him personally but could not find anyone. All had died or moved away since his day. At last in the doorway of the church he met an old Scotchman who was bent down beneath the pressure of ninety years and this old man told him that he had heard McCheyne preach. He asked the told man to tell him what his text was but he couldn't do it. Then he asked him to tell him something about the sermon, but he couldn't do it. Well, could he tell something about his pulpit manners and the trembling old man said, "No."

"But," he said, "there is one thing I can tell you. I will never forget when I was a mere lad by the roadside one day, McCheyne came along. He stopped by me, came over to the side of the fence where I stood and said, 'Jamie, I'm going to see your sick sister. I am afraid she is not going to live., Then he put his hand on my head and said, as the tears ran down his face, 'Jamie, lad, I am concerned about your soul; I want you to give your heart to Christ; I must have you saved. 'Ah,' said the old Scotchman, 'I have forgotten everything else about McCheyne, but I can still see the tears in his eyes and I can feel those trembling fingers on my head yet.'"

My Salary is Big.

I have had it said of me by the unbeliever that I was getting paid for my work and I gratefully acknowledge my income. Listen. I am getting paid indeed and the salary is big. I went one time to a little town in western Indiana to preach. It was a bitter cold day in January. Just down before me about three seats from the front sat a little old man with his wife. Just a glance and I knew they were hard working Germans, but I could not account for the way they kept their eyes riveted on the preacher. They never lost me for a second and immediately as I pronounced the benediction and stepped down from the small platform the old man fairly dragged the little woman out and down to the front, saying as he did it, "Come on Katrina, here he is." I thought for a moment I was going to be embarrassed. The old man took my hand and put it in the hand of his wife and then with his own he held them both and already the little old-fashioned woman's eyes were filling with tears, while the old man said, "Kathrina, this is the man; this is the man who saved our Jacob," and looking up to me he said with trembling lips, "This is the father and mother of Jacob Dexter."

Story of Jacob Dexter.

Jacob Dexter had been a corporal of Company I of the 161st I. V. I., and down in Cuba it had been my privilege to lead him to Christ. A little later the smallpox with its deadly blight came into our regiment and already four of the boys had been carried into the quarantine tent to do battle there for life and a nurse was needed. You can well understand what it meant, but in the spirit of his new found Christ, Jacob Dexter volunteered to go. I can see him yet as he stepped in and the folds of the tent closed behind him. One after another he nursed his companions through, but the price he paid was his own heroic life. And one day when his spirit had gone into, the skies we carried his coffin to the tent and took his body down to the quiet burial place and to the music of the waves and the moaning of the palms and the bugle taps we laid it beneath the red soil just up from Piava's coast. It was No. 16.

And on that bitter winter morning a year after that humble German couple had driven fourteen miles through the cold and storm that they might have just one look upon the face of the man who had led their boy to Christ. And think you not as I stood there, while the old man's lips trembled and I felt the hot tears of that humble-hearted, grateful mother falling down upon my hand, that I was getting paid. Yes, I am getting paid. You make no mistake when you said it, although you did not mean it well. There's nothing pays like leading someone to Christ.

Will you go on that pay roll tonight? Will you say, "God helping me, I'll be a winner of souls." Paul said, "I have become all things to all men if by all means I might save some." Will you say it tonight?" He that winneth souls is wise. God help you to be wise.

The neat head over this column was drawn for the Daily Press by Judge William N. Runyon. Judge Runyon is an interested worker for the Tabernacle meetings and is acting as head of the corps of ushers. In addition to being a good worker, he is also an attorney, a politician, a speaker, a musician, and, as the "Sawdust and Shavings" caption shows, an artist.

The electric cross above the pulpit was lighted last night for the first time.

"Mac" was not back last night but "Sunny Jim" Heaton was on the job. The chorus choir did great work.

Mr. Sluyter rendered a fine solo, "Zion." He has a rich voice.

We missed some of the ministers last night on account of so many annual church business and parish meetings.

Tomorrow afternoon a great 'teens meeting will be held at the Pine Temple. All between the ages of 13 and 19 are cordially invited. Time, 2:15.

Dr. Biederwolf began his preaching service at 8:20.

In introducing a selection by the quartet Dr. Biederwolf said that in all cities it had been rendered it had been received by the cultured people who said they liked it, so he knew the Plainfielders would surely enjoy it.

During the choir practice, after the big meeting, a hymn was whistled by the men. Mr. Heaton brought out a few blushes when he told the women they would know where to come if they wanted a canary.

Dr. Biederwolf will speak at the 'teens meeting. Subject, "A Foot Race Between a Woman and a Man."

The orchestra and the chorus choir have been very faithful in their attendance, and they are "right there" when it comes to music.

Dr. Biederwolf found it necessary to mention the fact that there are a great many social affairs going on in this city during the campaign. He said that in all of the other cities which he has visited arrangements were made so that this confliction was avoided.

The great street demonstration on Saturday night will be one of the many features of the campaign program.

A night letter was sent to the little Scotchman, McEwan, by the chorus choir.

The National Male Quartet rendered a fine "darky song" entitled "Heaven."

In asking for the offering last night Dr. Biederwolf said, "He said 'the silver and gold are mine,' he didn't say anything about the copper and nickel, now put in the Lord's money!"

Dr. Biederwolf receive a letter from Mr. McEwan, mailed at his home in Binghamton, N. Y. "Mac" reports that he was taken with an attack of acute indigestion at Newark, while en route to Allentown, Pa. He called a doctor who ordered him to go home for a few days' quiet. He says that he is much better and will soon return to Plainfield.

Today at noon Dr. Biederwolf and the National Male Quartet held a meeting in the International Motor Company's works.

Tomorrow at 12:10 a. m., the quartet and a speaker will hold a meeting in the Hall Printing Company's plant.

Besides being a preacher of great power, Dr. Biederwolf is quite an athlete for a member of the clergy. In his university days, "Biede" was one of the leaders in the field of athletics. In football and baseball he was a regular machine, feared by all opponents. The smell of spring in the air yesterday brought to the evangelist's mind memories of the early school days when the team pitchers would get out in the street to "play catch" and start developing an arm for the season. Citizens passing the Biederwolf home yesterday evening on their way to dinner were no doubt surprised to see the "preacher man" throwing twisters, spit-balls, slow balls and speed balls at the big Welshman of the quartet. From the samples that were delivered in practice the new battery will make good.

HIS WORK IS TO HELP THE KIDDIES

Henry Sluyter, director of children's work in the Biederwolf campaign, will hold the first of the meetings for children at the Tabernacle,

Henry Sluyter.

Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Children from the age of six to fourteen are specially invited to attend these meetings, which will be held nearly every Saturday afternoon during the campaign.

Mr. Sluyter will also conduct meetings in a different section of the city each Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, notice of which will be given through the columns of this paper.

BITS FROM BIEDERWOLF

"The Church has played the harlot too much and gone off to live with the world."

"People have no use for a miserable old sham."

"There are three things, Prayer, Patience and Persistence."

"Will you get on God's pay roll tonight? He pays big salaries."

"The time to quit praying is when God quits giving."

The Biederwolf Evangelistic Services

Will revive interest in Bible Reading in Plainfield as never before and regardless of sect, creed or faith. A universal reading of the Bible is bound to make for better citizenship, is bound to make for a plainer, stronger, simpler, honester speech in daily life, and a higher standard of ethics in the dealings of men. A return to Bible reading in these stressful times of world disturbance is needed as never before in our history and is bound to add to the moral and mental equipoise of this entire nation.

Big Print Red Letter Bibles

All the Words and Sayings of Christ Printed in Red

This Book of Books

This Bible—this miraculous Bible—this Book of All Books—luminous with the light that dwelleth not on land or sea—this noblest and most beautiful Thing in all the world—what is it—whence cometh it—what means it?

It has made and unmade Nations. It has uprooted Kingdoms and Empires. It has diverted the mighty tides of History. It has crumpled ancient Faiths and Superstitions. Because of it fell Pagan Rome. The antique Systems of India and the Far East have bowed their heads to its enlightened sway.

China and the Orient now first awaken from their sleep of thrice a thousand years, and follow their sister nations of the Occident—whose feet are guided by one sole lamp—the sacred flame of which was kindled by the inspired Hebrew Prophets, and fed for all time by the Lord and Master of the Golden Rule.

Only ignorance scoffs at the Bible! The greatest rulers—the greatest statesmen—the greatest scholars—writers—orators—scientists—soldiers—and the untold millions of the Common People, whose collective genius outweighs them all—have thrilled to its Divine Wisdom.

Its lyrics of unfathomable tenderness—its orations of compelling potency—its contemplative prose of preternatural grandeur—have never been equalled. Its emotional depths and its intellectual heights make it the one and only Book of Books, vouchsafed for the guidance of mankind throughout the ages.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

Planet Jr. Cultivators

—biggest savers for farm and garden

Why worry along with slow out-of-date implements and meagre results? Planet Jr tools are far more economical—they do 3 to 6 times the work, get bigger, better crops, and outlast several ordinary implements. Fully guaranteed. You are actually losing money whenever you cultivate without them.

No. 72 Planet Jr 2-row, 2-horse Pivot-wheel Cultivator saves a man, a team, and a cultivator every day it is used. Cultivates 2 rows of corn, potatoes, beans, etc., at one passage, even if rows are crooked or irregular width. In check rows and listed corn it also beats any other tool. Can be equipped with spring-trip standards, discs, sweeps, hoe steels, and furrowing shovels. Specially hardened cultivating steels add 50 per cent to wear. Also spring lift, new this year.

No. 8 Planet Jr Horse Hoe and Cultivator is stronger, better-made and capable of a greater variety of work than any other horse hoe made. Non-clogging steel wheel. Depth-regulator and extra-long frame make it run steady. Adjustable for both depth and width. 15 other styles of one-horse cultivators—various prices.

Let us equip you with one of these savers.

UNTIMELY DEATH OF E. L. WAGNER

Brilliant Young Structural Engineer Succumbs After Nine Weeks' Illness.

WAS A SELF-MADE MAN

Worked His Way Through Princeton and Was Succeeding Rapidly in Chosen Profession—Leaves Parents and Sisters.

Edward L. Wagner, a rising young engineer, who was rapidly becoming a factor in the metropolitan contracting world as a designer, died at midnight last night at the home of his cousin, Mrs. Theodore Mantz, of Carlton avenue. Death came after an illness of nine weeks, evidently induced through exposure while working on a job in Long Island city during a bleak windy day. He had previously been ill in the fall and the belief exists that he returned to his duties too soon. Rheumatism, kidney trouble and complications are assigned as the causes of the demise in the official diagnosis.

Mr. Wagner was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Wagner, of Princeton, and was born at Lebanon thirty-one years ago. After completing his elementary school course, he adopted civil engineering as his position and although not possessing the means to provide himself with a college course, he determined to secure one through diligent labor in connection with his studies. To this end, he entered Princeton University and in 1909 he was graduated with the degree of C. E., completing the full course with honors and in corroboration of the statement that a young man who has the ambition and "stick-to-itiveness" can secure the educational polish befitting him for his struggle with the world. There was no wasting of time while he was in the lecture room or study period and when he secured his first position with the Cambria Steel Company, of Pennsylvania, he demonstrated that he knew his business.

From the Cambria Company he went with Milliken Brothers, who were Plainfielders at one time and who have erected many big structural steel building in New York, bringing the materials from their plant on Staten Island. Later he went with Post & McCord, another New York firm which makes a specialty of putting up "sky-scrapers," and three years ago came to this city as a designing engineer for Arthur E. Smith. He remained with the local contractor until last summer, at which time an excellent opportunity presented itself and he went with the Snare & Triest Company, the firm which has been building some of Manhattan's subways and reconstructing the elevated railways. Mr. Wagner was assigned to the elevated reconstruction, a department which suited his talents and much of the engineering success in this big contract was due to his ability. He lived for his work, a fact which made him return to it when he really should have remained at home as a convalescent. Although he had been in Plainfield but a short time, the young engineer possessed a personality that won scores of friends and all had none but commendation for himself and his ability. Arthur E. Smith and the entire personnel of his office are among those who have sounded the praises of the young man and who keenly regret his untimely death.

Beside his parents, Mr. Wagner is survived by three sisters, Mrs. G. A. Harer, of Chapel Hill, N. C.; Mrs. Marshall Finley and Miss Emily Wagner, of Princeton. He was a member of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., and Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M. He was an attendant at the First Baptist church, where for several years he sang in the choir, being the possessor of a well modulated tenor voice. The funeral will be held at the home of Mrs. Mantz, Monday morning at 11 o'clock. Interment will be at Lebanon, the trip from the city to be made by automobile.

SAYS THAT A. O. U. W. IS NOT INSOLVENT

William Newcorn Declares That Lodge Has and is Able to Pay Every Claim.

D. H. Gomersall, of the State of Washington, who is a member of the Camden lodge, has begun an action in New Jersey Courts to have a receiver appointed for the Grand Lodge, Ancient Order United Workmen, claiming that it is insolvent, that its assets have been dissipated and that its losses in 1915 amounted to $75,213.

William Newcorn, of this city, president of the board of trustees, who is the legal head of the order, in speaking of the above action today, said:

"There is no truth in the report that the lodge is insolvent. Mr. Gomersall's action is undoubtedly based on the decision of the Grand Lodge to raise the rates which is done to make provision for the future and not because we cannot pay our claims. Since 1892 the lodge has paid $3,000,000 in death claims, and every claim has been paid within eight days following presentation of certificate. At the present time there is not a single death claim remaining unpaid.

"The lodge also has an emergency fund of $82,000 in addition to the receipts from assessments. There is to be a meeting of the board of trustees at Camden tomorrow when it will be decided what steps are to be taken to defend action brought by Mr. Gomersall."

DRAWING ROOM MEETING HELD AT MRS. MUNGER'S

The first drawing room meeting was held this morning at the home of Mrs. H. C. Munger on Washington avenue. Dr. Biederwolf addressed the fifty or more women present, telling the story of "The Other Wise Man," and held the attention of the audience by using jewels to illustrate his remarks. The quartet sang, "Still, Still With Thee" and "The Man of Galilee," and Rev. Mr. Raach led in prayer.

DRIVER AND OWNER EACH PAY A FINE OF $10

Isaac Frankel, a junkman, and George Lowrie, colored, his driver, were each fined $10 or forty days in police court this morning on charges of disorderly conduct. They were arrested by Special Officer Reinhart, at the corner of New and Front streets, about 7:30. As Reinhart passed the corner he saw Lowrie driving in a fast and reckless manner, and he ordered him to court. Frankel objected and used profane language in the presence of ladies, according to the officer, so instead of ordering the driver in he took both men to the police station.

ACCEPT INVITATION.

Clan Mackenzie, Order Scottish Clans, of this city, has accepted the invitation to attend divine services at the Tabernacle on Giraud avenue, next Tuesday night. This was decided at a meeting of the clan on Monday night, and those not present will be notified by the secretary. The members will meet at West Front street and Giraud avenue at 7:15 o'clock Tuesday night, proceeding to the Tabernacle, where seats will be reserved. Those who expect to attend are requested to leave their names with Robert Murray at 326 West Front street as soon as possible.

THE FASHION SHOP.

A. Weintraub, formerly of New York city, has opened The Fashion Shop at 176 East Front street, having on hand a fine assortment of waists and underwear. He has had many years of experience in this particular line of work in New York city and has earned an excellent reputation for himself as a handler of the best materials and finest models.

Leave subscriptions for the Daily Press with our representative at the door as you leave the Tabernacle tonight. Fifty cents for the entire campaign, including back numbers.

BEGIN FIGHTING ON NEW FRONT

Violent Artillery Duel Underway Along Northern Greek Border.

ALLIES TO TAKE SHIPS

Will Operate All Vessels and Give Owners Profit—Eighty Merchant Ships Sunk by Submarines During March.

Saloniki, April 14.—A violent artillery duel is in progress between the Anglo-French and German forces on the Doirangievglie front. Both armies are using their heavy guns. Thus far there has been no infantry engagements, but it is believed here that the bombardments is the beginning of a general battle. Twenty French aeroplanes this morning bombarded German emplacements with heavy artillery at Bogoroditsa. The entire squadron returned undamaged, though subjected to a heavy fire. Bogasod is east of Bardevardar River and about a mile north of Greeco-Serb frontier.

To Take Over All Shipping.

Liverpool, April 14.—According to reports received in shipping circles here the Allies in their recent Paris conference decided to take over all vessels and control maritime traffic in the same manner that the railroads are now controlled. The ship owners under the plan would be permitted to have margin of profit based on an average for the three years preceding the war, plus a bonus of 40 per cent. The arrangement, it is said, is planned for the reduction of freights and food prices.

Subs Sank 80 Ships.

Berlin, April 14.—The German Admiralty announces that German submarines or mines during the month of March sank eighty merchant ships of the enemy of a total displacement of 207,000 tons.

Lay Mines in Sound.

Copenhagen, April 14.—The German Admiralty evidently expects that the naval forces of Great Britain will attempt to pass into the Baltic Sea. To offset this possible plans the Germans have laid mines in the southern part of the sound between Drogen's lightship and Falsterbo.

Condemns British Conscription.

London, April 14.—In a speech at Guildhall today, Lord Derby condemned the present system of conscription, declaring that the taking of all unmarried men will prove ruinous to the country's industries.

Germans Use Gas Shells.

Paris, April 14.—Following a violent bombardment of the French position on hill No. 304, northwest of Verdun, in which gas shells were used, the Germans attacked last night, but were repulsed, said the French War Office today.

Morgan Man Back From France.

New York, April 14.—E. R. Stettinius, of J. P. Morgan & Co., arrived this morning on the steamship St. Paul from Liverpool. He said that there was no truth in the reports that he was returning with large orders in connection with the war. He stated that he had an excellent opportunity to study the situation in France and that he was impressed with the tremendous reserves both of men and supplies that the French had behind their lines.

THE SINSHEIMER STRING QUARTET TO PLAY HERE

Among the most interesting announcements of social happenings which will crowd the post-Easter season is that of a The Musical to be given at the Hartridge auditorium on Thursday afternoon, May 11. The Sinsheimer String Quartet will add an unusual feature to the program, playing some of its most attractive chamber music. The soloists will be Mme. Tozier-Hardy, pianist. Those who are interested, it is hoped, will reserve May 11 for this recital.

C. O. S. MAKES APPEAL.

The Charity Organization Society asks for the small sum of $7 to put a family on its feet. The father, who is a cripple, was able to take care of himself and family of four all last summer, and the society is confident that he can do so again if he is started with a supply of merchandise. Those willing to contribute any amount may telephone 103 for further particulars or send money to J. Albert Lane, treasurer, 323 Babcock building.

FIRE AT SAURER PLANT

Burning waste in the rear of the plant of the Saurer Manufacturing Co. called out the fire department at 1:25 this morning. The waste was in a can and no damage was done.

TO MEET CHILDREN.

Mrs. John Manley would like to meet all the children who are going to take part in the Memorial Day exercises at Reform Hall, next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

HOSPITAL DESERVES SUPPORT OF PEOPLE

Large Number of Patients and Cost of Operation Require Increased Revenue.

"Muhlenberg Hospital has been in the past and will continue to be in the future asking the community of Plainfield to support its excellent work," says one of the officials. "The frequency of these appeals is apt to prompt the inquiry as to whether Plainfield needs such an institution and whether it is deserving of the financial help that is constantly being asked of the people. There never has been a time when the hospital deserves the help of the community more than it does at the present time.

"It is apparent to everyone who has given the matter thought, and especially to those who have charge of the hospital management, that the cost of operating the institution is greater now than ever before. This is due to the abnormally high prices, in some instances three or four times the usual prices—for drugs, medicines and equipment, of which the hospital is a large user.

"The demands on the hospital are greater than they ever have been before, and hospital charges for services have not been increased to meet the increased cost of carrying on the work.

"Whether there is more sickness in the community now, or whether, more and more, the hospital's advantages are being better appreciated, it is hard to say. But the fact is that last night there were more patients in the hospital than had ever been there any one time in its history. There were ninety-nine patients being cared for in the various departments as follows:

"Wards, 50; children's department, 15; isolation, 1; private, 9; semi-private, 16; total, 99.

"It looks now as though the present capacity will be, in a very short time, inadequate to accommodate those who desire to avail themselves of the advantages which Muhlenberg has to offer."

MOVING PICTURES AS AID TO SURGERY

Dr. Fred Albee, of New York, Gives Interesting Lecture Before Physicians.

Demonstrating the method and value of motion pictures in surgery, Dr. Fred Albee, the New York specialist, who is a member of the staff of Muhlenberg Hospital, gave an unusually interesting lecture before the Plainfield Medical Society at the Park Club last night. The lecture was illustrated with motion pictures, giving some of the recent operations performed by Dr. Albee in bone grafting and surgery. The pictures showed operations in detail, most of which were performed in New York hospitals.

The rest of the pictures demonstrated general surgery, giving those present a more extended knowledge of this work. There were about fifty persons present including members of the medical profession and some of the nurses from Muhlenberg Hospital. After the lecture refreshments were served and there was an informal discussion of the lecture.

ELECTRIC WIRES START FIRE ON PLAINFIELD AVE.

A short circuit from electric wires caused a blaze at noon today in a house occupied by Italians on Plainfield avenue near West Second street. The apparatus from headquarters and from the West End station answered. Much damage was done on the second story, although no estimate could be secured because the value of contents was not known.

COLLECTION $203.10.

The collection of last night at the Tabernacle totaled $203.10, which was pleasing to members of the committee and to the evangelist himself. The amount was more than double that of the evening before, due, it is believed to the "Dollar Night" plan. Dr. Biederwolf had asked all to bring, a dollar or at least a silver offering and most of them did.

PROGRAM FOR WEEK.

Friday.

4:00—Teens Meeting in Tabernacle. Dr. Biederwolf: "A Race Between a Woman and a Man."

7:30—Tabernacle Services.

Saturday.

10:00—Cottage Prayer Meetings.

12:00—Shop Meeting at Jersey Silk Mill.

2:30—Children's Meeting, Tabernacle; Mr. Sluyter in charge.

U. S. TROOPS TO STAY IN MEXICO

Cabinet Decides to Make no Change in Policy of This Country.

ALL NEWS CENSORED

Believed that Many Lives were Lost in Attack on Americans at Parral—Publication of Carranza Note Caused Trouble for Lansing.

Washington, April 14.—No change in the policy in the present Mexican crisis will be taken by the Administration. Definite assurances that President Wilson will keep the situation in hand, as it has so far developed, was the only news that sifted from the Cabinet meeting today.

Fear Many Were Killed.

Because of the strict censorship put upon all news from the border by the State Department, no reports of the number of Americans killed at Parral have been received, but there is a growing fear that many United States soldiers lost their lives there in the two attacks made by enraged Mexican citizens, armed, it is said, with guns issued by the Carranza garrison.

The only reports of this fighting received have come from Carranza agents, and these official statements say "there was considerable loss on both sides." Gen. Funston has received no fresh orders except to take whatever steps he believes necessary for the safety of the expedition into Mexico. He is in constant communication with Gen. Pershing through wireless, courier and aeroplane.

Considerable stir was created in official circles here by the publication of the Carranza note. This was not given out by Secretary of State Lansing, and he insisted that it had been "stolen" by one of the men in the diplomatic departments and turned over to newspaper men. Mr. Lansing has announced that he will dismiss the man who gave out the note, but no action has been taken.

At the Cabinet meeting today Secretary of War Baker presented late reports from Gen. Funston. Whether or not the calling of State troops to aid the expedition was discussed is not known, but no announcement of plans was made after the meeting.

GREGORY REFUSES TO GIVE FACTS IN STANDARD OIL

Washington, April 14.—Attorney General Gregory's statement in which he refused to furnish the Senate with information relative to the investigation by the Department of Justice into the gasoline question and the Standard Oil Company since that corporation was dissolved was submitted to the Senate today. It will be placed before that body at the next morning hour devoted to routine business. Mr. Gregory stated that it was incompatible to the public interest to give the desired information.

$25 FOR RELIEF FUND.

The monthly meeting of the Gesang Turn Verein Society was held in Saengerbund Hall last evening, at which time four new members were received into the organization, and the applications of thirteen others received. It was voted to donate $25 for the relief of the German colonial war sufferers in Africa. Another donation authorized was $5 towards the postal clerks' celebration on Decoration Day.

PLAN A DUTCH SUPPER.

The Plainfield branch of the German Red Cross is making arrangements to hold a Dutch supper in Saengerbund Hall in the near future to raise funds to procure more material.

TWO-THIRDS OF PLAINFIELD CHURCH MEMBERS HAVE NOT WAKED UP YET, SAYS EVANGELIST

DR. BIEDERWOLF AGAIN PAYS RESPECTS TO THOSE WHO ARE NEGLECTING TO ATTEND TABERNACLE MEETINGS.

LEGISLATORS WORSE THAN BLOCKS OF WOOD

Says "Dead Beat Churchman is 33rd Degree, Dyed in the Wool, Blown in the Bottle, Stamped on the Cork, Child of the Devil—Gives Views on Sunday Amusement Seekers.

Continuing his attack on the more frequent vices in which ordinary persons who consider themselves Christians are prone to indulge, Rev. William E. Biederwolf last night held the rapt attention of a throng of 2,500 or more at the Tabernacle. His remarks were directly to the point, and he did not mince words in condemning card-playing, dancing and other forms of amusement. He even paid his respects to the men who smoke. All through his discourse there were frequent ripples of applause from the large audience. His subject was "The Cup of the Devils."

When Dr. Biederwolf began talking there was the smallest crowd that has turned out since the services began on Sunday morning, but before he got through the number had been greatly increased. He started by saying that he guessed his remarks about it being dollar night had frightened a lot of people away, and he complimented the chorus choir for their fidelity in appearing, stating that it was the largest choir for the size of the audience that has been seen here. He declared that if the rest of the church people would do their duty as well as the choir, the tabernacle would be full every night. He expressed his appreciation to the organizations who had already recognized his appeal made last night to discontinue all other activities while the services were going on, and said that he guessed that two-thirds of the church members of Plainfield have not yet waked up to the needs of the hour. He complimented the King's Daughters for postponing an event which he had previously criticized them for arranging, saying that only one section had planned the affair, and they had already arranged to let the matter go over.

"We think you people here in Plainfield are the finest in the world, but you are taking your religion a little too easily," declared the speaker. He then launched into a criticism of those church people who are selling out to the devil at the first bid, and are "bringing a mighty small price," and he urged all to be Christians before everything else. There are too many Christians who talk themselves black in the face to justify themselves in something they ought not to do, he declared.

Crooked politicians came in for a scathing denunciation, and Dr. Biederwolf drew a hearty laugh when he declared that he could take a block of wood and a jack knife and whittle out a better politician than those that were sent to the last Legislature in New Jersey. He declared that if every man who was elected to the United States Senate in a strictly honest manner was left in the Senate chamber, there would not be enough of them to dust the old building.

The speaker again paid his respects to Wall street by referring to the editorial in last night's Daily Press, which told of a letter received by this newspaper from an anonymous writer who took exception to his remarks on the stock exchange. The speaker declared that if he was in bad over that, he would be much worse off before he was through, but he wanted it distinctly understood that he had no objection to legitimate buying and selling, but would always criticize margin buying and the work of bucket shops.

Dr. Biederwolf again scored the churchman who does not pay his debts, declaring that the "dead-beat churchman is a thirty-third degree, dyed in the wool, blown in the bottle, stamped in the cork, tool of the devil." He decried the increased cost of living, saying that nowadays burglars broke into hen houses instead of jewelry stores, because of the price of eggs.

"I have no serious objection to the man who goes out for an airing in an auto on Sunday afternoon, but the Lord have mercy on the soul of the one who gets in a wreck when he should be at services in the morning or evening." He drew a graphic word picture of the gambler in the Fifth avenue residence, as contrasted with the one in the Bowery dive, and said that, if anything, the former was the worst.

At the conclusion of the sermon, he asked all present to bow their heads and sing "Consecrate me now to Thy service."

There was the usual song service at 7:30. The choir becomes better with each day, and their work is attracting attention only second to that of Dr. Biederwolf. Rev. J. J. Allen, of the South Plainfield Baptist church, made the opening prayer, and the Quartet sang "Drifting." Mr. Heaton and Mr. Roberts also sang a duet. When he called for the collection, Dr. Biederwolf said that he would have been wiser had he announced that he would ask for one dollar contributions on Sunday night, but that he wanted all to understand that any amount would be welcome. He told the "knights of the pie pans" to get busy, and while they were passing the plates, Leader Heaton had the choir sing again. Dr. Biederwolf later announced that Mr. McEwan would be back on the job on Saturday night, as a telegram had been received from his wife saying that he was much better.

The subject of the sermon tonight will be "The Meanest Man in the World," and the doctor assured all present that this man lives in Plainfield. Tomorrow night he will talk on "The Home."

Last night's sermon will be found printed in full in another column.

MANY INTERESTED IN DAILY PRESS TRIP TO SEE "HIP, HIP

Outing to New York Hippodrome Will Be Conducted by This Paper Monday Evening, May 1—Special Train for Press Readers to and From New York With Best Seats Provided in America's Biggest Show House—Many Organiations Will Be Represented in a Body—Seats Go on Sale in the Press Office in the Near Future—300 Reservations Already Made and More Will Be Necessary.

Announcement yesterday in the Plainfield Daily Press that this paper will conduct an excursion to the New York Hippodrome for its readers on Monday evening, May 1, has aroused considerable local interest, and a number of individuals and organizations have applied for further information regarding the plan. It is known that several local fraternal and social organizations are planning to take advantage of the Press offer and attend the show in a body, representatives having been delegated to watch the Daily Press for the announcement of the date on which tickets will be put on sale in order that a block might be purchased.

WONDERFUL VALUE.

The exceedingly low rate, $1.75 for one of the best seats in the Hippodrome and transportation both ways, has revived the hopes of many Plainfielders of seeing the spectacular production that has called forth world wide comment, and it is likely that the 300 reservations will have to be increased before May 1. The seats secured by the Press for this excursion ordinarily sell for $2 each, and the railroad and incidental expenses amount to nearly that amount again. This sum is more than many pleasure-loving Plainfielders can afford and the Press offer to take each one for $1.75 has created much interest.

CLUBS WILL ATTEND.

Special arrangements will be made to see that clubs, fraternal orders and social organizations secure seats together both at the Hippodrome and on the special Daily Press train, which will leave Plainfield about 6 o'clock on the night of May 1. Every accommodation will be supplied to insure a comfortable trip, and those in charge will be competent to conduct an outing of this nature.

The Hippodrome production, "Hip, Hip, Hooray," has been singled out as the most elaborate play ever staged in this country or elsewhere, and the stars who have been brought together under one roof present an array such as has never stepped before the footlights.

HIP'S BEST FEATURE.

Charlotte, the dainty little miss who has been opening the public's eyes with her execution of difficult moves on ice skates, will, of course, be one of the feature attractions. She has entertained thousands since

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION ELECTS

Annual Meeting of Progressive Organization is Held at Dunellen.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Dunellen Building and Loan Association held last evening in the Borough Hall the following were re-elected directors: Charles H. English, William E. Terry and Thomas P. Cady. The following officers were also re-elected: Charles H. English, president; Thomas P. Cady, vice president; John W. Moynihan, treasurer; George W. Day, secretary, and George T. Schenck, auditor.

The association has 423 members as follows: 260 males, 159 females, and 4 corporations. This compares with a membership of 390 last year, an increase of 33.

The annual report showed $243,400 loaned on bond and mortgage, which is an increase of $17,100 over last year. The amount loaned on shares showed a decrease of over 51 per cent., declining from $2,690 to $1,310. This attests to the general prosperity which has filid the pockets of the small investor and enabled him to pay off loans made against his holdings. Matured shares taken care of by cash and cancellation of loans represented a value of $14,534.56 as against $19,600 last year.

ANNUAL CHURCH MEETING AND DINNER

Presbyterians Receive Reports and Elect Officers at Large Gathering of Members.

The annual meeting and dinner of the congregation of the First Presbyterian church was held in the church chapel last evening. Following an informal reception, dinner was served to over one hundred members, all of whom enjoyed most heartily the sumptuous repast. The dinner arrangements were in charge of Mrs. C. B. Mattis, assisted by a score of able helpers, the waitresses being young women from the Christian Endeavor Society.

The chapel had been tastefully decorated and presented a most impressive sight. A delightful musical program followed the dinner. It included instrumental selections by Miss Margaret Fuller and Miss Helen Swackhamer, and C. D. Gooch and John P. Faber.

The annual meeting was held immediately after the musical, J. G. Walton acting as chairman and Charles Coriell as secretary. The reports of the treasurers of the various branches were read showing the church to be in a flourishing financial condition.

The pastor was voted an increase in salary of $100 and while greatly surprised he was by no means rendered speechless, in fact, the genial dominie seems never to be at loss to express his feelings. Resolutions in memory of Mrs. Anna Abbott were presented by the members of the choir and ordered spread on the church minutes. C. T. Voorhees and Lewis Schneider were re-elected trustees and J. T. Sutphen was re-elected to succeed himself as church treasurer. The occasion proved such a delightful one to all present that it was voted to make the dinner an annual affair.

TO BUILD A HOME.

Leslie Latham, son of Mayor E. B. Latham, who is to wed Miss Hazel Runyon in September, will shortly give out plans and specifications for a modern eight room house to be erected on Prospect avenue, between Bonegut brook, which runs through his father's property, and the Loughlin home.

WOMEN'S SOCIETIES HOLD AN ALL-DAY MEETING

The Ladies' Aid and the Home and Foreign Missionary Societies of the Methodist Episcopal church held an all-day meeting in the church yesterday. The Ladies' Aid Society held its meeting in the morning. This was the occasion of the annual meeting and officers were elected for the year as follows: Mrs. M. E. Harris, president; Mrs. F. H. Gise, first vice president; Mrs. Ella Kennedy, second vice president; Mrs. T. J. Todd, recording secretary; Mrs. J. F. G. Kinney, treasurer; Mrs. Ella Kennedy, Mrs. Isaac J. Stites, Mrs. Frank Stites and Mrs. Goldson W. Smalley, collectors. Among other business transacted by the society was the decision to tender the pastor was the decision to tender the pastor and his wife a reception, in honor of their return for another year, on Monday evening, the twenty-fourth of this month. At noon a luncheon, to which the public had been invited, was served from 12 to 1:30. The luncheon was very well attended.

In the afternoon the Missionary Societies held their meetings. Business was routine.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

Richard M., the six months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Gessner, was taken to the Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday for an operation for mastoiditis. The operation proved successful and according to the latest reports the little fellow is doing nicely.

MRS. RATTI'S FUNERAL.

WED IN SEPTEMBER; ANNOUNCEMENT JUST MADE

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Berger, of Lincoln place, the borough, today announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lillian Berger, to Morris Cantor, of West Fourth street, this city. The announcement comes as a surprise to the many friends of the couple for it was not known that they were married on September 15 by a civil law ceremony and kept the fact secret because of their youth and fear that their parents would not consent to the union.

When the marriage became known the parents insisted upon another ceremony according to the Mosaic law. This ceremony was performed yesterday in New York city by Rabbi Morris Dubrin. Tthe couple will reside here.

—When discontent reaches a certain point, the furnished room advertisements become very interesting to some people.

Muir Could Drive a Bargain.

Most people know that the famous naturalist and writer, John Muir, left a substantial fortune behind him when he died, but few perhaps are aware that during the ten years he dedicated altogether to business he was known as the hardest man at a bargain in the whole of California. "As a bargainer," writes Arnold Dosch, "John Muir was pure Scotch. Muir had the biggest and most dependable supply of Tokay grapes in California. The San Francisco jobbers bought his yield to meet their regular shipments to the north and east. There were at that time four big fruit jobbing houses in San Francisco, and they tell tales yet in Commission row of the bargains John Muir drove with them. He was never known to name a price first. Whether he was selling grapes or land, he tried first to find out what the other man was willing to pay. But he always had a price in mind, and he got it. It made no difference what was the market price of grapes. He made the jobbers pay what he expected."

Lighting London Streets.

In 1416 citizens were obliged to hang out candles on dark nights to illuminate the streets. This was enforced by an act of parliament in 1661. In 1684 Edward Heming, the inventor of oil lamps, made a daring offer, which was that for a proper consideration he would engage to place a light before every tenth door on dark nights from 6 p. m. till midnight. His proposition was accepted, and he was given the exclusive right to light the streets as indicated for a term of years. But the scheme provoked a great uproar among the people. Some of them enthusiastically applauded it and hailed Heming as the greatest benefactor the city ever had. Thousands of other furiously denounced him and his scheme and demanded that the contract be canceled. Heming held on, and in time the people became reconciled to having the streets lighted. In 1736 the city government assumed the responsibility.

Escapes In War.

Until war ceases, which will be the greatest miracle of all, it will always be the exhibition ground of miracles. How can a bullet puncture a man's coat behind and before or pierce his boot and sock and be gravely shaken out of both without wounding him? And what mysterious channel does this human body contain which leads a bullet dexterously around the heart, a hair's breadth from the seat of life, yet never rending it—a phenomenon vouched for by more than one army surgeon? Shells have burst thunderously between the very legs of soldiers and left them still soldiers. Shells of two inches in diameter have passed through legs and arms without shattering the bone or bursting at the impact, although there appears to be literally no room for such a merciful performance. In fact, a history of the escapes in war would be wild reading even after a course of Munchausen.—Exchange.

Well Put.

A man who kept a roadhouse in Rhode Island was called upon to testify in a suit as to the number of cubic yards handled in some rock removing and filling in of lots in the vicinity.

Naturally enough, he showed very little knowledge of the matter, his idea of a cubic yard being so indefinite that it was suspected he hardly comprehended the term. In order to facilitate his understanding the judge said:

"Listen, witness! Assuming this inkstand to be three feet across the top this way and three feet that way and three feet in height, what would you call it?"

"Well, your honor," said the witness, without hesitation, "I should say it was some inkstand." — New York Times.

The Kings of Denmark.

The dust of the Danish kings is kept in a great cathedral at Roskilde, an old town twenty miles from Copenhagen. Every year the entire royal family always pays a visit to Roskilde in obedience to an ancient custom. On one of the pillars are marks showing the height of Peter the Great, Nicholas the Iron Czar, Alexander III. of Russia, the king of England and many other kings. The cathedral was built in the eleventh century. It has two mighty towers, which can be seen at a long distance. The oldest grave is that of King Harold I., who died in 987.—Exchange.

Think It Over.

There is a fortune for the man who can invent some sort of machine with which he can cut his own hair.

And the man who can concoct some sort of a mixture in which a dose of castor oil can be effectually concealed.

And a summer belt that will stay put.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

The Better Job.

"You men are not so smart," jeered the bachelor girl. "It takes you an hour to sew on a button."

"It does," acknowledged the widower, who had sewed and had been sewed for. "But that button never comes off."—Judge.

But They Don't Pay a Rentette.

"So you were up to see the Newlyweds. What do you think of their flat?"

"Flat? It's merely a flatette, consisting of kitchenette, parlorette, chamberette and bathlette."—Exchange.

Cat, Eh?

"Bella is very proud of her pedigree."

"Humph! Were her ancestors Maltese or Angoras?"—Puck.

We must consider that we were born for the good of the whole.—Seneca.

MARRIED MEN NOW CALLED TO FRONT

English Wives Protest Because They Are Drafted.

INCOME OF $6.75 A WEEK.

Many Homes Will Thus Have to Be Sacrificed, It Is Said—Rent Moratorium Considered, but Lloyd George Says There Is Little Likelihood That the Plan Will Be Adopted.

The issue of 40,000 posters in London alone summoning to the army on April 7 all married men between the ages of nineteen and twenty-six, who have attested under Lord Derby's scheme, together with the semiofficial notice that married men up to thirty-five are to be called up at the end of April, is causing a ferment of extreme gravity in Great Britain today. The protest of the wives is becoming audible, one might almost say menacing, throughout the land, and it is clear that, although the authorities ultimately admitted the force of the suffragette agitation, they are far from appreciating the latent forces behind the present movement.

From $5,000 Yearly to $6.75 Weekly.

Married men previously enlisting have mainly consisted of those whose homes can be kept intact by the separation allowance of those endowed with private incomes. The present and coming calls affect the class of men with moderate incomes and saddled with the responsibilities of wife and children, with their accompanying heavy contractual obligations in the shape of rent, insurance, house and furniture instalment payments and school fees. The wife of a man with four children, earning anything from $1,000 to $5,000 yearly, will henceforth have to bring up his family on $6.75 weekly.

Rent Moratorium Considered.

Ten days ago Premier Asquith stated that the government had no intention of instituting a rent moratorium, but since pressed the government, through Lloyd-George, has stated that such a proposal is under consideration. But this won't meet the grievances of the wives, who are insisting that a moratorium would not prevent the breaking up of homes created by years of hard work. They ground their protest on the fact that husbands were induced to attest under Lord Derby's guarantee that married men would not be called up till all the single men had joined the colors, and they point out that nearly 1,000,000 single men remain unaffected because they are working in munitions factories or in the reserved occupations. They argue that with few exceptions such work can be performed either by women or by married men. They urge that the government departments are full of ablebodied single men; also that unattested married men are able to snap up their own husbands' jobs, which the previous holders will probably never regain.

Uphold Wives' View.

A large body of opinion throughout the country supports the view. A silent fight is now waging between the party which insists on a large army, oblivious of all other considerations, and the party which believes Great Britain is unable to support an army greater than 4,000,000 strong without hopelessly endangering essential industries and trade, which enable the country to finance the war generally in behalf of the allies. The latter argues that the middle aged man doing work profitable to the country is a better asset while carrying on his own business than he would be if shouldering a rifle and at the same time burdening the rest of the population with the maintenance of his wife and family.

The latter argues also that the shortage of labor throughout the country is already serious, which is a proved fact. It is almost impossible to get urgent household repairs accomplished, while large numbers of the inhabitants of the London suburbs are going fireless because they cannot get delivery of coal owing to the absence of men.

But the former party seems to have gained the upper hand entirely. It will be one of the most interesting phases of the war to watch how soon and to what extent the opposite camp will be affected by the protests which the British matrons are now commencing to make.

What You Buy, and Where

You've never seen a time when it was so important to you to be sure of what you're getting for your clothes money as it is right now.

It's a very peculiar season; the textile markets, the dyestuffs markets are upset; you have no means of telling from the looks of clothing, whether it's worth buying or not.

The clothing stores are full of goods; some good, some bad. It's a time when you'd better be sure of your clothing merchant; more than ever your satisfaction depends on where you buy, rather than what the goods look like, or what you pay for them.

We back every transaction with an unqualified guarantee of your satisfaction; that means your satisfaction with the goods, the service, the value of the price.

You decide what satisfaction means to you; that's what we guarantee.

BIG GERMAN GUNS SURROUND VERDUN

Greatest Gathering of Artillery the World Has Ever Known.

BATTERIES SET UP IN LINES

Correspondent Who Was Allowed to Visit the Front Describes the Havoc Wrought by Continual Fire—Counted Two Shots Per Minute Per Gun, and This on a Quiet Day.

A ring of artillery such as was never before assembled in warfare is gripping Verdun from the north and the east. Every hollow, wood and thicket within range of the fortress—and modern artillery is effective at unprecedented ranges—conceals its quota of guns of all sizes, from the three inch fieldpiece up to the biggest of Germany's giant siege howitzers.

A correspondent who was permitted to inspect the German positions around Verdun has never during the present war seen so great a collection of artillery. It far exceeds that with which a breach was hammered in the Russian lines at Gorlice and the Dunajec river, in Galicia, last May, and the siege gun parks concentrated at Antwerp and Novogeorgievisk were petty in comparison. The long rows of guns firing one behind another offer adequate explanation for the rapidity with which the strong French lines were bombarded.

Batteries Arranged in Lines.

In one position given over to artillery of middle caliber, hidden in an undulation paralleling one front of the forces, the correspondent found batteries arranged in a continuous line with scarcely more than 100 yards between the guns. Behind these again in suitable places of shelter were the big guns, up to the very biggest, and from the crest of a hill could be seen far to the front field batteries whose guns had been pushed forward almost into the infantry line.

The day was counted a quiet one, and the attendant officers explained that no particular offense was contemplated. Yet from the batteries near which the correspondent was standing he counted, watch in hand, two shots per gun per minute for a considerable period.

How many hundred guns the Germans have assembled around Verdun cannot be told, but it is certain that the drum fire with which the earlier attacks were accompanied and which will precede the next series of assaults can be likened as the work of man with Niagara and other stupendous phenomena of nature.

A picturesque and at the same time symptomatic feature of the offensive against Verdun is the array of captive balloons, from which the work of the artillery is partly observed and directed since the balloons usually are only intermittently aloft. But the correspondent at times counted as many as fourteen visible at once from a single viewpoint. A long row of gas bags floating like giant sausages outlined roughly the German tentacle around the fortress. German aeroplanes were also seen in large numbers. Only once did the French anti-airship guns seem to pay any attention to the German aerial scouts.

French Also Use Balloons.

The French, too, had a number of captive balloons aloft above the fortress, protected from attack within the charmed circle of girdle forts.

The places mentioned in the recent official reports, Douaumont, Beaumont, Fromezey and Etain, for example, are notably in ruins, looking as if they had been visited by an earthquake of great magnitude. Douaumont seemed a particularly peaceful heap of stone.

The French apparently were making no attempt to regain it. Not a shot was observed to fall in the town while the correspondent was in the vicinity, and almost as little attention was being devoted by the French to Fort Douaumont, only a pillar of black smoke now and then marking the bursting of occasional shells dropped by the French on the summit of the Bald hill.

JUDGE ROBERT CAREY GIVES TALK ON "LAW"

Speaks Before the Members of Franklin Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., in This City.

Law and all its various phases was the subject of an interesting talk given by Judge Robert E. Carey, of Jersey City, before the members of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., last night. Judge Carey was announced to speak before the council several weeks ago, but owing to pressing engagements had to postpone his coming here until last night. There was a small but appreciative audience of about twenty-five members present.

Judge Carey told of the origin of law and then described somewhat in detail its application to offenders, telling of the disposition of many cases that have been brought into his own as well as other courts of the State. Interspersing his interpretation of different laws, Judge Carey told of many personal incidents, some of them pathetic and many of them of a humorous character.

The talk was featured by a sentiment of patriotism that found a responsive chord in the hearts of those present and at the conclusion the speaker was given hearty applause.

MOTOR MOBILITY FOR CITIZEN TROOPS MAY DOOM CAVALRY?

Some military experts profess to see much less use of cavalry in the possibilities by which an entire army of infantry may be rushed to a given point with motor truck transport. They predict that, after the present war, the horse will largely vanish from one of his most ancient fields of endeavor.

This theory was tested by Ohio national guardsmen over the admirable system of brick paved highways which radiate from Cleveland. They found that a speed of twenty or more miles an hour could easily be maintained in the movement of a considerable body of troops. Under these conditions many of the ordinary problems of a military campaign disappear. If wood and water are lacking at a camp site, both commodities are easily brought.

Field pieces can be hauled behind such vehicles at a speed determined by the ability of the gun carriage to withstand the vibration. The existence of 2,500,000 motor vehicles in America has led to the suggestion of a motor militia, to be armed with machine guns, a force which could be concentrated with deadly rapidity in case of attempted invasion.

A part of such a plan would be a system of paved highways leading to points of vantage and enabling complete resistance against landing forces at close range. These highways would of course be more than a mere military investment, having all the utility of market highways in times of peace.

UNABLE TO PROVE CHARGE, THE CASE IS DISMISSED

Charged with reckless driving by Nicholas Thul, of 22 Howard street, William Sachs, aged 29, of 21 Grove street, was arraigned before Recorder Hand in the borough court this morning. Thul told the court that he was proceeding along Somerset street on his motorcycle at 7:20 last evening, when Sachs, who was in a buss, cut him off with the result that he ran into the buss and was thrown from his motorcycle, which was damaged. Thul was unable to satisfy the court that Sachs was responsible for his being thrown from his motorcycle, and the case was dismissed. Chief Weiss told a reporter this morning that Thul was responsible for the accident himself. He said that Thul was driving his motorcycle behind the bus and that, in endeavoring to pass it, the wheels of the steed struck a trolley rail in such fashion as to cause it to skid from under Thul.

ON THE JOB.

Miss Multirox: Jack Scadhunter dropped in on his way to your reception and proposed to me.

Mrs. Norox: Dear fellow: He's so energetic. His favorite motto is "business before pleasure."

FEAST OF PASSOVER BEGINS ON APRIL 17

Impressive Services Will Be Held in Hebrew Homes and Local Synagogue.

Special services beginning Monday night, April 17, and continuing for eight days, will mark the Pesach, or Passover, in the local synagogues. Services will be held in all the Hebrew homes, the observance being called the Seder. It is during this period that Jews eat the matzoth, or unleavened bread.

It is the first festival of emancipation in the history of civilization. Its commemoration is based on the Biblical narrative which tells how the people of Israel enslaved in Egypt were led from bondage to freedom by the great leader Moses.

The Passover festival speaks for the sanctity of the home as well as for self-respect and liberty. The Jews accordingly assemble in their homes on this festival, and signalize it by a solemn service in which the story of the ancient struggle for emancipation is recounted with pious fervor. This Seder, as it is called, is unique it spirit and form. It is earnest and yet happy, and its ritual, though archaic, symbolizes the facts of human experience in all conditions of life. The roasted bone reminiscent of the paschal lamb of the first Passover; the bitter herbs calling to mind the hard labor of the Israelitism slaves; the unleavened bread, known as the "bread of affliction," symbolizing the hasty departure from Egypt; the roasted egg, recalling the inrividual sacrifice which was offered in the temple; the mixture of grated apple, nuts and wine, suggesting the clay from which the bricks were made by the enslaved people, and the parsley and salt water, symbolic of growth and fertilizing freshness of spring, invest the domestic ceremony with a real and forceful meaning. A beautiful and most suggestive part of the service is the Open Door, through which the messianic prophet Elijah enters every home that night, a splendid expression of the great ideal which the prophets of Israel announced will become real some day when men will cease to hate and begin to do justice.

It is customary to remove all leaven out of the household in preparation for the feast. Leaven is the symbol of the sordid, and refers to those who are unemancipated from the commonplace things. During the feast, only matzoth and not bread, the eaten. The distinctive spirit of the feast finds expression even in the specific food.

The Haggadah, the order of the domestic service, read on the night when the family gathers about the common table, comprises the narrative of the exodus from Egypt, the account of the oppression which the ancient Israelites endured, and is not without its covert allusions to the pathetic story of Israel in more recent times in the midst of the unkind nations. The Haggadah also includes a special group of psalms (cxiii-cxvii) and a number of mediaeval poems.

The Passover is the most ancient of the Jewish holidays and perhaps the most ancient of all holidays in the history of religion, and no holiday is so near to the truth of human life as it is.

The favorite book for reading during the Passover week is the "Song of Songs." It is the most classical song of love in canonized literature and is read on this festival because, according to the traditional view, it bespeaks the love between God and Israel.

SEE "HIP, HIP, HOORAY"

breaking into the Hippodrome program, and many localities have yearned to get a glimpse of her.

Those who have not seen the Hippodrome have not seen New York, it has been truthfully said, and every Plainfielder who has not seen "Hip, Hip, Hooray!" should take advantage of this exceptional opportunity. Those who have seen it know that it is well worth seeing again, and it is a safe conclusion that there will be many repeaters. Ample time will be alowed the excursionists for a stroll along the Great White Way before the show, and the Press special will be waiting for the show-goers at the Jersey City terminal as soon as the play is over.

SUBURBANITES INTERESTED.

Indications are that South Plainfield, Dunellen, Bound Brook, Somerville, Watchung, Fanwood, Scotch Plains, Westfield and other nearby suburbs will be represented on the outing. The Daily Press will take charge of the transportation of those living in the immediate vicinity of Plainfield, and those in outlying districts are planning to take advantage of the wonderful offer by paying their own trolley, stage or bus fare to the Plainfield depot.

$5 FINE FOR ABUSE.

Sidney Warrick (colored), aged 25, of 639 West Fourth street, was fined $5 for disorderly conduct by Recorder Hand in the borough court this morning. At 5:45 o'clock last evening, Officer Pope came across Warrick's car, which had been left standing at Somerset and Chatham streets. The machine was too near the center of the road to suit Officer Pope, and when he told Warrick that he would have to drive his machine nearer the curb, the latter's reply was a volley of oaths and general abuse.

BURTON'S FRIENDS BELIEVE HE'LL BE WINNER ON SECOND CHOICE

Supporters of Theodore Burton declare that he will be nominated by the Republican National Convention because he is the second choice in so large a number of states. Starting with a substantial number of first choice votes he is high up in the order of preference in nearly every State in the Union. Delegates pledged for first choice by a primary election or by the instruction of conventions in States like Minnesota and Kentucky have been free to express their preference for Burton on second choice.

Burton has developed a wide following because of his long and conspicuous career in Congress, where he served 25 years. Born in 1851 in Ohio, the State of Garfield, Hayes, McKinley and Taft, Burton was the son of a Presbyterian minister. On his mother's side he is descended from the family of General Grant. Raised on a farm, he received his primary education partly while following the plow.

After graduating from Oberlin he studied law in Chicago in the office of Senator Lyman Trumbull, intimate friend of Lincoln. Borrowing $150 young Burton moved to Cleveland and opened a law office. He was elected to city council with Myron Herrick, later Ambassador to France.

Elected to Congress in 1888 he became a trusted lieutenant of McKinley, who was attracted by this serious minded young colleague. McKinley declared the country would later hear much of Burton in public life. In 1894 Burton again ran for Congress, defeating the great campaigner Tom Johnson. For fourteen years he served continuously. To him credit was given for the fight in the House for the Panama rather than the Nicaraguan canal route. President Roosevelt appointed him chairman of the Inland Waterways Commission and of the National Waterways Commission.

Elected to the Senate to succeed Joseph B. Foraker, Burton at once won a place among the leaders. A staunch advocate of protective tariff for American industries, his speeches on that subject are Republican primers. In spite of his extremely active life Burton has found time to indulge a fondness for literature and has written several works, including "The Life of John Sherman," "Financial Crises and Depressions," "Corporations and the State," which are looked upon as authorities by students of politics and finance. Burton's supporters declare there is no man today in public life who can bring to the White House such a store of information and experience.

A RUN ON THE BANK.

They had a new kind of a run on a bank in Detroit a few days ago. In fact, it started before the bank opened, and was directly the result of advertising. The bank received 6,766 separate accounts in the first twelve hours that it was open. By advertising that handsome new bank books would be given to depositors, much rivalry was created for the first book.

The story has it that the rivalry became town talk for a week before the bank opened. A man took his place at the front door of the bank, and surrounded himself by a dozen hired burly citizens capable of protecting him from being shoved out of a position where book No. 1 would be had.

The newspapers printed the news, accompanied by his picture and the burly guards. Others got in line, for No. 2 became next important; then the first hundred, then first five hundred, then the first thousand, and so on. No bank ever got so much advertising, and no bank ever got such a start—and advertising did it!

Banks didn't advertise years ago; it was undignified. Then progress began to break through; live-wire business men in boards of directors realized that advertising would do for banks what it had done for other businesses.

Advertising has taught people how to bank their money; people who thought that banks were only for rich people—just as some bigamist thought divorces were only for the rich—have been taught that banks are very much intended for the wage-earners. Deposits have increased enormously, thrift has wiped out the hand-to-mouth living to a considerable extent.

Advertising has done it! Advertising can help any business, can create a demand for any product. If it cannot, we would be glad to have some of our readers point out the exception, and give us a chance to reply.

WATCHING EMPLOYES AT NIGHT.

The Paterson Call calls attention to the recent decision by a New York judge that an employer has a legal right to know where an employe spends the evening and how he spends it, the decision settling the matter so far as the courts are concerned. Very few people, indeed, will dispute the fact that an employer has a moral right to know how his employes live, but it has taken this judicial decision to determine the legality of the thing.

The broad ground laid down by the New York judge is to the effect that when a contract is made for a man's service, it is for the most efficient service he is capable of rendering, after keeping himself in good physical condition. When an employe shows up "next morning" with a headache, and thereby renders inefficient service to that extent, the employer has the right to know where he got his head. If he got it legitimately, as very few people do, the employe is not to blame and the contract for his services is not invalidated. But if it was a preventable headache, as most of them are, then the employer has a right to consider the contract at an end. Of course, that is not the legal language, but that is what it amounts to when reduced to English.

And it is good sense as well as good law. Competition in business is too keen, the profits of a concern are too precarious, it requires too high a grade of efficiency to succeed, for an employer to have nothing to do with the conduct of his employes after they leave the place of their employment. It should be generally understood that a contract for services it vitiated unless the employe keeps himself fit to perform the services for which he is paid.

Nearly all of the cities are planning clean-up and paint-up campaigns, but nothing has been heard of such a movement in Plainfield this year. Certainly a campaign last year was not enough to keep this city looking spic and span for more than twelve months, and when some authority asks the people to follow the lead established in 1915, it goes without saying that each citizen will do his part. There is plenty of opportunity to improve the looks of the city, and if attention is focussed on the work by asking that it be done in a specific week, Plainfield will be much beautified. At the same time "Swat the Fly" could be made part of the movement, and the health of our people benefitted to that extent. Among other things that might be done during the campaign would be to eliminate all public dumps for trash within the city limits, clean the streets, paint and brighten up homes and business houses, and tear down a lot of ramshackle old buildings that are really a menace. Plainfield will be made a healthier, safer place in which to live, the danger of fire will be greatly reduced, and in all probability the death rate will be lowered.

There will be no strings whatsoever to membership in the big theatre party which the Daily Press plans at the New York Hippodrome on the evening of May 1. Arrangements are being completed for a special train, and the tickets for the Hippodrome will be sold from a regular chart of seats, and will be the best seats in the house. The Daily Press is conducting the party merely to give its readers, and those whom we hope will become readers of the paper, a chance to attend a great spectacular performance for a few cents more than the actual cost of admission to the big playhouse. Many successful parties of the kind have been conducted from other cities, and we expect that the "Plainfield Night" representation on May 1 will be fully as large as any delegation that has ever visited there on such a special occasion. The date upon which the tickets, including railroad fare and a reserved seat, will go on sale, will be announced later in the columns of the Daily Press.

That wheeze about Wilson taking a Villa in Mexico for the summer, instead of one at Long Branch, somehow or other has not panned out to be such a joke after all. The prospects of catching Pancho seem to be getting dimmer every day, especially as Carranza has begun to make things unpleasant at Washington by demanding that our troops be withdrawn.

• • • • • •

Each new development in the Mexican situation proves conclusively that "watchful waiting" was an absolute failure, and that the United States should have gone in and cleaned up the country when she had her fleet and troops there two years ago.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

The Weather.

We're sorry, Mr. Weather Man, but we must make a kick.
We're surely growing weary of the dope
You're handing us in bunches, and you'd better stop it quick
Before our state of mind is beyond hope.
We are much obliged to start out in the morning with a bunch
Of clothing that would stock a city store,
Providing that we take the morning paper's daily hunch
About your weather prophesies galore.

We take a cravenette along, and e'en
a diving suit;
A linen duster and a palm leaf fan;
A heavy winter overcoat and sealskin
cap to boot;
A parasol to keep away the tan;
A pair of woolen leggins and a Panama chapeau,
And seven suits of varied underwear,
Whene'er we brave the elements and set about to go
And make a friendly visit anywhere.

Whene'er we read your bulletins we all bemoan our fate.
It certainly upsets a feller's brains
To figure out the mixture that you hand us when you state,
"The weather will be fair, unless it rains."
You add it will be warmer some, but colder yet in spots,
And every last prediction reads the same.
In the ward of the incurables we'll all be havin' cots,
Unless you promise to cut out the game.

A New American Citizen.

Tuesday, about 6 o'clock in the morning, just as all nature was awakening, the stork in all its majesty flew over our peaceful hamlet let and left at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Avery a little son, who tipped the scale at seven pounds. He was immediately made to feel at home, and at once decided to remain. As yet no name has been found that has the quite good enough sound to it. Frank is all smiles, Charles and Miss Isadore adore him, the mother is coming fine, and this is now one happy little family.—Paw Paw True Northerner.

The Scientists.

Prof. Amariah Tibbs was all unknown to fame
Until one day he set about to make himself a name.
He got out his old telescope and aimed it at the stars,
And much to his surprise he found a brand new wart on Mars.
No one had seen the thing before, it was a famous find;
The whole world paid its tribute to his scientific mind.
Prof. Tibbs' discovery created such a stir,
A lecture bureau signed him at one hundred dollars per.

Prof. James Terwilliger long occupied a chair;
The one-horse college salary gave him no cash to spare;
The future seemed quite hopeless to the scientist until
One day he found some microbes on an old one-dollar bill.
Of course the papers got the news
and spread it far and wide,
And much learned comment editorial, beside.
He trained a troupe of these microbes and put them on the stage,
And now in high-priced vaudeville he is the current rage.

Prof. Alexander Butts knew not the spotlight's glare.
It sometimes struck the faculty, but not his humble chair.
One day he wrote a treatise on "What Modern Dramas Mean."
A circus was the only show that he had ever seen.
The "Modern Drama" stuff went great and he was in demand;
He spoke before the women's clubs throughout the entire land.
He's quoted as authority and worshopped from afar,
And when he travels now it's in a handsome private car.

TOWNSHIP WANTS TO CLOSE AT ELEVEN

Committee Resolution Urges Hotels to Quit at Earlier Hour.

A resolution, urging that both hotels in North Plainfield township close at the hour of 11 p. m., was passed by the North Plainfield Township Committee at the meeting yesterday. The resolution was introduced by W. de La R. Anderson. It recites that "The Township Committee considers it to be in the best interests of public welfare that there be a uniform time for the closing of the bars in the hotels of the township," and calls attention to the fact that "the court, in granting licenses to the two hotels in the township, designated 11 o'clock p. m. as being the approved hour for closing to one of them and not to the other. Therefore it was the wish of the Committee that both hotels close at 11 p. m., as requested in one case by the court."

Mr. Anderson also introduced a resolution calling for the improvement of that portion of Rock avenue connecting Greek brook (county) road in the borough with Green brook road in the township, by macadamizing under the provisions of the road act of 1916, which allows county aid; and that the township petition the Board of Freeholders for the aid provided under said act.

BOSTON WOMEN GOLFERS HOLD FIRST TOURNAMENT

Montclair, Mass., April 14.—The opening golf tournament of the season in this district was played yesterday at the Wollaston Golf Club. It was a team match of the Women's Golf Association of Boston, and thirty-six of its best players competed.

Interest was centred on the appearance of Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, formerly Miss Kate Harley, of Fall River, who made her appearance for the first time since she won the national title two years ago.

Mrs. Jackson played against Mrs. F. W. Batchelder and was beaten after allowing the latter six strokes. The former champion did not play up to expectations in the first nine holes, but on the last nine showed excellent form.

Miss Harriot S. Curtis, another national champion, was defeated by Miss Eleanor Allen of Oakley, whom she allowed three strokes.

CABLE SHIPPED TO NEWARK; KEATING STILL HOLDING OUT

Hal Cable, one of the Yankees' recruit infielders, was released yesterday to the Newark Club of the International League.

Captain T. L. Huston, Manager Bill Donovan and Pitcher Ray Keating held a conference yesterday afternoon after the game with Washington at the Polo Grounds had been called off on account of wet grounds. Keating is dissatisfied with his contract and has not yet signed. Last season when Keating was unable to pitch, he was sent home to Bridgeport, but was kept on the payroll. He was taken South this season, and showed that he had recovered from his ailment. He refused, however, to accept the terms offered.

No understanding was reached yesterday between the player and the club officials, but it is understood that the question will be satisfactorily settled in the near future.

TO PRESENT "LIFE OF CHRIST."

The Young Men's Bible Class of St. Joseph's church will present the "Life of Christ" in pictures, hymns, stories and tableaux on Monday evening in St. Joseph's Hall, at 8 o'clock. The young men have prepared the descriptions, and each one will illustrate his part of the story. The work is educational, and will prove deeply interesting to all. There will be no admission fee, and all are welcome.

Plainfield Theatre.

Kitner, Taylor and McKay, a trio recognized as vaudeville's sweetest group of singers, opened at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday afternoon, and during the first two shows firmly established their claim to this title in the minds of local theatre-goers. This feature is only one of another excellent program of attractions, and in the opening yesterday each performance proved a big hit. The Gormley Sisters, a troupe of dainty maidens, appear in a playlet entitled "On the Way to the Theatre," presenting a novelty filled with pep and good singing. Pauline Irving has a unique line of song sayings which are catchy and filled with laughs. Frank Killian and May Lawrence present a sketch entitled "Cross My Palm;" Manihan and company offer a novelty performance, and Tony Corletto and Anita Johnson appear in "The Italian and the Maid." Tomorrow the motion picture attraction will be the "Strange Case of Mary Page," presenting the eighth episode.

Headed by that peer of all negro entertainers, Salem Tutt Whitney, the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday will be the musical comedy, "George Washington Bullion Abroad." It is an offering bubbling over with plenty of features, surprises and novelties, blended with pretty and tuneful songs, bright lines and side-splitting situations. Mr. Whitney will, as usual, be supported by J. Homer Tutt and Blanche Thompson and the "Smart Set" company. This organization is known far and wide as one of the best of its kind in the theatrical firmament. There are forty people in the cast, whose efforts to amuse you in the past have earned for them an enviable reputation. The title part is said to afford Mr. Whitney ample opportunity to display those talents which have helped to make his name a household word, where wholesome humor is known and appreciated.

Want a Dog, Mr. Blendinger? No, Dawgoneit, That's a Poor Joke!

Many of the friends of Fred L. Blendinger, 520 Central avenue, greet him these days with the query "still looking for dogs?" Inasmuch as Mr. Blendinger, who is assistant to the vice president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, is not known particularly as a dog fancier, the question always arouses interest among the uninitiated. Mr. Blendinger has a reputaion of being something of a joker himself and the "dog story" on him, which has just reached Plainfield, is hailed with delight by his cronies who commute daily with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Blendinger spent the month of March at Tarpon Springs, Fla., where they go annually and have many friends. The day before they left some of these gave a party at the Tarpon Springs Inn in honor of the Blendingers and all the winter colony was on hand. The fun had hardly started when the guests became aware of an unearthly clatter on the lawn in front of the hotel. The baying of the hounds in Uncle Tom's Cabin was mild in comparison. About the same time a page was heard calling Mr. Blendinger.

"Lots of folks on the front porch to see you," the page said.

Mr. Blendinger investigated. As he appeared on the veranda someone yelled "there he is" and there was a rush for him. At the same time a hundred big dogs and little dogs, bear dogs and coon dogs, long-haired dogs and flea-bitten dogs—dogs of every age, variety and previous condition of servitude set up a yapping, barking and baying, which was heard for miles around.

The big railroad man stood his ground nobly as he was surrounded by about fifty Florida crockers, negroes and townspeople, each with a leash and one or more dogs at the end of it.

"What's it all about?" demanded Blendinger.

"You can have mine fo' fo' bits," yelled one big negro.

"Here's one fo' a quartah, boss," shrieked a diminutive darkey.

Others extolled the value of their dogs and the reduced prices at which they might be had. Blendinger disclaimed any intention of seeking to corner the canine market. He said he didn't want even one. The crowd began to get angry at this and Blendinger beat a retreat into the hotel. Several of the more persistent sought to follow him and the management finally had to drive the whole crowd away. But even that didn't stop them. Several sought to get him on the telephone and until Blendinger left the next day he was beset by men and boys with dogs to sell.

Just before he left, someone handed a copy of the Tarpon Springs Evening Leader of the day before to Blendinger. On the back page in heavy black type was an advertisement four inches deep and extending across five columns. It read:

"Dogs of all descriptions wanted tonight between 8 and 9 o'clock to F. L. Blendinger, Tarpon Springs Hotel."

Ever since he got back Mr. Blendinger has been trying to figure out an adequate way of getting even with the persons he suspects.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE HOLY NAME SOCIETY

The seventh annual convention of the Newark Diocesan Federation of the Holy Name Society will be held Sunday afternoon in St. Rose of Lima's auditorium, at Orange and Gray streets, Newark. More than 400 delegates, representing some ninety parish branches of the society, are expected to attend. Interesting reports will be made by the officers and standing committee, the executive committee, county federations and special committees. Several measures which will be proposed for adoption will be discussed and there will be an election of officers. The speakers' bureau of the Newark Diocesan Federation, announces the following Plainfielders among the list of speakers for the season 1916-17: Paul H. Burns, "Salesmanship"; T. J. Meaney, "Why I am a Member of the Holy Name Society," and H. T. Treacy. Daniel J. Coursin, of this city, is the fifth vice-president of the federation.

CAKE SALE.

The Women's Guild of the church of the Heavenly Rest will hold a cake sale tomorrow in the vacant store on the Madison avenue side of the Babcock building. The sale will start at 10 o'clock and continue throughout the day.

TWO PASTORS OFFICIATE AT MRS. NOE'S FUNERAL

The funeral of Mrs. Alexander Noe, whose death occurred at her home on East Front street, Wednesday morning, was held at the late residence last night. Many relatives and friends from this city, Oak Tree and other places were in attendance. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First Methodist church, assisted by Rev E. C Conover, of the Temple Baptist church Dr. Anderson, who had known Mrs. Noe as a neighbor and friend for many years, took occasion to pay a tribute to the memory of the deceased, extolling her many estimable traits and ardent Christian character.

The floral tributes, which weer numerous and beautiful, included a large set piece from members of the Congregational church, where Mrs. Noe was a devoted worker. Burial was made at 10 o'clock this morning in Hillside cemetery.

Proctor's Theatre

Laura Hope Crews, the distinguished stage celebrity, and lately one of Paramount's foremost stars, appears at Proctor's today in a thrilling dramatic production entitled "Blackbirds," being cast in the same role in which she scored such a tremendous success at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, when the stage production of "Blackbirds" appeared there for a long engagement. Miss Crews adapts herself admirably to crooks, and her work, and that of the supporting cast, together with the unusually thrilling and exciting theme, brings forth a photoplay masterpiece that is hard to equal. In addition, today, the latest episode of "The Social Pirates," the fascinating and thrilling new series with Marin Sais and Ollie Kirkby, will evoke loud acclamations of admiration from the spectators. Saturday will be a gala day for the kiddies, the management having arranged a program especially to suit the tastes of the little folks, and prospective patrons are urged to bring the children with them for this royal treat. The main feature will be the personal appearance of little Em. Gorman, renowned as one of the cleverest of child actresses, and who will also be seen on the screen in "The Little Orphan," a mammoth five-reel production in which she assumes the leading role. Other attractions of special moment for the benefit of the children are Charlie Chaplin, their favorite, in "Caught in the Cabaret"; Harry Watson, in "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer," and a Mutt and Jeff cartoon comedy entitled "Jeff's Toothache." Monday, by special arrangement with the Vitagraph Company, Proctor's present Hall Caine's immortal masterpiece, "The Christian," the mammoth eight-reel production that fairly took the whole country by storm a short while ago, and in which Earle Williams and Edith Storey are starred. In addition to "The Christian," on Monday, Paramount presents a screen adaptation of "The Chorus Lady," presented by an all-star cast. Tuesday, an extraordinary attraction in the form of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, in "The Whirl of Life," will be the feature photoplay, one of the most marvelous productions ever presented in this or any other city. On Wednesday, William Farnum will appear in "The Bondman," a massive six-part spectacle.

VISITING IN CAMDEN.

Mrs. David T. Kenney, of North Plainfield, president of the New Jersey Chapter of the National Organization of Catholic Women, is in Camden and vicinity this week as the guest of Mrs. William S. Casselman. A chapter for Camden and that section is in progress of organization.

BAPTISTS TO PRACTICE.

The First Baptist baseball team will hold a practice tomorrow afternoon on the West End avenue field.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME—

WILL GIVE ANNUAL FAIR FOR HOSPITAL

Pupils and Teachers of Hartridge School Complete Plans for Tomorrow.

The pupils and teachers of the Hartridge School have almost completed their preparations for the fair which they give each year for the children's ward in Muhlenberg Hospital. The fair will be held Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock in the auditorium, and all the classes are eagerly hoping that the interest in the suffering children across the ocean has not decreased the interest in our Plainfield children, and that enough money will be made to support two beds for another year. For the past six years the pupils have worked hard and have been singularly successful.

In 1910 they began their series of fairs with the purpose of starting a fund which they were confident some kindly person would complete. After two years, during which they gave the hospital $719, the kindly person appeared in the form of a whirlwind campaign that added the necessary thousands. So, in 1912, they gave $400 for the support of two beds in the ward, one of which was named for their schoolmate, Evelyn Gertrude Frost.

As the ward could not be finished, however, until later, they decided to hold their 1913 and 1914 proceeds until it was completed. That enabled them to give, in 1915, $500 for the equipment of the ward, an additional $175 for the screening of the piazza, so that the babies could be out of doors at any time, and also $400 for the maintenance of two beds for 1915. In February, 1916, they sent again $400 to continue the support of the beds for the current year.

Now they are starting afresh with high hopes. The Seniors and Juniors have chosen, as heretofore, the candy and flower table, which makes the northern end of the hall bright and gay. On the opposite end, Miss Tennant will have a most decorative Japanese booth for her little second grade. It is rumoerd that Russian brasses and Chinese baskets may also be found there. The third grade academic will use the stage for refreshments and good old-fashioned tea, coffee, chocolate (Mrs. Miller's, and just as good as Maillard's), sandwiches, ice cream and cake. The little third grade has combined with the first elementary, and will sell Easter tokens, gay balloons of a strange and unexpected nature, and sundry surprises for the very young. The second academic is working busily on a fancy-work table, which should be very profitable, and the first has branched out into something quite new in the school annals—a counter where silk ties, stockings and handkerchiefs will be for sale at reasonable prices.

A doll and toy table is planned by the little girls of the fourth and fifth grades elementary, but they have been rather secretive about their plans. The sixth and seventh grades, on the other hand, have advertised their wares broadcast and have levied upon the art department in carrying out their ideas. Painted hats, far more beautiful and also cheaper than any seen in New York, have made one end of the studio look like a millinery shop during the past week, while at the other, dainty painted butterflies to hover over flower bowls are suggestive of the flower show.

Evidently at this fair everyone can be satisfied, from the boy of three who clamors for a balloon, to the dignified gentleman who likes painted butterflies in his garden. And in the end the tired sellers and the kindly buyers can be happy in the thought that some tangible good has come out of it all for two or more of Plainfield's less fortunate children.

TRIANGLE DEBATE WILL BE HELD THIS EVENING

Plainfield High School's debaters will make a strong bid for first honors in the Triangle Debating league tonight when the two teams that have been selected meet Battin and Trenton. Each of the three schools will have two teams, one taking the affirmative and the other the negative side of the question: "Shall Military Training Be Enforced in the High Schools." The affirmative team of each school will debate at home, while the negative teams will debate—with Plainfield at Battin, Trenton at Plainfield and Battin at Trenton.

The two High School teams are composed partly of the debaters that reached the finals in the Rutgers College Debating League, and Plainfield has an excellent chance, it is thought, to win the loving cup offered to the school winning both the affirmative and negative. Harold F. Biddle will be in charge of the debate at the High School and several prominent men will act as judges. The members of the negative team are Richard Borden, William Backer and Olive Lawrence, with Harold Neely as alternate, while the affirmative side is upheld by Joseph Gallagher, Caryl Dunavan, Dickerman Williams and Warren Mumford.

CITY JUDGE DEMEZA WILL PRESIDE AT TRIAL

Acceding to popular request induced by the fact that many knotty legal problems will arise as the contest proceeds, City Judge William G. De Meza has consented to grace the judiciary bench at the Washington School auditorium next Monday night, when the long awaited and gossip-causing breach of promise suit brought by "Miss Dolly Lovejoy" against "Goliath Bruce" is heard. Naturally enough many of the witnesses are prejudiced and it requires a stern and unyielding magistrate to give plaintiff and defendant alike a square deal, consequently Judge DeMeza, because of his experience, will give satisfaction to all concerned. J. J. Carroll, who has the reputation of being a forceful legal light, will prosecute the case in behalf of the fair plaintiff, while Thomas C. Vail has been retained by "Mr. Bruce" to plead his innocence.

Mock trials if properly conducted are always certain to provide a delightful evening's entertainment and in arranging the case of "Lovejoy vs. Bruce" the West End Community Center believes it has a rare treat in the form of wholesome fun, mental relaxation and recreation. Numerous well known West End residents have been subpoenaed as witnesses, while experts in the line of legal prosecution and defense will aid the principal attorneys. The public in general is invited to hear the proceedings.

ALFRED UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB WILL SING HERE

The Alfred University Glee Club, of which John B. Cottrell, Jr., of this city, is a member, will make its first appearance in the Seventh-Day Baptist church Monday night, giving a concert. The club, which is now making a tour, is said to be one of the best in the history of the university. The public is invited. There will be a silver offering and the proceeds will be given to the Boy Scouts.

The Hornell (N. Y.) Tribune-Times, in its issue of March 15, spoke highly of the concert given by the club in the First Presbyterian church, that city, on the above date, adding that it was successful from every point of view and that almost all the numbers on the program necessitated an encore, was well balanced, maintained a standard of excellence, without a single weak spot.

CLOTHES IN CHINA

Where Women Wear Trousers and Men Are Clad In Skirts.

A CURIOUS FASHION IN HAIR.

The Feminine Head Is Decorated With a Stiff Cushion That Demands Constant Ventilation to Be Bearable. Vogue of the Ear Tickler.

Even though I came to China knowing that they did things backward, there are some customs here that I just can't get used to. One is seeing women wearing trousers. There are more women wearing trousers in China than there are people in the United States—men, women and children. I suppose there is no reason why things shouldn't be thus, but it will always seem to me that the pants are on the wrong side of the house.

The women look like clothespins. Their bodies are the same size all the way down, and their feet are so tiny that they go bobbing along for all the world like jointed clothespins. The women shave their foreheads, with the timber line almost at the top of their heads, so that the little patch of face below looks as if it were trembling under threat of an impending snowslide.

Their hair is pulled and keyed back as though for musical purposes. At the back of the head a Chinese woman wears a cushion of false hair, so dressed as to show her rank, so that a person skilled in the language of the hair can read her history, can tell her present plans and her future ambitions. A person up on hair can tell at a glance whether or not she is married; if so, how many children she has, and if a widow, if she is willing to open correspondence with a desirable party of about forty-five—object, matrimony.

In this cushion a Chinese woman carries her head scratcher. Her hair dressing is a preparation made of slippery elm. The person needing it can run out to the corner and wait until the carpenter takes a plane and shaves off a few curls. This the Chinese lady steeps into a thick, gummy smear, pours it on her head and uses it to stiffen her hair.

This layer makes the top of her head hot, so that every odd moment when she hasn't anything else to do she gets down under the mess and lets in some air with a darning needle. Her favorite time for doing this is at the theater. When the performance begins to drag she gets out her darning needle and improves the shining hour by making a rift in the roof as she looks around over the audience, lightly gossiping about who are there, what they are wearing and how awful they look.

Men in China wear skirts. Their skirts are in a garment that reaches from their shoulders to their shins and looks like a nightgown worn by a Cape Cod deacon. It has a tasty slit up each side, so that on muddy crossings the twinkle of masculine ankles may be seen. When they want to catch a car they have to gather up their skirts in the good old fashioned feminine way.

Under their skirts they wear a pair of drawers fastened at the ankles with a bandage, with the ends tucked in. When a Chinaman has an important letter or note to carry he unties the leg of his drawers, stuffs it in and puts the bandage back. The bandage works loose, so that when he reaches his destination the note is usually gone.

The only pockets a Chinaman has are in his shirt waist, which he wears under his skirt, so that when he wants to get a dime he has to unbutton one side and slip in a hand. Even though a Chinaman wears skirts he has not yet learned about the First National bank.

The Chinese are a great nation to think of the handy little things—things that no other people in the world could possibly think of. You can run out on to the street almost any time and buy an ear tickler. Men make a living going around selling them. An ear tickler is a little puff of cotton on the end of a stick and is meant to combine both business and pleasure—the business of cleaning the ear and the pleasure of the tickling sensation.

His is not an easy life, for the peddler has to be constantly on the watch against tricky people who come up, sample his ticklers, give their ears a couple of good tingles, tell the man that they don't like his brand of tickler and go on their way.

The peddler's ingenuity has developed a way of polishing up the tickler so that the next possible purchaser may not know that the tickler has been weighed and found wanting by carrying along a little bowl of white powder. After a tickler has been sampled and declined he dabs the end into the bowl, and it is bright and fresh looking as if it were new. If you went to buy one you couldn't tell for the life of you but that it was a new one—until you had used it a time or two.—Homer Croy in Leslie's Weekly.

Varnished His Own Coffin.

Tommaso Salvini was one of those men who take a grim satisfaction in making preparations for their own interment. He assisted in varnishing his own coffin, a magnificent walnut one, destined to be inclosed in a solid block of marble, with the curt inscription, "Tommaso Salvini, Nineteenth Century Actor." In the same way his countryman, D'Annunzio, has constructed his own tomb.—London Standard.

Success doesn't "happen." It is organized, pre-empted, captured by consecrated common sense.—Willard.

NOT ALWAYS FLOURISHING.

Love cannot die.

Maybe not. But sometimes it gets a trifle billious.

Woman's Love.

It takes a hundred men to make an encampment, but it takes only the influence of one woman to make a home. I not only admire woman as the most beautiful object ever created, but I reverence her as the redeemed glory of humanity, the sanctuary of all virtues, the pledge of all perfect qualities of heart and head. It is because women are so much better than men that their faults are considered greater. The one thing in this world that is considered constant, the only peak that rises above the clouds, the window in which the light burns forever, the one star that darkness cannot quench, is woman's love. It rises to the greatest height; it sinks to the lowest depths; it forgives the most cruel injuries. A woman's love is the perfume of the heart. This is the real love that subdues the earth; the love that has wrought miracles of art; that gives us music all the way from cradle song to the grand symphony that bears the soul away on wings of fire—a love that is greater than power, sweeter than life and stronger than death.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

Crooked Straits.

Perhaps the most remarkable and intricate strait in the world is likely to be chucked on the scrap heap. Its day, which began late in history, is almost over. The Panama canal has diverted most of its traffic and will presently divert much more. The famous explorer Magellan was the first man to brave the dangers of this tortuous passage. He did it in a windjammer, but as a rule only steamships follow in his train. It is too crooked a strait for the sailing ship.

In the first place, the strait of Magellan is 400 miles long. It is as twisty and bendy as a serpent or an eel, and in places it is flanked with snow capped mountains 7,000 feet high.

It would help matters if ships could anchor, but they cannot. The water is too deep. So this strait has never been popular with sailing skippers, and they prefer the rigors of the Horn and several hundred miles farther around.

The Cheering Wasn't Renewed.

Professor R. W. Lee of McGill university law school was once addressing the Ontario Bar association, and the Osgoode hall students were present. Of course Dean Lee's address had to be punctuated by the usual students' outbursts. Dean Lee touched on ancient and modern law and the methods of lawyers and judges. Taking up one line of legal problems, he said: "Now, if I asked a lawyer of such and such an age this question he would answer so and so or something to that effect. But, coming down to the present day, if I were to ask the same question of an Osgoode hall student"— Instantly the noise began. The students yelled and cheered and applauded and stamped on the floor and pounded their desks. It was some noise, but at last it subsided. Dean Lee, unruffled, went on to say, "If I were to ask an Osgoode hall student he would answer, 'I don't know.'"—Silence.

Song of the Marines.

The United States marine corps is unique in all branches of the American services in having a distinctive marching song that is as swingy and catchy as many of the foreign marching songs. True, West Point has its Benny Havens song, and the Seventh cavalry marches to the inspiring tune of Garry Owen, but the "Halls of Montezuma" is sung by all who wear the marine's uniform. One verse of the song, a favorite one, runs:

Our flag's unfurled to every breeze
From dawn to setting sun.
We have fought in every clime and place
Where we could take a gun.
In the snow of faroff northern lands
And in sunny tropic scenes
You will find us always on the job,
The United States marines.

His Own Fault.

Said the waiter to a noisy card party in a hotel bedroom: "I've been sent to ask you to make less noise, gentlemen. The gentleman in the next room says he can't read."

"Tell him," was the reply of the host, "that he ought to be ashamed of himself. Why, I could read when I was five years old."—Pittsburgh Telegraph.

Diamonds.

Diamonds are supposed to be composed of "pure carbon." At least the authorities tell us that such is the case. The genesis of the diamond remains one of the unsolved problems of science, with the balance of the evidence favoring the theory of vegetable origin.—New York American.

One Way to Rest.

There is nothing that will rest you so quickly as to sit on a straight back chair and, lifting the feet from the floor, push them out in front of you as far as possible, stretch the arms, put the head back, open the mouth wide and make yourself yawn.

Ought to Cheer Him.

Figg—What's the matter, old man? You're looking wretched. Fogg—I'm not myself at all today. Figg—Oh, come; that's nothing to feel wretched about!—Exchange.

Still a Baby.

"The last time I saw him was thirty years ago, when he was a baby."

"Well, I saw him yesterday, and he hasn't changed a bit."

The Difference.

"Papa, what is the difference between a fiddler and a violinist?"

"About $300 an evening, my child."—Musical America.

Wally Schang of Athletics Out For Catching Record This Season

WALLY SCHANG, the brilliant young catcher of the Philadelphia Americans, is out after the backstopping record this season. The husky receiver of the Athletics has asked Manager Connie Mack to permit him to catch every game for his team during the 1916 season. Schang states he is stronger than he ever was and is capable of eclipsing the record made by George Gibson some years ago. Last season Schang was shifted around considerably by Mack; but, while he put up a steady game wherever he was used, his backstopping was not as brilliant as it was the year before. This year Schang says he wants to be known as the hardest working receiver in the big leagues. Wally will more than have his hands full handling the Athletics' young pitchers, and Mack has a number of them too.

P. H. S. NINE AT TRENTON TOMORROW; "VIC" IN BOX

Trenton High School will be the opponents of the Plainfield High School nine in the second game of the season for the locals tomorrow afternoon. In stacking up against the capitol city team so early in the season, especially when the game will be played at Trenton, the real mettle of the Red and Blue tossers should be firmly established after the contest. Trenton will be one of the fastest teams to be faced by the locals this year, and should make things interesting. From all reports, their pitching staff is the strong point, as besides Bodenweiser, last year's mainstay, there is Scammell, a former Trenton Junction pitcher, and Brink, a Gregory School flinger. Turano, a former Carroll-Robin hurler, and Saul, a sub. on the Trenton team last year, are also said to be pretty good.

Victorson, who showed up so well in the first game on Wednesday, will probably be Coach Patch's choice for the Red and Blue moundsmen, while the other positions will be the same also, including Apgar behind the bat, Kyle at first, Lewis on second, Linke at third, Dunham at shortstop, and Mills, Noonan and McDowell in the field. Accompanied by a large bunch of rooters, the team will leave the local railroad station at noon.

McCARTHY OF CUBS IN DEMAND.

Toledo, Ohio, April 14.—Roger Bresnahan is negotiating with President Charles Weeghman, of the Chicago Nationals for the purchase of Infielder Alex. McCarthy for the Toledo Association ball club. The Indianapolis Club, too, it is reported, is hot after McCarthy and has made Weeghman a substantial offer. Bresnahan was reported to be negotiating for another Cub player besides McCarthy.

YANKS ONCE TIED CAN ON B. KAUFF

Slugger Now With Giants Was Picked up by Scout Irwin in 1910.

Arthur Irwin believes the rise to fame of Benny Kauff vindicates him as a scout, for it was Irwin who dug up John McGraw's alleged "second Ty Cobb." Also, Irwin says, if there had been a different system of trying out Yankee recruits in vogue some years ago, the Yankees today would be boasting of this former outlaw beauty. Incidentally Irwin takes issue with the system of quick tests for recruits now rather general among major league managers. Drastic roster limits and club treasury troubles of late years have about done for the gradual development of youngsters by big league teams.

"The difference between $300 in cash and a $35,000 ball player is what the New York American league club might have saved is my theory that a busher is entitled to gradual polishing instead of a quick fire test of his ability had been worked out in Kauff's case," argued Irwin recently.

"Late in the summer of 1910 I first struck Benny's trail. He then was pastiming in the Virginia Valley league with the Parkersburg team. I watched him slam the ball in four or five games, and I then was ready to stake my reputation on his ability to hit. That fall we drafted the player; he cost us only $300.

"The next spring he went to Athens, Ga., with the Yankees. With Parkersburg the previous season he had batted .417 against all sorts of pitching. Well, he pelted good and bad serving on that training jaunt. I don't say he was a good fielder or used good judgment in his base running, but he could hit. And the other qualities usually come in time under proper coaching.

"I remember some freak stunts Kauff pulled one day on that trip. The Yankee Yannigans were on their way north. I was managing them and we were up against a college team down in Virginia. The first time up Benny poled a single and was out trying to stretch it. Next time he hit to centre for a double and was thrown out striving to reach third. On his fourth attempt he hit one over the centre fielder and was tagged out sliding home. His one idea was to keep going until the ball reached some base ahead of him.

"That, of course, was kid stuff—Benny was only 18 at the time—but he was an unpolished star then. His ability to hit the ball on a line to any field was due to his unusual muscular development. He has exceptionally powerful shoulders and arms.

"When it came time to cut down the squad, Hal Chase had no room for Kauff. We then had Daniels, Wolter, Cree, Hemphill and other veteran outfielders, and we had finished second the previous season, so Chase cannot be blamed. Kauff went to the Connecticut league and did well. Now he is a star."

KID ELBERFIELD ROUNDING OUT SECOND DECADE OF PRO BALL

Norman Elberfeld, long famous as the shortstop of the Detroit and New York Americans, will complete his twentieth year in professional baseball this year. The Tabasco Kid was born in Mason City, W. Va., April 13, 1876. Elberfeld took over the management of the Chattanooga Southern League club last July, and he has been rewarded for his fine work as a pilot by being retained as the chief of the Lookouts.

The Tabasco Kid demonstrated that he was able to administer some of his "pep" to others when he succeeded McCormick at the Chattanooga helm in the middle of last season. Up to that time the Lookouts had been fighting gamely to oust Little Rock from the cellar, and they seemed in a fair way to succeed, in spite of the best efforts of the Arkansaw Travelers, when the Kid took charge. Then the joke team of the league took a sudden brace, and the players began to give an excellent imitation of being alive. Although the Lookouts finished sixth, they scrapped with Nashville and Atlanta up to the very last for a place in the first division. This is Elberfeld's second try as manager of the Chattanooga club, and it looks as if he would get away with it.

The Kid's professional career began in 1897, when he covered third base for Richmond in the Atlantic League, and batted .335. The next year he was with Detroit in the Western League, where he began his wonderful career as a shortstop. In the middle of the 1899 season he went to the Cincinnati Reds, but in 1900 he went back to Detroit, and played shortstop for the Tigers during the first three seasons of the American League. In 1903 he joined the New Yorks, where he remained seven seasons. He rounded out his major league career with Washington, where he played second and third base in 1910 and 1911. Last year the Kid finished the season in the outfield and hung up a swatting average of .288.

N. Y. U. TO ENTERTAIN SCHOOLBOYS TOMORROW

New York, April 14.—New York University will welcome several hundred high-school boys today for the violet institution's seventeenth annual Preparatory School Day exercises, which will close with competition in track and field events tomorrow afternoon on Ohio Field. Over 350 athletes, representing thirty-six high and preparatory schools, have entered.

One of the principal features of the athletic competition for the schoolboys is the one-mile relay race, in which event the schools competing will be Stuyvesant, Mercersburg Academy, De Witt Clinton, Erasmus Hall, Dickinson H. S., Morris H. S., Poly Prep, Yonkers H. S., Central H. S., and Yonkers H. S.

Among the schoolboy athletes who will arrive at University Heights today are B. Schaeffer, the pole vaulter, and G. F. Meredith, the quarter miler, both of Mercersburg Academy. Meredith is a brother of the well-known Pennsylvania athlete. Others who are expected to figure prominently in the meet are Nelson Talmage, of the Suffield School, in all of the sprints; Angus, of Central High School, Newark, in the mile and half-mile runs; J. Fleck, of Morris High School, and F. Jenkins of Far Rockaway H. S., in the mile event, and E. Balestier of Morris H. S., in the 440-yard run.

HOPES MEET FARMERS.

Hope chapel will play the Farmers' A. C. on the Soccer Field diamond tomorrow afternoon.

PREPARING FOR P. H. S. TOSSERS

Trenton High, Exceptionally Strong This Year, Holding Daily Practice.

Trenton, April 13.—Trenton High School's baseball squad is practicing hard in preparation for its first game here Saturday against Plainfield High School. The Plainfield nine has always given T. H. S. a game. Last year the score was 2 to 1.

No definite line-up will be picked until just before the game. The infield will cause a lot of deliberation on the part of Coach Brumbaugh. There are two sets of veteran infielders, all too good to leave out of the game. Mealy, a second baseman of some "rep," has been shifted to third, where he seems to take better than at second. Last year his batting fell behind a little. He is batting left-handed this season, and is already hitting the ball all over the lot. Captain McCabe is playing second. With this combination at work, things begin to take on a championship appearance. Smith Eldridge and Leo Moore are on a par for shortstop. Moore may not play Saturday on account of his studies, but will be out steady soon. He may be given a chance behind the bat. A catcher is needed, and both Eldridge and Moore have had some experience.

Steward is out again for first. He alternated with Westenburger in 1915 and may have the initial sack all to himself this season. Shaw, Harris, Brigham and Boyle are fighting for Steward's place, and a better man may be found. Watson and Reed, both 1915 players, members of the infield, will either alternate with the other infielders or play in the outfield. They can both be depended on to hit the ball, and are needed.

Bodenweiser and Martin are already in form in the box. Martin is going easy on account of anaccident to his arm last year in the City Amateur League. Bodenweiser will start against Plainfield, with plenty of other staff men to take his place.

No definite men have been placed in the outfield. It may be that the left-overs from the infield positions will play the outfield positions.

Any Trenton lovers of baseball who want to see a good game, and don't want to go out of town to see it, wil find it worth while to drop in at the High School field Saturday afternoon. The Red and Black team is usually one of the fastest collection tion of ball players in town.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH WINS THE EUCHRE TOURNAMENT

St. Mary's church won the euchre tournament from St. Joseph's of North Plainfield and St. John's of Dunellen, by finishing ahead in the third and last sitting last night. The final standing was: St. Mary's, 67; St. Joseph's, 65; St. John's, 57. Another tournament will be held, and a cup will be awarded the winning team. The first play will be in St. Joseph's Hall Thursday evening, April 27. The names of the players on each team will be announced soon.

COLUMBIA SHORT. RECOVERS.

M. J. Buonaguro, the freshman shortstop on the Columbia baseball team, returned to practice yesterday afternoon and will be in condition to play in the Yale game tomorrow at New Haven. Buonaguro turned his ankle in the Dartmouth game on Tuesday and had been away from the field.

MAY PLAY ALUMNI.

Arrangements are underway this afternoon for a game on Hyde Field tomorrow afternoon between N. P. H. S. and the Alumni. Weather permitting, it is likely the contest will be played.

Disastrous First Inning Loses Game for N.P.H.S.

Bernardsville High School invaded the borough yesterday afternoon and annexed a 7 to 3 victory from North Plainfield High School. The first inning was a nightmare to the locals, as was the case with Seton Hall, Tuesday, their opponents compiling four runs, a lead N. P. H. S. could not overcome.

Sherman Chandler was sent to the mound for the homesters, and his inexperience gave the opposing combination an advantage. Before the big southpaw could find his bearing and get accustomed to conditions, Bernardsville had scampered four runs across the plate on four hits, a base on balls and an error, which proved sufficient to win the game.

"Luke" Dilts took the responsibility of the pitching department upon his shoulders in the second inning, and pitched admirably. He was touched for only four hits, his speed and curves baffling his opponents, thirteen of whom beat the ozone. The three runs that were made during his regime were through no fault of his. After having fanned the first two men that faced him, he proceeded to treat the third likewise, but Mair let the third strike elude him, thus putting his opponent on first. He soon meandered to second by a clean steal. Hamler then clouted a pretty single to left, scoring Conover. Two more runs were scored in the next inning due directly to a "bone" play. After two were out an error by the catcher placed Vliet on first. Childes hit an easy roller between first and second, which Yates covered. Seidel also ran out of his territory in an endeavor to get the ball, leaving the first sack without a guardian, both men advancing when Yates threw the ball and nobody was there to receive it. Hamler then lined out another pretty single, scoring both men.

The boroughites showed a big improvement in yesterday's contest, especially in the fielding department, committing only three errors in contrast with eleven in Tuesday's game. There was also a more effective offensive, nine hits being collected. Mair made two safeties, both of which were sent a long distance.

The locals commenced scoring in the second frame. Dill's was hit by a pitched ball and stole second on the first throw, being advanced to third on an error by the catcher. Kirch then shot a hit past third for the first counter. Another was collected in the sixth. Mair opened with a single to left center and went to second when the defender of that bag let the ball get away from him, coming home on a single by M. McDonough. The last run was tallied in the seventh. Yates beat out a hit to short and went to second on a wild pitch, when he scored when Townley hit to centre for a base.

The score:

LENGTHEN BALTUSROL COURSE 200 YARDS

Many Changes Suggested Last Season to Be Made—Work Just Been Started.

Preparatory to the formal opening of the Baltusrol Golf Club links for the 1916 season, the course is being changed under the direction of the The greens committee has issued a George Low, the club professional. The work was started several days ago and it is being rushed.

The changes will mean a lengthening of the course from 6,212 yards to about 6,400 yards. Four holes will be lengthened. No. 2 hole will be lengthened from 389 yards to 409, No. 3 from 148 to 160, No. 4 from 500 to 520, and No. 7 from 562 to 582.

Under the changes the new tenth hole will be 410 yards along the foothills, practically a continuation of the present No. 9, with a tee near the latter green and playing lengthwise over the pond; No. 11 will be 135 yards at right angles down to small foothill; No. 12 will be a Dog's leg hole, 5500 yards back to the present No. 12 green, the fair green skirting the red barn.

The committee has also fixed Saturday, April 22, as the day for the starting time for the season. For play on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays the time sheets will be opened on Wednesdays.

The summer greens will be opened Saturday for play. It was planned to open the summer greens last week, but the bad weather caused the change.

The changes will also include a change of the eleventh hole, bringing it from the side of the hilltop to the bottom, so that golfers will have to climb the hill only once—at the eighth hole. Another feature that will result from the changes will be the ability of players to use the brassie at the tenth and twelfth holes. Under the old arrangement, the brassie could not be used between the seventh and fifteenth holes, and this has frequently been criticized by members and visiting players.

The greens committe has issued a statement to members, in which it was stated that the changes were authorized because of considerable criticism of some feature of the old course.

Some of the criticism was directed at the similarity in the length of the eighth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth holes, which meaured from 276 yards at the twelfth to 325 at the eleventh. There was also criticism because of the congestion caused by the proximity of the eleventh and eighth greens. Much objection was also expressed at different times to the climbing of the hillside for these two holes.

The only criticism offered during the national open championship match last summer, the statement reads, was that the consecutive holes, eighth to thirteenth, were far too easy and too much alike in shots required.

Under the changes the tenth and twelfth holes, which, it is said, are very easy par, four, will be replaced with two holes, each of which will be trapped so as to make them very hard par at four. On both of these it will be necessary to use the brassie for the second shot.

Two water hazards, which have been the cause of much criticism due to the loss of balls and the delay in play in retrieving them, will be eliminated by the changes. One danger spot at present is a tee where players are exposed to a pulled shot of any one paying to the eighth green and any player coming to the eleventh green who is exposed to a sliced shot from the present twelfth tee will be cut out.

LEWIS-BRITTON TITLE BOUT.

According to Dan Morgan and Jimmy Johnston, the bout between Kid Ted Lewis and Jack Britton, in New Orleans, on April 24, will decide the welterweight championship of the world. Johnston is so sure that his protege, Lewis, will win the bout that he is arranging for a battle with Marty Cross after the New Orleans fight. Cross meets Jimmy Coffey tonight at the Harlem Sporting Club, New York, in a ten-round bout, with Pal Moore and Mickey Dunn in another ten-rounder.

Will revive interest in Bible Reading in Plainfield as never before and regardless of sect, creed or faith. A universal reading of the Bible is bound to make for better citizenship, is bound to make for a plainer, stronger, simpler, honester speech in daily life, and a higher standard of ethics in the dealings of men. A return to Bible reading in these stressful times of world disturbance is needed as never before in our history and is bound to add to the moral and mental equipoise of this entire nation.

Big Print Red Letter Bibles

All the Words and Sayings of Christ Printed in Red

This Book of Books

This Bible—this miraculous Bible—this Book of All Books—luminous with the light that dwelleth not on land or sea—this noblest and most beautiful Thing in all the world—what is it—whence cometh it—what means it?

It has made and unmade Nations. It has uprooted Kingdoms and Empires. It has diverted the mighty tides of History. It has crumpled ancient Faiths and Superstitions. Because of it fell Pagan Rome. The antique Systems of India and the Far East have bowed their heads to its enlightened sway.

China and the Orient now first awaken from their sleep of thrice a thousand years, and follow their sister nations of the Occident—whose feet are guided by one sole lamp—the sacred flame of which was kindled by the inspired Hebrew Prophets, and fed for all time by the Lord and Master of the Golden Rule.

Only ignorance scoffs at the Bible! The greatest rulers—the greatest statesmen—the greatest scholars—writers—orators—scientists—soldiers—and the untold millions of the Common People, whose collective genius outweighs them all—have thrilled to its Divine Wisdom.

Its lyrics of unfathomable tenderness—its orations of compelling potency—its contemplative prose of preternatural grandeur—have never been equalled. Its emotional depths and its intellectual heights make it the one and only Book of Books, vouchsafed for the guidance of mankind throughout the ages.

"THE MYSTIC ROSE" REHEARSALS PROGRESS

Marked Improvement is Being Shown by Cast in Comic Opera Production.

The various rehearsals for the "Mystic Rose," which is to be presented in the Plainfield Theatre on May 2 and 3, under the auspices of the Plainfield Lodge of Elks, demonstrates that the preparations for the production are coming along nicely. Last night the full chorus held a rehearsal and showed marked improvement over previous work. Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Skilling, the producer, found the children who are to take part in the flower and butterfly ballet had progressed to the point where they could be divided into groups, each group representing either some flower or firefly, butterfly or shamrock. The girls will hereafter rehearse in groups for some time to come.

The following calls have been issued for rehearsals during the next few days. Tonight, Geisha double sextette at 7 o'clock; all principals at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow afternoon, 2 o'clock, forget-me-not group; 2:30, golden rod group; 3 o'clock, lily group; 3:30, firefly group; 4, dandelion group; 4:30, butterfly group; 5:15 (ladies only), Geish double sextette. Monday, dancing tea girls at 6 p. m.; the Tourist double octette at 7 p. m.; all principals at 8 p. m. During Monday afternoon, the following groups of children will be drilled: roses at 3:30, violets at 4 and shamrocks at 4:30. The full chorus rehearsals have been announced for Tuesday and Thursday evenings of next week at 8 o'clock.

ANNUAL STATEMENT OF SAURER COMPANY

Gross Earnings for the Past Year Totaled $1,390,073.72 With Large Profit.

The International Motor Company has issued its first annual report since December 31, 1912.

Gross earnings for the year ended December 31, 1915, amounted to $1,390,073.22, from which is deducted $728,954.74 for selling, administration and general expenses, leaving the net profit for the year at $661,118.98, which is equivalent to over 18 per cent. on the outstanding preferred stock of $3,600,000. This stock is a 7 per cent. cumulative issue and no dividends have been paid since October 31, 1912. The profit and loss account has been reduced from a debit of $3,118,197.72 to one of $2,457,078.75.

Since the fall of 1913 when the company was in a very critical condition and at which time a change of management took place and a thorough reorganization of the company's operating methods and of its model was begun, there has been a decided change for the better in the financial status of the company. At the time the merchandise creditors were given notes for their accounts and every effort was made to conserve the available quick assets and to operate on as restricted a basis as possible. Immediate steps were taken for the improvement of the design of the product and by August 1, 1914, the new model for 1 and 2-ton capacity was near completion. The result was that during 1914 operations of the company were conducted on a scale showing practically no loss.

During the past year sales were made in large volume due to foreign developments, and the company was able to show large profits instead of small losses, and has gained in strength very rapidly since March, 191.

President Munroe says that the commercial outlook for the future of the company, aside from special conditions, which he might be caused by failure to secure further sales of war trucks, is directly dependent upon the domestic truck business, and the prospects of the general industries of this country.

He says that the volume of domestic business during the early months of 1916 is far in excess of expectations and promises highly satisfactory results for the company. It is with difficulty, he says, that the factories can keep pace with the volume of orders received and in prospect.

PASSES ANOTHER CRISIS.

A. D. Findlay, formerly of this city, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks at his home in Madison, was again in a dangerous condition last night. TOP OF THE WORLD

Nature's Skyscraper That Towers High Above All Others.

THE GIANT MOUNT EVEREST.

This Still Unconquered Peak Is In a Wild Country That Is Extremely Difficult to Traverse and Has So Far Defied the Surveyors of India.

For many years the East Indian government has prohibited any attempt at the ascent of Mount Everest. As long ago as 1902 six European Alpinists set out for India to view the world from the top of its highest mountain. But the virgin snows of Everest could not have cooled their ardor half so rapidly as did the cold water with which the Indian government soused them. The mountaineers simply met with a blank refusal, and the reason of it was perfectly obvious and logical.

The nearest approach of a railroad toward Mount Everest is about 100 miles away. To the north of this railroad terminal is a succession of parallel ranges of the Himalayas separated by deep valleys. It is one of the most difficult countries in the world to traverse, and no white man has ever crossed it.

The surveyors of India have never been nearer than eighty miles from Mount Everest. Some of the valleys are peopled by a few wild tribes who fiercely resent the intrusion of any strangers. The whole country lies in Nepal, which while still an independent state strictly forbade any person to go north among these mountains, and since Nepal came under the suzerainty of India the prohibition has been continued, for obvious reasons, by the Indian government.

When the ascent of Mount Everest is finally made it will probably be on the side of Tibet, whose southern boundary is not far from the mountain, but by her agreement with China the Indian government is bound to keep explorers from crossing into Tibet from India. Permission was refused to Sven Hedin to cross the border on his last great expedition, when he finally crossed from Ladakh.

Some interesting facts about Mount Everest may not generally be known. Many persons have wondered how the determination of the height of Mount Everest could be so exact that its elevation is fixed at precisely 29,002 feet. In happened in this way: In 1849 and 1850 six trigonometrical determinations of the height of the mountain were obtained by the Indian survey at six different stations, all south of the mountain. The height of 29,002 feet assigned to Everest was the mean of the [illegible] values for the height just o[illegible]

But the ge[illegible]rvey of India informed the wo[illegible]S that Mount Everest is higher than it was computed to be by those six trigonometrical determinations. It reported that between 1881 and 1902 six other determinations of the height of the mountain were made at five stations, all excepting one being nearer to the mountain than the previous surveys. These six new determinations gave a mean value of 29,141 feet after correction for refraction. According, therefore, to our present information, Mount Everest is 139 feet higher than it was earlier computed to be.

Why is it, then, that this latest result of the scientific computation of the height of Mount Everest has not yet appeared in books and maps? It is because the Indian survey is not convinced that the final determination has been reached. It says that the height, 29,141 feet, is a more reliable result than 29,002 feet, but the more recent determination is still probably too small. It desires to acquire more thorough knowledge of the problems of refraction and of the effects of deviations of gravity upon trigonometrical work before announcing the final determination of the elevation of the world's highest mountain. Meanwhile it will retain on its maps the first determination of 29,002 feet.

This decision certainly commended itself. It would be more vexatious than useful to change the figures now and then in order to add or subtract a few feet as the latest determination of the mountain's height. It is better to wait until refinement of scientific method yields the closest approximation possible. This is the suggestion of the Indian survey, and all map makers have apparently adopted it.—New York Times.

As the Times Change.

In the sixties the customary proposal was, "Will you be mine?" Very faintly signs are showing that men will yet say, "May I be yours?" It will take time, for the possessive, the dominating instinct in man, is still strong, and long may it live, for that is the vigor of the race. Only we do not want that instinct to carry man away, any more than we want a well bred horse to clinch its teeth upon the bit and bolt.—W. L. George in Atlantic.

Counting a Score.

Twenty is called a score because it represents the whole man, ten fingers and ten toes. Etymologically it means a cut or mark. In very early times, when men could not count beyond twenty, or "one man," it was usual to cut a notch in a stick and begin again, and so it went on, one man, two men, and so on. This is why sheep are still counted by the score. Now, a tally (French taille, cut or nicked) means an account kept by means of a notched stick, and until the end of the eighteenth century such sticks were given as exchequer receipts, accompanied by a written document. This was also the usual way of keeping accounts in the inns of the middle ages. The number of drinks or meals a customer had were scored against him on what was called a tally stick, and when it reached twenty, or a "whole man," he was expected to pay.

STRYKER LOSES IN BIG DAMAGE SUIT

Jury in Somerville Court Refuses to Give Him $10,000 For Injuries.

Somerville, April 14.—A verdict of no cause for action was reached late yesterday afternoon by a jury in the case of President Raymond P. Stryker, of the Borough Council of South Bound Brook, against Clyde Potts, of Morristown, a sanitary engineer, in which Mr. Stryker demanded $10,000. a

The claim was for injuries received as the result of an explosion in the septic tank of a sewage disposal plant Mr. Potts built at Ocean Grove during an inspection trip. The accident caused the deaths of two other men.

Expert testimony had to do with the accumulation of explosive gases in the septic chambers of the sewerage system. Dr. Ralph O. Smith, of Rutgers College, and Rudolph Hering, of Montclair, were the men examined, and the latter was on the stand yesterday. Both appeared for the plaintiff.

Under the direction of John A. Frech, of Somerville, and Richard P. Lindabury, of Newark, Councilman William Moorhouse told a graphic story corroborating that of Stryker regarding the explosion. Moorehouse told how he helped Stryker from the manhole of the tank with Stryker's clothing ablaze and the flesh dropping off him.

Stryker told his story Wednesday, still bearing the marks of the injuries he suffered. His face was badly scarred, one of his ears burned and he had to wear dark glasses because, he said, his eyes had been damaged as a result of his experience. He declared his left arm and hand were permanently disabled. These were bandaged, and the hand, which was disclosed during his testimony, was deformed.

The jury was out from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.

MANY HEAR TALKS AT NOON SHOP MEETINGS

Good crowds attended the services at all of the three shop meetings conducted by members of the Biederwolf evangelistic party today. Dr. Peterson spoke at the Potter Press Works to about twenty-five, Dr. Raach spoke at Ransom's Cement Works to about 75, and Mrs. Brake addressed a crowd of twenty-five at Schiller Brothers, on West Front street. There was music at each meeting.

BENE FINED $5.

John Bene, 22 years old, looked too long upon the cup last evening, and, as a result, he was fined $5 this morning by Recorder Hand, on complaint of William Pasch, of 79 Harrison avenue. Pasch told the court that Bene had come upon his porch and demanded to be admitted into the house. Upon being refused, Pasch said that Bene became profane and threatened to shoot him. Bene makes his home further down the avenue and it is believed that he thought Pasch's home was his own. He was arrested by Officer Keller.

DANCE WAS A SUCCESS.

The package party and dance held last night under the auspices of the Young Men's Hebrew Association, in their rooms, on Front street, was a success, the large number of attendants enjoying the varied program of features arranged by the committee. Refreshments were served during the evening. The committee in charge of the affair comprised Gustave Lang, chairman; Arthur H. Richards, Leo and Aaron Hirsch. The two latter provided the music during the evening.

SEIZE PICTURES OF JOHNSON FIGHT

U. S. Will Stop Showing in New York, Despite Legal Evasion.

Washington, April 14.—The Treasury Department today notified Dudley Field Malone, collector of the Port of New York to seize the Johnson and Willard prize fight pictures now on exhibition there. The original pictures of the Havana fight were recently taken to the Canadian border and then photographed from the United States side to get around the law prohibiting their importation into the United States.

NEW RELIGIOUS PAPER TO BE PUBLISHED HERE

North Plainfield is to have a weekly publication. It will be known as the Union Herald. Its publisher will be W. J. Trembath and its editor, E. D. Young. It will be devoted entirely to the interest of the evangelical churches of Plainfield and vicinity The paper will make its first appearance on Saturday, April 22. It will have eight pages.

Among the various departments to be run regularly will be the "Pastors' Sanctum," which will be devoted to brief sketches from the various pastors, the general church news department, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. department, and the department for the publication of a sermon from each Plainfield pastor in successive rotation after the Biederwolf campaign ends. The artist for the paper will be Frank Kepler, of 7 Allen place.

MRS. CHRISTOPHER THORP DIES IN EIGHTY-THIRD YEAR

Mrs. Emily Ashby Thorp, wife of Christopher Thorp, of 444 West Front street, died early this morning following a long illness. She was eighty-two years old and was a native of England, coming to this country when she was a young woman. After eighteen years of residence in Philadelphia, she removed to Plainfield in 1873, making her home here ever since that time. The Thorp residence for many years was at Front and New streets, being removed back on New street a little more than twenty years ago to make way for the present Drier houses at that corner. Mr. Thorp has always been engaged in the antique furniture business and both be and Mrs. Thorp have been widely acquainted in the city and borough.

The funeral service which will be private will be held at the late home Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock and interment will be made Monday in the Mt. Peace cemetery.

PINOCHLE TOURNAMENT.

Gaub's barber shop team strengthened it hold on first place in the North Plainfield pinochle tournament last evening by taking two games out of three from the Republican Club, which hed second place. The Firemen took two games out of three from the Domino Club, and are now tied for second place with the Republican Club. The Domino Club is now as firmly lodged in last place as the Gaub team is entrenched in first.

STIFF SENTENCE FOR JEFFERSON

Former Cape May Prosecutor Given Maximum.

$1,000 FINE IS ADDED.

Convicted of Embezzlement, Prisoner Is Sentenced to From Eighteen Months to Three Years—Appeal to Court of Errors Will Be Taken, Attorney Announces.

Trenton, April 14.—Eighteen months to three years' imprisonment at hard labor and a fine of $1,000 was the sentence imposed upon former Prosecutor Matthew Jefferson of Cape May by Justice Garrison in Part II. of the supreme court. Jefferson was convicted of embezzlement, and the judgment was subsequently affirmed by the supreme court, except as to an error in the imposition of sentence. An appeal will be taken.

The action of the court in resentencing Jefferson was due to the trial court in giving him a term of from two to three years when it should have been from eighteen months to three years. Justice Garrison announced that under the act of 1898 covering such instances it was optional as to whether the supreme court or the lower tribunal should impose the resentence.

Assistant Attorney General Boggs represented the state, and former Judge Clarence L. Cole appeared for Jefferson. Justice Garrison, after Mr. Boggs had moved for sentence under the opinion of the court, informed Mr. Cole that there was nothing to do except to impose judgment under the act of 1898 and directed Jefferson to stand up and be sentenced.

Pending the appeals Jefferson was suspended from practicing, and he was released on bail. Judge Cole stated that immediately after the mandate of the court had been perfected he would take out an appeal to have the matter reviewed by the court of errors and appeals. Jefferson, after he resigned the prosecutorship, was succeeded by James Russell Carrow, a Camden Democrat, for the unexpired term. Mr. Carrow's nomination for a full term by Governor Fielder as posecutor of Cape May was held up in the senate by Senator Stevens of that county.

$15,000 VERDICT FOR WIDOW.

Judge's Charge Based Wholly on Husband's Heroism.

Jersey City, April 14.—A $15,000 verdict has been awarded to Mrs. Mary Petersilge of Little Ferry, N. J., the widow of Mr. Petersilge, who sacrificed his life to save Mrs. Bernice Bourne of the same place from death under a train.

In his charge to the jury in the supreme court Judge Speer ignored all the arguments of the widow's lawyer, but told the jury it was to the interest of the community to save life, and where one by his heroism accomplishes such an act a reward should be made to him or to his heirs.

Prosecutor Drops Manslaughter Case Against Wallington Man.

Hackensack, April 14.—Sentence to pay a $500 fine and probation restrictions for a year were imposed on Willis Mayer, son of Councilman William Mayer of Wallington, who was convicted of assault and battery as a result of the injuring of Miss Jessie Gibson of Carlton Hill by an automobile which is said to have got beyond Mayer's control.

Prosecutor Huckin nolle prossed a manslaughter indictment based on the death of Stanley Horrent in the same ride

UNITED WORKMEN SUED.

New Jersey Court Would Appoint Receiver For Order.

Trenton, April 14.—Judge Reilstab issued an order in the United States district court directing the grand lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of New Jersey to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take over all the property of the lodge and why an injunction should not issue restraining the grand lodge from putting into effect a new schedule of assessments and benefits.

MUNITION WORKERS STRIKE.

Men In Ridgefield Park Plant Want 30 Cents an Hour.

Hackensack, April 14.—One hundred and fifty men employed in the munition works of the Tennessee Copper company at Ridgefield Park have gone on strike.

They ask 30 cents an hour. They have been receiving 27½ cents.

Sheriff Heath is on the scene, but there has been no disorder.

Former Seabright Mayor Arraigned.

Freehold, April 14.—P. Hall Packer, a former mayor of Seabright, was arraigned before Judge Lawrence on two indictments charging him with embezzling $566 from William I. Walker on Aug. 8, 1914, and embezzling $250 from Calara Townsend on July 13, 1914. Mr. Packer pleaded not guilty and was held in $800 bail for trial May 10.

Start Tomorrow and Keep It Up Every Morning

Get in the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

We're not here long, so let's make our stay agreeable. Let us live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, and look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet, how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of inside-bathing before breakfast.—Adv.

OUR MEN FIRED ON BY MEXICANS

Many Killed on Both Sides at Parral.

SITUATION THREATENS WAR

Carranza's Government Demands Recall of Punitive Expedition—Funston Ordered to Take Necessary Steps to Protect Troops Already In Mexico. Anti-American Feeling Spreads.

Washington, April 14.—The opinion held here is that the United States has been brought to the verge of war with Mexico unless the forces south of the border are immediately withdrawn. This is due to the fact that American troops have clashed with Carranza sympathizers with the result that many are reported killed on both sides.

The character of the American expeditionary force has changed from a punitive expedition in a friendly country to an unwelcome force in hostile surroundings. The de facto government has warned the United States it cannot control the populace.

This is the news flashed here. All eyes are on the president, who recognizes the extreme gravity of the situation, but is keeping his own counsel.

The only indication so far of the president's next move came in a statement made public by Secretary of War Baker, who said he had directed General Funston to take all necessary steps to protect American soldiers and allay trouble.

This is taken to mean that the president's first consideration is for the lives of the American troops who are scattered along a line nearly 400 miles long in Mexico.

The clash occurred at Parral, 375 miles south of the border.

Reports received by the state department already indicate that anti-American feeling in Mexico is rapidly spreading. The war department has the same advices from Eliseo Arredondo, ambassador designate of the Mexican government in Washington.

Fear For United States Troops.

Army officers are deeply concerned about the safety of the small American force, a scant 10,000, far removed from succor and in the heart of a country now admittedly hostile to them.

Swift decision, one way or the other, is demanded of Washington, according to officials here and members of the senate and house. Nothing would be more likely to prove disastrous, they say, than indecision. The outburst has come on the heels of Carranza's demand that the American troops be withdrawn, and the president is called on either to maintain the American force in defiance of General Carranza or withdraw it.

Whether the American troops will be withdrawn from Mexico probably will be decided by the cabinet. Secretary Tumulty made the statement at the White House that the expedition will not be abandoned. It was explained later that Mr. Tumulty merely voiced his personal opinion and did not speak for the president.

Among leaders in congress the belief seems to be quite general that the United States should adopt a more aggressive policy in dealing with Mexico and Mexican affairs.

The opinion is general that unless the American troops are withdrawn from Mexico war will follow.

Congress leaders appear to be confident that the president will adhere to the purpose he proclaimed when he announced that American troops had been sent across the border to "get Villa."

Will Stay In For Awhile.

Secretary of War Baker made a statement in which he said that for the present at least Pershing would continue to operate under orders heretofore issued.

In announcing that he had directed Major General Funston to "take whatever steps are necessary" for the protection of American forces at Parral the secretary of war said:

"I telegraphed to General Funston the contents of the dispatches handed out by Mr. Arredondo and directed him to take all necessary steps to protect our soldiers and allay further trouble, and then wire promptly all obtainable facts."

The secretary of war would not state how far General Funston might go in carrying out these orders or whether he would be justified in seizing the Mexican railroads for the transportation of additional troops.

"Necessity," said Secretary Baker, "is the only limit to his authority."

Regarding the charge made in the telegram from the Carranza government that the American military commander had violated his instructions in entering Parral without permission of the local authorities, Secretary Baker stated that at the time the troops arrived at Casas Grandes he had announced that no Mexican towns would be "occupied," but that he had not announced that they would not be permitted to enter such towns.

"I feel sure," said the secretary, "that no American troops have attempted to occupy any town. And it is a question whether a force of 150 men entering a town of 15,000 people could be stated to be an attempt at occupation."

Secretary Baker expressed the hope that the reports concerning the outbreak at Parral were exaggerated, but he would not say whether he believed the incident was staged to impress the American government with the necessity of withdrawing from Mexico.

Send More Soldiers.

Senator Gallinger, Republican leader of the senate, declared that withdrawal of the troops would be a humiliation to the whole country and urged that more soldiers be sent to Mexico instead. His opinion has strong backing in his party.

Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign affairs committee, and other Democratic leaders are waiting for the president's decision before expressing themselves. All regard the situation as most critical, and events will be watched with the deepest concern.

Opinion is general that if the American force remains in Mexico it should at once be re-enforced and protected against possible annihilation by a thoroughly aroused Mexico which would have the armed assistance of every political chieftain or bandit.

There is a fear that it may need protection in case hostile outbursts should accompany its retreat back to the border, but the United States has practically no troops to provide that support.

Besides 4,000 troops scattered about the country and 18,000 whose presence is now doubly needed on the border there are no American forces that could be called on for any immediate emergency.

Members of the house were in a large measure reluctant to discuss the untoward turn of affairs in Mexico, saying that it was a question for the president to decide. Of those who did express an opinion, however, most took the view that the troops should not be withdrawn.

The trend of opinion indicated that the house would rather sustain the president in a decision to continue the campaign against Villa despite the objections of Carranza than to abandon the punitive expedition.

Only Two Courses.

Many house members were agreed that only two courses of action were open, either to continue operations in Mexico and to take such precautions as may be necessary to safeguard the expeditionary force by sending additions to the border or to withdraw troops altogether and confess the expedition had been a failure.

The latter prospect does not appeal to the Democrats, nor is it looked on with approval by the Republicans, who blame the administration's lack of firm character for the predicament which now confronts the United States.

Reports received at the state department from El Paso report conditions all along the border and particularly at that city as considerably disturbed by the news of the fight at Parral. While no outright demonstrations are reported, the Mexican population in El Paso is said to be considerably excited, and apprehension of trouble exists.

How Trouble Began.

The trouble started when a detachment of 140 American cavalrymen probably the Thirteenth, under Colonel Slocum, attempted to pass through Parral.

The Carranza authorities, according to the version of the affair given by the Carranza government, urged the troopers to leave. As the American commander sought to obey the request a Mexican civilian drew a revolver and fired. One American soldier was killed. The mob is said to have at once started in pursuit of the Americans, who, it is stated, retired to Maturana before the Carranza soldiers succeeded in stopping the mob. A later dispatch to the Mexican embassy states that subsequently the fighting became general though it is not made clear if the Carranza garrison took sides with the populace.

Lull at Verdun.

Paris, Oct. 14.—There has been a lull in infantry fighting in the Verdun region for the last twenty-four hours, although the German artillery is still active against hill 304 and Le Mort Homme, on the west bank of the Meuse.

Tomorrow---Saturday

The Great Easter Sale of Corsets

A sale which has been planned from beginning to end, so that all women, large, slender or of average figure, may have a new corset to give the line of fashion to the Easter gown.

Many weeks ago the idea came to us that the most important detail of a woman's Easter costume was being overlooked—her corset.

There were sales of gowns, coats and hats, but no sales of corsets.

Why not? We took council with the most experienced corset makers. They laughed. What, make corsets to sell for less when prices on all corset materials were advancing?

"Why, said one, even the little corset eyelets have gone up over 300 per cent. in price!"

At last, however, we found our man. He makes the Silphin corsets for us, and they are among our best-liked models. He submitted samples; we revised them. What we wanted was to choose three of the best-selling Spring styles, to sell for less. We accomplished this at last, and will offer on Saturday

One $6 Silphin Model to Sell at $2.45
Two $4 and $5 Silphin Models at $1.95

Not one of these corsets has come off the maker's shelves. They are absolutely new Spring fashions, and fresh, newly-made merchandise.

Each model is as dainty and as sweet as can be.

Please remember that the models will suit your figure, whether it be large, average or very slim.

And as for the values, these are the identical corsets that we sell all year 'round at $4, $5 [illegible] you will find here Saturday at $1.95 and $2.45.

Third floor, Old Building, and Main Aisle, Main floor, Old Building.

MORE DELAY IN SUSSEX CASE

Berlin's Note Raises Questions of Fact.

ISSUE WILL BE FORCED.

President Views Reply as Virtual Confession of Guilt—Evidence In Hands of United States to Controvert Germany's Contention—New Demands to Be Made.

Washington, April 14.—The critical international situation brought about by attacks of German submarines on ships carrying Americans has not been eliminated by Berlin's reply to President Wilson's latest representations.

It has had the effect of making an intermediary step necessary before the president takes final action, but this intermediary step—the sending of another note to Germany—will not affect the president's determination to force a final and definite accounting with the Berlin government. This is the situation as it is authoritatively explained.

If it has been the intention of the German government to court delay and procrastination by its reply it had admirably succeeded, according to officials here. Germany, it is explained, rests her case not on questions of principle, but on questions of fact.

This necessarily involves diplomatic discussion, for there can be no further progress in the case until questions of fact are cleared up. The American note will, it is said, summarily dispose of the facts cited by Berlin in proof of its contention that a German submarine did sink the Sussex.

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing regard Germany's defense in the Sussex case as virtually amounting to an admission of guilt. The American note, backed by the evidence which has been obtained from England and France, will take the position that the "unknown steamer" which the German submarine described as having torpedoed was the Sussex.

Contrast of the Evidence.

The overwhelming evidence supporting this theory will be contrasted with the single point — the sketch drawn by the submarine commander—upon which Germany rests its disavowal. Furthermore, evidence which Germany supplies concerning the "unknown steamer" which the German submarine commander torpedoed will be used to show that the vessel was in reality the Sussex.

Germany's attention will be called to the fact that the Sussex was torpedoed at almost precisely the time that the submarine commander reported firing at the "unknown steamer."

Both the president and Secretary Lansing are convinced that Germany will not seriously contend that the submarine commander torpedoed a vessel similar to the Sussex at the exact location of the Sussex at the same time and in the same manner as the Sussex was damaged without admitting that the ship in question must have been the Sussex notwithstanding the slight discrepancies in the rough sketch made by the submarine commander and the photograph of the cross channel packet.

One Weak Point Cleared Up.

The German note, it is explained, clears up the one weakness which existed in the cumulative evidence which the United States has gathered tending to show that the ship was torpedoed. This weakness was the fact that no one could be found to swear that a submarine had been seen. In a majority of cases German submarines have come to the surface before firing torpedoes at their victims, but the German note says the submarine was submerged when she fired at the steamer.

Officials here regard it as probable that Germany's next move will be to admit that the preponderance of evidence shows that the Sussex must have been the steamer which was believed to be a British mine layer, and consequently she was fired on by mistake.

Just how far the president will go in his new demands on Germany is not disclosed. Judging from the present temper of the president and Secretary Lansing, the chief characteristic of the note will not be so much the reiterated demands as the insistence that they now be definitely complied with.

Officials believe the crisis will come when Germany and the United States again lock horns over the definite concessions which the German government will be asked to make.

Your Next Tenant Is an "Ad-Reader"

The tenant to whom your property would be most valuable is a reader of the "To Let" advertisements.

If your advertisement is factful, definite and fully informing he will recognize it as meaning OPPORTUNITY to him, and he will lose no time in getting in touch with you.

But if your advertisement should be vague, uninforming and written with a view to "saving space," it might not appeal of any personal interest at all.

A woman with buying to do never saves any time by omitting to read the advertisements. Nor does she always secure par-value for her dollar.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How the Ugly Duckling Ran Away From Home.

The Poor Duckling Was at His Wits' End.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"A STORY, daddy; a story!" cried Jack and Evelyn. So daddy took them on his lap and told them: "When a mother duck took all her babies to the duck yard so as to introduce them to the other ducks they all looked at her biggest, ugliest child and then bit him on the neck.

"'Let him be!' cried the mother duck. 'He is doing no harm to you.'

"'Probably not, but he is so clumsy and queer,' said the biter.

"One old duck had a red rag around her leg to show how grand she was. 'You have some handsome children,' said she to the mother duck. 'All good looking except this one. What a pity you can't make him over again!'

"'He isn't handsome, but he is a thoroughly good creature,' said the mother duck. 'And he can swim as beautifully as any of them. I hope he will improve in looks as he goes on. Perhaps in time he may grow smaller. He stayed too long in the egg and so did not come out with a very good figure.' And the mother duck patted his neck and stroked him down. 'Besides, he is a boy, and so it doesn't matter much. I think he will be very strong and so make his way in the world.'

"'Anyway, your other ducklings are very pretty,' said the old duck with the red rag around her leg. 'Now, make yourselves quite at home in the duck yard, and if any of you find the head of an eel you may bring it to me.'

"After that all the ducklings felt quite happy and at home. But the poor ugly duckling was bitten, pushed and made fun of by all the ducks and the hens. 'He is too big,' they all said. And the turkey cock, who was born with his spurs on and thought himself quite the emperor of the duck yard, puffed himself up like a ship in full sail, made for the duckling and gobbled and gobbled till he became quite red in the face. The poor duckling was at his wits' end and did not know which way to turn. He was in despair!

"So the first day passed," daddy went on, "and afterward matters grew worse and worse. The poor duckling was chased and knocked by all of them. Even his brothers and sisters were unkind to him. They were always saying, 'If only the cat could get hold of you, you ugly thing!' Sometimes his mother grew discouraged about him and said, 'I wish to goodness you were miles away!' The old ducks bit him; the hens pecked him, and even the girl who fed them all used to kick him to one side when she threw a handful of grain.

"Then he was so unhappy that he flew right over the hedge, where all the little birds were so frightened that they flew away in the air. 'That's because I am so ugly,' thought the poor duckling, shutting his eyes, not to see himself."

Household Hints

SWEET POTATO DISHES

Southern Sliced Sweet Potato Pie—Boil until tender sweet potatoes; peel. Make rich pie crust, roll out. Line deep pan, bottom and sides, with crust in one piece, then slice sweet potatoes to cover bottom of pan; sprinkle well with sugar; slice bits of butter over sugar and potatoes; dust lightly with ground cinnamon, cloves and allspice. Then put another layer of potatoes sliced, sugar, butter and spice. Continue until pan is full, then add a cup of hot water, put on top crust same as any pie; finish around edge any way preferred. Bake slowly until well done. To be eaten hot. Use enough sugar and butter to make a good syrup or juice for pie, as this pie should not be dry when cut. Use very little spice, just enough to season well.

Sweet Potato Custard Pie—Boil and mash fine sweet potatoes, pass through sieve to remove lumps and strings, then use same as stewed pumpkin. Bake in one crust. Season with a little cinnamon or nutmeg.

Southern Mashed Sweet Potato Pie—Boil sweet potatoes, mash while hot, put in milk, a little sugar, a big piece of butter; mash real soft, beat smooth, put in open pie crust; bake. Can put nutmeg or cinnamon on top, or without.

Sweet Potato Cakes—Make pie pastry just like for any other pie; mix in the dough mashed sweet potatoes with butter (a big piece); roll out half inch, cut any shape, bake in hot oven. Take out, put butter between two cakes, like a sandwich, and eat hot or cold. Melts in your mouth.

Sweet Potato Cobbler—Boil potatoes with jackets on. Peel, slice inch thick lengthwise. Line bake dish with rich baking powder dough. Spread layer of potatoes, butter, nutmeg and sugar. Three or four layers are sufficient. Pour over contents two cups hot water, add top crust and bake until brown.

Sweet Potatoes Fried—Peel raw potatoes and slice lengthwise—about one-eighth inch thick. Dip in water and fry in fat, occasionally adding little water. When tender, add one cup brown sugar and cook until syrup forms. Nutmeg or cinnamon improves.

Sweet Potato Caramel—Boil four or five large sweet potatoes, peel and slice one-half inch thick. Fill bake dish with layers of potatoes, sugar, butter and nutmeg. Cover with sweet milk and bake until top is brown.

THE TABLE

Cornmeal Souffle—One-half cupful of cornmeal, one pint of milk, three eggs, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Stir the cornmeal gradually into the boiling milk, add salt and cook until thick and soft. Take from the fire and add the butter and the yolks of the eggs, well beaten. Then add the whites, which have been beaten to a stiff froth. Pour into a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven about twenty minutes, until brown.

Broiled Potatoes—Slice cold boiled potatoes in thick slices and put them one at a time in a hot spider. Do not add any grease. Turn the slices until browned on each side, then place them in a serving dish, cover with butter, pepper and salt and serve at once.

Strawberry Pudding—Line a small crock or pan with slices of bakers' bread from which the crusts have been removed. Pour over a can of strawberries and place bread on the top. Let stand over night. Turn into a large dish and surround with whipped cream.

Lemon Jelly and Fruit Salad — Two glasses lemon jelly, one orange, two apples, a few stalks of celery, mayonnaise dressing. On each individual plate put a lettuce leaf, then a slice of lemon jelly. On this put a mixture of orange, apple and celery. Cover with mayonnaise dressing.

Golden Orange Cake—One-quarter cup butter, one-half cup sugar, beaten together. Add yolks of five eggs beaten until thick, and one teaspoon orange extract. Mix and sift seven-eighths cup pastry flour with one and one-half teaspoons of baking powder, and add alternately with one-quarter cup of milk to the first mixture. Bake in buttered and floured tin.

"LOVE'S LOCKSMITH" IS GIVEN AT BETHEL CHAPEL

U. S. NAVY IS CALLED VERY INADEQUATE

Speakers at League Meeting Urge Greater Fleet.

Washington, April 14.—A national defense commission, a navy general staff and an immediate increase in the navy were demanded in resolutions adopted here at the final meeting of the annual convention of the Navy League of the United States. Officers of the league were instructed to urge congress to enact the necessary legislation.

"In our opinion," read the resolutions, "the navy is entirely inadequate in strength not only in ships and in personnel, but in many other essentials, to defend us properly against aggression, and this unhappy condition will of necessity continue until we adopt some well considered and enduring policy."

Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, defended the navy against criticism from those who, he said, were trying to gain personal or political profit. Shortage of personnel, he declared, did not arise with the present administration.

No navy, though, in time of peace ever has been maintained on a complete war footing, said Mr. Roosevelt, and all nations have kept ships in reserve. He thought the 15,000 additional men recommended by the general board and by Secretary Daniels was the maximum number that could be enlisted this year.

Mr. Roosevelt branded as false reports that the reason the navy was undermanned was because the department could not get men to enlist. "Not only are we accepting only one man out of six who apply," said he, "but for almost the first time in our history we have maintained the legal limit day and night for the last two years. Eighty-five per cent of the men whose enlistment terms expire are re-enlisting, the highest percentage in the navy's history."

Unnecessary Telephone Attachments

MANY of our subscribers have been approached by persons who wish to sell devices to be attached to our telephone instrument. It is usually claimed for these attachments that they will improve the transmission, eliminate noise, supplant the telephone directory and in other ways add to the convenience or efficiency of the service.

All of these attachments are unnecessary. Many of them get the lines and instruments into trouble, cause a deterioration in the transmission and lessen the convenience of using your telephone. They cost you money and only degrade your service.

The telephone instrument provided and maintained by this company is the result of nearly forty years of careful scientific experimentation. It is designed to produce the best results possible and it will give the highest quality of service if used just as it stands.

Summery Frocks

Apples Decorate the Silk Pinafore of this Paris Lace Frock

A Garden Fete Costume of Georgette and Lace

The Skirt of this Peach Pink Taffeta is Tucked up in Pannier Effect. The Bodice has New Wing Sleeves

Square Necks Return In Afternoon Frocks—Little Bows of Ribbon Flutter On Summer Gowns - Apples Printed On Taffeta Are Dear To Fashion Now - Skirts Are Longer, But Not Long.

FETE frocks for summer occasions are under consideration today. Not lingerie frocks for veranda wear; not silk frocks either; but that combination of the two approved by fashion for the supreme summer afternoon costumes—the sort of costume one gets into for a very important occasion on a very warm day, an occasion when one must look cool and at the same time be dressed with especial distinction.

Lace is lavishly used in such costumes, naturally; and also sheer tissues, like chiffon, Georgette crepe and the like. There may be a thin silk under-frock, or a draped silk pannier, or a little basque of lustrous taffeta above a skirt rippling with lace ruffles; but the costume must give an effect of airiness and coolness not to be achieved with silk alone. For wear at late spring weddings several delectable frocks of this character have been evolved; after the weddings will come the yacht club and country club openings, and after that, the garden fetes at Newport, Bar Harbor and other fashionable resorts. Something much more elaborate than a simple little lingerie frock is required for such occasions—as the woman attending one of them in a simple lingerie frock would speedily discover to her discomfiture, and the lovely, elaborate frocks demanded for formal afternoon wear in summer are accompanied by wonderful picture hats weighted by plumes or roses and by the very last thing in parasols.

Jenny and Premet, who delight in evolving costumes of this gay and charming character, are making many of their frocks with elbow sleeves which will be worn—the couturiers insist—without gloves. The square decolletage is noted also in afternoon frocks of this nature, and quite a decided decolletage seems permissible, so long as one is equipped with hat and parasol to assure the afternoon character of one's costume; and so long as there are sleeves of one length or another to prove beyond peradventure that an evening frock was not at all intended when this creation was designed.

Green Apples on a Summer Garden Frock.

The judgment of Paris this season awards high prize to a Georgette costume called at the opening "Helene," and named—who knows—because of the little apples printed in green on its silk drapery. A picture of this entrancing frock is presented today—a typical garden fete frock for wear at Newport in August.

The filmy skirt, as you see, is made of two deep lace flounces. These are mounted over a petticoat of white net, run with silver ribbon and under the net petticoat is another, also of net, distended by hoops at the knee. The polonaise—for that is really what it is—has a bib-like cut at the front, rising to meet a band of violet velvet which gives the decolletage a square line. Buttons on this "bib" extend downward below the waistline and give a basque suggestion. Over the hips the silk polonaise is tucked up into modest panniers. The short sleeves are of Val lace and their plainness is refreshing in a season of exaggerated sleeves. The color scheme of this costume is white, pale green and pale lavender; the little green apples being printed over pale lavender stripes on a white taffeta ground. The leghorn hat is trimmed with faint pink roses and green leaves and the parasol is in pink tones with a gray ostrich border.

Perfect Lines in Filmy Fabric.

The woman who is a wee bit inclined to enbonpoint will seize upon the inspiration of the lace and Georgette crepe frock; for well she knows the lines of this exquisite model will exceedingly become her. Cheruit has really achieved a poem in fabric in this frock which is built of cream lace and cream Georgette crepe. Guiltless of hoops or stiffening is the skirt yet nobody misses bouffancy in the lovely lines of grace that sweep downward from shoulder to ankle. There is a vast amount of material, however, in the drapery which falls so softly over the petticoat of lace. You would scarcely believe it, but twelve yards could be measured off, around the edge of the overskirt. The material is not arranged in a straight length, however. There are two enormous squares of the crepe with circles cut out of the center in a scalloped line. These squares are attached to each other and the scalloped, circular opening attached to the yoke portion. The squares, their slashed edges joining, fall in circular folds and six long points over the lace petticoat. This description may not be very clear, but it is difficult to explain the cutting of these squares and their attachment in words. They have much to do, however, with the exquisite grace of the skirt. Another graceful detail is the drapery that forms one side of the bodice and continues, or appears to continue down the skirt at the back. The lower drapery is in reality separate and fastens to the surplice extension of the bodice when the frock is donned. The sleeves and half of the bodice are of lace and in the decolletage are folds of cream mousseline. The leghorn hat is trimmed with pink taffeta and a cluster of little roses, two pink and one mauve. The parasol is shaded in ombre effect, from pale pink to deep mauve and has a frill of net at its edge. White slippers would spoil this soft creamy frock, so pale pink ones are worn, with flesh-tinted silk stockings.

Net and Rose Ribbon For a Young Girl.

Of quite different type but equally charming in its own way is a garden fete frock for the debutante; a floating sort of a frock, all flounces of net and rose-colored ribbons. A big black hat with frills of black lace and tulle lends contrast to the pink and white frock; the slippers worn with white silk stockings, are black also; and the white parasol has a wreath of fine pink flowers. A pretty idea is the running of rose pink ribbons through tucks on the net flounces—two rows of ribbon to each flounce; and there are pipings of rose pink velvet on the flounces and also on the little sleeve frills and the wide cape-collar of net. This collar stands out crisply over the short, puffed sleeves which reveal the girlish arm almost to the shoulder. A girdle of pink velvet ribbon accentuates the color.

For a debutante also is the peach pink taffeta model, tucked up at the hip; for only a very young woman could wear this decollete, short-sleeved frock in the afternoon. On an older woman the effect would scarcely be in good taste, but extreme youth can wear many things that the thirties could not attempt. The frock is made of peach pink taffeta, draped in the bodice, over a stomacher of white tulle veiling white satin, across which are tied bands of very faint pink ribbon. The decolletage is square but shallow and girlish and the sleeves are merely two very full ruffles of the pink taffeta faced with hair lace so that they stand out like little wings. The edge of the enormously full skirt is also faced with hairlace and the skirt is caught up at each hip in shirred tucks, a bit of hairlace being inserted in each tuck to give it crispness. This stiffening material has a "live" quality very different from heavier stiffenings woven with some substance that lends body. Hair lace is really absolute haircloth of a light grade and is the best reinforcement for soft silks and similar materials. It does not rattle like some of the other stiffening materials—another point in its favor. The average woman, stiffened in her flounces with ordinary, cheap stiffening material rattles like a loose sail in a high wind and reminds one of the time—twenty years ago, when femininity in balloon sleeves and skirts, rattled and crackled wherever she went.

Many Yards In This Summer's Frock.

Lingerie dresses this season cannot be built of five yards of thirty-six inch voile or crepe as they could a year or two ago. Soft fabrics gather up into nothing at the waistline and the five-yard width fashion prescribed at the foot means five widths of yard-wide material—even when the skirt fullness is gathered to a yoke or disposed in some other way.

One of the daintiest fete frocks this year will surely be a demure affair of pearl gray gros de londres and gray tulle; the tulle, ruffle upon ruffle up the skirt and the silk in a tight little pointed basque cut square at the neck and filled in with folds of gray tulle. The elbow sleeves have frills of fine white lace. With this fascinating frock goes a wide hat of violet straw trimmed with small pink roses and bunches of old-fashioned heliotrope.

A Net Frock with Rose Colored Ribbons Run Underneath and Tiny Lines of Rose Velvet

THE CHAISE LONGUE LUXURIOUS

THE last note in boudoir luxury is a chaise longue. Every woman longs for one of these most comfortable and now very fashionable affairs in her sanctum sanctorum—to give eclat to the room, and to make possible all varieties of graceful, languorous poses en negligee. The chaise longue is really a most delightful loafing spot, and it is small wonder the Frenchwoman, long accustomed to its luxurious restfulness, makes it the most important article of furniture in her boudoir, dressing it up with dainty lingerie pillows and a spread of embroidered mull over pink silk to be thrown over the knees during hours of repose. A chaise longue of stained wicker with cushions of flowered cretonne costs about twenty-five dollars; but this is merely the beginning of the expense. There must be, first an appropriate negligee of chiffon and lace, and to match the negligee several pillows of lace and embroidered linen; and to match the pillows, a lace and embroidered spread edged with a lace frill and trimmed with satin roses. Two hundred dollars is really a modest sum for the complete outfitting of a fashionable chaise longue and the negligee may cost another hundred; but surely a more becoming background and frame for feminine beauty was never devised.

Enchanting are Accessories of the Evening Costume

WHAT phychological secret is behind the impulse that moves women to lay out their party clothes on the bed before dressing for an evening entertainment? We all do it—or have done it in years gone by, when going to parties was more of an event, perhaps, than it is now; or before a well trained maid was at our call to produce every belonging as needed during the process of being coiffured, manicured, corseted and dressed.

If there is any prettier sight than milady, all togged out ready for the dance, or the opera; it is milady's bed before the party, all heaped with laces and silks; gloves, fan, delicate kerchief, gauzy scarf, filmy petticoat, silken underwear, slippers and silk stockings—even the silk wrap folded and drawn to one side. What, one repeats, moves woman to lay out her party clothes and their accessories in such manner, when she never dreams of making such initial display of her street garb and its accessories in entirety, before donning the separate garments? No, the business of dressing for a party is always an event—even to the favored one who has a party on for every night in the season. It is a delightful—and a serious business, from the moment the hot water faucet is turned on for the bath to that final, contemplating moment before the mirror just before one picks up one's train and trips down to the waiting equipage.

Party belongings begin with the ornament that gives individuality to the coiffure, and end with the point of the little satin slipper. It takes a host of things to make a modern belle ready for a dance; for instance, from within out: glove silk lingerie, thread silk stockings, special evening corsets of brocaded silk—corsets that are so cut that if the decolletage touches the waistline in back they will not reveal themselves—a luxurious petticoat and tiny, exquisite brassiere; a shoulder scarf of tulle or spangled gauze of tinted chiffon to slip over the bare neck in a draught; slippers of satin or silver tissue or gold brocade; warm, fur-lined carriage boots to wear over the slippers in the carriage; a party bag filled with vanity trifles, a fan, a smart hair ornament, and wisp of a kerchief. All these in addition to the party frock and wrap.

One does not include jewels, for these are not the actual necessities though the average woman has certain favorite belongings in the jewelry line that are added last of all to her toilette.

And as the evening star is to the sun; so is the evening gown to its accessories—as far as splendor and solid worth are concerned. It is in the realm of evening accessories that the giver of costly gifts searches and gleams. One may pay more for a pearl-handled fan than for a whole frock; a spangled Assyrian shoulder scarf may easily cost the half of a frock. When it comes to jewels, of course there is no comparison of value, for the expenditure may soar anywhere.

It is not considered at all out of the way, these days, however, to wear quite inexpensive jewelry with really costly gowns. A string of imitation pearls worth five dollars may look very charming indeed with a white evening frock that totalled up two hundred dollars after its ordeal at the customs. On the other hand, a not expensive gown fashioned by a home dressmaker may appear in company with diamond earrings that would support their wearer in comfort for a year or two.

The modern woman who dresses cleverly gives careful thought to her evening belongings and to her jewels and makes no crude mistakes in color harmony. Just because one owns a ruby pendant is no reason why it should be dragged into the ensemble of a costume with which one would not think of putting ruby-colored ribbon. Far better to leave even the handsomest jewels at home and to wear a string of imitation pearls—or even only a flower or two—than to spoil the effect one's dressmaker aimed at by adding the wrong touch of color. The jewels illustrated in the picture have been chosen with exquisite taste to harmonize with an evening gown of black tulle and silver brocade, and a beautiful fan of pale gray ostrich mounted on sticks of mother o' pearl. The necklace is light and delicate in design, with ornaments of diamonds and emeralds set in white metal joined by the slenderest of silver chains. The comb in the hair has also diamonds set in carved white metal. The ear-rings bring out the gray-green note with globes of aqua-marine swinging in hoops of diamonds.

All this splendor, of course, is for the young matron. The unmarried girl, especially if she be in her first or second season, is permitted no such glittering neck or hair ornaments—and no ear-rings of this sophisticated type. A charming coiffure ornament for a girl is pictured in another illustration. The ostrich tip that curls so softly around the cheek matches an ostrich fan and both are in rose pink color, the small tip for the hair being attached to a bandeau of ribbon which exactly matches the chestnut brown tresses of its young wearer. A bit of rose pink ribbon is pleated into the "cocarde."

A pretty new conceit this season is a single pink rose, tucked into the hair—or rather pinned securely to it—below a Greek knot, the rose resting just above the nape of the neck.

A stunning coiffure ornament can "make" a whole evening costume. Most striking in style this rosetted bandeau with a plume curling around the ear.

A WRITING BAG FOR VACATION

ALL women do not knit, neither do they embroider. There are women who write letters, or even more serious things while away in the country, and usually they set forth of a morning with paper and envelopes thrust between the leaves of a magazine, and fountain pen and eyeglasses tucked into a sweater pocket. For such a woman has just been completed a convenient writing bag which delighted its recipient as much as the fanciest fancy-work receptacle ever delighted any other woman. The bag is deep and square and has two handles so that it may be held closed, while it is being carried. It is made of coarse linen crash with a deep facing of striped linen canvas along the upper edges. Inside are pockets for pen, pencils, eraser, clippings, postage stamps and so on, and large compartments for pads and writing paper, blotter and perhaps note book or diary.

SWINGING MIRRORS FOR PRETTY FACES.

THE Easter bride who was lucky enough to receive as a wedding present one of the swinging dressing table mirrors that are so fashionable just now, will set it up in her new boudoir of ivory enamel and rose-colored brocade, and it will give the last touch of French perfection. These pretty mirrors are not inexpensive trifles; a fair-sized, one costs about twenty-five dollars; but they do give a satisfying finish and chic to the boudoir to be sure. The oval glass in a dull gilt frame, swings in a standard of ivory tinted wood, and in just such a mirror did the belle of the Louise Court gaze back at her lovely reflection, her powdered hair and her patches.

"The Cup of The Devils"

Sermon of the Rev. W. E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Last Night.

"Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of Devils," 1 Cor. 10:21.

Of course you can take one or the other of them. You can take the cup of the Devil and go to the Devil if you want to. That's your privilege according to the laws of your nature. You're the boss. If you want to run your neck into a noose and hang your fool self God isn't going to make a manakin or an automaton out of you to keep you from it.

He'll do everything in His power to keep you right, but if you are going to blind your eyes to every light He hangs out along the way; if you are going to rush pell mell like stampeded cattle past every semaphore of His grace and power to make a man out of you, it's your funeral; go to it; but when you find yourself in hell don't find fault with anybody but yourself for being there.

You can take the cup of the Devil if you want to. What Paul means is, You can't take the cup of the Devil and the cup of the Lord at the same time; you can't live a good Lord and good Devil sort of life; you can't serve God and Mammon and amount to two hairs on a rat's back as a Christian while you're at it.

It is said that the great Alexander had a soldier in his army who bore his own name but was a great coward. And one day during a heated engagement, while the great conqueror was dashing up to a certain division of his lines, he met this man running to the rear, and he stopped him and said to him, "What is your name?" And because of the name he bore he thought he could ingratiate himself with his commander, and he said, "General, my name is Alexander." And the mighty warrior's eyes flashed fire and he said, "Change that name immediately, sir, or learn to honor it."

World Needs the Church Today.

There never was a time when the world needed the Church of Jesus Christ so much as she does today, and there never was a time when the church needed genuine, God-fearing, true-blue, vow-respecting members as she does today—men and women who are a credit to their profession and who will honor the name of Jesus Christ they bear; who won't trim their sails to catch every passing breeze of popularity to win the favor of a lot of conscienceless, Godless ward-healing politicians or to hold the friendship of a lot of high-rolling, brainless, pencil-eyebrowed society fools who don't care a rap for Christ.

But the church has too many members who are ready to sell out at the first offer, and some of you bring a mighty little price when you do sell, I can tell you that. Esau sold out for a mess of pottage, but he did a land office business compared with the thing that you turned your back on Christ for. I don't see why people can't be as loyal to their vow to serve Christ as they are to the other vows they make.

I like to think of Speaker Lenthawl and his loyalty to the Constitution. It was in the reign of Charles the First and tremendous influence was brought to bear upon him in an effort to induce him to dissolve parliament. But he was loyal and he said, "I have neither ears to hear, nor eyes to see, nor lips to speak save as the Constitution, whose servant I am, bids me."

My, but if we had a church with a membership like that! But we haven't. The most of us, I am afraid, have got ears and eyes and lips for almost everything else but what Jesus bids us. The church is suffering from spiritual spinal meningitis, and no wonder she can't stand erect and be the power in the world she ought to be.

When Millet, whose Angelus captivated the whole art-loving world, was about to depart from his home for Paris, where he became a pupil of Dearoche, his pious old grandmother said to him, "I would rather see you dead than unfaithful to God's commands." And when he wsa just coming into his glory as one of the greatest painters of his day, this same woman, whose influence made itself felt in every picture he painted, reminded him, "Remember, my son, that you were a Christian before you were a painter." A Christian first, always! And if you church members of Union county would let that be your motto and be true to it you'd rewrite the history of this old sin-cursed and Godless community in short order.

Have you heard the story of Panthea? Let me tell it to you.

Panthea was a woman far-famed for her symmetry of form and beautiful face. Cyrus, the king, determined to have her for his harem. He sent a messenger with a rich present and bade her come to him, but she scorned the offer. Again he sent a retinue of courtiers with double the price, but she turned from them with proud and virtuous disdain. But Cyrus would not relinquish his fond dream. Chagrined and discouraged, he came in person and trebled the already fabulous sum, told her of the wealth of his kingdom and plead with her to come to him, but in scorn she turned away. At length, when all persuasion failed, he said, "Panthea, so unlike to others of thy kind, tell me where thou dwellest." And she replied, "In the arms and on the bosom of my husband, Sire." "Take her away," he said, "there is no need to tarry here." Her husband, Ataxus, he placed in charge of the front phalanx in battle, knowing thus he would be slain and he might at last win the prize upon which he had set his heart.

One Good, Virtuous Woman.

On the day of battle Panthea lingered on the edge ad word came at last that Ataxus had fallen. Out on the battefield she crept, calling the name of the one she loved. On she ran until in the distance she heard a faint response and at last, bounding over the wounded in the way, she was kneeling at the side of the one whose name she bore and whose image was graven in her heart. As her long beautiful tresse fell about her face, their lips met in fond caress. A moment he lingered in her arms and died. She bade her servants bear him to the river side, and while they digged the grave, Panthea sat on the green sward, her husband's head pillowed in her lap. She smoothed his brow and ran her fingers through his air, and between her sobs she called the name of her liege and lord. Cyrus heard the news of the battle, and "Now," he said, "I'll have her." In regal splendor he mounted his camel and rode like a ship in a storm across the battlefield. And when Panthea looked up and saw him coming she cried, "Oh husband! Oh husband!" but he could not respond. How quickly, if blood had coursed through his veins, would he have sprung up and given his life in defense of the virtue of his faithful wife. The oncoming king is just at hand and Panthea cries, "Oh husband, he shall not have me; I was true to you in life; I will be true to thee in death." And so saying she unsheathed his sword, bared her breast, and driving it into her heart, she fell dead across the bosom of her lifeless loved one. And as King Cyrus beheld what had taken place, he dismounted, and taking his stand on the green ground and bending reverently over the prostrate forms, he thanked his gods that at last he had found one good, true and virtuous woman whom his money could not buy nor his threats induce to soil her honor.

Church is Bride of Christ.

The church is the Bride of Jesus Christ and He expects the bride to be true. And the kingdom of God which is to come waits only for one thing—the time when the church will cease to play harlot with the world and enlist a membership of men and women who will not lie and would sooner die than sell their influence and themselves to the Devil, and so betray their Christ and Lord.

"Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of Devils."

Now what made Paul use that expression? If it was original with me, some of you would call it slang. Well, I'll tel you.

The Corinthians had been heathen, and when they were converted they sat down at the Lord's table. But they were living among their old neighbors, and they had their sacraments just as well as the Christians. They'd go up to the Temple of Apollo or of Aphrodite and get sprinkled over with some sort of lustral water, and then, after the victim had been slain and while the sacrificial supper was being prepared, they'd go through a lot of the fashionable dances that were popular in certain classes of society, the Turkey Trot, the huchi kuchi and a lot of other Midway Plaisance stunts, and then they would sit down and eat and drink, especially drink, until the whole blooming bunch would get on a beastly drunk. Why old Aristotle derived the Greek verb, "to be drunk," from the words that mean, "after the sacrifice."

But Paul called this kind of sacrificial feast the table of the Devil. But the strange thing is that some of the Corinthian church members thought they could sit down at the Lord's table and then go over and join their old friends in this temple sacrifices and not get any harm from it. They seemed to think they could be Christians and Pagans at the same time. But Paul said, "Not on your life, Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of the Devil."

Now the whole thing was a question of personal liberty. It's mighty strange how people will try to justify themselves when they want to do a thing. Some of them will "strain at a gnat and swallow a camel." These Corinthian Devil-servers commenced to argue. They said, "We don't want to cut our old friends, and besides it won't do us any harm. You know Paul, you said yourself that 'An idol is nothing in the world' anyhow; and besides Paul, we won't get drunk; we'll use moderation. Why Paul, if you take our personal liberty from us you'll make us weaklings," and so on and so on.

Here Lies the Peril of the Church.

And just here lies the peril of the church and the peril of the individual Christian.

It is the peril of the morally impossible. It is the unwarranted liberty you take and try to justify yourself in doing it because you are not willing to make some sacrifice and be on the square with Christ.

We see it everywhere.

I. We see it in the POLITICAL WORLD.

The average politician hasn't got any more conscience than a grave-yard ghoul or any more heart than a Tennessee rattlesnake.

Thank God we've got some mighty fine men in office today and always have had, but I tell you the things that have occurred in the past ten years in politics puts your confidence to a mighty big test and you almost tremble for fear the man you believe in most is going to turn out a rascal, a rogue and a low-down, unprincipled grafter.

Where is the boasted glory of the United States Senate? Why, bless your soul, if every man that didn't get there on the square was let out on the Lorimer style I don't believe there would be enough left to dust the joint.

And it's pretty much that way with the State Legislatures, too.

We call America Christian and I guess she is as nations go, but if our reputation as a Christian nation had to stand on a good deal of our past record the world would never get the idea that we are sick abed because we can't be good.

Too Many Rotten Politicians.

But there are too many whiskey-soaked, peanut-brained, twentieth century politicians who don't believe in God to deal with. We would get a lot of things done and advance by leaps and bounds if we didn't have that worthless, rubber-souled set of scullions to reckon with.

God wants the individual to be true and He wants the nation to be true. When I'm dead I'd rather have it said on my tombstone, "Here lies a man who was true to his convictions," than I would to have it read, "Here lies the President of the United States," if I had to get the Presidency by dipping my colors to a lot of pin-headed, weasel-souled boodle politicians.

If you are a professing Christian man politics will never furnish you any excuse for drinking the cup of the Devil, and the law of your own personal life must be your law as the representative of the people; because the nation sins only through its leaders and through its people when it allows its leaders to carry on a dirty grafting business without calling them to account.

One of the dirtiest crimes this nation will have to answer for if she don't repent and wash her hands is the dirty, rotten, hell-inspired liquor traffic.

Abraham Lincoln said, "If slavery is not wrong, nothing is wrong," and if this pauper-breeding, home-defiling, soul-damning saloon, with its train of disease and misery and crime is not wrong, then nothing is wrong.

2. YOU SEE IT IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Some church members will keep their store open on Sunday and justify themselves by saying their competitors do it. But if your competitor drinks the cup of devils that don't give you any right to do any thing but what you know God wants you to do.

If your old shebang is going to bust because you haven't got business ability enough to run it, keeping it open on Sunday isn't going to save it. It's all a lie.

Church members will get in debt and then argue their poverty as a reason for letting the grocery keeper sweat. A dead-beat is a 33rd degree dyed in the wool, stamped on the cork, blown in the bottle child of the devil.

Even Pay Up to the Devil.

A man out in Streator, Ill., asked me if he ought to pay the brewer for the beer he got when he was a saloon-keeper. He owed him $1,500. He said that business ruined me and my home and when I was in it my character and everything else went to the dogs, and now he said I am out of it and a member of the church and I owe the brewery $1,500 for beer I got when a saloon keeper and didn't pay for it. And that fellow was actually trying to make himself believe that because he was a church member and the debt was made back on the Devil's territory that he had an excuse for not paying it. "Why," I said, "of course you'll pay it if you owe it and you are a Christian." I said, "If you don't pay it here the Devil will foreclose a mortgage on your soul and take the debt out of you in the red hot wages of hell."

Pay your debts. God won't send you to hell if you can't pay. But that don't lessen your obligation any to the man you owe. Some of your ginks that have lost your credit around here smoke up and puff out and chew up and spit out enough tobacco in one year to go a good ways toward paying some of your debts.

Men will use it as an excuse for penning up a lot of weak-eyed children and bent-shouldered women in the foul air and bad light of a sweat-shop making cheap merchandise to undersell the other fellow.

But when you don't give the men and women who work for you a living wage and sanitary conditions in which to work you're doing a piece of low-down, dirty business and you are drinking the cup of devils even if you are a church member and go to the house of God and drink the cup of the Lord.

It is the cheap labor proposition that has opened our gates more than anything else to the undesirables from the other side.

Laboring Men Don't Get Fair Chance.

Some political hot-air merchant comes along and says, "I'll tell you what's the matter with society; the laboring man is getting three times what he used to get but he hasn't been schooled to take advantage of his greater opportunities." But you are talking tommy-rot and hog-wash. Why don't you say that with the increase of wages there has come as well an increase in the price of food stuffs and if a man gets three times as much in wages today as he used to he has to pay three times as much for what his family needs. How do you expect some families to live in decency and comfort under present conditions?

Many an old close-fisted rascal will sit in the pew and pray for his workmen on Sunday, and then get out in the factory and prey on them all the rest of the week.

But, "Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of Devils," and the principles of Jesus Christ would fix things up mighty quick.

We haven't time to go into details but be a Christian like you know you ought to be and don't try to justify your devilishness because it's the way of the Commercial world.

"Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of Devils."

3. This tendency is seen especially in the social world.

This is the thing that got Corinth. I don't knock on society. All the beasts and all the birds go in bunches and God made us social beings. But why is it that every voice in pulpit and in press uplifted for the race has had it in for society? Because it's chuck full of fools, that don't know where to stop, that don't know the difference between moderation and excess, that don't know the difference between decency and dirtiness.

It looks a good deal like we are sailing between Scylla and Charybdis. You know Scylla was a big snake on one side of the strait and Charybdis was a whirlpool on the other side and old Ulysses tried to sail through. He was trying to avoid Charybdis and got a little too close to Scylla and the long-necked monster struck out his snaky head and grabbed six of his companions. It's that way with us. If we escape the industrial revolution I told you about a moment ago, God only knows what may become of us if we don't look out because of the extravagance and Godlessness and moral rot of our high-blooded society. Scylla was a toothless pet compared with that ravenous, rapacious, bowelless monster of modern society that's eating up the youth of this land.

It was this thing that rotted the heart of Rome, sunk Babylon into hell and made licentious Cleopatra's kingdom on the Nile a hissing and by-word among the nations of the earth. And American society is "goin' some" too. It's almost rotten-ripe for destruction now.

A young woman in New York city talking about a splendid young man some time ago, said, "Yes, he is a fine fellow, but he wouldn't shine much in a New York drawing-room." No, he wouldn't shine in other respects, his noble life devoted to the service of humanity but he wouldn't shine in a New York drawing room. No, it takes a Stanford White to shine there. It takes a Harry Thaw.

Average Society Woman.

The average society woman has about as little sense as God could well put in a human being and still let her pass for a woman. It's pretty much as a friend of mine down in Georgia used to say, "If some of you'd fall in the water you wouldn't need anybody to rescue you. Just spread up your handkerchief and you'll come sailing in; your head is so empty it'll float you to shore.

If you'd happen in on some of these frivolous functions of bon-ton society some afternoon pink tea or frappe affair, and commence to talk about anything that 's real and worthy of thoughtful consideration they'd vote you a bore and tell you to "beat it."

Now it's mighty plain if you drink the cup of the Lord why you've got to be mighty careful when you rub up against the social world. You're in danger of being swept away. It'll carry you along with it.

When the World's Fair was on in Chicago a man was talking with his little boy along where they had one of those wooden imitations of the noted Ferris Wheel. The little fellow wanted a ride, but the father told him he was afraid it wasn't safe. But the boy kept teasing his father until he bought tickets and got in. In the box just in front of them were some drunken rowdies and the man didn't know they had given the owner some extra money to turn on the full power and let her out just to see how fast the old thing could go. And it started; round and round it went, faster and faster, while the rowdies laughed and shouted. The old thing commenced to groan and shake and the father with his boy got frightened half to death. He was bald-heated but he could just feel the hair standing up on top of his head and the cold chills commenced to go down his back, but what could he do? He was in the thing and he had to keep up with it. He was travelling in pretty fast society but he kept up with the crowd because he couldn't help it.

A Picture of Your Boy.

That's what the Corinthians did and that's what you'll be doing if you're not careful but you'll be drinking the cup of Devils when you do it.

You say, "Well when you are in Rome you must do as Rome does." No, you mustn't. That's a low-down mean, contemptible definition of the way to live.

If you found your boy in a stable beer joint with a bunch of dirty loafers gambling over a jackpot, you'd cry, "My God, has it come to this!" But wait a minute and let me paint the picture for you.

That boy of yours went a few years ago by your sanction and possibly in your company to some of your approved affairs; maybe it was in your own house. You gathered about a table—it was mahogany; there was a Persian rug on the floor, Brussels Net curtains on the window, a brilliant candelabra and a French plate mirror. On the table on at one side is a cut glass dish—a prize, that represents the value of somebody's money. The hostess produces some cards and for hours you play to win. You get thirsty and the maid comes in, passes around the punch or the frappe and you're at it again until the stake's been won and at a late hour or early hour in the morning you go home.

Now let's paint the other picture as true to life as this one. It's a dirty booze joint and around the table sits a bunch of dissipated, red-eyed, God forsaken, vicious men and young men. The table is pine, but that don't make any difference. The carpet is sawdust, but that don't make any difference. The curtain are paint, but that don't make any difference. The light reflectors are tin, but that don't make any difference. The mirror is a cheap soap-decorated glass, but that don't make any difference. On the table is a jackpot—there's money there, or chips that represent it. The cards are produced just like the ones you used; the game is started—just like the one you played. They get thirsty and the bar clerk comes in and passes around the drinks and the game goes on until the stake is won and at a late hour or early hour in the morning they go home. Where is the difference? Your boy matriculated in the parlor; he graduated in the other place. You know what Uncle Bobbie in "That Printer of Udell's says, "Gambling church members ain't got no call to kick if their children play cards fer money." You punch your boy's ticket for Hell and then you blame him for going. I declare, you needn't be so much afraid of the gang down there; if the first bunch don't get your boy, you can be dead sure the second one never will.

"Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of Devils."

Wrong Kind of Business.

You can argue till you're black in the face to justify yourself but when you have to do this it's a pretty good sign that you're getting mixed up in the wrong kind of business.

You can murder time and character at the card table if you want to; you can keep a "gentleman's cellar" if you choose; you can befoul your mind with lust at a dirty theatrical if that is what you hanker for; David went alone and danced naked before the Lord but you can get in a crowd and dance half-naked before men if you like that kind of stuff; you can feast your eyes on Paul Chabas' "September Morning" and call it art if you want to, but it's dirt just the same—you can put me down with Jerry O'Conner on that everytime—but when you're living that way, be honest now, and tell me do you think you are "drinking the cup of the Lord or the cup of Devils." Mighty God, make Christians out of us that are worth something!

It's the same old question of personal liberty and personal rights. Couldn't get along with wife or could not get along with husband and so I'll get a divorce or I'll stay in the home and make the best of it and let the others go their own sweet way.

Bible Is Against Divorce.

And then you begin to justify yourself. You know the Bible is against divorce tooth and toe nail. It only allows one ground for separation. But then you begin to argue the custom of the time and trump up a lot of other rubbish to justify yourself, when if you'd tell the truth, nine times out of ten the reason you want a divorce is so you can go and live in adultery with some other woman or man.

The word of God tells you mighty plain where to get off on this divorce and remarriage proposition. The Catholic church has got us beat a whole block on the divorce question.

That's another thing that'll rot this nation if we don't look out. We've had nearly a million divorces in the last twenty years. Think of it! To say nothing of the separations the law don't know anything about.

There's Elizabeth Towne, the editor of a magazine called—what is it?—The Nautilus. She says it ought to be as easy to get divorced as it is to get married, and easier. Magazines like her and the Philistine and others that team that kind of free-love rot ought to be run out of the land. But what are you going to do?

She says, "If divorce is made easy people won't want it," but there's about as much sense in that as some more stuff she writes. If they knew they had to live together even if they kicked the liver out of each other a few of them might think twice before they get married. People use less common every-day horse sense in getting married than in almost anything else they do.

What's the remedy? Just what I've been telling you. The religion of Jesus Christ. Live it in the home if you profess to have it, and everything will come out all right. Or better than that it will stay right in the first place. Some people, and you call yourselves Christians too, live under the same roof and never speak to each other. You'd think you were in a deaf and dumb asylum. You think the wife's wrong and the wife thinks you're wrong. And your nurse your wounded feelings and make a martyr out of yourself and think how Christian-like you are in bearing it all and putting up with it. But you're drinking the cup of devils.. You're not living like a Christian at all. You know the Bible's got no use for that sort of business. It says, If you're a Christian, go and get the thing fixed up. It don't debate the question one second as to who is right or wrong. It says, "You go, whether you're wrong or whether you're right," and if both who are professing to drink the cup of the Lord would do that heaven would smile on your home and it would be a palace of peace instead of the rough house that you've got most of the time.

Come now, Christians, there isn't anything that a Christian disposition won't fix up.

Mighty God, make Christian men and women out of us like that! Help us to quit trying to drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of devils.

How long do you suppose it would be before this old world rolled up to the feet of Jesus if the church would just practice the principles of Jesus and if we would be true to Him and live for Him and dies on the field of honor. God help us.

BIEDERWOLF BOMBS

"When you find yourself in Hell, don't find fault with anybody but yourself for being there."

"The church has too many members who are ready to sell out at the first offer, and some of you bring a mighty little price when you do sell."

"The church is suffering from spiritual spinal meningitis."

"The average politician hasn't got any more conscience than a graveyard ghoul or any more heart than a Tennessee rattlesnake."

"If this pauper-breeding, home-defiling, soul damning saloon, with its train of disease and misery is not wrong, then nothing is wrong."

"A dead beat is a 33rd degree, dyed in the wool, stamped on the cork, blown in the bottle, child of the Devil."

"The average society woman has about as little sense as God could put in a human being and let her pass for a woman."

"You punch your boy's ticket for Hell and then blame him for going."

Miss Boals and Mr. Moke, the pianists, pull the harmony out of the pianos and seem to instill it into the chorus choir. It has its effect on the audience, too.

Dr. Biederwolf dubbed the ushers "Knights." When it came time for the offering, he called on the "Knights of the Pie Pans."

Dr. Biederwolf certainly has a grudge against the "dead beat" in the church.

"Sunny Jim" Heaton had those who had the best seats in the house (the end seats) sing the chorus of one of the hymns. You would be surprised to hear how they did sing.

A strain of sadness was felt last night when Mr. Braider stated that while the meeting was going on Wednesday evening, death came into the home of Miss Florence Conroy, one of the members of the choir. A note of love and sympathy was forwarded in the name of the chorus choir, which sang the last two verses of the familiar old hymn, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

The evangelist said, "Two-thirds of the Christian people in Plainfield do not seem to realize the importance of this work."

"Sunny Jim" and the Welshman sang a duet last night which was very impressive.

Dr. Biederwolf thanked the organizations which have so kindly changed their plans for coming events.

When the evangelist looked over the audience last evening, noting the rather small attendance, and then looking back at the chorus choir he remarked, "You have the largest chorus choir for the size of tht audience we have ever had."

Speaking of the high cost of living, Dr. Biederwolf remarked that a lot of thieves are breaking into the henneries and stealing eggs in stead of the jewelry stores.

A rousing children's meeting will be held in the Pine Temple tomorrow afternoon under the direction of Mr. Sluyter, director of children's work.

A young man who is now singing in the chorus choir gave up a position singing in a New York church which would have netted him twenty-four dollars for the six weeks. He said this was his city, and that he felt that during these revival services he should be on the job doing personal work and supporting the meetings in every way possible. This is a fine example of Christian duty and sacrifice.

"Watch it once more; all you high singers, up you go. Take the elevator," said Leader James Heaton to the choir, trying to emphasize a point last night. And they went through on high without slipping a cog.

Rev. J. J. Allen, pastor of the South Plainfield Baptist church, gave the prayer at last night's service.

"Drifting," the selection by the Quartet, gave Mr. Roberts, the bass, an excellent opportunity to use his pleasing voice.

There is much interest being manifested in the meeting for men only. So much so, in fact, that it is predicted that the big Tabernacle will be filled on Sunday afternoon.

"Jim" Heaton is not quite so sharp and snappy with the choir as McEwan, but he seems to get results in his quiet way, just the same.

"I know you'll all be happy to know Mr. McEwan will be back on the job on Saturday," when stated by Dr. Biederwolf, brought vigorous applause, showing the affection in which the little Scotchman is already held in this city.

Tonight the subject will be "The Meanest Man in the World," and on Saturday night the subject will be, "The Home." Dr. Biederwolf said last night that the meanest man in the world lives in Plainfield, and he drew another laugh.

"If God meant a fellow to smoke, he'd put a chimney in his head," went home with the crowd.

ARREST FOUR MORE IN SHIP BOMB PLOT

Prisoners Taken From German Steamship.

New York, April 14.—Four more German conspirators who confessed that they had manufactured bombs used for the destruction of merchantmen of the allies were arrested by Captain Tunney of the detective bureau.

They were taken from the North German Lloyd liner Friedrich der Grosse, berthed in Hoboken, N. J., where they had made their implements of destruction, and were brought to the office of Captain William M. Offley, superintendent of the department of justice, in the Park Row building, Manhattan.

The men are all connected with the engineering department of the Friedrich.

The prisoners arrested Wednesday night were arraigned before Federal Commissioner Houghton. Captain Otto Wolpert, superintendent of the Atlas line, the Hamburg-American line's Caribbean service, and Captain Enno Bode, pier superintendent of the Hamburg-American line, were held in $25,000 bail each for a hearing.

Captain Charles von Kliest, superintendent of the New Jersey Agricultural and Chemical company, and Ernest Becker, electrician on the Friedrich der Grosse, were held in $5,000 each. In default of bail they were committed to the Tombs, while bail was furnished immediately for Captains Wolpert and Bode.

NOTICE.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

Planet Jr. Cultivators

—biggest savers for farm and garden

Why worry along with slow out-of-date implements and meagre results? Planet Jr tools are far more economical—they do 3 to 6 times the work, get bigger, better crops, and outlast several ordinary implements. Fully guaranteed. You are actually losing money whenever you cultivate without them.

No. 72 Planet Jr 2-row, 2-horse Pivot-wheel Cultivator saves a man, a team, and a cultivator every day it is used. Cultivates 2 rows of corn, potatoes, beans, etc., at one passage, even if rows are crooked or irregular width. In check rows and listed corn it also beats any other tool. Can be equipped with spring-trip standards, discs, sweeps, hoe steels, and furrowing shovels. Specially hardened cultivating steels add 50 per cent to wear. Also spring lift, new this year.

No. 8 Planet Jr Horse Hoe and Cultivator is stronger, better-made and capable of a greater variety of work than any other horse hoe made. Non-clogging steel wheel. Depth-regulator and extra-long frame make it run steady. Adjustable for both depth and width. 15 other styles of one-horse cultivators—various prices.

Let us equip you with one of these savers.

INTEREST KEEN IN HIPPODROME TRIP

Big Delegation Assured for Daily Press "Hip, Hip, Hooray" Excursion.

CLUBS WILL GO ALONG

Will Be Possible for Big Organizations to Have Special Train if Application is Made Early Enough—Marjorie's Friends Invited.

The Daily Press is particularly anxious that the little friends of Marjorie Sterrett who have contributed to the Press battleship fund be included among the pleasure seekers who visit the New York Hippodrome two weeks from next Monday night as the guests of this paper and if enough signify their intention of riding in a special "U. S. S. America" car will be made to take the patriots in a group. To date the Daily Press has raised over $160 for Marjorie Sterrett's battleship and scores of Plainfield boys and girls have contributed dimes to swell the fund. Although it would be impossible to extend a personal invitation to each individual the Daily Press wants them all to see "Hip, Hip, Hooray" and takes this means of informing them of the fact.

Already a number of social and fraternal organizations have inquired at the Press office for further details regarding the trip and several have already made arrangements to secure a block of reserved seats. These will be put on sale in the Press office within the next few days where a chart of the Hippodrome seating arrangement will be on exhibition.

Many Are Interested.

The announcement of this treat has created no little amount of interest locally and it is also certain that all of the surrounding suburbs will be represented by delegations. There are absolutely "no strings" to the offer and all that is necessary is to pay $1.75 and the Daily Press takes care of the rest. Full transportation accommodations to and from the Hippodrome are provided and the best seats in the Hippidrome have been reserved for the Press party.

All of those alloted will be best seats and sold in New York at $1.50 each, but as there will be some preference as to location, first come will reap an advantage.

Can Have Special Car.

It will be possible for any societies, bridge clubs, or groups of any kind, who wish to make this trip to obtain their seats together and if the company is large enough to have a special car set aside for their particular use. Such arrangements, however, must be made quickly.

This is not a money making scheme by any means for this paper, as it assumes considerable financial responsibility in making this remarkable offer to its readers. It may get some advertising and good will out of it.

MERE BOY IN COURT FOR CARRYING BIG GUN

Bernard Kane, aged 16 years, did not appear to realize the enormity of his offense when arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The youth was arrested by Patrolman Martin Welsh, on West Front street, yesterday afternoon. He had a great big pistol in his pocket. The young man had no warlike intentions, it seemed, but was merely carrying the gun because he believed it "smart" to go armed. Judge De Meza this morning took the weapon from him, gave him a strong lecture on the danger of carrying weapons, and suspended a sentence over his head to insure good behavior.

CARLETON L. SMITH TO WED MISS GEORGE

Two Ministers Will Officiate at Ceremony at Home of Bride-elect Today.

Miss Helen Carr George, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar D. George, of Duer street, the borough, will become the bride of Carleton L. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, of Grove street, at 5 o'clock this afternoon. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents and will be performed by the Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church. Following the ceremony a wedding supper will be served and a reception held to which about sixty relatives and friends have been invited.

The bride will wear a gown of crepe chiffon, a veil and will carry a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She will be attended by the Misses Ruth Wean and Ruth Day as bridesmaids. The latter will wear gowns of flesh color Georgette crepe, combined with bronze. Each will also wear large picture hats of the same material and will carry arm bouquets of sweet peas. Pierson Bailey will act as best man. As the bridal party will enter the parlor Wendell Glover, of this city, will play the wedding march. The ceremony will take place beneath an arch of smilax. The decorative scheme in the dining room is pink and green, roses and smilax being used in great quantities, while the parlor has been attractively decorated with ferns, palms and cut flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will leave for a brief wedding trip following the ceremony and on their return will reside in this city. The couple have been the recipients of many handsome gifts, consisting of bric-a-brac, cut glass, silverware and furniture.

Miss George was graduated from the North Plainfield High School with the class of 1910 and while in the borough school was one of the most popular girls in the student body, being especially prominent in the athletic activities of the institution. Since her graduation she has been actively engaged in playground work, being instructor at the St. Mary schoolyard for the past two years. Previous to her work along that line here, she supervised the same work in Elizabeth. Mr. Smith and the bride-elect have a large circle of friends in both the city and the borough. Mr. Smith is also a former North Plainfield High School student. At present he is connected with the Corn Products Refining Company, of New York city.

MRS. JENNIE PETERSEN.

Mrs. Jennie Peterson, wife of Henry Peterson, colored, died yesterday at her late home, 321 Berckman street, following a brief illness. Beside her husband, Mrs. Peterson is survived by two sons and one daughter. These are Miss Mabel and Frank Peterson, who reside at the parental home, and Charles Peterson, of Rahway. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 in Bethel chapel and will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. William Lloyd Imes. Interment will take place in Hillside cemetery.

AGED WOMAN IN BLACKMAIL PLOT

Mrs. Ida Jennings Arrested at Home of Her Daughter in Borough Yesterday.

THE WARRENVILLE CASE

Codington and Blatz Had "Black Hand" Letters—Mrs. Bowers Put Fake Roll of Bills in Barn—Charge Mrs. Jennings Went After Them.

Mrs. Ida Jennings was arrested at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Kline on Westervelt avenue, in North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon, as a result of the "black hand" letters received by Mrs. John Bowers, of Warrenville, a short time ago.

The arrest was made by County Detective George Totten, of Somerset county, and Mrs. Jennings was arraigned before County Judge Daniel H. Beekman in Somerville late yesterday afternoon. She was charged with having sent letters of an indecent character through the mail, and was held in $500 bond to await the action of the grand jury. Mrs. Jennings owns considerable property near Warrenville, where she lives, and signed her own bond.

While no charge of blackmail is made against Mrs. Jennings, she is accused of having sent to Mrs. Bowers, letters demanding $1,000 and making threats of revenge against the woman in case the demands were not met. Judge W. R. Codington and Francis J. Blatz, of Plainfield, represent Mrs. Bowers, and members of the local police department assisted in working up evidence in the case. The alleged "black hand" letters were in the possession of Judge Codington until a few days ago, when they were turned over to the prosecutor's department of Somerset county for fear an attempt would be made to take them by burglarizing the office of Codington and Blatz.

Mrs. Jennings was indicted by the Somerset county grand jury yesterday. A true bill in the case against her was reported by the jury shortly after noon, and Detective Totten left at once for North Plainfield. She had left her home at Warrenville to spend the day with her daughter. There the Somerset county officer found her shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Jennings is an elderly woman and has been an acquaintance of Mrs. Bowers for many years. Mrs. Bowers recently came in possession of a large amount of cash through the sale of some property, and a few days later she received a letter demanding $1,000. It was said that if the money was not placed in an outhouse of the Bowers' home at a certain time, the writer would get "revenge." Just what form this threatened revenge was to take is not known, but it is on this threat that the charge of "indecent literature" is based.

Mrs. Bowers, upon the advice of her attorneys, placed a "fake" roll of bills in the barn at the appointed time. The roll contained mostly paper, with a few real bills on the outside. Two policemen watched. A woman entered the barn and remained a few minutes. As soon as she left the officers examined the roll and found that it had been torn open. They charge that the woman who entered the outhouse was Mrs. Jennings. The case will be heard on Monday, April 24.

ARCHIBALD GETS IN TROUBLE.

Upon returning to the home of his brother near Bonnie Burn Sanitorium late last night and finding the doors locked, John M. Archibold started to batter down the doors with an axe. Alexander Archibold, the brother, tried to pacify the enraged man, but to no purpose and Constable John R. Welsh, of North Plainfield township, was summoned. Archibold was arrested and locked up in the borough jail, where he will be given a hearing tonight before Recorder George Schmidt, of Watchung, who will come here for that purpose.

MORE FIGHTING AROUND PARRAL

Washington Hears of a Second Attack on American Soldiers.

ONLY ONE WOUNDED

Consul Fletcher Reports Mexican Press Impartial—Thin Line Guarding Communications is Strengthened—Trouble in Sonora.

Washington, April 15.—The State Department has received unofficial word from El Paso of a second fight at Parral. Officials are anxiously waiting confirmation.

Washington, April 15.—Consul Letcher, at Chihuahua City, today reported to the State Department that Chihuahua newspapers state that only one American soldier was injured in the fighting at Parral. He said the press was impartial in its statements concerning the clash. This is the first information received direct by the State Department concerning the Parral trouble.

Captain U. S. Grant in Charge.

Columbus, N. M., April 15.—A strict censorship established here by the United States military authorities prevents giving details of the measures that are being taken to protect the communications of General Pershing and his men of the punitive expedition in Mexico It can be stated, however, that every effort is being made at the base to keep the line open and to strengthen the troops guarding it, particularly at Ascension, sixty miles southwest of this place. Captain U. S. Grant, a grandson of the late President, is among the officers at that post in the desert. This point is within striking distance of Ojitos Pass, the crossing of the Sierra Madre, on the other side of which Carranza troops numbering several thousand, have been reported concentrating, in the State of Sonora.

ROMANCE OF HOSPITAL REVEALED BY COUPLE

Members of Elizabeth General Staff Married in This City Nearly Two Years Ago.

Dr. H. Alvin Spencer, who until a year ago was an interne at the Elizabeth General Hospital, and Miss Marguerite Murdy, a graduate from the training school of the same institution, announced to relatives and friends today that they had been married for nearly two years. The ceremony was performed in this city on August 19, 1914, Rev. Frederic L. Greene, former pastor of Hope chapel, officiating at his home on West Fifth street. Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Firstbrook, of this city, acted as attendants; Mrs. Firstbrook being a cousin of the bridegroom. For reasons best known to themselves the young couple kept the matter a secret and it was not until today that they made it known to relatives at Dr. Spencer's home in Berkshire Valley, Morris county.

The wedding of the couple marked the culmination of a romance which began at the Elizabeth institution. Dr. Spencer became an interne there following his graduation from the College of Physicians and Surgeons and a brief term in Bellevue Hospital, New York. Miss Murdy, who is an Elizabeth girl but who made her home in Roselle for a number of years following the death of her parents, was a pupil nurse. The friendship ripened into love and the wedding was decided upon before the bride had completed her course. Since graduating Mrs. Spencer has been practicing her profession in Elizabeth. She had many friends in Plainfield, a number of them being made through doing duty at Muhlenberg Hospital. Dr. Spencer is also well known here, having been a frequent visitor for many years past. He is at present chief surgeon and medical attendant for the big Hercules Powder Plant at Kenvil, where more than 3,000 men are employed. The Hercules company has built a handsome home for Dr. and Mrs. Spencer at Kenvile and they will make their home there.

REV. DR. GARDINER OBSERVES NATAL DAY

Editor of Sabbath Recorder Quietly Celebrates 72d Anniversary of His Birth.

Rev. Dr. Theodore L. Gardiner, one of the best known clergymen in the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination, is today quietly observing the seventy-second anniversary of his birth. In recent years he has made his home in this city, while serving as editor of the Sabbath Recorder, the official publication of the Seventh-Day Baptist churches and numerous congratulatory messages have come from readers of the paper in various parts of the country.

Dr. Gardiner came to Plainfield in 1907, succeeding Dr. A. H. Lewis, then editor of the Recorder, who retired from active business on account of ill health and who died in November, 1908.

Dr. Gardiner was born in Allegheny county, New York, April 15, 1944, and resided in that section, working on a farm until he was twenty-three years of age. He attended a commercial colege in Poughkeepsie after the Civil War, but later entered Alfred University, from which institution he was graduated into the ministry of the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination. Dr. Gardiner is one of the young men who worked his way through college. His first pastorate was in Mystic, Conn., where he remained for five years from 1874 to 1879 . He then assumed charge of the Seventh-Day Baptist church at Shiloh, N. J., where he stayed for about eleven years. He then went to Salem, W. Va., where he was pastor for a time and later was president of Salem College, which position he held for fourteen years.

He went to North Loup, Nebraska, in 1906, where he preached for one year before coming to this city.

Dr. Gardiner has a copy of the Tribune which he received on the morning of April 15, 1865, announcing the assassination and death of Abraham Lincoln, this date being the twenty-five anniversary of his birthday.

CHORUS OF PRAYER GOES UP FROM SAWDUST FLOOR FOR LOVED ONES WHO ARE LIVING IN SIN

Meanest Man in All the World Lives Right in Plainfield, Says Dr. Biederwolf, and He is the Man Who Knows What is Right to Do and Don't Do It—Impressive Scene Ends Service—Big Parade and Open Air Meeting Tonight.

Mothers and fathers praying for sons and daughters, girls praying for sweethearts and men praying for friends—all knelt down on the sawdust floor of the Pine Temple last night to offer a chorus appeal to God for the success of the Biederwolf evangelistic campaign in the saving of souls. At the close of his sermon, Dr. Biederwolf called on all the Christians who knew of someone in sin they wanted saved, and more than 200 responded to his appeal. They first stood up from their seats in different parts of the building and said "Pray for brother," or "sister," or whatever the relationship of the loved one; and later went to the steps of the pulpit and knelt down to ask for the salvation of those they wanted to see led to Christ during the services. Many prayed aloud while there and the "Glory Barn" resounded with pathetic appeals for the salvation of souls for the first time since it was dedicated to this work.

The sermon of Dr. Biederwolf was on "The Meanest Man in the World," and he said that no one would have to go out of Plainfield to find one answering this description. The meanest man, he said, was he who knew what was right but would not do it.

"I mean," he said, "the man who steals the livery of the Court of Heaven to serve the Devil—in plain language, the brazen-faced hypocrite," and he told of other traits of the meanest man. One of these was to know of some loved one who was not a Christian and put off mentioning the cause of Christ to them until it was too late. Dr. Biederwolf told the story of a young girl who died at the age of nineteen. Her pastor, or the pastor of the church attended by her parents, was at the funeral services, and he noted the excessive grief of her Sunday-school teacher. When the teacher was asked why she showed such unusual sorrow she confessed that she had intended speaking to the girl of late several months before, but had neglected it. Her father and mother had neglected this important duty, and the pastor was also guilty; so the girl died without having been given an opportunity of accepting Jesus Christ. He said they knelt together and prayed for forgiveness.

Dr. Biederwolf ended his sermon with the following appeal for a better life: "Christian people—teachers, fathers, mothers and pastors—can God ever forgive us for the way we have been living?" He then urged all who had loved ones that were living in sin to stand up, and a great number in the congregation arose to their feet. At his call they walked to the front of the building and knelt in prayer, many voicing their appeals to God aloud. Several times during the time they were kneeling, some one of the penitents began a song and the chorus choir joined in. After the meeting, Corps No. 1 was addressed by Mr. Heaton in one corner of the building; Corps No. 2 was addressed by Mrs. Brake in another corner, and other members of the audience were addressed by Dr. Biederwolf near the platform. All were urged to put a Christian fellowship and spirit into the meetings and to endeavor to lead someone to Christ.

Dr. Biederwolf urged that everyone who could attend the meeting tomorrow night, when he will preach on "The Home"; after which all Christians in the audience will march to Front street and hold a short street meeting. The parade will be led by the Dutch Arms band of Trinity Reformed church, which has been designated as the official band for all Tabernacle delegations.

The National Male Quartet sang two selections that were well received. The scripture lesson was read by Fred Goodwin, international secretary of religious work of the Y. M. C. A.

The service was attended by little more than two thousand people, although there were more than four hundred voices in the choir.

FOUR MINISTERS AT IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL

Large Gathering Present When Service is Conducted for Miss Elizabeth Conroy.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Conroy on Fairview avenue was thronged with relatives and friends this afternoon, when the funeral service for their daughter, Miss Elizabeth M. Conroy, who died Thursday morning, after a long illness, was held. Rev. C. S. Gillespie, pastor of Grace M. E. church, was the officiating clergyman and he was assisted by three other ministers of the same denomination, all having known the young woman as a pastor or friend of the family. There were Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, of the borough; Rev. C. C. Kane, of Verona, Mr. Gillespie's predecessor as pastor of Grace church, and Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church. Mr. Gillespie made reference to the Christian life of the deceased and paid a tribute to her patience during the final ordeal. The other clergymen offered prayer and extended words of sympathy to the bereaved parents and relatives.

During the service, the Misses Grace and Alice Carrol sang two hymns, selections that Miss Conroy had sung as a member of Grace M. E. Sunday-school. These were "Safe In the Arms of Jesus" and "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead." The wide circle of friends held by the deceased was evidenced by the masses of beautiful floral tributes, the number being sufficient almost to hide the casket from view. Set pieces were among them from the Earnest Workers' Bible class, the choir and the Sunday-school of Grace M. E. church, to all of which Miss Conroy belonged and the Class of 1911 in the North Plainfield High School, with which she was graduated.

Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being Peter Mauger, Lorren Giddes, David Smalley, Benjamin Schuck, William Taylor and Carroll Taylor.

BABY DEAD, HE SAID, ASKING FOR MONEY

Police Believe Man Attempted a Contemptible Confidence Game.

A man who gave his name as C. H. Smith yesterday attempted what the police believe to be one of the most contemptible confidence games that Plainfield has known. He went to the office of Charles Higgins, undertaker, at 109 West Fourth street, and told of a dead baby at Bridgeport, Conn., which he wanted buried here. He asked Mr. Higgins to take charge of local arrangements and then offered him a check in part payment for his services, asking some cash back on the paper. Mr. Higgins was not impressed with the demeanor of the prospective client and sent him to a local man who was in a position to determine the truth of his story. The mourning father failed to return and did not even go see the third party. Mr. Higgins reported the matter to the police and asked that the man be picked up for an investigation, but he has apparently left the city.

Scotch Plains, Fanwood

MANY ATTEND DISTRICT MEETING OF AUXILIARY

Nearly fifty women from Plainfield, Westfield and the borough, attended a district meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Episcopal church that was held in the Fanwood firehouse last night. The auxiliary has been working for some time for the relief of the people of the Jersey pines, and the Rev. Mr. Bostwick, of Vincentown, gave a very interesting address on that section of the State. Mr. Bostwick is devoting nearly all of his time to working for the relief of the people, and yesterday told of a rug-weaving industry that he is now trying to start in order to give them some means of making a livelihood.

He showed some specimens of the first attempts at making the rugs, and said he expects the industry to grow and become general in that section. About the only work they do now, he said, was to pick berries and nuts. Their living conditions are on a parallel with the mountaineers of Kentucky and it was only by the help received from outside that they were able to live in any kind of comfort. Mrs. J. Hudson Thompson, president of the auxiliary, was in charge of the meeting, and afterwards tea was served.

LEAP YEAR DANCE.

Sixty young people from Plainfield and Westfield, as well as the borough, enjoyed a leap year dance given in the Fanwood firehouse last night by Miss Claire Briton and Jack Briton. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion, and Van Eps' orchestra furnished the music for dancing. At a late hour a collation was served.

APPROACHING MARRIAGE.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Kathryn Todd, a former resident, but now of Bellvale, N. Y., to Edward Shield, Jr., of Westfield, the ceremony to take place next Wednesday evening at the Madison Avenue Baptist church, New York. After a short wedding tour, the couple will be at home on Tilliston road, the borough, after May 1, where they will reside in the Cottrell residence.

TO WED IN WESTFIELD.

The wedding of Miss Mary U. McCarthy, of Westfield, to Irving DeMilt, of the borough, will take place on Wednesday evening, April 26, at Holy Trinity church, Westfield. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Father Henry Wattersen, and following there will be a reception at the home of the bride's parents for the relatives and immediate friends. The couple will reside in Westfield.

"PEN PICTURE OF HIMSELF."

The Rev. J. Madison Hare will preach the last of his series of "Pen Pictures" at the 10:45 service in the Baptist church tomorrow morning on "Christ's Pen Picture of Himself." Bible School and Junior Society will meet at the regular hours, and at the 7:45 Young People's service the pastor will preach an interesting sermon on "The Triumphal Entry."

SERIES OF DANCES.

With the closing of the Lenten season the young people of the Stony Hill church are planning to resume their monthly dances that have become so popular. The first of these will be held during Easter week, and a committee is now busy preparing for it. Besides the dancing, there will be an entertainment. Good music is to be furnished for the occasion and prizes for the waltz and other steps will be offered.

PLAYING FOR PATHE.

Robert Thrane, of Paterson road, leading cellist in the New York Philharmonic Society, and reputed to be one of the best in the East, is now playing for the Pathe Corporation. The well-known moving picture concern has now branched off into the Victrola field, and as one of its first moves, induced Mr. Thrane to devote a portion of his time to playing for them. Records are to be made of all of the best-known compositions that he will play, besides several of his own musical creations.

Henry Alberts, of Scotch Plains, is on a few days' trip to Philadelphia.

JEWISH SISTERHOOD IS TO CELEBRATE MAY 19 TO 21

Tentative plans for the participation of the Jewish Sisterhood in Newark's 250th anniversary celebration were discussed at the monthly board meeting of that organization Thursday afternoon in the Jewish Sisterhood building. Mrs. Solomon Foster president,, directed the session. It was decided to hold open house at the building, May 19, 20 and 21, with special features for the three days.

Because of the Jewish Sabbath the only affair of the second day will be a dance in the evening. Kindergarten games and an exhibit will probably be arranged for the afternoon of the last day, with an open meeting of one of the clubs in the evening.

The program will take the place, it was decided, of the usual anniversary celebration of the organization, which in previous years has been held the last of May.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

You Will Make No Mistake if You Follow This Plainfield Citizen's Advice.

Never neglect your kidneys.

If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are frequently symptoms of kidney trouble, and a remedy which is recommended for [illegible]neys should be taken in time. [illegible]'s Kidney Pills is a good remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has acted effectively in many cases in Plainfield. Follow the advice of a Plainfield citizen.

A. K. Mattis, 127 West Fourth street, Plainfield, says: "I confirm all that one of my family said in my favor in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Randolph's Drug Store some years ago. The cure they gave me has lasted."

Price 50, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Mattis had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

POLITICAL NOTES

A majority of the delegates to the Chicago Convention have been chosen. Despite instructions for complimentary votes for "favorite sons," the major part of the Republican delegates will be free to turn to the strongest candidate.

Senator Clapp, of Minnesota, has three opponents for the Republican nomination for his seat. Frank B. Kellogg, former Governor Eberhardt and Congressman Lindbergh are his rivals, and a battle royal is under way, ending with the primary election on June 19.

That the pro-Germans will try to influence the St. Louis platform is the assertion that comes from Washington. It is opined that Bryan will be the leader of this movement to secure adoption of panks which will be critical of President Wilson's policy.

O. M. Weller, who ran for governor on the Republican ticket in Maryland in the last election, is managing the Weeks campaign for the nomination for President. Senator Weeks also has the aid of George H. Moses, former minister to Greece, now head of the Republican publicity bureau.

Bryan has stirred up the Nebraskans during the past few weeks, and he has stumped every county in the State. The primaries will be held on Tuesday in that State, and the former premier wants to go as delegate to the St. Louis convention, and incidentally wants the Democratic nomination for governor for his brother, C. W. Bryan, mayor of Lincoln.

Whitehouse

Miss Helen Trumbower, of East Whitehouse, has resigned as teacher of the Potterstown Public School and will move today with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. William M. Trumbower, to Andover, where Mr. Trumbower has been assigned as pastor of the Methodist church. Miss Isadore Drinkwater, of East Whitehouse, will teach the school for the remainder of the term.

Miss Ruth Hall returned to Whitehouse Station, Wednesday, after a visit in Newark.

An ample supply of cracked stone and a steam roller are being utilized in repairing the macadam road from Whitehouse Station to the county line near North Branch. This road was so broken up and rutted in some places that the automobilists had to travel in low gear on the bad spots.

Miss Lena Hoffman returned to Lebanon today after a visit to New York.

Rev. and Mrs. Henry Sperbeck, of Lamington, went to Somerville, Wednesday, to call on their son, Warren Sperbeck, ten years old, who is receiving treatment in Somerset Hospital there for appendicitis.

Mrs. Oliver A. Farley, of Lebanon, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jacob N. Potter at Mountainville.

The New Jersey Central Railroad painters have been busy at Whitehouse Station for a few days. The gates at the crossing there have been painted in large black and white stripes in order to make them more conspicuous.

The Somerset County Freeholders have refused the request of Pottersville people for the improvement of the road from that place to the borough line of Peapack and Gladstone, under county and township aid, because of so many other roads, the improvement of which they have promised already.

TROPHIES FOR ARMY POLO.

Washington, April 15.—Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the army, is the president of the Army Polo Association which is opening today a brilliant polo tournament in Washington. Teams from Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburg, Aiken and Camden will take part, and the Washington and Fort Myer contingents will also be represented. The call to the border will probably keep out of the tournament some of the teams from the south and west which had planned to compete.

GOTCH-STECHER MATCH OFF

Humboldt, Ia., Apr. 15.—Frank Gotch is off to join the circus, and the impatient wrestling fans who want to see him defend his title against Joe Steacher the burly youth from Nebraska, will have to cool their expectations until the autumn tinge is on the foliage. Perhaps longer. Gotch is tied up for thirty weeks at over a thousand a week, and he will bask in luxury in his private car with the circus.

GENERAL STRIKE AT SYRACUSE

Labor Leaders May Tie Up Automobile Industry.

Syracuse, April 15.—Despite the presence in Syracuse of State Mediator McManus and international officers of the machinists' unions, indications of a general walkout of the latter grow hourly.

Machinists and machine shop specialists are to hold a mass meeting at Ramlon's hall here, when it will be finally decided whether the automobile industry is to be tied up or not.

Standard Oil Company Raises Wages.

Jersey City, N. J., April 15.—The Standard Oil company of New Jersey announced that on April 17 an advance in pay of from 5 to 10 per cent would be made to all refinery employees. This concern advanced wages last July and adopted the eight hour day last September.

JITNEY MEN TRY TO KIDNAP GIRLS

Elizabeth Young Women Have Narrow Escape.

RESCUER FIRES REVOLVER

Windows of Bus Smashed by Passengers Whom Driver and Friends Refused to Release—Harrison and Newark Police Seek Quartet Making Bold Attempt.

Newark, April 15.—A story of being kidnaped from this city in a jitney was told by four young women who gave their home city as Elizabeth to the Harrison police. The girls say they managed to escape from the vehicle at Warren and First streets, that town, after breaking the windows of the machine and attracting the attention of two young men, one of whom fired four shots at the disappearing machine.

A description of the driver of the machine and three young men was given to the Harrison police by the girls, and the police of this city have been asked to assist in locating the former.

According to the police, the girls said they came to this city to visit friends in Sixteenth avenue. Leaving the home of the friends, they boarded a jitney. After the jitney had gone several blocks, they say, three young men boarded the machine.

After the jitney had gone some distance, the girls told the police, they became suspicious they were being taken away from their destination and appealed to the jitney driver to stop his car. This he refused to do, and they started to smash the windows, at the same time calling for help. The girls made no statement as to whether the three men in the car attempted to molest them.

The jitney driver eventually stopped in front of the home of Thomas Foley, near Warren and First streets. As the driver slowed down the girls jumped from the machine. Foley said he heard screams, seized a revolver and ran into the street. A second man ran up the street at the same time. According to Foley, as he approached the machine the driver threw on power and escaped, Foley firing several shots at the fleeing machine. The shots were heard by Sergeant Coakley and Patrolman O'Brien of the Harrison police, who were at Harrison avenue and Second street.

The police took the girls to the station house and, after hearing their stories and obtaining names and a promise to appear against the driver of the jitney should he be found, they allowed the young women to go. In the excitement the number of the machine was not obtained.

HOME RULE BODY NAMED.

Governor Appoints Four Men to Revise and Codify Statutes.

Trenton, April 15.—Governor Fielder appointed the members of the commission to revise and codify the statutes relating to cities and other municipalities as provided in an act introduced by Senator McCran.

The appointees are former City Counsel Edward F. Merrey of Paterson, Leon Abbett of Jersey City, former attorney for Weehawken township, and City Counsel Francis A. Stanger, Jr., of Bridgeton.

The McCran act provides that the commissioners shall receive a salary of $2,500. The measure was introduced as a substitute for affirmative action upon the party platform plank on home rule. It is part of the plan of the commission to formulate laws giving municipalities a larger measure of autonomy than they now possess.

IS HE INSANE?

Man Sues For Property Saying His Brain Is Not Normal.

Trenton, April 15.—William J. Lee, who has fought his way legally out of asylums or escaped from them, appeared before Vice Chacellor Beckes here in an effort to recover property which he had deeded to his daughter years ago.

The man whose fight to establish that he was sane attracted attention for fully ten years said he was insane when he signed the papers giving his daughter the property without monetary consideration.

Lee added that he was crazy and knew it, insanity having shown itself in his family 700 years ago.

There are records to show that Lee was declared insane in New Jersey, then sane in New York and next won a New Jersey decree that he was all right mentally.

STUDENTS READY TO SERVE.

If Call Is Issued Volunteers to Organize and Offer Services.

New Brunswick, April 15.—Still more members of the Rutgers college cadet corps have attested their willingness to serve in Mexico in case a call for volunteers was issued.

The poll was taken by Lieutenant S. C. Lessure, commandant of the cadets. If a call is issued the students plan to organize a company of Rutgers men, commanded by their present officers, and offer their services to the government. Students at the college are required to take four years of military training.

AN ORDINANCE

To provide for the construction of a further addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield, No. 17—

WHEREAS, There has been constructed in said city a system of sewerage and such action in relation thereto has from time to time been taken as is set forth in the preamble to the ordinance of said city, entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved November 6, 1897, to which preamble reference is hereby made for greater certainty and

WHEREAS, In the opinion of the Common Council the public good requires that a further addition, as herein described, to the system of sewerage, already constructed, should be now constructed in and for said city under the provisions of the Act in said preamble referred to, and the Common Council has so determined and does hereby so determine; therefore,

The inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that a further addition to the system of sewerage already constructed under said Act and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, be constructed in and for said city under the provisions of the Act of the Legislature above referred to, with all the appurtenances necessary to complete the same, and of such dimensions and material and according to such plans as the said Common Council may hereafter direct, in and through the following described streets, avenues, property, lands and rights of way described, mentioned and referred to in this ordinance to wit:

Ravine road, from the present sewer to Dixie Lane;
Williver street;
Lafayette place;
Clinton place;
Johannis place;

For The Home Builder

WEEK'S PERMITS NUMBER BUT SEVEN

Expenditures Will Aggregate $16,635 and Include a New $8,000 Residence.

Seven permits, three of them for residences, was the total granted by Building Inspector T. O. Doane for the past week. The work the seven represent will aggregate an expenditure of $16,635, a showing a little below that of the previous week, which was $17,200. While the amount is not especially large for the past seven days it indicates a healthy activity for April and the probabilities are the month will close well above the corresponding period of last year. The total amount represented by permits for April so far is $33,835 and for the entire year since January 1, $276,271. The applications passed by Inspector Doane not heretofore reported are as follows:

Alfred H. Peck, for the erection of a two story dwelling at Sixth street and Monroe avenue; estimated cost, $3,800; J. H. Manning, contractor.

Clarence B. Vail, extension in rear of property at 28-30 Norwood avenue at an estimated cost of $460; contractor not mentioned.

Lawrence K. Berry, 1008 East Seventh street, erection of frame garage at that address at a cost of $200; contractor not mentioned.

C. Have, 350 Bergen street, erection of garage at that address at a cost of $350; contractor not mentioned.

Thomas Cantner, 204 West Fourth street, erection of cement garage at that address at a cost of $225; contractor not mentioned.

Charles Winterdof, 831 Osborne avenue, erection of two and a half story frame residence; estimated cost $3,600; Martinus Thompson, general contractor.

C. D. Manning, erection of two and a half story frame residence at Eighth street and Spooner avenue; estimated cost $8,000; contractor not mentioned.

PROPERTIES WORTH $12,000 EACH TRADED THIS WEEK

A realty deal involving property worth about $12,000 on either side was one of the real estate activities reported locally during the past week. The properties "swapped" were the house and grounds at 235-9 Crescent avenue belonging to Norman S. Benbrook, of Stone street, and the house and grounds at 63 Grove street, owned by Frank A. Weeks, of West Seventh street.

The Crescent avenue property is tenanted at present and will undergo no change but the Grove street house has been vacant for some time. It was occupied for a number of years by Mr. Campbell, an official of the B. and O. Railroad. It is the intention of Mr. Benbrook to make a number of improvements to his new acquisition and offer it for rental. The lot of the Crescent avenue property acquired by Mr. Weeks has a frontage of 103 feet and a depth of 186 feet. The Grove street lot [illegible] 100 feet front by 275 feet deep.

REALTY TRANSFERS

The following local realty transfers were recorded at the office of the County Clerk in Elizabeth during the past week:

NETHERWOOD MAN BUILDING FINE HOME

Ground Broken This Week for Handsome Residence on Prescott Hill.

O. W. Smith, a well-known Netherwood resident, who has been living on Prescott hill, just off Leland avenue, has given out the contracts for a handsome home to be erected on Prescott hill. While the cost has not been made known as yet, it will be between $15,000 and $20,000. When completed, the house will be one of the handsomest of the many fine ones now being erected in that part of the city. Martinus Thompson has been given the contract for the carpentering; Cunniff Brothers, the masonry; the A. M. Griffin Company, the plumbing and heating, and Allan B. Laing, the electrical work.

According to the plans, the residence will be two and a half stories in height and built of hollow tile with exterior stucco effect. It will be fifty-four feet over all in front dimensions and thirty feet in length. The first floor plan calls for a large reception hall, living room, breakfast room, dining room, den, kitchen and butler's pantry. Four extra large bedrooms, a sewing room and modern bath will be on the second floor, while the third floor will have two sleeping rooms, storage closets and bath. Everything will be finished off according to the latest idea of a comfortable and complete suburban home.

Mr. Smith is a New York business man who resides with his mother, and who has found that Netherwood is an ideal section to live in after the cares of the day are over. Ground for the new home was broken this week, and it will be completed during the coming summer.

BRUNSWICK LABORATORIES UNDERGOING ENLARGEMENT

An industrial boom which, while it has not been widely advertised, has been making rapid headway, is in progress at the Squibb Laboratories on George's Road, New Brunswick, and it is probable that this plant will soon be one of the most important in that city. Building operations there are being pushed rapidly, but the biggest development has been in the capacity and output of the plant.

The chief feature of the additions to the plant is in the manufacture of an anti-hog cholera serum, which is having great success, and for which there is a tremendous demand throughout the country. Hog cholera is a disease which costs the farmers of the United States millions of dollars every year in the loss of hogs.

The Squibb plant has obtained the formula for a serum which has proven to be very efficacious in the treatment of this disease, and the demand for it has been so heavy that the output has been very rapidly increased and is still growing. The company is also making a number of other serums and vaccines.

About 15,000 square feet of floor space is being added to the plant. A number of new buildings where hogs are kept are also being put up. These are being built according to the most scientific requirements, having cement floors, which are kept as clean as in a house.

IN THE SUBURBS

Postmaster John Geary, Jr., of South Plainfield, contemplates the erection of a modern building to house the postoffice business and his grocery store in that village. A site has already been secured on Lehigh avenue and plans for the work are now being formulated.

Contractor Firman H. Gise, of Dunellen, who has had the headquarters of his masonry business for a long time in the barn on the Winges-Ahnert property on North avenue, that borough, next to the Kupfenberg property, will move shortly to the Michael A. Gallagher building on North avenue, where he will take the store to be finished off in what is now the rear of the D. T. Heaume & Son grocery. It is proposed by Mr. Gallagher to make two stores there instead of one.

Hiram J. Scandell, proprietor of the Park Hotel stable, at Dunellen, has traded the business with J. J. Smith, of Millstone, for a new cottage and five acres of land in the neighborhood of Somerville, on the road from there to Bernardsville. Mr. Scandell has also purchased the grocery business belonging to Mr. Smith and situated at Millstone. The new owner will place the grocery business on the market and sell it, but pending the arrival of a customer he will conduct it himself.

The house on Third street, Dunellen, completed not long ago by Contractor Herman B. Eckert, was sold by Mr. Eckert last week to Carl Marx, the organizer and leading spirit in the Middlesex Aniline Company.

The contracts for the concrete work at the sewerage ejector station at Washington avenue and Fifth street, Dunellen, has been awarded by the H. K. Corbin Company to Contractor Walter G. Clawson.

Clarence Scheurman, of Penfield place, Dunellen, has decided to branch out for himself in the contracting business. He is a carpenter by trade and has quite a large acquaintance all up through the mountains, he having come from uup that way. He has already received several orders for work in the mountain sections.

Building seems to be slightly on the increase in Scotch Plains and Fanwood with indications of it continuing on the rise with the coming of warmer weather. Albert McCauley, a new contractor in the field, has received his first contract from William Hoag, for the erection of a two and a half story house on the corner of Springfield road and Union avenue. Tony Albert is starting the erection of a house on Paterson road, and another modern residence is being built on Midway avenue by a New York contractor for a party from that city.

CONTRACT FILED.

The following contract has been placed on file at the county clerk's office in Elizabeth: Francis M. Tilley with George D. Wilson, entire work new building, Stelle avenue, Plainfield, $5,000.

NEW BOROUGH RESIDENCE.

Contractor George Hummer is now at work upon a new seven room frame residence to be erected on upper Watchung avenue, just north of Codington avenue, for William Walker. Ground was broken on Monday of this week. The house will be two and a half stories in heighth and fitted with all up-to-date improvements.

A SEVEN-ROOM STUCCO COTTAGE

DESIGNED BY CHAS S. SEDGWICK, ARCHITECT.

HERE is a roomy, economical and strictly up-to-date cottage. It has a long sloping roof towards the front but the second story rooms are full height. The first story is 8 ft. 6 in. in height, second story 8 ft. and the basement 7 ft. 6 in. high. The size is 39 ft. total width and 44 ft. total depth. The construction is frame with stucco finish on the outside and shingle roof. It is estimated to cost $3,500 to $4,400, exclusive of heating and plumbing. The finish of the first story is Washington fir stained dark mission and the floor of natural oak. The second story is finished in pine and painted white with white enamel finish, the floor of birch.

The plan is suited to an east or south front. The main living room across the front is 22 ft. x 15 ft. with a wide central fireplace and opening through into the dining room with wide opening with a bookcase on each side. In the rear of dining room is a small bedroom, and in rear of kitchen is a pretty little breakfast room with stationary seat on each side. The kitchen is well appointed with cupboards, etc., and a glazed porch. There is a clothes chute, dumb waiter, broom closet, etc. The main stairs on the right of sitting room are open and finished with a rail, underneath are the basement stairs with grade entrance. The basement is full and complete.

The second story has three good chambers, each provided with ample clothes closet and there is a convenient sleeping porch connected with two chambers. A liberal sized bathroom is in the rear. There is no attic space on account of the low roof.

It is the design to paint all outside trimmings white and stain the shingles red.

NO ONE OBJECTS TO BORO STREET WIDENING

The Borough Commission on the widening of Somerset street, held a meeting last night for the purpose of hearing the complaints of any citizens who might have objections to the proposed plan. The members of the Commission—L. B. Woolston, M. C. Van Arsdale and J. Y. Barrett—together with Borough Counsel Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Engineer H. C. Van Emburgh and Mayor "Bill" Smalley, were present in the council rooms, but no one appeared to voice a complaint.

DEVELOPING BIG WEST END TRACT

Standard Investment and Real Estate Company Paving Way for Building Boom.

MANY HOUSES SOON

"Emma Street" Mapped Out by E. P. Thorn, Forty-six Years Ago, Now Being Opened up—History of Property.

The work of preparing the tract of ground on West Front street, near Clinton avenue, recently purchased by the Standard Investment and Real Estate Company, previous to the residential development is now under way. The firm of Cooper & Black has already installed a system of sewers, gas and water mains and is now grading and macadamizing the new thoroughfare to run through the property from Front street to Myrtle avenue. This will give the Standard Company a total of thirty-four choice building lots which will go on the market in connection with the concern's own building operations. Six of the lots face on Front street, six on Myrtle avenue and twenty-two on the new roadway which is to be known as Emma street. It will make a new opening directly from in front of the Jefferson School to the Front street trolley.

It is the idea of the Standard people to proceed at once with the erection of a number of houses of the seven-room type. Four lots have already been sold and one of the purchasers is to erect a fine home according to his own belief as to what a workingman's home should be. The average frontage of each lot is about forty-five feet with a depth of about 150 feet.

The development of this property is one of the most important that has been undertaken in that section of the city in several years and will prove of immense advance to the neighborhood. The property is surrounded by homes of good type and because of its proximity to the Pond Tool Works, Saurer and Ransome plants is particularly desirable for dwellings of modern type. The Standard Investment and Real Estate Company, which has been highly successful in the few years it has operated locally, purchased the ground a short time ago from William H. Talmadge, of Milburn, for $10,000. Away back in 1870 the propertly belonged to Edward P. Thorn, one of Plainfield's prominent business men in those days, but now living in Westfield. It was his intention to develop it as that part of the town, then known as "Evona," was rapidly coming to the front as a desirable community. Mr. Thorn had a thoroughfare laid out from Front street to Myrtle avenue, which he called "Emma street" in honor of his wife's first name. Trees were planted on both sides the entire distance but the roadway never got any further than being on the map. These trees have been noticed by Plainfielders for many years and the question was often asked as to why they had been placed there, as appearances from Front street indicated the line of shade givers was in a field.

Mr. Thorn owned the property until 1891, when it was acquired under sheriff's sale by William A. Tyler. The latter conveyed it to Katherine L. Brokaw, May 14, 1907, who in turn sold it to William H. Talmadge. The Standard Company purchased it February 28, 1916. The new owners decided to retain the name of "Emma street' and are laying it out along the same dimensions decided upon by Mr. Thorn. The roadway will be twenty-eight feet wide with six foot sidewalks on either side. The shade trees will line the curb and the contract with Cooper & Black calls for the putting down of fine cement walks all the way from Front street to Myrtle avenue.

WILL GIVE A SACRED CANTATA AT GRACE CHURCH

A sacred lenten cantata entitled "The Darkest Hour," by Harold Moore, will be given at Grace church on Monday evening next, April 17, at 8 o'clock. The soloists include Irving Manley, soprano; Wm. J. Tallamy, tenor; John Richards, D. McKay, A. E. Sprowl, baritones, and a chorus of forty men and boys under the direction of S. Frederick Smith. This work will be presented for the first time in this city and the public is cordially invited to be present.

RECREATION NOTES.

The Municipal Dance will be held in Washington School this evening.

Roller skating will occupy the time of the younger set on Monday evening. Miss Snyder's class will hold a meeting in the kindergarten at that time.

In the auditorium, the much-heralded "mock trial" will hold sway. It is said that Miss Goldrox can prove an alibi for Mr. Bruiser. Time will tell.

SEEK TO ENCOURAGE REGISTRATION OF BIRTH

Health Board Adopts New Procedure—Send Certificates to Parents.

The Plainfield Board of Health has adopted a new procedure—that of sending a certificate of birth to the parents to whom children have been born in Plainfield, this year. The object is to encourage birth registration and the certificate is likely to prove of great value. It is very important that a child's birth be recorded because some day he may need a certificate for one or more of the following purposes:

To prove his right to go to school;

To prove his right to working papers;

To prove his right to an inheritance;

To prove his right to vote;

To prove his right to marry;

To prove his right to a passport when travelling abroad;

To secure protection in foreign countries;

To prove his mother's right to a widow's pension.

In a circular entitled "Is Your Baby Registered?" the Department of Health of the State of New Jersey pointed out that prize cattle are registered and that it is of far greater consequence to have the babies registered, for it is only by having complete registration that we know what to do

To protect the lives of the babies;

To prevent infant blindness;

To secure for every child the right to an education;

To abolish child labor.

The week beginning Monday, April 17, has been designated by the Plainfield Board of Health as Birth Registration Week, during which a special effort will be made to record hitherto unreported births. Parents who are in doubt as to the registration of their children, born in Plainfield, should make inquiry at once at the Board of Health office, 104 East Front street; telephone number 646.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR WATCHUNG TROOP DANCE

At the quarterly meeting of the Watchung Troop Association held last night at the Troop Headquarters, Sergeant Walter L. Righter, chairman of the entertainment committee, announced that tickets for the Troop dance to be held in the Hartridge Auditorium on April 28, were now on sale at Schreiner Bros. drug store at Second street and Park avenue, and Miller's drug store at Park avenue and Fourth street. The proceeds from this sale will be for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital.

During the meeting of the association a letter from Major Bryant thanking the association for his election as honorary member, was read. In it the major spoke highly of the success of the troop; he said he wished to congratulate its members and the entire squadron and prophesied that Troop D would soon equal if not surpass any of the three other troops.

Sergeant Donald A. McGee presented a report upon recruiting which showed that eleven men had joined since the first of the year. Charles C. Irby, Andrew T. Goodenough, Everett and Frederick W. Stevenson, George L. Alpers, Lawrence A. Weaver, Eugene I. Johnson, Warren Ackerman, Luculus T. Coons, Frederick W. Goddard and Reginald G. Rolil.

Captain Albert G. Borden appointed two lance corporals, James Fleming and Maxwell Perkins.

On Saturdays the editorial column of the Daily Press is conducted, at our request, by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor for today is Samuel B. Howe, of this city, who is principal of the South Side High School, of Newark.

THE GERMAN CHANCELLOR BEFORE THE REICHSTAG.

Probably many have read the speech made before the Reichstag by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg on Wednesday last and the newspaper comment upon it. Perhaps it will be of interest to many Americans, in the light of the present strained relations existing between this government and our own to know the nature of that government. The German Empire is a federated state formed of small, self-governing units, of which three are republican city-states and twenty-two are monarchical in principle. One of the members of the federation is Prussia, an enlightened monarchy ruled by William Hohenzollern, who, by virtue of his position as king of Prussia, is vested with the power of Kaiser, or Emperor, of the Germans. The federal government has been so constructed as to give the Kaiser a preponderating power over the Empire. No decision can be made contrary to his wishes. He governs by his own sovereign power, through his Chancellor, who is responsible to him alone, and is beyond the reach of the elected assembly of the people, the Reichstag. The German constitution defines the Kaiser's power as follows: "It shall be the duty of the Kaiser to represent the Empire among nations, to declare war and to conclude peace."

It naturally follows that when the Chancellor addresses the Reichstag, his speech must be interpreted very much as our president's address to Congress, as the definite policy of Kaiser William for the German nation. Let us briefly examine this policy. He first states: "If our adversaries wish to continue the slaughter of human beings and the devastation of Europe theirs will be the guilt, and we shall have to stand it as men." Let us review the beginning of this conflict. Europe has for years been an armed camp. Germany's policy of preparedness, by which all her citizens have received military training, and all the economic resources of the nation have been organized by central authority to the end that she might be ready for the day when England, or France, or Russia, or a combination of all three, as it turned out, would strike at her, rendered envious by her wonderful material prosperity and industrial efficiency, by her marvelous strides upward into the rank of one of the leading nations of the world; this policy of preparedness made of Germany a nation which glorified military achievements. This is militarism. It made Germany what she is today. It also has produced the present crisis with the United States.

In the early summer of 1914 the crown prince of Austria-Hungary was murdered in Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia, a province of that empire. Bosnia is largely populated by Serbs, and Austria suspected that the assassination was at the instigation of Serbia. She demanded that Serbia make reparation, stamp out the anti-Austrian plots, which had for their aim the separation of Bosnia from Austria-Hungary; and, to insure the effective completion of this investigation, she demanded under threat of war, that Austrian agents be permitted to conduct the investigation on Serbian soil. It is not necessary to point out that this demand was one which no nation could agree to without acknowledging that it thereby surrendered a part of its sovereign rights to the stronger power. Events now crowded thick and fast. Russia began the mobilization of her army on the German and Austrian frontiers, and notified Austria that she must not coerce the Serbs. Austria invaded Serbia, and the German Kaiser demanded that Russia cease her mobilization. The Czar telegraphed the Kaiser personally guaranteeing that he would not invade Austria, if the Kaiser would induce Austria to negotiate further with Serbia. England requested the Kaiser to induce the Austrian government to negotiate further, and named Germany, France, Italy and Russia as co-arbiters with herself. The Kaiser stated that he could not bring his ally Franz Josef before the bar of Europe, as the issue was a purely local one between Austria and Serbia. Again England offered mediation, but Austria replied that she had entered upon military operations and it was too late. Then Russian determined to strike, and her immense armies were put in motion, but the splendid military machine of Germany was able to strike first. She started operations against Russia's ally, France, through Luxembourg and Belgium. It is still a mooted point whether Russia actually was on German soil before Germany entered Luxembourg. If the reader is a German he will feel sure that Germany's war is a war of defense. It is not the intent of the writer to argue that point. The Chancellor well expresses the German view point when he says, "We fight for Germany and not for space in a foreign country are Germany's sons bleeding and dying on the battlefield." All nations engaged in this war are firmly convinced that they are fighting for the establishment of a lasting peace. The allies demand that Germany abandon her militaristic policy which forces them to similar preparedness. Germany demands that England abandon her naval policy which forces militarism upon her. To an American citizen, who loves peace, it is like the difference between Tweedledee and Tweedledum, or like the eternal riddle of which came first, the egg or the chicken. No lasting peace can come for Europe unless both militarism and navalism are relegated, where both belong, to the limbo of forgotten savageries.

SAMUEL BURNETT HOWE.

Yours Poetically

BY JOHN J. GIFFORD: THE YOUNG POET-AUTHOR

From time to time, I'll place in rhyme
Impressions of your city,
't is my fate to not be great,
But some folks say I'm witty.

In this address the Daily Press
Receives appreciation
From grateful me because, you see,
They'll take each inspiration.

And you who read,—if I succeed
Please tell me; I will thank you.
I fill my purse by means of verse.
Don't roast me or I'll spank you!

A word of praise, in many ways,
Might buy my Easter collar,—
So be not hard on your friend-bard,
But help me make a dollar.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

He's Due Soon—The Ump.

Ne emperor of ancient Rome was ever half so great
As is the monarch that the world has reckoned with of late.
His subjects stand in anxious awe, both terrorstruck and dumb,
To learn their fate as signalled by the wiggle of his thumb.
Imperious and absolute he reigns, a power supreme Above Napoleon's ideas and Nero's fondest dream.
The destiny of nations rests upon his mighty frame,
And medieval despots were, compared with him, quite tame.
Upon a pedestal he stands until, with temper quick,
The bleacher angels take a hand and someone heaves a brick.

Decisions on affairs of state from this arbiter flow,
Until, quite unexpected, some pop bottle lays him low.
The rabble's protests don't disturb the tenor of his way;
He's quite impervious to all his bleacher critics say.
But like the old Egyptian kings they tell about in rhyme,
He does not reign forever, but must pay tribute to Time.
He starts out in a major league and slowly he works down,
Until he rules the back lot game, the awe of some tank town.
His victims still yell "Robber" and make personal remarks,
Just like were heard long years ago around the city parks.
He's in bad all his stormy life, and when the end is night,
He know he's earned his reward, a good safe place on high.

My Friend.

I used to have a bosom friend,
We used to be together
Most all the time, my friend and I,
In fair and stormy weather.
But something happened one sad day,
It is a shame, by hen,
He bought an automobile and
I've not seen him since then.

The Truth.

From sentiment I do not sing
Anent the joys of gentle spring.
Oh, no, indeed! Oh, no!
I do not care a tinker's hang
About the fresh inspiring tang,
Found in the winds that blow.

The new-mown hay in summer time
Is not, to me, a thing sublime;
I shun the pasture lot.
Let others rave until they die
About the beauteous summer sky;
I only know it's hot.

The fall does not appeal to me—
That is not particularly;
I sing of it, of course.
I laud the golden autumn leaves,
And wheat arrayed in fulsome sheaves,
But it's a case of force.

You see, it's just this way,
In verse, I must sing each day,
In summer, spring and fall.
For them I do not care a ding,
But I must sing about something,
Or I don't eat, that's all.

PHONOGRAPH SELECTION "SUPPORTS" MOVIE PLOT

Patrons of the Plainfield Theatre were treated to a novelty not usually on the program yesterday in the form of a phonograph selection in connection with a moving picture. The title of the film was "The Voice of the Violin," and as the action proceeds the young couple acting the principal roles accept an invitation to a phonograph studio, where the young woman calls for a record that has a dealing through its title with her love romance. The picture continues on and suddenly the strains of a phonograph are heard playing the selection called for. It is a beautiful selection, entitled "The Feast of the Roses." The effect produced was a great delight to the audience.

The film will be shown again this afternoon and tonight because of the great hit made yesterday. The phonograph use for the occasion is loaned by the Diamond Disc Studio, 310 West Front stret.

Unless all indications miscarry the latest musical comedy, George Washington Bullion Abroad, presented by the famous Smart Set Company at the Plainfield Theatre on Monday, matinee and night, should prove the theatrical treat of the season. At the head of an exceptionally capable cast is Salem Tutt Whitney, the well known colored comedian. In his new vehicle Mr. Whitney's well known propensities for disseminating fun of the endurable kind that does not leave a bad taste in the mouth, he is the dominating figure in a concoction of mirth, melody and song. The accomplishment is one that makes you laugh in spite of yourself. There are three acts and each one is a riot of side-splitting and rollicking situations.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME—

"STAMBOUL NIGHTS" BY PLAINFIELD AUTHOR

H. G. Dwight, of This City, Has Book Published by Doubleday, Page & Co.

H. G. Dwight, whose colorful stories of the East, appearing in book form under the title of "Stamboul Nights" (D. P. & Co.), have been attracting considerable attention, was born in Constantinople, received his early education in St. Johnsbury, Vt., and was later graduated from Amherst. Speaking of the events which followed the completion of his college course, Mr. Dwight says:

H. G. Dwight

"As I had crossed the ocean several times and had flying glimpses of most of Europe, I shied at the idea of an office and tried to get into the diplomatic and consular service. In those days pull was the one necessary thing, and I had no pull. I accordingly succeeded in landing for myself the important job as messenger in the Consulate at $300 a year and no perquisites! However, I had the time of my life. My consul painted pictures; I, who was his sole assistant, wrote poetry. After a little preliminary skirmishing we drew up an agreement that if I would do all the work the consul would not keep tabs on my hours."

This alliance de beaux arts, so to speak, superimposed upon a quiescent consulate, suffered a shock when the Consular business greatly increased. Mr. Dwight eked out a meagre income by acting as agent for the Commercial Cable Co., and correspondent for the Chicago Record-Herald (a job George Ade secured for him though he had never met him), endeavoring meanwhile to secure a better post. Failing this, he returned to the United States in 1902 and for four years did work for the New Encyclopedia and acted as curator of the Authors' Club. In 1906, having begun to find a magazine outlet for a number of his stories, he went abroad and spent a year in Florence. In 1907 he went to Constantinople, of which journey he makes the following interesting comment:

"So, by accident, I became a spectator of the train of events that began with the revolution of 1908. With the exception of short journeys and a year of illness in Dresden, Paris and this country, I stayed in Persia for a year, being in Hamadan when the present war broke out. I returned to Constantinople in time to see the entrance of the Turks into the row, and got back home at the beginning of 1915. Which brings me down to the present period. And if you can make anything out of so unfruitful a catalogue, you are an ingenious person. I have sometimes thought, though, of writing 'The Autobiography of a Nonentity'; for while I never did anything myself, I have met a good many people who have done things, of many different sorts, and I have seen a lot of interesting places and events."

APPROACHING WEDDING.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Janes F. Dunigan, of Woodbridge, to Edward A. Hayes, of New Brunswick, to take place on Wednesday, April 26, at 6 p. m., at St. Mary's church, Woodbridge. Miss Dunigan is very well known here, being a graduate of St. Mary's College Mr. Hayes is an attorney at-law, practicing in New Brunswick.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Today is a big day for the kiddies at Proctor's Theatre, for Little Em. Gorman, recognized as one of the cleverest of child actresses, appears in person at each performance and also is featured on the screen in a mammoth five reel production entitled, "The Little Orphan," in which her remarkable emotional and dramatic talents are plainly evident. In addition to this novel treat for the little ones, the management has gone further and presents Charlie Chaplin in one of the funniest of his comedy creations, entitled "Caught in the Cabaret." Then Harry Watson, as "Musty Suffer," creates lots of good, wholesome laughter by his funny antics in a rip-roaring comedy, and those two funny fellows who have amused the readers of the comic sheets for years, appear in an uproarious cartoon comedy. They art Mutt and Jeff, and the name of the comedy is "Jeff's Toothache." A gala entertainment for the children indeed and all parents are urged to bring the kiddies and let them enjoy this wonderful list of features. Monday starts a wonderful week of tremendous photoplay productions at Proctor's, a week which is destined to set a record in local theatrical circles, and one that will long be remembered by amusement seekers in this vicinity. The program starts out Monday with "The Christian," Hall Caine's immortal masterpiece, in 8 mammoth parts, and featuring Earle Williams and Edith Storey. This is the same feature that created such a sensation a short while ago throughout the land, and was secured by the management of Proctor's at the urgent request of the majority of patrons. In addition to "The Christian," Monday, "The Chorus Lady," Rose Stahl's most successful play, is seen in film form, and is enacted by an all-star Paramount cast, including Cleo Ridgeley and Wallace Reid. A remarkable feature is shown on Tuesday entitled, "The Whirl of Life," starring the most famous couple in the world, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, recognized as the world's greatest dancers, and who were secured to appear in this their first starring vehicle, at a tremendous cost. On Wednesday the main feature will be William Farnum in "The Bondman," a stupendous Fox feature adapted from Hall Caine's famous novel. Everyone in Plainfield is wondering who will be Dot? and the local movie contest is creating a furore in local circles.

NEWARK AMUSEMENTS

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the greatest living actor, will make his farewell appearance in Newark at the Shubert Theatre next week with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. The following Monday Sir Johnston appears for the last time on the American stage at Harvard University in "Hamlet." For his Newark engagement he has chosen three plays which show his art in all the lights and shades of his genius. Especial interest is attached to this engagement because of the Shakespeare Tercentenary and the opportunity playgoers will have of seeing one of the greatest Shakespearean actors in one of Shakespeare's greatest characters.

On Monday and Thursday nights and Saturday matinee, "Hamlet" will be played. "Passing of the Third Floor Back" will be seen on Tuesday and Saturday nights and Wednesday matinee. Rudyard Kipling's "The Light that Failed" will have its last performances on the American stage on Wednesday and Friday nights. Forbes-Robertson will be supported by his London company of thirty-five players, including Miss Laura Cowie, one of the most beautiful and talented of the younger English actresses.

Theodore Moldenke will speak on "The Lives and Religion of the People of India," in St. Peter's German Lutheran church tomorrow evening at 7:45. Services will be in the English language.

"Prayer" will be the subject of the morning service at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow morning. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring will preach. There will be no evening service.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES

Some recent additions to the "New Book Shelves":

Abbott, Lyman.—"Reminiscences."

"A record of impressions of some of the personages and incidents of a somewhat busy but not adventurous life."

Barr, Amelia E.—"Three Score and Ten."

"Mrs. Barr does not believe that the best days of life are gone with the departure of youth, and she has found to her own satisfaction that age is not reckoned by years—but that 'it is the heart that makes us young or old.'"

Brooke, Rupert.—Collected Poems.

"No other poet of our generation could write—or at any rate has written—sonnets equal to those grouped under the title '1914,' especially 'The Soldier.'"

Converse, Florence.—"Story of Wellesley."

"The author says: 'It is the story of the Wellesley her daughters and lovers know that I have tried to tell; the Wellesley of serious purpose, consecrated to noble ideals of Christian scholarship.'"

Hodges, George.—"Henry Codman Potter, Seventh Bishop of New York."

"We have in Dean Hodges' book not so much a personal portrait as a chapter from the annals of the Protestant Episcopal Church, though it is a chapter in which the personality of Bishop Potter stands conspicuously forth."

Kerofilas, Dr. C.—"Eleftherios Venizelos, His Life and Work."

"A biography and appraisement of this great Greek political leader. The fate of the Balkans still depends largely on the return of Venizelos to political power."

Masters, Edgar Lee.—"Spoon River Anthology."

"Spoon River is in Illinois, and in the two hundred and more sketches—perhaps they can be called poems only by courtesy—that make up this volume the author reproduces the life of the community, its ugliness, its vulgarity, its hypocrisy, its depravity, and, more rarely, its nobility and beauty."

Muir, John.—"Travels in Alaska."

"The pages of description glow with a wonderful fervor. The reader is reminded in manner of some of the best passages of Thoreau, but exceeding even them in richness of descriptive imagery.'

Shaw, Anna Howard. "Story of a Pioneer."

"The book is the record told with great frankness of a life that has been crowded with varied activities and courage."

Thayer, William Roscoe.—"Life and Letters of John Hay" (2 vol.).

"The most distinctive feature of the 'Life and Letters' is, perhaps, the sense it gives of the time-spirit as transmitted through the personality of one man. John Hay's life seems to epitomize the inward feeling of the period through which he lived."

Usher, Roland Greene.—"Challenge of the Future: a Study in American foreign policy."

"The causes of war, as he sees them, are economic, and the American policy which he advocates as the first essential to national defense must take account of our economic position and its disabilities.'

Wald, Lillian D.—"House on Henry Street."

"The book, like Miss Addams' story of Hull House, is a record of twenty years of settlement activity. One of the most important of recent sociological books."

Washburn, Charles Grenfill.—"Theodore Roosevelt: the logic of his career."

"This is in no sense a history or even a finished sketch. It is a record of personal impressions, fortified by such facts as would seem to justify conclusions."

The Ducklings Did as They Were Told.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — Mother Duck Takes Her Brood For a Walk.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"WHEN a mother duck hatched all but one of her eggs," daddy began the bedtime story, "she patiently sat down on her nest to keep the biggest egg of all warm till it went 'Cheep, cheep!' And out tumbled the youngster at last! Oh, how big and ugly he was! The mother duck looked him all over and shook her head. 'That's a monstrous big duckling! None of the others looked like that! Can he be a turkey chick? We shall soon find out! Into the water he shall go if I have to push him in!'

"The next day was fine, and the sun shone on all the dock leaves around the nest. So the mother duck and all her ducklings went down to the moat for a swim. Splash! Into the water she sprang. 'Quack, quack!' she called, and one after another of the baby ducks plumped into the moat. Over their heads splashed the water, but one by one they came up again and floated off beautifully. Their legs went without being taught. Even the big ugly one was there and swam about with the others.

"'That's no turkey,' said the mother duck to herself. 'See how beautifully he uses his legs and how straight he holds himself! He is my own chick! He's not so bad when you look at him, after all. Quack, quack! Come with me and I will introduce you to the duck yard. But keep close to me all the time, so no one will tread on you, and beware of the cat.'

"Then the mother duck took her children into the duck yard. There was a dreadful uproar going on, for two broods were fighting for the head of an eel, and in the end the cat got it. 'That's how things go in this world,' said the mother duck. And she licked her bill, for she wanted the eel's head herself.

"'Use your legs!' she cried to her big brood. 'Mind your quack and bend your necks to the old duck over there. She's the grandest of them all, and she has Spanish blood in her veins. That's what makes her so big, and do you see? She has a red rag around her leg. That's a wonderfully fine thing—the greatest honor a duck can have. It shows she is not to be parted with and that she is worthy to be known by beasts and men. Quack now! Don't turn your toes in! A well bred duckling keeps his legs wide apart, just like father and mother. That's it! Now bend your necks and say quack!'

"The ducklings all did just as their mother told them. But all the other ducks in the yard looked at them and said: 'Now we have another tribe! There was enough of us already. Look at that ugly one! We won't stand him!' And they flew at him and bit him on the neck," daddy ended.

Household Hints..

HOW TO SERVE POTATOES

Serve potatoes plain boiled only when new.

With roast meat serve potatoes mashed, or roasted in the pan with the meat.

With fricasseed meats serve baked potatoes.

With boiled steak serve creamed potatoes with a crisp fried vegetable like eggplant.

With roast pork serve baked potatoes, a green vegetable and a sour apple sauce.

With roast chicken serve mashed potatoes, onions and a sour jelly.

With roast lamb serve mashed potatoes, green peas or string beans, and a mint sauce.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To moisten and cleanse the air of a home heated by hot air, suspend a sponge from each register, by a string about six inches from the floor. Each day moisten the sponges just enough to not drip. Registers in the baseboard or on side wall can have sponge on outside, or a small one which can be pushed through.

To Seal Coverless Jars—Cut paper big enough to go well down over top and sides, then take white of fresh egg, put on paper, spread on table, smooth over jar and tie real tight with string; put more egg on, but be sure there are no wrinkles in paper on edge of jar. Let dry and repeat three times. Tie dry paper over and put away. Use wrapping paper that is not too heavy.

FOR FLOWER LOVERS

Place a hyacinth bulb in the center of a good-sized sponge in a dish; keep sponge constantly wet. After bulb is well started scatter some grass seed over surface of sponge.

Plant slips of begonias and geraniums now. With careful nursing you can have some fine plants for Christmas. A nice plant is always an acceptable and appreciated gift, and it costs practically nothing if raised by yourself.

THE TABLE

Eggs Creamed on Toast—Eggs creamed on toast are economical even when eggs are expensive. Prepare a plain but smooth and thoroughly cooked cream sauce. Use five hard cooked eggs for a family of seven. Slice into two cups of white sauce well seasoned, and serve on toast.

Carrots With Cream Sauce—Slice carrots in thin rings and cook in as little water as possible without burning. Add butter and salt and serve with a cream sauce flavored with grated nutmeg.

Minced Cranberry Sauce—One quart of cranberries, minced fine; cover with two cups of cold water and cook half an hour. Add three cups of granulated sugar and cook until sugar is dissolved, then turn into an earthen bowl. Let stand and chill.

Honey Cookies—One-half cup butter, three-quarters cup sugar, one egg and one yolk, one cup strained honey, grated rind of one lemon, three cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder. Cream butter, sugar and eggs together, add other ingredients. The dough should be firm enough to be easily handled—(so add a little more if necessary). Knead slightly a little at a time. Roll into a thin sheet and cut in cakes. Set the shapes in a buttered pan, beat the white of an egg (left over for that purpose) a little, and use it to brush over the cookies in the pan, then sprinkle on some finely chopped blanched almonds and dredge with granulated sugar.

Bavarian Cream—One-half can shredded pineapple, one-quarter pint cold water, one-half cup sugar, one-quarter pint hot water, one-quarter box gelatine, one-half pint cream. Let sugar and pineapple come to boil. Soak gelatine in cold water, then add hot water. Stir until dissolved. Let cool, whip cream, add gelatine and pineapple. Put in cool place. Stir twice while cooling.

Delicate Ham—Two slices of smoked ham, two tablespoons brown sugar, one tablespoon mustard, two cups milk. Blend sugar and mustard, rub well over both sides of ham; place in pan; cover with milk and bake in slow oven one hour. Serve with the sauce left in the pan. This is also nice prepared as a roast, baking four hours.

Brown Betty — Apples, bread crumbs, butter, sugar, cinnamon; pare and dice six apples, butter a baking dish, put layers of apples, sugar, cinnamon, butter and crumbs, until you have the desired quantity; add a small cup of hot water and bake until apples are tender. Serve with or without cream.

NO REGISTRY DAY FOR THE PRIMARY

Provision is Made for Filing Affidavits With City Clerk up to Midnight Tonight.

There will be no registry day for primary election day for Presidential delegates to be held on Tuesday, April 25, but registers must be revised by the election officers previous to April 15 today. Additions to the registry shall be made only upon the filing with the election board of a certificate procured from the municipal clerk, which shall be issued by him on or before 12 o'clock tonight. Those entitled to file such affidavits with municipal clerks are as follows:

Those who moved into the district; those who have attained the age of 21 since last general election; those who claim citizenship, through naturalization since the last general election; those who claim citizenship through the naturalization of either parent since the last general election.

The sample ballots and envelopes will be ready for distribution this evening at the office of the city clerk.

WILL PRINT TENTATIVE BUDGET ON MONDAY

Members of the finance committee of the Common Council worked for some time last night on the tentative budget and it is announced that this statement will be ready for publication by Monday. A public hearing will be held Thursday evening of next week, and Mayor Calkins and other officials want every citizen to get acquainted with figures so that they can attend this meeting and voice their opinions. The Daily Press will print the tentative budget Monday afternoon.

PINE MOUNTAIN ASS'N WILL GIVE A DANSANT

A dansant will be given Saturday afternoon, April 29, at 3:30, in the Hartridge Auditorium, for the benefit of the Pine Mountain Association. Frantzen's orchestra will furnish the music, and a feature of the entertainment will be two sets of country dances, which are similar to those danced by the mountaineers. Those taking part in the latter are Mrs. H. C. McMillen, Mrs. Maxwell Perkins, Miss Dorothy Burke, Miss Margaret Buttfield, W. Righter, D. Fullerton, A. Buttfield and B. McCutcheon. The object of the Pine Association is to raise money to help support a school for the poor whites in the mountains of Kentucky.

Exercises To Reduce Large Waist

A small waist is not an impossible attainment for any woman if she is willing to work to secure it. That she must exercise vigorously, however, there is no doubt, yet the treatment is not one to be dreaded.

Intelligent dressing will help, too. For instance, there must be no fulness in belts or yokes. No woman who is trying to make herself look slender, when she is naturally stout, should have a particle of fulness of any kind in the garment she wears. Each one should be fitted with the exactness of an outer waist.

The Diet.

Having arranged in this fashion, it remains to put on corset covers, etc., properly, that is, all underclothes, except the drop skirt, are to be worn beneath the stays. This secures smoothness and closeness over the hips, and the tight clinging of a jersey topped silk petticoat, will not add an inch to the circumference.

To know what kind of stays a woman should use she has but to go to any corsetiere or corset department for an expert's opinion.

Having raiment properly adjusted it behooves the devotee of the small waist to go into training. It would be well to avoid all but the very simple sweets, and to eat those only in moderation. Liquids at meals must be abandoned, taking them not later than half an hour before eating, and not sooner than half an hour after dining.

For example, nothing yet invented is better than a few of the old exercises that require no paraphernalia, since only persistency and regularity on the part of her who tries them bring success. This work is to be done morning and night, when no restricting bands and no corsets are worn. It is an advantage to have the window open, or to so arrange the windows that there shall be plenty of fresh air in the room. Then deep breathing through the nostrils must be part of the treatment.

First, one may sit astride a chair, facing the back, which should be firmly held. The object is to try to twist the body as far around as it can go without moving in the seat. It will be readily understood that if the lower part of the body moves no benefit is derived, because there is then no pull on the waist, as there will be by a good twist. This pulling and twisting should be done three or four minutes at first. As one grows accustomed to it the number of times can be increased.

The next movement is to stand erect with the knees stiff, and try to bend until the finger tips touch the floor. This has been told so very many times that it seems as though all must know of it but there seems to be nothing better.

If the knees bend the force of the exercise is lost, for there will be no stretch. It is not expected that a novice will be able to reach the floor the first time of trying, or even the first week, but it is wonderful how one's flexibility will increase with practice and how the girth will be lessened.

A third exercise is to lie flat on the back and raise first one leg and then the other in such a way as to make a pull from the back and hips. The knee should remain straight.

After this it is well to stand and, lifting one foot, bend the knee, clasp the limb below the knee and try to hug it, bringing it close to the chest. The smaller the waist becomes the nearer will the knee come to the chin.

It is not likely that a beginner can do these exercises for more than ten minutes at a time without feeling fatigued, and it is a mistake to become overtired. A little does not hurt, but exhaustion should be voided.

As muscles grow stronger the length of time can be increased until twenty minutes night and morning is none too much.

Use Oils for a Hair Tonic

Oils, besides neutralizing the condition of dryness and making the hair easier to handle, have the added virtue of toning properties, and if it is massaged into the scalp the coiffure will take on a smooth glossy appearance that is really beautiful.

A tonic of this kind, excellent to use during the winter, when the cold makes the hair dry and brittle, is made from 16 ounces of pure cologne and two ounces of castor oil. Far from being greasy or unpleasant, this mixture is easily put on and has a most agreeable odor.

When the hair is dry and hard in texture a stimulating mixture to use may be made from one and one-half ounces of cocoanut oil, two and a quarter drams of tincture of nux vomica, one ounce of bay rum and 20 drops of oil of bergamot. This tonic should be gently rubbed with the finger tips into divisions made along the scalp.

Nothing will so subtly cause the hair to turn gray as an absence of nourishing oils, and it is for this reason that tonics containing such ingredients are invaluable.

COURTSHIP IN SOUTH AMERICA.

A very curious method of courting is adopted by the Kaparos, a tribe of South America. The love-stricken young man goes out hunting, and on his return throws his game at the feet of the woman on whom he has set his affections. If she takes up the game, lights the fire, and commences to cook, he knows his suit is accepted; if not, he

BROWNING COOKIES.

It is almost impossible to brown cookies and biscuits when baking on an oil stove unless they are baked on a flat tin without sides.

The round, flat tins that come in the top of lard cans are just the thing, but a common pot lid will answer. Try it if you use an oil or even a gas stove and you will be delighted.

THE DANGER OF THE NAGGING WIFE

If you have met the wife who nags, you know the reason of a great many unhappy marriages. She is the mother whose children are out on the streets first in the morning. They are glad to get out of the house. Her husband is the earliest man at the office and the last one to leave at night. He hates to come home.

She makes the atmosphere of an icehouse seem agreeable by contrast to the frigidity of her neighborhood. She kills all affection, all kindly interest and sympathy by exposing them to the blight and chill that she creates.

A newspaper laid on a chair, cigar ashes dropped on a lapel, a spot of gravy on the table cloth, a boyish burst of enthusiasm, anything, everything provokes her habit of nagging to activity.

No man of any spirit will endure the society of a nagging wife, even if his sense of duty does make him pay her bills. He is justified in seeking to forget his troubles outside of his home. Has it never occurred to you that a good many men careless of the moral obligations are wife made? They are often the finished work of the nagging wife. Rasped till they are sore mentally, goaded constantly by the rebukes and remonstrances that greet every small defection from the wife prescribed rules of conduct, they fly to any experiment, any diversion, any source that affords them relief or forgetfulness.

A man whose wife nags never feels at home in his own house. He is afraid he will kick up the corner of the rug or turn the gas too high.

He is continually dodging a nagging.

Is it any wonder that, between the discomfort of expecting the nag and the misery of getting it, he is driven to any excess, any change?

The woman who nags is honeycombing the very foundations of her marriage structure with the burrowing evil that will cause it to collapse. She should take herself in hand before it is too late.

As she values her home, her husband's love, her children's respect, she should break herself of the habit that will, without the shadow of a doubt, rob her of all she loves.

The first precaution to take against nagging is to learn the value of silence.

We hear a great deal to-day about the art of conversation, but how about art of silence? It is much more difficult to know how to keep quiet than how to talk.

"The cure" so much spoken of to-day is no doubt a good thing for the weary body, but the "tongue cure" is equally important. Rest for that little member of the body would often prove not only a most healthful tonic for the individual, but also a welcome sedative for the peace and happiness of the entire house. Carlyle says, "Speech is human, silence is divine."

It is a great deal easier to speak than it is to be quiet, and especially at such times when "silence is golden." To be provoked and greatly annoyed, to be misunderstood and misrepresented, to have your motives impugned and be misjudged, and yet preserve silence, is more than human—it is divine.

Of course, it is more than difficult to hold one's tongue under provocation, and especially is the wife and mother, with her worries and her cares, apt to find relief in speech, sometimes sharp and acid.

The children are fretful; the dinner is overcooked; John comes home late from the office; everything goes wrong; and the wife, as a result, takes her anxiety out in cross words that wound the hearts of those she loves beyond repair. She falls into the habit of nagging at things, little and big, until she makes her presence dreaded in the nice, happy family circle.

Of course, every wife considers it her duty to make her husband's home happy. To do so she must make out a set of rules, one of which will read: Don't nag.

Fishes That Change Color

Observations on the adaptation of fishes to the shade, color and pattern of their surroundings have been made at biological stations.

The quickness and completeness of the changes are especially notable in flounders. In glass vessels these fishes became nearly white on a white ground, and also became adapted to various colors, red being the exception.

Patterns were not exactly imitated, though fine and coarse patterns of the ground produced fine and coarse patterns in the skin. Change from white to black took place in two minutes in a flounder that had been frequently changed from white to black pans, but after two weeks in a white pan the change to maximum blackness required five days in a black pan. To change from black to white always required an hour or more, color changes being still slower, the taking on of yellow being more rapid than that of green or blue.

HIGH SCHOOL NINES' OPENING.

The baseball openings of the two high school nines are pleasant surprises. Not because N. P. H. S. was badly beaten by a team of older opponents at Seton Hall, or because P. H. S. won from some Trenton nine, but because each team showed up best in that department in which it was thought to be weakest—pitching.

Captain Dilts in holding the Seton Hall batsmen at bay probably faced a collection of hitters about as dangerous as any he will be called on to face in schoolboy ranks this year, while Victorson's one-hit exhibition is equally encouraging, even though the Trenton bunch he twirled against is not famous for breaking fences.

Given good pitching, both schools will have a season of well played games. Their basketball teams were below par this term, and whether the same will be true of the baseball nines depends mostly on the calibre of the box work.

Two golfers were playing the Westfield links one day this week. It was the first time they had played since last fall, and they were consequently out of training. Corpulency due to hibernal inactivity, added to the naturally fatiguing hills of the Westfield links, took all the wind of one player. "Gosh! I'm tired," he complained. "My feet feel heavy as lead." Then looking down at the mud protectors over his shoes, and the quantity of soft mother earth clinging to them, he diagnosed: "It's these rubbers that make me tired."

"Oh! Yes, rubber-tired," perpetrated his opponent, as he walked on the winter green and holed a putt for a nine—and a half.

WHITNEY AND SANDS REACH COURT TENNIS DOUBLES

One form reversal developed yesterday in the playing of the semi-final round of the national court tennis championship in doubles at the Racquet and Tennis Club, New York. Payne Whitney and Charles E. Sands defeated Joshua Crane and George R. Fearing in a thrilling five-set match and upset pre-tournament anticipations. Crane and Fearing were the ones to contest the final round a year ago against Gould and Huhn, the victors, and it was thought that the two teams would meet again in the present tournament.

Whitney and Sands did not have easy going on the road to victory, but they finally won an uphill struggle at 1—6, 2—6, 6—2, 6—4, 7—5. Gould and Huhn came through in the other semi-final match, defeating C. S. Cutting and L. Waterbury in straight sets at 6—3, 6—2, 6—1.

WILLIE PARKS, BRITISH GOLF PRO, IS OVER HERE

Willie Park, winner of the British open golf championship in 1887 at Prestwick and at Musselburgh in 1889, arrived in this country yesterday from Liverpool on the St. Paul. Park made an extended tour of this country two decades ago, but this time it is probable that he will locate here for business purposes. He is a past master in the art of laying out golf courses, and will undertake this work in this country. Park was for many years the professional at the Musselburgh links, where he won his second championship. His father, Willie Park, Sr., was even more famous as a golfer in his day, having won the first open championship ever played—the contest over the Prestwick course in 1860, and he subsequently won the title on two more occasions.

BILL M'KECHNIE SECURED BY GIANTS TO PLAY THIRD

William McKechnie, third baseman and former manager for the Newark Federals, will report to the New York Nationals. McKechnie belongs to Harry Sinclair, former owner of the Newark Federals, but he was loaned to the St. Louis Americans for the spring training season.

When Hans Lobert, the Giants regular third baseman, was injured in the Yale game, Manager McGraw tried Brainard at third base, but he did not come up to the requirements. The only other player available for the place was Hunter, who is so inexperienced that another player was absolutely necessary. Lobert's leg has been placed in a plaster cast, and it is doubtful whether he will ever be a useful player again.

McKechnie has had a lot of experience in the major leagues, having played with Pittsburgh and the New York Yankees. His batting with both of these clubs was only ordinary. McKechnie played second base until he joined the Newark Federal League club last year, when he went to third.

When Bill Phillips was deposed as Newark's manager, McKechnie was appointed in his place. He played in 117 games at third base and had a fielding average of .956. He had 226 assists and nineteen errors. McKechnie's batting average was .257. He had 22 two-base hits to his credit and stole 30 bases.

The Giants will play in Newark tomorrow, opening the season with Fred Tenney's Newark International League club. Kauff, Rariden and Rousch, who were Federal League favorites, will be in the Giants' line-up. The game will be played at Wiedenmayer's Park.

SPRINTER UNEARTHED AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Wilson Field Pressing Bill Daniels for Laurels of Fastest Man on Team.

In his search for a relay team that will stand a chance of winning in the Penn. relays at Philadelphia on April 28 and 29, John G. Noll, who has been coaching the Plainfield High School track candidates for several weeks, seems to have found a man who may develop into a runner that will carry the Red and Blue a long way on the cinder path. Wilson Field, a Sophomore, has been showing bursts of speed under the eye of Coach Noll that leaves "Bill" Daniels, the colored flyer, in the rear. "Bill" has been credited with doing the 100-yards in ten seconds, and so easy has it been for him to beat high school opposition that it was a great surprise when Field beat him on Parker Field the other afternoon.

Field seems to be at his best in the 220-yard dash, but no time for him at that distance is known, as Mr. Noll is carefully hiding it. Only about five feet and a half tall, Field tips the scales at 130 pounds.

A keen rivalry has sprung up between Field and Daniels now, which should do a great deal to put the two in condition. Daniels was timed last year in 53 seconds for the quarter-mile, and it is pretty safe to say that Field will be able to do it in those figures also. To stand any great chance of winning in the relays, that will draw teams from schools all over the East, all four men on the team should be able to do the quarter in at least 55 seconds, but with Daniels and Fields practically certain of doing better than that, and with Trowbridge, Francher, O'Donnell and Miller to chose the other two berths from, Plainfield's chances seem to be getting brighter.

TO TURN OVER MILITIA.

Bay State House Passes Bill to Permit Federalization.

Boston, April 15.—Massachusetts, through its legislative bodies, declared in no uncertain terms for national preparedness.

At the close of a long debate bristling with patriotism the house suspended the rules and passed the bill to permit of the federalization of the Massachusetts militia. This is the first action of this kind taken by any state in the Union.

Woman Dead, Hostess Dying.

New York, April 15.—A woman believed to have been Mrs. George Hodge of 108 Eagle street, Albany, N. Y., is dead and her hostess, Mrs. Margaret Lahah, an actress, of 245 West Fifty-first street, is near death from taking some drug the nature of which has not been ascertained. The police believe the poisoning of both women to have been accidental.

SUGGESTS CITIZENS' MASS MEETING

West End Civic Ass'n Discusses Use of Tabernacle for Such a Gathering.

Officers were elected and there was a presentation of interesting reports for the year at the annual meeting of the West End Civic Association held in the Washington School last night. Jacob Sachar proposed in a resolution that after the Biederwolf evangelistic campaign is over that the association take the initiative in holding a mass meeting in the Tabernacle with the co-operation of all the civic bodies, the Mayor and City Council combined. Mr. Sachar's idea is to have this meeting to discuss matters of general interest to the city and the subject of public parks.

The resolution was discussed and finally referred to the executive committee to prepare ways and means to bring about such a mass meeting, and to consult with other civic bodies.

These officers were elected for the coming year: President, Thomas C. Vail; vice-president, Joseph Edgar; secretary-treasurer, William J. Boyd; trustees for one year: John J. Carroll, Thomas C. Vail, William J. Boyd, F. S. Power and William W. Robison. The president named the following committees for the year:

Executive.—Thomas C. Vail, Joseph Edgar, John J. Carroll, George H. Fisher, Jr., William J. Boyd, W. W. Robison, F. S. Power, Frank A. Weeks, R. S. Louis, Frank G. Wikoff; public utility, George H. Fisher, Jr., chairman; W. W. Gallaway, William McComb; public safety, Frank A. Weeks, Dr. P. B. Cregar, David L. Coleman; public works, Frank G. Wikoff, Thomas F. Hylan, J. F. Wharton; law and finance, John J. Carroll, William W. Robison, Jacob Sachar; education, W. W. Robison, F. W. Cook, Richard A. Claybrook; membership and entertainment, R. S. Louis, Joseph Edgar, F. S. Power; community centre, F. S. Power, John J. Carroll, R. S. Louis, Joseph Edgar, George H. Fisher, Jr., Richard A. Claybrook and John J. Praed.

The executive committee will meet at the home of President Vail, 927 West Fourth street, Friday evening, April 28.

ARRESTED HIMSELF.

Emile Lacours, of 229 Somerset street, arrested himself for being intoxicated last night, when he pushed his way into borough headquarters and insisted upon being locked up. Finally, Chief Weiss complied with his request. He will be given a hearing before Recorder Fred Hand tonight.

INJURED HIS FINGER.

George B. Stewart, who runs a blacksmith shop on Chatham street, is incapacitated with a finger cut by a nail while shoeing a horse yesterday. The finger was dressed by Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan.

FIRE IN BINGHAMTON.

Binghamton, N. Y., April 15.—Fire this morning destroyed three four-story business houses near Chenango and Eldredge streets. Several persons were injured.

Kenneth Weyant, of Newburg, who formerly worked at the Trembath Press, in the borough, returned to his old position today.

LOCAL MEN TO JUDGE AT SPRING DOG SHOWS

P. K. C. May Hold Dinner Instead of Smoker—Much Interest Over Cup.

Four Plainfield Kennel Club members will judge at spring shows. A. C. Wilmerding will judge spaniels at the Gwenedd Valley Kennel Club show to be held at Ambler, May 27; G. Fred Neilson will judge sporting spaniels at the Nassau show; and John J. fixture at Belmont Park, May 20; F. N. Anderson will pass judgment on Russian wolfhounds, Irish wolfhounds, Scottish deerhounds and greyhounds at the Nsaau show; and John J. O'Donohue will judge foxhounds on May 6 for the Richmond County Kennel Club, at Grant City.

No date for the Plainfield Kennel Club smoker has yet been chosen. The committee is seriously considering holding a dinner instead of a smoker.

Interest is being aroused over the season competition in which the members of the club will vie for a handsome $50 cup to be given for the greatest number of winner's points won at American Kennel Club fixtures during the fiscal show year ending with the Westminster fixture in New York. Points will be credited for the showing of all the dogs of any one owner, not for one special dog, as many have believed. The first A. K. C. fixtures will be the Nassau show at Belmont Park and the Devon show at Devon, Pa., on May 20.

BOROUGH COUPLE TWENTY YEARS WED

Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Weaver, of Lincoln Place, Celebrate the Event.

In the presence of fifty relatives and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Weaver, of 39 Lincoln place, celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their wedding last evening. The actual date of the anniversary was March 18, and the celebration was to have been held then, but illness caused a postponement. The home was attractively decorated for the occasion with American flags and bunting. The evening was spent in playing games and having a general social time. Refreshments were served about 12 o'clock.

Mrs. Weaver received many presents of china and glassware. Twelve friends gave her a beautiful dinner set of 100 pieces. An aunt, Mrs. Hannah Hodge, who is making her home with Mrs. John Judson, of 313 John street, gave her a china pitcher, a relic of a hundred years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver were married at the home of the bride's father, Charles H. Smith, 613 John street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, then pastor of the Trinity Reformed church.

The couple commenced housekeeping at 316 New street and they have never lived out of the city or borough. On May 1 they will move from their present residence to 15 Chatham street.

Mr. and Mrs. Weaver have four sons and one daughter, the oldest of whom is 19 and the youngest 7½ years. They are both members of the Trinity Reformed church, and are highly respected by all who know them.

Mr. Weaver is a mechanic at the Scott Press Works, where he has worked with the exception of a couple of years since learning his trade. The family tree gives the information that his great grandfather, who came to this country about 200 years ago, was the son of a French nobleman.

GIVEN NINETY DAYS.

William Garrigle, an old offender, was arrested on Somerset street at 6 o'clock last evening by Officer Pope, on a charge of being drunk and acting in a disorderly manner, and this morning before Recorder Hand he was given a sentence of ninety days, which was suspended upon condition that he leave town within a half hour. He promised to do this and was let go. Garrigles was arrested by Officer Pope, who had been sent to the scene by Chief Weiss in response to a telephone message that Garrigle was holding up people and striking them on the back with a satchel.

American Middleweights Fare Well in Australia

There are at least three notable American middleweights in Kangarooland who seem to be fully satisfied to remain there in clover for some time to come, writes Jack Skelly. They are Eddie McGoorty, Jimmy Clabby and K. O. Brown. Each of them has fought and been defeated by Les Darcy, the pugilistic idol of the Antipodes. But they have won over all other Australians in their class, and, in fact, against some of the heavyweights also.

Skelly says: "These three formidable Yankee boxers have fared well, indeed, in the far-off land, in a financial way, especially. McGoorty alone must have increased his bank account at east $50,000 by his milling in that foreign country, and he does not seem a bit anxious to leave it just at present for home, sweet home. Clabby has also added quite a pile of golden shekels to his already comfortably big bankroll, and is hustling for another combat with Darcy, which Promoter "Snowy" Baker is most liable to give him, without much clatter. Jimmy seems to be again in great battling form, for quite recently he displayed his brilliant ring ability by defeating Fritz Holland most decisively, in a most scientific and gallant style.

"K. O. Brown, in three of his recent combats, drew down something like $7,000, and that is probably more coin than he would corral here for a like number of fights at present.

"So the three Yankee ringsters are evidently reaping quite a golden harvest by their classy milling in the Land of the Kangaroo. They are evidently not a bit homesick for the Stars and Stripes.

"I wish them all the best of luck and hope they will return to us full of healthful fighting stamina, fistic honors and money galore. They deserve all that is coming to them.

"Now that Les Darcy is absolutely out of the middleweight class by his increased poundage, and is really the heavy or lightweight champion of Australia, I consider that our Jack Dillon is the most formidable opponent for him to combat in a twenty-round mill. They can both make the same weight and are of the same type of aggressive, hard hitting battlers. Although born many thousands of miles apart, they are of the Irish fighting race. Jack stands 5 feet 7½ inches in height, which is an inch and a half taller than the Australian champion. But in general appearance they greatly resemble one another, both in face and physique. In fact, they might pass for brothers in or out of the ring. And what a stiff, hard, gruelling battle they would certainly put up. It would be no pink tea, stalling match, believe me; but a slashing, game, strenuous fight in everp respect.

"The American has never as yet suffered a knockout and has a splendid long list of victories within the ropes. Jeff Smith put a haymaker over on the gritty Australian in their first combat, but Les is far more proficient in the manly art at present. When Smith knocked out Darcy he had not so much fistic experience or knowledge of the game as he has acquired since, by constant, severe milling.

"If 'Snowy' Baker can induce Dillon to make the trip to the Antipodes and meet Darcy, the Australian fans will certainly witness one of the greatest fistic battles of modern times.

"I would indeed like to see this pair of husky warriors staged in this country; but there is not much chance of luring Darcy to Yankeeland until after the close of the big war, as Les has joined the Australian aviation corps and may at this moment be on his way to the front.

"Actors and others have special funds set aside for all worthy members who become sick, disabled or too old for active service in their professions. When a boxer becomes unable to earn a livelihood in the ring by illness, injury or old age, he is thrown aside and is soon forten by the thousands of fight fans who formerly sang his praise and made him a hero. This seems rather ungrateful, if not a cold-blooded proceeding, but, nevertheless, it is a fact in a great many cases.

"I read in the Australian boxing papers, for example, that Billy McCarthy, who fought many gallant battles in this country some twenty odd years ago, is in very bad physical shape at Sydney, and in great financial distress.

"McCarthy is probably some sixty years of age and is crippled with rheumatism, and is almost blind. It really seems a great pity that this once great middleweight should be in such absolute need, in the last days of his life, after such a splendid fighting career. I hope that all the old ring-goers who recall Billy's honest milling days within the ring will send a little help for the aged ringster, in care of William F. Corbett, of the Sun, Sydney, N. S. W. That address will reach him, or to 'Snowy Baker,' at Sydney, also.

"But there should be a pugilists' provident fund for all such cases as Bily McCarthy's; for men who spent their best manhood days batting honestly, faithfully and courageously in the ring.

"McCarthy, by the way, is a half-brother of Paddy Gorman, another old-time fighter, who came from Australia years ago as a welterweight. Gorman, however, has been quite fortunate since he retired from the pugilistic arena. He has held a lucrative city position in New York for years, and has gathered in considerable coin, besides, by teaching millionaires the manly art of self-defense."

"THE MEANEST MAN IN THE WORLD"

Sermon of the Rev. W. E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Last Night.

The meanest man in the world lives right here in Plainfield.

The meanest man in the world is the man who won't do what he knows he ought to do. The cowardliest man in the world is the man who is afraid to do it. If the people of Plainfield average up to the rest of the people in the United States, and you look like you do, some of you would swap some of your brains for a little moral backbone and spiritual muscle.

I was talking with a church member the other day, and he was complaining bitterly of the liquor business, which was polluting and damning the town, and I said: "Why don't you stop it?" And he said: "How?" I said: "Remonstrate; it's your privilege by law; get a few men with you and move against it." "Oh," he said, "we can't do that." I said, "Why not?" "Well, we'd get the saloon men and their friends down on us." I said, "What of it?" "Well," he said, "how are we going to live?" I said, "Die!" And he laughed a sickly laugh and said: "I'm not ready to die just yet." And I said, "You're right; I would advise you to keep out of the other world just as long as you can."

Get on the Firing Line.

A man who refuses to sign a remonstrance or to lend his influence against the iniquity damning his community for fear of losing the sale of a few pounds of sugar or yards of calico is as small a piece of manhood as ever walked in breeches. We've got a lot of people in the churches like that. You can sing the songs of Zion all right, pray loud enough to be heard three blocks away, but when it comes to hitting hard blows against the iniquity and damnation that is rife in the community, you are not around, and then when the victory is won, you'll grab at the tail feathers of success, get in the band wagon when the thing becomes popular, and say to the world: "See what we did." I despise a man like that. I like to see people out and out for God and truth and found on the firing line when the fight is the hottest.

This world always has taken off its hat and always will to a brave man, and the bravest man God ever made is the man who will do right at any cost when he knows what is the right thing to do.

When Elijah P. Lovejoy braved the mob rather than be a traitor to his conviction of the black man's rights, he made his name immortal and the world has been singing doxologies of praise to him ever since.

Devotion to Ideals.

At the beginning of the Civil War Robert E. Lee said to Scott: "Although I am in the Union army, if the State of Virginia is for secession, I must throw in my lot with my mother State, and I will bid the Union army farewell."

Robert E. Lee followed that cause which was and became the lost cause. I never heard a man say a mean or contemptible or derogatory thing against Robert E. Lee or Stonewall Jackson.

I have been in the South for months at a time, traveled all over it, and I never heard a man say a mean or contemptible thing against Grant or Lincoln.

Robert E. Lee stood by and saw his cause fall. He stood by and watched it dissolve and disappear in the red, white and blue flag. He stood by and watched the government for which he fought to establish, broken and dismantled like a wreck. There he was with poverty facing him.

Arlington had been confiscated by the government. In that awful hour of trial, that contemptible, damnable octopus of hell, the Louisiana Lottery, offered him the presidency of its institution.

They said:

"General, all we want is your name. You let us use your name and your salary will be $10,000 a year; we will run the business."

Robert E. Lee arose and buttoned that thin gray coat across his shriveled breast, looked squarely in the eyes of the men and said:

"Gentlemen, my good name and good reputation is all I have left now, and they are not for sale. I bid you good morning."

And yet the mothers of generations yet unnumbered will take their children on their knees and tell them the story of brave General Lee; a man not afraid of shot or shell, but better than this, the fearless champion of his own conviction of the truth as he saw it in the fear of God.

Wishy-Washy People.

A brave man—a man who will not lie; a man who scorns the demagogue's art; a man soul-proof to sycophancy; a man who can look the devil straight in the eyes without winking and tell him to go to—his own place. A brave man—I'd rather have a thimbleful of brains if they were of the right quality and have a moral nerve of the proper size at its base than I would to have the brain of a Solomon, a Solon and a Socrates, all combined, than be a wishy-washy, milk-and-water, weak-kneed jellyfish in my moral make-up. "To him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

Now I do not believe there has ever been a man among the heathen of the civilized world who has been without a glimpse of the truth and in whose inner nature there have not been strivings or compunctions of some character which were calculated to lead him on toward the thought which was in the mind of God concerning him, and just in so far as he has neglected or trifled with them, he has come under the condemnation of this text. A knowledge of what you are doing always makes your crime the greater when you are doing wrong. When Jesus was speaking to the Jews about their great sin, which was the sin of unbelief, he said: "If I had not come and told you the truth, you would have no sin, but now," he said, "you have no excuse for your sin." And in response one day to a question by Peter concerning the man who knew his Master's will but neglected to do it, Jesus said: "He shall be beaten with many stripes." I am not going to attempt to interpret those stripes, but if they depended upon the displeasures of God, it fails me to imagine anything more displeasing to Him than over and do it; giving him light only to see him putting it out; speaking words of counsel only to see him stopping his ears; pleading with him by His tender Spirit only to see him harden his heart. "To him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

Idiotic, Senseless Fool.

Oh, my brother, the very consciousness of neglected duty will be your great condemnation, and you, my brother, who are neglecting to accept the Christ, the very knowledge that Jesus died to save you, if it does not lead you to yield yourself to Him, will rise up in Hell to make your judgment more intolerable when the day of His wrath is come. It's just as bad not to do what God tells you as it is to do what God tells you not to do.

"To him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin."

Next this text applies to several different kind of people:

1. It applies in the first place to the man who not only knows to do good and profess to do it, but whose life is a deliberate denial of his profession. I mean the man who steals the livery of the court of heaven to serve the devil—in plain language the brazen-faced hypocrite. A bad man is always bad, but he's worse when he pretends to be a saint. The man who puts the fair glove on a foul hand; the man who prays the loudest in the house of God and then goes out and lives a deliberate lie; the beautiful white sepulchre, but full of corruption and dead men's bones. A hypocrite will always meet you with a smile, but he's got an axe behind him to soak you.

I don't wonder that the world gets disgusted with the church. A man who uses hypocrites as a reason for not becoming a Christian, is a dyed in the wool, idiotic, senseless fool, and is a pretty indication that he is a fraud himself, but finding fault with the church and finding fault with Christianity are two different things and I can't help but have a little patience with the first just because the way so many of you church members live.

Sell Themselves to Devil.

"I despise a man who will pretend to be a church member, and sell himself to the devil. Out in Iowa, some time ago, one of the saints who was an officer in the church, had a steer with a tubercular jaw, and the inspector ordered him to kill it. What do you suppose he did. Kill it? Sure; and dressed it, and sold it to the butcher. He was exposed for his contemptible cussedness, but at last reports was just as religious as ever. Do you wonder that a lot of good-minded people have little interest in an organization with so many members whose professions are damnable lies? Now don't any of you Godless worldlings get to feeling too good because I'm hitting the church bunch. We've got decent people in the church, ten to one, compared to you. The church is the best and purest institution this old world has ever seen or ever will see. There is no other society, secret or otherwise, that can come within a million miles of it or is even worthy to wash its feet, but we've got too many who are sneaking around on hell's territory under the cover of a religious profession, and I don't propose to spare them for a minute. I like to go up against them, or if there is any class of people I have studied, it is the hypocrites, and I detest and loathe and abhor the rotten-hearted scoundrel who will say he is one thing and be another.

World Hates Hypocrites.

My but how this world does hate a hypocrite. What an awful deathbed and what an awful eternity will be his! Listen: "Woe unto the hypocrite. He shall be cut to pieces; he shall be torn asunder, and there shall be none to deliver."

2. In the next place this text applies to the man who is delaying his decision for Jesus Christ. I think it is no exaggeration to say that nine-tenths of the unsaved people with whom you converse will tell you that they know they ought to become Christians and yet so many refuse to do it and say: "Some other time." The fearful thing about this text is that it deals with people who are sinning against light. It is a very strange thing to understand how a man who claims anything for himself can admit that he ought to be a Christian and yet tell you it is a thing to which he will give his attention at some other time.

It is said of Epimonides that with two fatal javelins in his breast, he inquired for his two great lieutenants and was told they were slain. "Then," he replied. "Nothing remains but to make peace with the enemy." There are people who have treated God just that way. When the battle of life has been finished here; when the world has given all it has to offer; when health is gone and death is near, nothing remains but to make peace with God. There are just two things to say concerning such an act as that.

"It's base enough when one never intends to turn to God but is driven to it in his hopelessness and despair, but when one fully intends some day to accept what God has for him in eternity and deliberately delays that decision to indulge in the pleasures of sin for a season there can be, I think, nothing baser or more sinful than that.

But more than this; it is exceedingly dangerous. The road to hell is paved with good intentions. My brother, you ought to be concerned about your soul and what I fear for you is that if you keep on deferring its interests until a more convenient time, that such time may never come for you, and if you continue to neglect God's invitation, to turn a deaf ear to His entreaties, I fear that invitation may be withdrawn with every influence of His Spirit, and what some one has said in verse you will realize in experience:

"I flung away the key that might,
Have open set the golden shrines of day,
But clutch the keys of darkness yet,
I hear the reapers singing, go into God's harvest;
I that with the might have chosen here below,
Grope shuddering at the gates of hell."

Backsliders Are Hideous.

This text applies to the man who once knew God and once professed to love Him, but who has been untrue to his profession and is walking with the world today. This means what we call you man, or you woman, who are now out of communion with God, whom once you vowed to love, honor and obey. You were once recognized in this community as a Christian, but what do people say of you now? They saw you some time ago in a place where the world said if it had been a Christian it wouldn't expect to go. You used to be seen in the house of God on Sundays; where were you seen a few Sundays ago? It may be that you once taught Sunday-school and pointed others to Christ, but you're lost yourself tonight, because you've given yourself up to sin We speak of backsliding in such a slighting fashion that many think it has become an insignificant sin; one scarcely worthy of attention. But to my mind it is one of the worst and most hideous and God uses His strongest language about it to picture His disgust and loathing for this sin.

I can imagine a man being untrue to his lodge, untrue to his wife, damnable and unthinking as it is, but to be untrue to God, untrue to God—

Brother, will you come back to God tonight?

In the fourth place, this text applies to a Christian who is not concerned for the soul of his neighbor.

The Devil and Personal Work.

It seems as though the last thing the devil will let some of you people do is personal work. He'll let you sing in the choir; he'll let you usher: he will let you pass the communion, but he is going to keep you from personal work if there is any power in hell that can do it. Some of you women will sweat and stew and bake a cake and work harder in one week to make some social a success than you'll work for Jesus Christ in one year. Some of you seem to think that church work consists in baking a cake or in getting up an ice cream social when you turn in the alphabet comes around, but if the church spent one-tenth of the time and the energy for Jesus that they do for the things of this sort, they would bring souls to Jesus Christ really by the thousands. Jesus says that the Christians are the salt of the earth. A teacher asked a little boy to tell her what salt was, and he said: "Salt is what makes your potatoes taste bad when you don't put any in." That's what's the matter with the church today. The trouble is we're not concerned.

The trouble is, I say, we're not concerned. Mother, you're not concerned about your children, the children in whose eyes your own image is reflected, for whose sake you neared the portals of death that they might be born into this world, and if their souls are ever kept out of hell it will be because someone else has taken more interest in their spiritual welfare than you. Wife, you're not concerned about your husband.

The trouble is we're not concerned about the things that concerned Jesus Christ, although we profess to have his spirit and call ourselves Christians. We're willing that souls should be lost, and the cause of Christ go down to defeat if only we can live in comfort and convenience, and compromise with the world.

Somewhere I have read a piece of poetry; if I can recall it, it runs like this:

"This I beheld or dreamed in a dream
There spread a cloud of dust along the plain,
And beneath the cloud or in it
There raged a furious battle;
And men yelled and swords were stacked on swords and shields.
A Prince's banner wavered—then staggered backward, hemmed by foes.
A craven hung along the battle's edge and thought,
Had I a sword of keener steel
That blue blade that king's son bears, But this blunt thing! He snapped it and flung it aside,
And lowering crept away and left the field.
Then came the king's son, wounded, sore beset and weaponless,
He saw the broken sword, hilt buried on the broken sand,
And ran and snatched it up, and lifting afresh the battle cry,
He hewed the enemy down and saved a great cause that heroic day."

Oh, son of the King, daughter of the King, get some concern for the King's cause. It's concern that we need and not the opportunity that we lack.

A casket containing the body of a maiden of 19 was carried over the doorstep of a mansion not many weeks ago. The distance to the cemetery was short and the mourners walked slowly and sadly after the carriage containing the relatives. From the gate the casket was borne by six young men to the side of the open grave where it was reverently placed.

Saddest of Funerals.

It was the saddest of funerals; she was the most blithesome of girls and as brilliant as gay. She had been ill for days and delirious from the first seizure until within three hours of death, when she became conscious. The hymn, the prayer, even the benediction, were all mournful as the sounds of the winds on the darkest night at sea. The people stood silent while the grave was slowly filled and then turned to pass away.

Suddenly the teacher of her whose body had been lowered to the damp earth, broke forth into the most hysterical weeping. The pastor perceived her grief, went at once to her and said, "Why do you manifest such unusual sorrow?"

She answered: "A month ago I felt impressed to speak to her of her soul, and of her duty to her Saviour, but I postponed it, and now she has gone."

Then, turning to the pastor, she said: "I hope you have spoken to her?" He was silent and after a while said: "I, too, must confess my sin. When I saw how thoughtless she was becoming; how much more interested in frivolous things, I thought I would speak to her of the Spirit, but I postponed it, and she has gone." They prayed together for forgiveness.

Taking leave of her, he went at once to the house of mourning. There he tenderly asked the parents if they ever conversed with her about yielding her heart to God. The answer was: "On her last birthday we remembered that she was not in the Kingdom, and said we must speak to her, but other things came up and we neglected it, and now she is gone."

Christian people—fathers, mothers, teachers and pastors—can God ever forgive us for the way we have been living?

Yesterday was the first that the tabernacle had been used for an afternoon meeting. Mr. Heaton started the boys and girls in their song service about 3:15, which was taken up with gusto by four hundred lusty throated young people.

Dr. Biederwolf's talk to the young people was intensely interesting and helpful; in fact tears came into the eyes of many of them, and when the evangelist asked for a show of hands of those who wanted him to pray with them that they might live to be better boys and girls and men and women every hand went up.

The evening service was a wonderful one and was very impressive when scores of people came forward and knelt in the sawdust, before the platform, and prayed for their relatives and friends who are not Christians.

"Mac" will be on the job tonight and Mr. Heaton, who has been so ably filling his place, will give way to the little Scotchman. Mr. Heaton is very well liked though and tried a new "stunt" last night by asking those who have lived in Plainfield twenty years to sing the chorus of one of the hymns. The response was fine, but when he called on those to sing it who had lived here fifty years you could have heard a pin drop. Mr. Sluyter suggested that probably none in the audience were fifty years old.

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong led in the opening prayer.

The National Male Quartet were on the hop in the young people's meeting and set the smiles in play on their faces when they sang that already popular southern song, "Heaven."

A "men only" meeting will be held in the Pine Temple at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. Dr. Biederwolf preaches on "The White Life." At the same time in the First Baptist church Mrs. Blake will hold a meeting for "women only."

"Sunny Jim" called on the married women to sing the chorus of one of the hymns last evening and met with surprising results, but when he called on the unmarried women to do the same thing he was forced to say, "You will have to do better or there is no hope for you."

Tonight is the night. The Christian people are going to show their colors and march up Front street to the business section and hold a street meeting, headed by the Dutch Arms Band. In speaking of this parade Dr. Biederwolf said, "For those who will not get in line and march in the street, they had better take their hats and go home and get to bed."

There will be a union young people's service in the Tabernacle tomorrow night at 6:30.

Dr. Biederwolf spoke of the fine offering which was taken Thursday evening. By the way, it took only one minute and ten seconds to take the offering last night.

Dr. Biederwolf warned the "worldlings" not to be laughing up their sleeve at the church people who are "getting theirs" now, because the time is soon coming when they will "get theirs."

BIG PARADE TO FOLLOW AFTER TONIGHT'S SERVICE

Dr. Biederwolf will talk on "The Home" at tonight's service. The meeting will begin promptly at 7:30, but will be dismissed early so that all who attend may march with the evangelistic party to the corner of Madison avenue and Front street for a short public meeting. The parade will be led by the Dutch Arms Band of Trinity Reformed church, which has been designated the official band for all Tabernacle services. Dr. Biederwolf expects at least 2,000 marchers. The street service will be short. After a band selection, a song by the chorus-choir and one from the quartet, Dr. Biederwolf will make a short address.

This afternoon the National Quartet will sing at Woodhull-Martin, Tepper's and the Kresge stores in the shopping district.

TRADES COUNCIL ACCEPTS BIEDERWOLF'S INVITATION

The Building Trades Council, at its regular meeting last night, accepted the invitation of the Biederwolf committee to attend service at the tabernacle in a body. May 5 was fixed upon as the date, and the matter was referred to the various union locals for separate action. Each one of the latter will arrange its own part of the gathering, and the men will march to the Tabernacle in a body after meeting in the Trades Council rooms. The action of Simon Hirsch in employing non-union carpenters to do the work at his new store on Watchung avenue was brought to the attention of the council through its business agent. As the work already done and that under way is unfair, it was decided to permit no union local men of other crafts to go on the job. It was reported that the Federal postoffice situation, relative to a conference with one of the sub-contractors over the alleged unfair plumbing, was in the same condition as last week. The remainder of the evening session was devoted to routine business.

"HOME RULE" COMMISSION NAMED BY GOV. FIELDER

Trenton, April 15.—Governor Fielder yesterday appointed the members of the commission to revise and codify the statutes relating to cities and other municipalities as provided in an act introduced by Senator McCran.

The appointees are former City Counsel Edward F. Merrey, of Paterson, Leon Abbett of Jersey City, former attorney for Weehawken township, and City Counsel Francis A. Stanger, Jr., of Bridgeton.

The McCran act provides that the commissioners shall receive a salary of $2,500. The measure was introduced as a substitute for affirmative action upon the party platform plank on home rule. It is part of the plan of the commission to formulate laws giving municipalities a larger measure of autonomy than they now possess.

COLLECTION $104.49.

Last night's collection totaled $104.49. The amount is much less than that of the evening before, when the crowd was approximately as large. The total for the week is more than $1,800, or more than one-fifth of the expenses of the campaign.

CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE CALLED.

A meeting of the general campaign committee for the Biederwolf evangelistic services has been called for Monday afternoon. It will be held in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. Many important features of the work are to be discussed.

Bullets From Biederwolf

"The meanest man in the world is the man who won't do what he knows he ought to do."

"I mean the man who steals the livery of the Court of Heaven to serve the Devil—in plain language the frozen-faced hypocrite."

"I can imagine a man being untrue to his lodge, untrue to his business obligations, untrue to his wife, damnable and unthinking as it is, but to be untrue to God, untrue to God—."

"Too many of us are willing that souls should be lost and the cause of Christ go down to defeat if only we can live in comfort and convenience, and compromise with the world."

"Christian people, fathers, mothers, teachers and pastors, can God ever forgive us for the way we are living?"

TRIANGLE DEBATE RESULTS IN TIE

P. H. S., Battin and Trenton High Schools Each Win and Lose in Competition.

HONORS ABOUT EVEN

Plainfield's Affirmative Team Victorious Here, But Negative Side is Defeated at Elizabeth — Other Results.

Plainfield High School's teams lost and won in their debates with Trenton and Battin High Schools last night in the Triangle Debating League. Both debates were very close. The advantage of being at home and a slight lead in delivery gave the P. H. S. affirmative team an advantage in its debate with Trenton in the local High School auditorium, but although two of the team that represented Plainfield in the Rutgers College League were on the negative team, Battin, arguing on the affirmative side, received the judges' decision at Elizabeth.

Both the Plainfield and Trenton teams, in their debate here, advanced some good arguments supported with practical examples, but when it came to the rebuttals Dickerman Williams, in presenting Plainfield's side, gave a better address than did James Dorsy, his opponent.

The Plainfield team was composed of Dickerman Williams, leader; Joseph Gallagher, Caryl Dunavan and Warren Mumford, alternate, while the Trenton team included James Dorsy, leader; Herbert Janzlick, Jean Chanese and Harold Brigham, alternate. Lindsey Best, High School principal, was the chairman and the judges were D. Fred Aungst, principal of North Plainfield High School; William E. Ackerman, of Somerville, and Charles Warfield, of Westfield.

The defeat of the negative team at Battin was a disappointment to local followers, but organization and delivery again was responsible for the decision. Richard Borden, who practically won the South Side debate for Plainfield, nearly succeeded in bringing home another win when he made his rebuttal address, but the lead the home team had secured was not overcome. Miss Edith Davis, a member of the Battin team, made an excellent speech, as did Bernard Ellson.

Harry L. Davis acted as chairman and the judges were James C. Connolly, of the county court; Rev. Dr. Eben Cobb, of Elizabeth, and Dr. Arthur Johnson, superintendent of Union county.

Elizabeth's negative team lost at Trenton to the Capitol City representatives and as a result the debate is a tie with each school having lost and won. It is probable that there will be another debate to decide who gets the loving cup.

Watchung.

Richard L. Kortkamp, of Hillsboro, Ill., will have charge of the morning service in the Wilson Memorial church tomorrow. Rev. Mebane Ramsay will have charge of the evening service, preceded by a song service at 7:45.

"Our motto: 'For Christ and the School'" was the topic chosen by Walter Snoden, yesterday, at the Junior Christian Endeavor meeting. After the meeting, a social was held, the social committee being in charge, Miss Helen MacDonald, being chairman.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Joseph Gavett at "Friendly Farm," on Valley road. Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, of Plainfield, will address the society.

An interesting program was given by the pupils of the grammar grades of the Watchung School at the Arbor Day exercises yesterday. The following selections were given: Essay, Inez Poggio; reading, Effie Fell; essay, Dorothy Hermann; recitation, John Mogey; reading, Mary Eaton; essay, Paul Gollis; reading, Hattie Winans; recitation, Lorianne Coutts; essay, Marie Maurel; also several selections were sung by the school.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mogey, who have been visiting at Washington, have returned to their home.

Miss Ruby Williamson, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Williamson, has returned to her home at Summit.

Owing to the stormy weather yesterday, the "Good Roads Day" was postponed until a future time, which will be announced later.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

The engagement of Sidney Brown to Miss Mollie Diano has been announced. The wedding will take place shortly after Easter.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

Planet Jr. Cultivators

—biggest savers for farm and garden

Why worry along with slow out-of-date implements and meagre results? Planet Jr tools are far more economical—they do 3 to 6 times the work, get bigger, better crops, and outlast several ordinary implements. Fully guaranteed. You are actually losing money whenever you cultivate without them.

No. 72 Planet Jr 2-row, 2-horse Pivot-wheel Cultivator saves a man, a team, and a cultivator every day it is used. Cultivates 2 rows of corn, potatoes, beans, etc., at one passage, even if rows are crooked or irregular width. In check rows and listed corn it also beats any other tool. Can be equipped with spring-trip standards, discs, sweeps, hoe steels, and furrowing shovels. Specially hardened cultivating steels add 50 per cent to wear. Also spring lift, new this year.

No. 8 Planet Jr Horse Hoe and Cultivator is stronger, better-made and capable of a greater variety of work than any other horse hoe made. Non-clogging steel wheel. Depth-regulator and extra-long frame make it run steady. Adjustable for both depth and width. 15 other styles of one-horse cultivators—various prices.

Let us equip you with one of these savers.

Our Obligation, Not Yours

SERVICE

Many people feel that to do business with a modern banking institution places THEM under an obligation. We feel, otherwise, for we believe in SERVICE. Every man in this institution knows he is here to give cheerful service to everyone having dealings with us—that is why our many customers do business here without any feeling of obligation—the spirit that rules is service with courtesy—courtesy with service. This spirit is bound to make you regard this as your bank—and this is the result for which we strive.

Notable Stories of the East

By H. G. DWIGHT

JUST OUT

STAMBOUL NIGHTS

This is what the New York Tribune says of these fascinating tales:

"Mr. Dwight 'arrived' with his first appearance in the magazines. Here was a man with new stories to tell who knew how to tell them. Whatever he has written thus far has been worth preserving in permanent form. He is an artist and a capital entertainer withal. He knows Constantinople through and through. The whole book is packed with strange, entrancing adventure. And the atmosphere is that of the Arabian Nights brought down to date."

URGES INTEREST IN 1916 BUDGET

Mayor Calkins Hopes That Plainfield Citizens Will Attend Hearing.

CAREFULLY PREPARED

Interview Explains a Number of Important Items—Definite Plan for Road Repair work One of the features of 1916 Listings.

Following out a custom originating with Mayor Leighton Calkins last fall, the Councilmanic Finance Committee has set Thursday night as the date for the public hearing on the 1916 tentative budget and anyone interested in this important phase of municipal work is expected to be present on that occasion in the Common Council chambers. In an interview with a Daily Press reporter this morning, Mayor Calkins had the following to say regarding this matter:

"I hope that the budget hearing on Thursday evening will be attended by citizens who are interested in our municipal affairs, even though they may be satisfied that the budget has been carefully prepared. A great deal of time and labor has been put on this matter, and we not only invite the criticism of those who do not approve of it, but would appreciate the support of those who are of opinion that we have reasonably reconciled the many demands for increased appropriations. I doubt if our people generally realize what they would be called upon to pay if each department were given what it asks for. There also are many semi-public organizations, of a wholly worthy character, doing splendid work in the community. We would like to give to each of them all that is asked. But with our schools costing us about $250,000 a year, and a county tax of about $105,000 more, there is only about $250,000 left for all other city purposes, unless the total budget is to rush madly over the $600,000 mark. Our natural growth in population and valuations from year to year should, roughly speaking, keep pace with our expenditures. Or, to put it another way, our expenses should have some sane reference to our income. It is easy to say that the city should do this and should do that. It is also easy to say that unless we have the best of everything we cannot hope to compete with our neighboring communities, and that we should advertise ourselves by spending more. There is an argument there, of course. There is such a thing as false economy. But before going in for new equipment, and for betterments and improvements, we must figure on the return. The per capita tax in Plainfield has increased about seventy-five per cent. in the last ten years. Of course, everything costs much more than it did. High cost of living touches public as well as private affairs. But it will hardly account for the entire increase; and the balance, to be justified, should show a corresponding improvement in the service. Does it?

"I am glad to announce the decision of the finance committee to capitalize a yearly expenditure of perhaps as much as $15,000 or $20,000 a year, which heretofore has gone into patching up our streets every year, only to find that the work must be done over again the next year, and each succeeding year ,with a gradually increasing cost. In two or three years, at the present rate, we would reach $100,000 as the annual appropriation for streets alone! I called attention to this in my message last January, suggesting that we construct a definite plan this year for permanent road building. Our Council committees for the last two years at least, have been in favor of a change of policy in this respect. When we found that the street appropriation this year would have to be increased by $16,000 over last year—in other words, that the maintenance cost would jump enormously, it was decided to make a start at once on permanent pavement extensions. The saving in the annual levy will more than pay for interest charges and the annual retirement of serial street improvement bonds, the life of which will be limited strictly to the life of the improvement."

BUILDING FIRED BY BOY BURGLARS

Lives of Twenty People Endangered in Effort to Cover up Crime.

LAUGHLINGLY CONFESS

Admit That They Also Burglarized Office of Codington & Blatz—Lieutenant Higgins Made Arrests—Patrolman Muir Saved Sleepers.

Admitting that they set fire to the store of J. M. Anderson, 332 Liberty street, early Sunday morning, thus endangering the lives of at least twenty people sleeping over the store, to cover up a robbery, three boys in police court this morning related stories of other crimes recently committed by them, including the burglarizing of the office of Codington & Blatz last week.

The boys were John Chapman, colored, aged 17, who lives on Plainfield avenue; Alexander Berkoff, aged 15, white, who lives on West Third street, and Isadore Kohn, aged 15, white, who lives on West Third street. They were held for the grand jury by Judge De Meza. Chapman was ordered to make a bond of $500 and the other two boys $300 each.

The Chapman boy, who formerly worked for Codington & Blatz and has been working for the Anderson store recently, was the instigator in all the crimes, according to his two youthful companions. It was he who set fire to the store Sunday morning. He confessed this when questioned by Judge De Meza in police court this morning, describing how he piled rags, papers and carpets in a rear corner and then poured gasolene over them, after which he touched a match to the pile of inflammables.

"Didn't you know there were people sleeping upstairs who would probably be burned to death?" the judge asked him. He admitted that he did.

"Well, why did you set fire to the building?"

"Jes' happened to think of it," was the reply of the seventeen-year-old burglar and incendiary, and he laughed as he said it.

But for the timely discovery of the fire by Patrolman George Muir it is likely that a number of deaths would have resulted. He was passing the store shortly after 2 a. m. when he saw a blaze in the rear. The boys had just left the building and the building was hardly afire. Patrolman Muir turned in an alarm from box 34 and firemen from the West End station were soon on the scene. They broke into the store and extinguished the blaze before it had done damage beyond $75.

Through clever detective work on the part of Lieut. Morris Higgins, Chapman was arrested Sunday afternoon, a short time after the crime was reported to the police. Lieut. Higgins was also working on the Codington & Blatz burglary and he suspected Chapman of that. The negro boy was arrested for this crime, but he denied his guilt and as there was no evidence on which to convict him he was released.

Sunday morning Lieut. Higgins went out to the Anderson store to make an investigation. He had been there but a few minutes when he was told that a small amount of stolen goods were hidden under a rear step of a house on Third street. Instead of going after the goods, Lieut. Higgins watched the spot for a few minutes and it was not long until he noticed Chapman standing near, also watching the telltale steps. He arrested the negro at once. At the police station Chapman was told that the goods had been found, and where, after which he confessed his guilt, telling the names of the other two boys. They were arrested by Patrolman Martin Welsh later in the afternoon, and all talked frankly of their crimes to Judge De Meza in police court this morning.

The two white boys said that Chapman had led them to enter the suite of Codington & Blatz by promising that he knew the combination to the safe. After they got in he was unable to open it, and to "get even" as they said, they destroyed everything in the office that was within reach.

Chapman has a bad record, having been arrested twice for larceny and serving time at the Jamesburg school. The other two boys have never been arrested before.

Poses Adopted by Dr. Biederwolf during "The White Life" sermon yesterday. At the conclusion of the talk over 200 men walked down the sawdust aisles and declared their faith.

ALMOST 600 ANSWERED APPEAL OF DR. BIEDERWOLF ON SUNDAY AND PLEDGED LIVES TO CHRIST

"ONE OF THE MOST WONDERFUL DAYS OF MY LIFE," DECLARED EVANGELIST BEFORE CROWD OF 6,500 AT THE EVENING SERVICE.

18,500 PEOPLE HEARD HIM IN THE TWO DAYS

Tabernacle Filled to Overflowing Last Night—4,500 Men Heard Sermon on "The White Life" Yesterday Afternoon—Front Street Blocked by Crowds Saturday Night When Impressive Parade Halted.

A little crippled boy, one leg dangling around a sawed-off crutch, worked his way through people that thronged the aisles of the Pine Temple last night to kneel down on the sawdust floor. Behind him came several other youngsters, and after them an aged man, his face wrinkled with the years and probably with sin, led by a white-haired wife who wore a smile as radiant as that of Mona Lisa. After that they came in twos and threes, in dozens and in scores, to give themselves to God or to reconsecrate their lives to his will, until when the Rev. William E. Biederwolf finally led them in the prayer of penitence, that begins, "My God, have mercy on me, a sinner," there were two hundred and eighty-five in all.

This was only at the night service. In the afternoon, when Dr. Biederwolf preached to men only, two hundred and sixty either became converted to the Christian religion or confessed that they had fallen from grace and publicly pledged a better life, beginning then. In the afternoon meeting at the First Baptist church, when Mrs. Brake talked to women only, many other converts were secured, bringing the total for the day to almost 600, and this number does not include the many who signed cards but who would not publicly express their sorrow for sin. In the afternoon 541 signed cards and 520 in the evening, making a total of 1,061.

Dr. Biederwolf preached to 18,500 people Saturday evening and yesterday. The Saturday night service at the Tabernacle was attended by 3,500; more than 4,000 heard him preach on the street after this service; there was at least 4,500 at the men's big meeting yesterday afternoon, and the Tabernacle was filled last night, with men and women standing in the rear aisles. It holds 6,400

The total collections at the three meetings amounted to $763.87. This amount was distributed as follows: Saturday evening, $108.19; Sunday afternoon, $291.06; Sunday evening, $364.62.

"It has been one of the most wonderful days in all my life," said the evangelist last night, as he stood with beaming face, looking down on the hundreds of kneeling men and women who had walked down the sawdust aisle in answer to his call for penitents.

The number of converts at the afternoon meeting for men was the largest of any such meeting in more than four years, he said, and they were from all walks in life. After his sermon on the "white life," Dr. Biederwolf begged all who had tired of living in sin to come up and kneel down for a prayer to the God of their mother, and they poured forward until thirteen rows of seats in the front of the center section could barely hold them. Among the first to respond was a former city official and prominent political leader—and just by his side, with bloated face and wobbly legs, but determined of eye, walked a man whose record for drunkenness in police court is one of the worst written there. There were boys—mere lads who had probably been sent by a fond parent in the rear; young men just beginning life and old men near its end. After they had repeated the penitent's prayer after Dr. Biederwolf, they were given a copy of this, a personal letter from the evangelist and a small button bearing a red cross.

All of the converts signed cards giving their name and address, and these will be used to follow up the public declarations, so that those not already in church can be persuaded

WEDDING DATES ARE ANNOUNCED

The Misses Eleanor R. and Marjorie W. Brown to Be Among Spring Brides.

The wedding dates of the Misses Eleanor Ryckman Brown and Marjorie Walbridge Brown, daughters of Mrs. Howard McWilliams, of Hillside avenue, Plainfield, and of 525 Park avenue, New York, have been announced. Miss Eleanor Brown's marriage to Edwin Muller, Jr., of Lexington, Kentucky, is to take place in the Central Presbyterian church, Madison avenue and Fifty-seventh street, New York, on Tuesday, April 25, at 8 o'clock in the evening, with a reception afterward at the Gotham. Rev. Edwin Muller, of Kentucky, father of the groom, will perform the wedding ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of this city. Miss Brown will have her sister, Miss Marjorie Walbridge Brown, as her maid of honor, while the bridesmaids will be the following: Miss Dorothy Tuttle, of Brooklyn; Miss Helen Harrington, of Plainfield; Miss Frances Walbridge, of Springfield, Mass.; Miss Margaret Mears, of Portland, Oregon; Miss Sarah Washburn, of Evanston, Illinois, and Miss Katherine M. Mayer, of Indianapolis, Indiana. Mortimer Glover Muller is to be his brother's best man and the ushers chosen are the Messrs. James O. Murray, of Plainfield; Charles Bates Hunter, of Cambridge, Mass.; John N. Gatch, of Cincinnati, O.; Robert Lynd, of Louisville, Kentucky, and Charles Bann, of St. Paul, Minn.

Miss Marjorie Brown will become the bride of Kenneth Hamilton Condit, of Princeton, on June 6. The ceremony is to take place in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and will be followed by a reception to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McWilliams, on Hillside avenue. The Misses Brown are Mrs. McWilliams' children by her former husband, the late Paul Taylor Brown, of Philadelphia, Penn., and granddaughters of the late Olin G. Walbridge, of Prospect Park, West Brooklyn.

VILLA OFFICIALLY REPORTED DEAD

His Body Exhumed Insists Mexican Minister of War.

AMERICANS EXPELLED

Ordered Out of Country, Says Diplomatic Report to Washington and U. S. Will Ask That They Be Given More Time to Leave.

Mexico City, April 17.—The Mexican Minister of War, General Alvero Obregon, today issued an official announcement in confirmation of reports that Francisco Villa is dead and that Mexican troops have exhumed his body.

Mexico City, via Galveston, Texas, April 17.—James Linn Rodgers, agent of the American Government, will present on Monday new representations from the Mexican Government in regard to American troops operating in Mexico. The diplomatic corps has requested Sub-Secretary Amador, of the Foreign Office, to grant time for foreigners' departure that will give them opportunity to arrange their affairs before being expelled. This despatch contains the first intimation that has come from Mexico City of a new decree of expulsion aimed at foreigners in Mexico. Whether it is aimed at Americans alone, the despatch does not show.

CITY JUDGE DEMEZA TO PRESIDE AT MOCK TRIAL

A great treat is in store for those planning to attend the mock trial to be given at the Washington School tonight by the Community Center Association. No admission fee will be charged and everyone interested is invited. The trial will be a breach of promise suit brought by Miss Dolly Lovejoy against Goliah Bruser. The testimony on both sides is a scream and some of it is very pathetic.

City Judge W. K. De Meza will be on the bench and some "rare" decisions are expected. John J. Carroll and Thomas C. Vail will be the opposing lawyers and a lively battle of wits is looked for. Well-known citizens will comprise the jury.

There will be no "ladies' night" in the T. A. B. Hall tomorrow night on account of Holy Week.

HIPPODROME TRIP APPEALS TO MANY

Daily Press Excursion Main Topic of Conversation Since It Was Arranged.

If one hasn't seen the Hipodrome show this year he hasn't seen New York and at least 300 Plainfielders are going to make sure that they've seen New York on May 1 when the Plainfield Daily Press conducts its monster excursion to America's greatest playhouse. Indications at present point to more than that number taking advantage of the Press offer and the 300 reservations secured by the paper for the trip will probably have to be doubled.

Many local organizations of a fraternal and social character, as well as a number in surrounding suburbs, are planning to send big delegations and when the seats go on sale at the Press office the early part of next week representatives of a number of big societies will be the first in line. The excursoin rate is $1.75. This includes transportation to and from the Hippodrome and the best seats in the monster playhouse. That residents of Dunellen might witness "Hip, Hip, Hooray" as guests of the Press this paper has made arrangements to have the special train start from that place and return there after the show. Provision will also be made for residents of Fanwood, Scotch Plains, South Plainfield, Watchung and other nearby municipalities.

First Come First Served.

When the seats go on sale next week a chart of the seats in the Hippodrome will be on exhibition at the Press office and naturally the first applicants will be able to select the best seats. Blocks of seats may be secured for societies by sending one representative to select them. If enough go a special car may also be chartered in the excursion train.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

The Alfred University Glee Club will give a recital in the Seventh-Day Baptist church tonight at 7:15. No admission will be charged, but a silver collection will be taken up. After the expenses of the recital are given to the Glee Club, the proceeds will be added to the Boy Scouts of this city. Included among members of the Glee Club is John Cottrell, of West Sixth street, this city, who is a student in Alfred University.

FUNERAL OF MRS. PETERSON.

The funeral of Mrs. Henry Peterson, colored, was held yesterday afternoon at her late home on Berckman street. It was conducted by Rev. William Lloyd Imes, pastor of Bethel chapel, in the present of a gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

TWO HOUSES ARE THREATENED BY BLAZE

Firemen Quickly Extinguished Fire in One Dwelling and Save Another.

The fire department of Dunellen had two hours' hard work yesterday afternoon when they were called to the house on South avenue owned by George F. Giles and occupied by the families and boarders of Barney Bromskovitz and Michael Sebrano. The blaze started in the shingle roof of the house, the result of a defective stove pipe, and spread to the roof of Michael Boyle's house, adjoining. The firemen not only put out the blaze at the Giles' house, but saved the other dwelling from being reduced to ashes. Two lengths of hose were used.

The blaze was first discovered by Mary Kolvek, who was playing in the vicinity, and she sent her brother, George, to fire headquarters to give the alarm. In remarkably quick time the department responded and soon had the fire under control. When the firemen arrived they found H. C. Smith playing a stream of water on the flames with a garden hose. The department was handicapped somewhat by a low water pressure. Elwood E. Waller, who was helping to extinguish the fire, fell through the roof of the Giles house to the second story, but was uninjured. The total loss will amount to $1,000.

FINED $20 FOR A SATURDAY NIGHT DRUNK

Charles Hill, aged 33 years, of Dunellen, was arraigned in police court this morning on a complaint of Newton Walker, of 429 Berckman street, who charged that Hill was drunk Saturday night and insisted on visiting the Walker home. Hill admitted that he was drunk. Judge De Meza gave him a fine of $20 with the privilege of spending 60 days in jail.

AUCTION SALE.

Commencing Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and continuing through Thursday, Robert Murray will conduct an auction sale at 322 West Front stret, several van loads of furniture being included in the goods to be sold. Mr. Murray is now exhibiting a Japanese vase of rare value which is to be sold.

NEW U. S. NOTE TO GERMANY IS READY

Will Be Discussed by Cabinet Tomorrow Before Going to Kaiser.

Washington, April 17.—Secretary of State Lansing today refused to discuss the pending crisis with Germany, but indicated the note probably would go forward within 48 hours. From other sources is was learned that President Wilson has completed his revision of the note and that it is ready to be sent now, but probably will await discussion at a Cabinet meeting tomorrow.

Russ. Soldiers in Mutiny.

Berlin, April 17 (Wireless).—Russian soldiers at Nikolajewsk mutinied and set the barracks on fire, 27 perishing in the flames, says a despatch to the Overseas News Agency today. The mutiny resulted, it is said, from ill-treatment from officers.

Sink Norwegian Schooner.

London, April 17.—The Norwegian schooner Glendoon has been sunk by gunfire.

KING'S DAUGHTERS CHANGE DATE FOR THEIR PLAYS

The Cup Bearers' Circle of The King's Daughters which is planning to give three plays, has changed the date for the entertaiament from Friday, May 5, to Monday night, May 8, on account of the evangelistic meetings now being held. "Our Aunt From California'" will be given by Miss Dorothy Burke, Mrs. Jesse E. Waid, Miss Edith Griscom, Miss Hope Irvins, Mrs. Edward J. Waring and Mrs. Edward C. Suffern.

Following this play the Watchung Troop quartet, comprising Donald A. McGee, Lewis A. Williams, Austen W. Andrews and W. B. Tyler, will sing several selections.

Then Alfred Sutro's play, "The Open Door," will be presented by Mrs. Maxwell E. Perkins and Brown Rolston, after which "That Brute Simmons" will be given by Walter L. Righter, Harry N. Underhill and Mrs. J. Hartley Melick. W. L. Righter will also entertain with Scotch songs.

LEVGAR STRUCTURAL CO. IS RUSHED WITH WORK

The Levgar Structural Company is rushed with work. Three hundred and seventy-five men are employed at the plant at present, and the company is taking on all proficient iron workers who apply. The concern is at present working on the frame work of a large cavalry armory for the State of Massachusetts. It has many smaller orders on its books. Present orders, in fact, should keep the concern busuy up to the close of the war, providing, of course, that the conflagration ends within a reasonable time. After the warf, if the contesting nations, are not completely bankrupted, concerns like the Levgar Structural Company should be taxed to capacity for several years in supplying thme structural iron for rebuilding railroad bridges and the buildings of numerous cities destroyed by shot and shell.

MRS. HANNAH STEWART A VICTIM OF HEART ATTACK

Mrs. Hannah Stewart, widow of William Stewart, died suddenly shortly before 7 o'clock this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John R. Cline, of 129 West Second street. She evidently had arisen at her customary time and had dressed for the day when stricken with an attack of heart failure. Her daughter and son-in-law noticed that she did not appear for breakfast and on investigating found her lying lifeless on the bed. It is believed she intended to lie down for a moment when she felt the illness coming on. Dr. A. H. Pittis was called but stated after an examination that she had been beyond medical aid for nearly half an hour.

Mrs. Stewart was a native of Ireland but had resided in Plainfield for the past forty years, much of that time at West Second and New streets. Her husband has been dead for many years. Beside her daughter, she leaves one son, William Stewart, who has been in the employ of the L. L. Manning & Son monument works on West Front street for a long time.

The funeral will be held in St. Mary's church, where the deceased was a member, Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and will be private. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

SELLS HIS BAKERY.

H. M. Gnatz has sold his bakery at 84 Somerset street to C. J. Walmer, of Bernardsville, and will return to railroading at an early date. LODGE BRETHREN CONVEY EDWARD WAGNER TO GRAVE

With a large gathering of relatives, friends and lodge brethren in attendance, the funeral of Edward L. Wagner, the young structural engineer, whose death occurred early Friday morning after an illness of nine weeks, was held at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of his mother, Mrs. Theodore Mantz, of Carleton avenue. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, where he attended service. A quartet, composed of B. F. Tallamy, Fred Tallamy, Erwin Leland and William G. Smith, rendered two of the deceased's favorite hymns, "Abide With Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee." At the conclusion of the pastoral obsequies, the Masonic funeral service was conducted by Thomas C. Vail, worshipful master of Anchor Lodge, No. 149 F. and A. M., assisted by other officers.

A large quantity of beautiful flowers was contributed by relatives and friends. Set pieces were presented by Anchor Lodge, Plainfield Lodge of Elks, the Y. M. C. A. Business Men's Class, the office staff of Arthur E. Smith, Snare and Triest of New York, and others. Following the service here, the body was taken to Lebanon, Mr. Wagner's native place, where further obsequies were held in the Methodist church at that place. Burial was made in the Lebanon cemetery, the pall bearers being: S. P. T. Wilbur, William R. Townsend and Thomas MacDonald, representing the local Elks, and A. H. Osmun, B. F. Tallamy and C. H. Palmer, representing Anchor Lodge.

PALM SUNDAY SERVICES ARE LARGELY ATTENDED

Appropriate Palm Sunday services were held in both St. Joseph's and St. Mary's churches yesterday, the special observance being in commemoration of Christ's entry into Jerusalem shortly before his crucifixion. The distribution of palms took place in St. Mary's church at the 9:30 mass, at the last service, and during the afternoon and evening. Announcement was made that services during Holy Week would be as follows:: Holy Thursday, 9 o'clock; Good Friday, 8 o'clock, and Holy Saturday, 7 o'clock. Masses on Easter Sunday will be at the usual hours.

Children of the Sunday-school took part in a procession in St. Joseph's church yesterday at the 10 o'clock service. Palms were distributed at both services. Services on Holy Thursday and Good Friday will be at 7:30 o'clock.

In all the local Episcopal churches, Groce, Heavenly Rest, St. Stephen's and Holy Cross, Palm Sunday was observed yesterday with appropriate services. The chancels were decorated with palms and plants and palms were distributed to the congregations. The rector in each instance preached a sermon in keeping with the day.

FIRST RUN OF THE PLAINFIELD CYCLE CLUB

The Plainfield motorcycle club enjoyed its first ride of the season Sunday. The destination was Flemington. Twenty-five members turned out for the ride, assembling at Jack Horner's store on Somerset street. Before leaving they had their pictures taken by Paul Collier. They mounted their steeds at 11 o'clock and were in Flemington by 1 o'clock, going there by the way of Bound Brook, Somerville and White House. They dined at the Flemington Inn. They left for home at 3 o'clock and arrived here at 6 o'clock. The roads were reported as only being in fair condition. One member received two punctures going and three more coming home.

The Ebenezer Baptist church was crowded yesterday to its capacity the members participating in the installation ceremony of the new pastor, Rev. L. L. Crom. Scripture was read by the Rev. W. E. Smith, pastor of Bethel Baptist church, Westfield. Rev. D. W. Cannon, D. D., pastor of the Baptist church of Cranford, and president of the Baptist ministers State conference, preached the installation sermon. Rev. R. M. Johnson, acting pastor of Mount Olive Baptist church, this city, recited the prayer, while the Rev. L. C. Huretle, pastor of the Union Baptist church of Elizabeth, gave the charge to the pastor and the Rev. G. W. Hamlet, pastor of the St. John Baptist church of Westfield, gave the charge to the congregation.

KING'S DAUGHTERS MEET.

The Plainfield City Union of King's Daughters held a special meeting at 10:30 o'clock this morning in the Day Nursery, the president, Mrs. Nelson Miller, presiding. It was announced that the annual meeting of the King's Daughters will be held in the Day Nursery on May 4, at 11 o'clock following the trustee's meetings which will be held at 9:30 the same morning. The members voted to hold the King's Daughters Biederwolf campaign meeting on May 9, at 2:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church. Dr. Biederwolf will have charge of the meeting and the national quartet will sing. An address will be made by Mrs. Brake followed by one from Mrs. Charles A. Minent, of East Orange, State President of King's Daughters.

REV. HOWARD E. CLARKE ACCEPTS LOCAL PASTORATE

Rev. Howard E. Clarke, pastor of the Congregational church, Bernardsville, who was extended a call to the Congregational church, this city, to succeed Rev. C. L. Goodrich, notified the latter church today that he would accept the call and hoped to be able to take up his work here June 1.

Mr. Clarke has been pastor of the Bernardsville church four years and prior to that was the denominational church at Ridgefield for two years. He is about 32 years of age, married and has one child. In his letter of acceptance he expresses his appreciation and hope that "God's hand has been in the union and that His blessing may rest upon us all."

THE BONES MAKE MUSIC BUT JUDGE DON'T LIKE IT

The siren-like roll of the bones may be music to the ears of some people, but not to Judge De Meza. This morning six Italians, who had been arrested in a house at 213 West Third street by Sergeant Saffron, Officers O'Keefe, Birmingham and Martin early Sunday morning were arraigned before the judge on a charge of gambling. The officers swore that they saw dice and money and heard the rolling of the bones. "We were playing music, Judge," one of the Italians explained. Judge De Meza volunteered the information that such a score belonged properly in the overture to a jail sentence, but as the offenders were all from another country he fined Joseph Beoni, who lived in the house, $25; Michael Chorelli, $5, and let the others off with a suspended sentence, provided they did not offer an encore. Others in the game were Philip Denza, Michael Braco, Clora Velardi and Frank Donetto. They were represented by Attorney Owens.

CHAPEL ATHLETES WILL DISCUSS ORGANIZATION

Members of the Hope Chapel City League baseball team will meet in the chapel tomorrow night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of discussing organization plans. Britt Martin, who will have charge of the chapel recruits this year, is planing to be present at the meeting and will deliver a heart to heart talk to his charges. Interest in the pastime has not been awakened sufficiently among the chapelites and it is Martin's purpose to instill a little more enthusiasm prior to the season's opening.

Heretofore talent has been plentiful in Hope chapel at this time of the year and although there are plenty of players eligible for the team few have reached a decision as to whether or not they will perform. Martin is anxious to get down to hard work and it is expected that he will treat the prospective candidates to a decided shaking up tomorrow night.

MATCHES TO BE ROLLED ON BOROUGH PIN SHUTES

The following matches will be rolled in Gates' bowling tournament on the Somerset street alleys this week:

Monday—Voorhees vs. Judge; Conever vs. VanZandt, Smaley vs. Lewis.

Tuesday—Rohrs vs. Jonap, Smith vs. McKenzie, Howe vs. Lewis, Radin vs. Mentzback.

Wednesday—Match game, Scotch Plains Parish House vs. Imperials.

Thursday—Match game, U Knows vs. Imperials.

WILL PRINT SERMON ON "HOME" TUESDAY

The sermon of Dr. Biederwolf on "The Home," delivered Saturday evening at the Tabernacle, will be printed in full in the Daily Press Tuesday afternoon.

BICYCLE RIDERS ARRESTED.

Simon Kline, a fifteen-year-old boy of 545 West Third street, and Frank Washington, colored, were arraigned in police court this morning, charged with riding bicycles without lights. They were arrested Saturday night. Both were given suspended sentences by Judge De Meza.

ELKS' CLUB PINNING.

The Oldsmobile and Reo teams will clash in the Elks' Club bowling tournament tonight. The Reo outfit is holding down sixth place and the Oldsmobile piners are two games behind, so that a clean sweep in the games tonight will mean a shift in position.

VIOLATED TRAFFIC LAWS.

Jerry Nesbitt, colored, charged with violating the traffic ordinance, was given a suspended sentence when tried before Judge De Meza in police court this morning. He was arrested on a downtown street by Patrolman Dunlap Saturday night.

HAD NO LIGHTS.

William Willis, driver of a taxicab, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of driving his machine without lights. He was arrested Saturday night. Sentence was suspended by Judge De Meza.

MRS. LOUIS TO LEAD.

Mrs. Roundy Louis will conduct the Gospel praise service at the Rescue Mission tonight at 8 o'clock.

Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst, of the borough schools, has been confined to his bed since Monday with a touch of the grip.

DR. HUGH SCHUSSLER DIES IN NEW YORK

Former Bass Soloist of Crescent Ave. Church Passed Away Yesterday.

Dr. Hugh Schussler, formerly a member of the Century Opera Company and at one time the champion pistol shot of the United States, died early yesterday morning at his home, 508 West 122d street, New York, in his thirty-eighth year.

He was born in St. Louis, Mo., and after receiving his medical education there practiced for several years. Dr. Schussler gave up his profession to become a singer. He had a bass voice of splendid quality, and he went to Chicago, where he studied for some time, later appearing with Thomas' Orchestra. Following this, he came to New York and appeared for a time with the Century Opera Company.

Not long after Dr. Schussler returned to Germany and joined the Elberfield Opera Company, to which his wife had returned, and they sang together for some time. While on his way back to this country from this trip he became ill and was operated upon in London by Dr. Charles Mayo, who happened to be in that city. After recovering, Dr. Schussler returned to this country, and ten weeks ago married Miss Conklin, going to the hospital a few days later to have an examination made. It was disclosed that he was suffering from cancer of the stomach, from which he died.

Until a few weeks ago, when his voice failed, he sang in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, this city. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his late home. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, conducted the service.

COULDN'T DRINK WATER HERE--EXCUSE FOR BEER

Isaac Mathews, of 219 Grant avenue, can't drink the water in Plainfield, so he manages to make it on beer and whisky, according to his testimony in police court this morning. Mathews was arraigned on a charge of being helplessly drunk. He said there was too much lime in the water here and it gave him indigestion, so he had to drink something else. Judge De Meza told him not to save up until Saturday and then try to drink enough for a week. He was given a suspended sentence.

RECEPTION IN HONOR OF MISS BESSIE ADELBERG

Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Adelberg entertained at a reception at their home on East Eecond street yesterday afternoon in honor of their daughter, Miss Bessie Adelberg, whose engagement to Charles Hirsch, of New York city, was announced last week. Many automobile parties from other cities added to the list of guests who came during the afternoon to offer their congratulations to Miss Adelberg. More than two hundred and fifty called between the hours of 3 and 6. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received by the bride-to-be from admiring friends and associates. At 6:30 a dinner was served for members of the immediate family. Covers were laid for fifty-six.

MISS ROCKAWAY BECOMES BRIDE OF DR. S. KOHN

At 2:30 this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in Westfield, Miss Flora Rochaway becomes the bride of Dr. Seigfried Kohn, of Chicago. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Rockaway, of 124 Euclid avenue, Westfield, and is one of the most popular of the younger set of that city. nOly immediate relatives are present at the wedding. After the ceremony the couple will leave for an extended honeymoon, later to make their home in Chicago, where the bridegroom is a practicing physician. Those in attendance at the wedding are: Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Tepper, of Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Arky, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cohn, of Brooklyn; Mr. and Mrs. Nickolas Loew, of Westfield; Miss Ella Eagle, of Selma, Alabama; Mr. and Mrs. Kohn, of New York city. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Reichler, of New York city.

BOY SCOUTS TO ATTEND REVIVAL ON THURSDAY

An invitation has been extended by the campaign committee to all Boy Scouts of Plainfield and vicinity to attend the meeting at the Tabernacle on Thursday night. All scout troops are requested to meet at their headquarters in time to arrive at the place of assembly, Watchung avenue, between East Front stret, and the brook, not later than 7:15 o'clock. Troops are to carry their flags and banner, but no staffs or other equipment.

The Zobo Band of Troop 12, under the leadership of W. F. Richards, scoutmaster, will head the procession. Any other troops having drum corps, fifes or bugles are expected to use them in the march. If scout troops from nearby towns cannot get here in time to march with the Plainfield scouts seats will be reserved for those who notify Commissioner A. V. Searing, Jr., 235 East Sixth street; 'Phone 758-J. All scoutmasters, local and out-of-town, will please notify the commissioner not later than Wednesday night.

SILK TWISTERS TALKING STRIKE

Paterson Firms Given Until Wednesday to Decide.

DEMAND WAGE INCREASE.

General Walkout Probable if Employers Refuse to Grant Terms—Some Mills Have Conceded Raise—Break Between I. W. W. and Other Unions Is Rumored.

Paterson, April 17.—The silk ribbon twisters, who have failed to obtain an increase of wages as demanded, have given the mill owners until Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock to come to a definite decision; otherwise they will call a general strike, and this will be followed by workers in other departments. It was early last week that the twisters made the demand for the increase in wages, and the manufacturers asked for an extension of time to enable them to discuss the matter and come to some conclusion.

The following mills have decided to give the asked for increase and began this morning: Rumler Hatband company, Mapele Silk company, Goldy Ribbon company, Breen & Maginnis, H. H. Kirkjian Silk company, Madison Ribbon company, Harris Bros., Diese Hatband company, Pioneer Hatband company and the Warner Manufacturing company.

The ribbon twisters have opened quarters at 105 Market street, where they will convene again on Wednesday following the receipt of the mill owners' answer to their demands for the increase.

The ribbon weavers, broad silk weavers and horizontal warpers have withdrawn from the conference of silk workers, composed of representatives of various crafts of Paterson, which meets every Saturday night hereafter in the Labor lyceum. Representatives are in attendance from various organizations, such as the American Federation of Labor, the Brotherhood of American Silk Workers and all of the other branches of labor, including the Socialist Labor party and the two I. W. W. locals. It is said the workers withdrew from the conference because of the influence of the I. W. W., but this was not made certain.

To prepare a demand for shorter working hours and an increase in wages the dyers of the mills met at their headquarters, 77 Prospect street, under the auspices of the Textile Workers of America and discussed the various phases of the situation. Organizers Reagen and McMahon were in charge of the meeting.

The owners of the Lawrence Silk company, River and Bridge streets, have come to an amicable agreement with their employees as to an increase in wages which was demanded. This will prevent a strike. The increase covers half a cent on all goods, recognition of the United Textile Workers' union, recognition of the shop committee and an allowance for piece workers on "smashes."

SEARCH FOR MISSING BOY.

Jersey City Lad Has Not Been Seen Since March 27.

Jersey City, April 17.—Police throughout the country have been asked to look for John Robert Charner, fifteen years old, who disappeared from his home, 106 Randolph avenue, this city, on March 27. His mother is seriously ill with nervous prostration.

The boy left home to go to the Dickens High school, in which he was a pupil, and did not return or send any word about where he was going.

200 STRIKE AT RUBBER CO.

Woman Arrested In Passaic Workers' Riot Sent to Jail.

Passaic, April 17.—More than 200 employees of the New York Belting and Rubber company, a subsidiary of the United States Rubber company in this city, are out on strike, demanding a wage increase of 25 per cent and double time for overtime.

Ten Day Sleep Sends Man to Jail.

New Brunswick, April 17.—A ten day sleep sent John Pelfey of this city to the county jail. He was charged by his wife with nonsupport, and she testified that for the last ten days he had remained constantly in bed. She said he was often in the habit of staying in bed for a week at a time and that he would always celebrate the end of one of these naps by beating her. Pelfey got five days in jail, and the other prisoners there are planning to keep him awake the entire time.

Jobless Man Ends Life.

Camden, April 17.—Failing to obtain employment after a two weeks' search, Ferdinand Frenzel, sixty years old, ended his life by hanging. Frenzel was picked out as a prospective employee at the Camden Coke factory. A position was refused him on account of his age.

Nine Hour Day Granted.

Paterson, April 17.—The American Locomotive works here have posted notices in all departments stating that beginning this week a nine hour workday and a 10 per cent increase in wages will be put into effect. The order affects 500 men.

BEST HITTERS DON'T ALWAYS WIN OUT

Plainfield High School Ballists Found This Out at Trenton Saturday.

Errors caused by a sloppy field were responsible for an 11 to 8 defeat for Plainfield High School nine when it lined up against Trenton High School Saturday afternoon at Trenton. The locals outhit the Trenton outfit, but slips on east hit balls allowed the capital city youngsters to score runs.

NOTABLE ADDITION FOR THE "BALL OF FAME"

Five erstwhile basketball players and three members of the managing corps of the Columbus Club quintet visited a local photographer yesterday and had their "mugs" preserved in film form that their antecedents who aspire to athletic honors in Plainfield might look down upon them as physical, mental and moral models of the age. They were Captain George Linke, Al Brynaiski, Billy Coyle, Dan McAfee, Jack Wilson, Robert McCormack, George Linke and Albert Denoyers.

The Columbians have just finished one of their best seasons of basketball and claim the distinction of city champions. Their schedule has been completed and there has been some talk of this group of athletes forming a nucleus for a baseball outfit to be put on the field this spring.

MISS MARY DUNNING AMONG THE REFUGEES

Sister of F. O. and S. W. Dunning, of the Borough, Has Exciting Experience.

Miss Mary Dunning, one of the missionaries sent to Mexico by the American Board of Foreign Missions, and a sister of F. O. Dunning, of Mountain avenue, the borough, and S. W. Dunning, of Westervelt avenue, was among the number of American refugees reaching El Paso, Texas, yesterday. Miss Dunning and her companion, a Miss Prescott, of Montclair, were in Parral when the Mexicans attacked the American cavalry last Wednesday and immediately after left the city for El Paso.

General Pershing's report showed that the attack on the American force at Parral was made by Carranza troops as well as by Mexican civilians and that when Major Tompkins withdrew behind a railroad to take up a defensive position his little force of about 180 cavalrymen were flanked by native troops and forced to make a further retirement.

Then about 300 Carranza troops joined in the pursuit of the withdrawing American force, and in extricating themselves from an embarrassing position the American force fought for fifteen miles while leaving Parral. Two Americans were reported killed, six wounded and one missing. In discussing the incident, Miss Dunning refused to detail her flight other than to say that several Mexicans had been killed and wounded.

Miss Dunning was a visitor in Plainfield about three years ago, her coming here being necessitated through the uprisings among the Mexicans at that time which made it impossible for Americans to stay in safety. Miss Dunning has been doing missionary work in Mexico for the past twenty-seven years.

ARCHIBOLD WILL WORK OUT FINE ON THE ROAD

Being unable to pay a $10 fine, which was imposed on him Saturday night by Recorder George A. Schmidt for being drunk and disorderly, John Archibold was put in the custody of Dr. Charles E. Moldenke, township committeeman, to work out his fine on the township roads. He was given two weeks to pay the fine.

Archibold was arrested Friday night at the home of his brother, where he became enraged because he was locked out. Special Policeman Walsh took Archibold to the borough lockup.

PAVED ROADS ARE FIRST STEP IN OHIO'S MILITARY PREPAREDNESS

This is a gasoline war according to the witness at the front, hence Uncle Sam's program of preparedness is a matter, to a certain extent of trucks, of armored cars, of motor artillery and of roads on which to operate them.

Cleveland, which has given America its first permanent citizens military training school, is also the center of the locality most admirably adapted for motor strategy.

Over 400 miles of rural brick roads radiate in all directions from Cleveland to the various smaller centers of northeastern Ohio. Interurban truckings over these roads has reached a status which would make possible the mobilization of war supplies with a minimum of effort.

Rely on Drafted Vehicles.

The importance of this lies in the fact that no European government has found it practicable to own all of the trucks in time of peace that are needed in war. They rely upon privately owned machines, going so far as to subsidize manufacturers and owners with the understanding that cars shall be made of a type easily adapted to war purposes.

Napoleon said that an army traveled on its stomach, meaning that it could proceed only as fast as it supply trains. In the present war, however, the supply trains have had to wait for the soldiers more often than otherwise. The rapid advance of General von Kluck toward Paris and the equally facile retreat of the English, who avoided trap after trap, was due to the motor truck and to the improved roads of northeastern France.

Raiders Used Armored Car.

During the present war, also, the armored automobile has become a practical means of offense for the first time. For raiding, observation or the temporary obstruction of a bridge or pass, the quick moving auto, with its steel protection, its machine gun turret and its device for shearing through wire entanglements is rapidly taking the place of cavalry.

The old-fashioned gun carriage, for field pieces, has been largely replaced by an auto truck mounting, which makes artillery immensely more mobile than ever before.

Thousands of lives have been saved, also, by the rapid removal of wounded men to hospitals many miles from the front, when, but for the motor vehicle, they would have languished for days upon the ground or would have received hasty attention in crude field hospitals.

Severe Test on Highways.

War traffic has been highly destructive of Europe's roads, many of which have been rebuilt time after time since the war started. The French highway officials for several years have realized that the typical French road was not ideal for heavy motor traffic and immediately preceding the war were investigating the brick highway system of Ohio but were unable to put their conclusions into effect as a war preparation.

Actual maneuvers, planned for early spring, will further test the adaptibility of this road system for war needs.

BUILDING FIRST STRETCH OF RURAL ROAD BRICK PAVING IN NEW JERSEY

Behind the mere official announcement that the Amboy-Keyport road is closed "for repairs" lies the interesting fact that there is now under construction the first stretch of brick pavement on a rural road in New Jersey. It is experimental in purpose and is designed to help solve the State's worst road problem.

As a link of the trunk route to the shore, the Amboy-Keyport road was subjected to heavy traffic last year. Touched up by the spring repair gang, it stood up well for two months, but it was literally cut to ribbons by August.

The stretch of brick pavement—one and a quarter imles—represents one and a quarter miles—represents new construction. It will measure twenty-two feet in width and will cost $41,000—about $32,800 a mile.

The concrete stretch will extend from the South Amboy city line to Morgan. From the latter point to the Middlesex county line the construction will be of a two-inch layer of warrenite over the present road bed, repaired. Monmouth county's section, from the Middlesex line to Keyport, will be of amiesite. Work is now being pushed on the brick pavement alone. The contractor who has the job on the warrenite is scheduled to start today. Monmouth county advertised for bids last week to be opened May 3. It is practically certain, however, that the brick pavement road will be open for traffic by May 30, and through travel will be possible July 4.

Six-Inch Concrete Base.

The base of the brick pavement road is six inches of concrete. This is topped by a sand cushion of one and a half inches and four inches of red paving brick. Each brick weighs ten pounds. Sand from banks adjoining the road is being used for the cushion. A curb of concrete, six inches wide and fourteen inches deep, is being used. About 400 feet of the pavement has been completed. Almost all of the concrete base has been laid.

In rebuilding the road, the engineers straightened out several dangerous curves, including Dead Man's Curve, where grade crossing accidents occurred frequently a few years ago.

The grade, too, has been reduced to a minimum. On the straightaway stretch where the road leaves South Amboy, the grade has been cut down nearly three feet.

Until the Matawan Creek bridge is rebuilt, the trunk route will remain broken. Motorists will be able to use most of the new road, but they will have to detour around the abandoned span. There is no likelihood of immediate relief. Several members of the Monmouth County Board of Freeholders went on an unsuccessful trip to Chicago last week, it is said, to try to secure the necessary steel for the structure. The abutments are now being built.

New Road Will Bring Relief.

The improvements will provide an almost continuous good road to Asbury Park, Long Branch, Lakewood, Atlantic City and intermediate resorts. It will save motorists from twelve to fifteen miles which they are now covering in detouring by way of New Brunswick.

For the present, motorists who head from this section for points below Freehold are advised to continue the New Brunswick detour. But if Keyport, Keansburg or Highlands is the destination, one should go through Rahway, Woodbridge and Perth Amboy to the Raritan River bridge. After crossing the river, take the Pennsylvania private roadway in preference to the hole-in-the wall. The roadway is in bad condition, but passable. The main streets of South Amboy are paved, but from Bordentown and Stevens avenue to the point where the new road starts—about a quarter of a mile—the going is still bad. The Middlesex Freeholders and City Council of South Amboy are negotiating now for this improvement.

Reaching the stretch of new road, the motorist will be permitted to glide over the few hundred feet to where the men are working. A temporary road almost parallels the new road into Morgan. It is not advisable to try this except when the weather and ground conditions are good.

The Monmouth County Board of Freeholders has arranged for routing and sign-boarding alternative routes. After leaving the southerly end of the Raritan river bridge at South Amboy, there are three choices of routes through South Amboy to Rose's Corner, on Bordentown avenue, thence to Cheesequake or Jacksonville, thence to Matawan, thence to the shore via Keyport or Freehold. A system of guide signs will point the way.

Replanking Raritan River Bridge.

Middlesex county is now repairing the Raritan river bridge with several thousand feet of new board planking. The annual spring talk of a steel structure to replace the present span has been heard without result.

Interest centers much more in the status of the "hole-in-the-wall" than in the bridge problem. A public meeting is to be held in South Amboy next week, at which time the residents of Mechanicsville, this side of the "hole-in-the-wall," will be permitted to express their attitude on the proposed improvements by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The proposition put forth by the railroad calls for the construction of a $100,000 pedestrian bridge to span the railroad yards under which the "hole-in-the-wall" is now located.

This improvement would eliminate the "hole-in-the-wall" and would send motorists entirely over the Pennsylvania private roadway. A part of the railroad's offer calls for the complete repair of this roadway and to turn it over to the county for maintenance. Objection by the Mechanicsville residents is based on the ground that the new plan would divert motor vehicle traffic from their vicinity and also cause motorists from Sayreville, South River and other points en route to South Amboy to go about a mile out of their way.

LIGHTNING KEROSENE LAMPS.

Even in this electric age there are many motorists who still find that oil lamps best suit their needs. Here is a tip for them in the matter of lighting an oil lamp, particularly when conditions are unfavorable, as in a high wind. Turn the wick half an inch up from the burner and let it remain for a few seconds. Turn the wick down to its proper position, light the match and apply it to the wick. By turning the wick up you have allowed it to become thoroughly soaked with oil, so that the slightest spark is enough to kindle it.

LIGHTS ON AUTOS.

The New Jersey law provides that lights shall be displayed on all vehicles from one-half hour after sunset until one-half hour before sunrise. The times by days at which lights must be lighted this week are as follows:

Today	7.11 P. M.
Tomorrow	7.12 P. M.
Wednesday	7.13 P. M.
Thursday	7:14 P. M.
Friday	7.15 P. M.
Saturday	7.16 P. M.

GRINDING VALVES.

As a rule valves will not be gastight after 5,000 miles of running. Compression will diminish rapidly when the crank is slowly held against it, and it will be irregular in the different cylinders. The valve top should be cleaned, the stem polished, and the grinding should consist of small turns of the valve, only part way round.

LICENSE SEEKERS ARE NOT PREPARED

State Motor Vehicle Inspector Says They Do Not Read Laws.

It is surprising, say inspectors of the Motor Vehicle Department, how many applicants for drivers' licenses never consult the laws, and who, coached along a certain line of questions asked at previous examinations, fail utterly even to make an impression when faced with a new set of questions that the coacher did not anticipate. A big majority of those who fail to pass, they say, belong to this class.

The list of questions is changed daily in order that all possibility of "cribbing" may be eliminated. If the applicant is thoroughly familiar with the mechanism of an automobile and has studied both the traffic and motor vehicle acts, then the questions, which are particularly applicable to these essentials, can be readily answered.

Commissioner William L. Dill, of the State Motor Vehicle Department, is aiming to acquaint all applicants with the provisions of the state's laws.

SPEED MEET CARD FOR 1916 SEASON

Record Breaking List of Attractions Centers Around New York City.

Preparations are well under way for a number of track and speed meets, to be held throughout the 1916 automobile racing season. New York will come in for its share of motor racing, for it already has been announced that several meets will be held on the Sheepshead Bay Speedway. Although the Vanderbilt Cup race will not be staged there, it is probable that an event, which bristles with as many thrills as did that classic when it was held on Long Island, will be run on the speedway in the form of a twenty[illegible] our race. While no definite [illegible] the promotion of such an [illegible] have been taken, it is understood that one will be held if sufficient support in the way of entries can be assured. Many dealers hereabouts have expressed a wish that a "twice-around-the-clock" race be held on the speedway, and some have pledged their support.

No twenty-four-hour race has been held in New York for several years, despite the fact that the events held at the Brighton Beach and Empire tracks were very successful and attracted unusually large crowds. According to one of the prime promoters of former twenty-four-hour races, the chief reasons for abandoning this form of racing was that the danger of running the race on dirt tracks was too great and that many contestants found that the outlay for tires was too high. The Sheepshead track, with its scientific features of construction, assures safety in every way and the fact that many cars have gone through gruelling races on speedways for distances of 300 miles or more, without changing tires, is an argument which offsets the tire expense. With these stumbling blocks now removed, there is every prospect that a large entry list can be had for a twenty-four-hour race.

On reliable authority, it is stated, that a canvass soon will be made to see if sufficient support can be had for the holding of a twenty-four-hour race, to be held on the speedway some time this summer. In former years, this form of racing did much to stimulate trade, and according to one dealer, it was the best means of demonstrating the stamina and construction of motor cars.

RACING ASSOCIATION FOR NEWARK PARK PROGRAM

The Olympic Park Racing Association was organized last night to conduct automobile races on the half-mile circular track of Olympic Park. The officers of the association are: President, Christian Kurz; vice-president, A. J. Guenther, and secretary, George Shoemacher.

The first meet is scheduled for Memorial Day and the card of events will be arranged and conducted under the direction of Mr. Shoemacher, who is a former chairman of the contest board of the American Automobile Association. The association is to be incorporated. Last season, Joe Jackson, of Plainfield, competed in a number of racing events at this park.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, APRIL 17, 1916.

Plainfielders have more than a passing interest in the survey by the men from the Bureau of Municipal Research, which has been handed to the Mayor, but which has not yet been made public. Most people believe that this city has been well governed, because of the splendid type of men who occupy the positions of responsibility, but many feel that the systems used in the various departments can be improved upon. The city fathers will no doubt adopt many of the suggestions made, and some of them will probably be found impractical for our form of government. But if any changes are made there should not be great haste in bringing them about, until the matter has been studied from every possible angle. If the suggestions are of a particularly radical type, it would be well before adopting them to continue the survey into every department of the city government, including, if possible, the schools. Statistical information should be compiled for comparing the proposed methods with those now in use, so that reliable figures will be available before making changes. If this is not done too much reliance must be placed on the memory of officeholders to assure definite results under changed conditions.

In Dayton, Ohio, before the change was made to the commission manager form of government, a municipal research bureau was at work for years, and its work was invaluable. Without its records, it is said that the city would have been completely at sea, and unable to proceed with the work of running the government. If changes are decided upon they should be brought about in the least possible time consistent with the smooth working of city affairs, and not done in a minute. That some are needed even the city officials directly concerned say, but when they are made they should be thorough, and for all time.

Reports about the amount of money which the Biederwolf party are to take out of town are being circulated by persons who should know better than to spread such rumors. The truth in the matter is that Dr. Biederwolf and his assistants do not take a cent out of town that the people do not give of their own free will. The local papers have frequently stated that all of the money now being received in collections goes to the local committee in charge to be used to pay the expenses, such as building the tabernacle, and doing scores of necessary things before Dr. Biederwolf and his associates arrived here. A part of the salaries of his staff are guaranteed by the committee, but Dr. Biederwolf does not get a cent except the generous amount which Plainfielders will undoubtedly give to him on the last day of the services. And out of that contribution he pays part of the salary of his helpers. The money that is now being raised will all go toward paying the local dealers from whom the Tabernacle supplies were bought and the local carpenters and other local men who have been employed on the work. The amount necessary for this is said to be over $6,000, and it is being asked for from the people as a whole, so as to make the meetings a great popular movement. There are undoubtedly a dozen men in this city who would gladly subscribe the sum were they permitted to do so, but that would make the movement lose its popular strength. The results already achieved prove that the meetings are worth while.

Harold S. Sharkey, who has been the sporting editor of the Daily Press for some months, left on Saturday to assume a responsible position in the sporting department of the Newark Evening News, a position which offers attractions that no newspaper in a city the size of Plainfield could expect to equal. Mr. Sharkey carries with him the good wishes of everyone connected with the Daily Press. He is but another of the long list of young men who have secured their first real training in their profession with this newspaper and have gone to larger fields, and up to the present time not one of them has failed to make good. It is sometimes hard to have to begin all over again breaking a man in, but the reward comes in knowing that they have been started with us on the right path to make successful citizens and newspaper men.

A Plainfield merchant says that he has already seen results since Dr. Biederwolf started preaching about how useless is a dead beat church member. He has had one man come to his store and lay down a substantial sum on account of a bill which has been running for years, and the debtor is a person who is identified in a somewhat conspicuous way with the movement at the Tabernacle. In one town where Dr. Biederwolf preached, a furniture dealer declared to a member of the party that he had collected nearly $4,000 on accounts which he never expected to see. If the pounding which the evangelist has given the sanctimonious dead beats accomplishes results such as this, the merchants should do even more than they are now doing to aid the work.

My Lady's Hat.

A little bunch of bent and battered felt;
A quarter's worth of lace that's hardly seen;
Two rooster feathers stuck up on the top;
A bunch of artificial grapes between.

A paper rose or two pinned on the side;
A silver buckle, value 15 cents;
A velvet ribbon hanging down behind—
The whole thing made "regardless of expense."

The thing looks like a soup plate upside down;
It hangs around her head, before and aft;
Looks drooping like and wilted, from the rain;
The whole effect's enough to drive one daft.

A man should beat a sewing basket up
Until it looks like nothing on this earth,
And trim it up and make his wife a hat,
For then he'd surely get his money's worth.

Only the name Barnum & Bailey grows old, for the purveyors of circus amusement of the "Greatest Show on Earth" have spared no expense to make this season's show exceed the most sanguine expectation. Numerous new features have been secured at enormous expense and the expenditure of this coin has brought many big novelties from Europe and has added many new departments that will more than repay anyone for crossing river and sea to see the big circus. The spectacle, "Persia—Or the Pageants of the Thousand and One Nights," has 1,400 persons taking part besides 780 horses and camels and was pronounced by press and public a gloriously irridescent eye feast. Three herds of elephants open the circus tournament and display an entirely new repertoire of sagacious demonstrations, calculated to suit the most jaded taste. The baby giraffe which was born January 24 is making quite a hit with the "kiddies" as well as the "grown-ups." Human freaks are exhibited this season in vast exposition, which for variety and number and completeness has never been excelled.

Watchung.

An interesting sermon was preached by R. L. Kertkamp, of Hillsboro, Ill., yesterday, in the Wilson Memorial church. Miss Elsie F. Schmidt and Miss Luey Hughes sang a duet at this service. The executive committee announced that there would be no evening service during the weeks of the Biederwolf campaign.

The Parent-Teacher Association will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday evening instead of Thursday in the Watchung School auditorium. Mr. Aungst, of Plainfield, is expected to make an address.

The Ladies' Aid of the Wilson Memorial church will meet Tuesday afternoon at Friendly Farm, the home of Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett, of Valley road. Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, of Plainfield, will address the meeting.

Theodore V. Moldenke, of Wagner Seminary, of Rochester, N. Y., is spending his Easter vacation at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Moldenke, of Villa Elsinore.

Kenneth Rendall and a number of college friends from Rutgers College spent the week-end at Camp Rendall.

The executive committee of the Wilson church will meet this evening.

- Proctor's Theatre -

A PRETTY SCENE IN THE NEW TRIANGLE-FINE ARTS PLAY, "MARTHA'S VINDICATION."

AT PROCTOR'S TOMORROW.

The management of Proctor's has gone to a great deal of trouble and expense to provide amusement seekers in this vicinity this week, with what proves to be the greatest program of unparalleled photplay features ever assembled in one week's program. For instance today Hall Caine's immortal masterpiece, "The Christian," which created such a sensation throughout the entire land a short time ago, is the feature attraction at Proctor's. This massive eight part spectacle is in a class by itself, and features two of the most popular of screen stars, Earle Williams and Edith Storey. It is unnecessary to go into detail regarding this production as it is recognized as the acme of perfection in photoplay entertainment. In addition today another big five reel feature in the form of "The Chorus Lady" is presented. This was adapted from Rose Stahl's most famous stage success by the Paramount Company and is enacted by an all-star cast, including Cleo Ridgeley and Wallace Reid. In addition today Frank Daniels appears in a one-reel uproar that will evoke storms of wholesome merriment. Tomorrow marks an epoch in the history of local theatricals, for it is then that Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, the world's most famous dancers and renowned couple, appear as co-stars in a stupendous artistic photoplay, entitled, "The Whirl of Life," conceded by all critics to be one of the greatest picture production ever released. Not content with showing such an extraordinary attractions the management has gone further and tomorrow in addition present Norma Talmadge in an exceedingly entertaining Triangle feature, entitled, "Martha's Vindication." Joe Jackson in an uproarious Keystone, entitled, "Gypsy Joe," and the 7th episode of "Mary Page." Wednesday another colossal masterpiece appears at Proctor's when "The Bondman" is presented with William Farnum, the greatest delineator of powerful dramatic roles, assuming the leading part. The world-read novel by Hall Caine has been made into a thrilling and gripping screen narrative by the Fox Company, and with Mr. Farnum in the leading role, the result is perfection in every sense of the word. In addition Wednesday the latest episode of "The Iron Claw" is an added attraction.

ANNUAL MEETING OF TRINTY CHURCH

Elders and Deacons Are Elected—Printed Financial Report to Be Distributed.

Following the morning service at Trinity Reformed church yesterday, officers were elected at the annual meeting, and the budget for the coming year was approved. The reading of the yearly financial report was postponed for the reason that this is to be printed this week and distributed among the members of the church. Fred S. Cutter, a member of the board of deacons, presided at the meeting, and Fred E. Smith was the clerk.

Fred E. Smith, William F. Oliver and Edgar F. Sheppard were re-elected elders, and L. M. Leek, William J. Trembath and J. S. Miller were re-elected deacons, all for a term of two years. The financial and spiritual condition of the church is reported to be excellent, and much was accomplished the past year.

TO MEET AT Y. M. C. A.

The members of the Federated Church Clubs who are to attend the revival meeting at the Tabernacle, will meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 o'clock sharp and march in a body to the Tabernacle on Giraud avenue.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

A Whole Family Of Ducklings Come to Life.

"How big the world is!" said the ducklings.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

SOON as daddy sat down Jack and Evelyn begged for a bedtime story, so he told them about the ugly duckling. "Once upon a time when the country was very beautiful with spring the sunshine fell upon an old mansion surrounded by a moat, where great dock leaves grew from the walls of the house right down to the water's edge. Some of them were so tall that a small child could stand under them. In among the leaves it was as dark as the depths of a forest. And there sat a mother duck on her nest. Her little ducks were just about to be hatched, but she was very tired of sitting so long. Few visitors ever came to see her, for the other ducks liked to swim about in the moat in the sunshine better than to waddle up the bank and gossip in the shade with her.

"At last one egg after another began to crack. 'Cheep, cheep!' they said. All the chicks had come to life and were poking their heads out.

"'Quack, quack!' said the mother duck. Then the ducklings all quacked as hard as they could and looked about them at the great green dock leaves. The mother duck let them look as much as they liked, for green is good for the eyes.

"'How big the world is, to be sure!' said all the ducklings. They certainly had more room to move about in than they had inside their eggshells.

"'Do you think this is the whole world?' asked their mother. 'The world stretches a long way on the other side of the garden, right into the parson's field. But I have never been as far as that! I suppose all you ducklings are here at last.' And she got up off her nest, where she had patiently sat so long. She looked down on the broken shells and cried: 'No! I have not got you all yet! There is the biggest egg of all! Will it never end?' And she sat down on her nest again.

"'Well, how are you getting on?' asked an old duck who had come to call.

"'This one egg is taking such a long time,' said the mother duck. 'The shell will not crack. But you must look at the others. They are the nicest ducklings I ever saw. They look exactly like their father—the rascal!'

"'Let me look at the egg that won't crack,' said the old duck. 'You may be sure it's a turkey egg! I have been cheated like that once. I had no end of trouble and worry with the creatures, for I must tell you that they are afraid of the water. I quacked and snapped at them, but 'twas no good. I simply couldn't get them to go near the water. You'll just have to leave it alone and teach the other children how to swim.'"

$1,300,000 LICENSE FEES FROM AUTOISTS

Tables for the production of pleasure cars during the five years from 1912 to 1916, inclusive, as given by the Automobile Trade Journal of Philadelphia, show that the multi-cylinder engines (the eights and twelves), have increased 275 per cent. in 1916 over 1915, the production figures being 18,850 for 1915 and 70,800 for 1916. If figures for the early years were available, they would probably show that although the two-cylinder engine was in the ascendency for several years, the four-cylinder completely routed them, until, in 1914, ninety per cent. of pleasure car production was of four-cylinder type. From 1906 on, the six-cylinder made gradual advances, being in 1913 the small light six was introduced, its rapid growth being marvelous. This increase in light sixes resulted in the dropping of the four in percentage of the total in the years 1915 and 1916.

In 1912 the total of four-cylinder cars produced was 309,114, which since has increased each year, until for 1916 the total is shown to be 947,095. In 1912 the percentage of fours to the total production was eighty-two and one-half per cent. This advanced to ninety per cent. in 1914, and although production figures for the four climbed rapidly, the figures for the six climbed with astonishing rapidity, so that for 1916 the fours represent by seventy-two and one-half per cent. of the total production.

The total of six-cylinder cars produced in 1912 was shown to be 24,066, which jumped to 70,965 for 1913, but dropped to 54,941 for 1914. The following year showed a big increase, figures reaching 137,275, or seventeen per cent. of the total of all cars produced. In 1916 figures total 287,088, which represents twenty-two per cent. of total of cars produced.

Increase of 70,800.

Eight and twelve cylinder engines (V-type) were introduced in 1915, production reaching 18,850 and being 2 1-3 per cent. of total of cars produced. The total of this type produced for 1916 show an increase of 70,800, 5 1-3 per cent. of the total.

An interesting feature disclosed by these figures on car production is, notwithstanding the increase in total production of about 400 per cent. for the five years, cars $2,500 show a decrease; and from 1913 to 1916 the production of all cars above $1,500 show a decrease. In other words, all of the tremendous increase in production is due to cars under $1,500.

The introduction of the "eights" and "twelves" in 1915 has further decreased the percentage in fours, and the tremendous rush with which these multi-cylinder engines seem to be coming bids fair to cut down the percentage of the sixes as well.

Notwithstanding this ever-widening of the field, produced by lowering in prices of the various types of cars, the production of 1,300,000 cars in the one year of 1916 will be very close to the high-water mark of production, unless foreign countries increase their purchases very materially.

No Fear of Overproduction.

There is no danger of an overproduction this year, as the entire country is enjoying phenomenal prosperity and the shortage of materials will, no doubt shrink the anticipated output somewhat.

But the larger manufacturers will do well to weigh conditions carefully before planning further increases in production. At the present rate of manufacture there will soon be 5,000,000 cars in use in the United States, and at that time 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 cars a year will be the limit of consumption. Should the output exceed the figure in 1917 or 1918, it must surely recede again later.

THE MOTOR DOCTOR

Where a pump is used to circulate the cooling water, it is wise to fill the radiator to the top and then turn the engine over several times, so as to insure the water reaching and filling all parts of the system. If the motor is not turned the pump is an obstruction to the pasage of the water into the jackets, which remain partly empty or fill so slowly as to leave the impression that there is more water in the system that there actually is.

When overhauling a motor care should be taken to assemble as many parts as possible before laying them aside, that is to say, bearings, bushing, nuts and other parts should go back into their proper places at the time reassembling is commenced. Considerable annoyance can be avoided by bearing this in mind.

Although French chalk placed between a tube and the shoe is very desirable to prevent adhesion, too much of it may prove as bad as or worse than none. If too much is used, it is likely to work up into little balls, when the continual rubbing and rolling around will ruin a tube in short order, and make it almost beyond repair, or scarcely worth the cost of the work.

In order to clean the inner lining of a top and to remove stains, gasoline should not be used. The best method is to life the top off, and, after inverting, clean the surface thoroughly with pure soap and water. If gasoline or other quack-acting fluids are used the waterproof of the fabric will be destroyed.

WOOD AND WIRE WHEELS.

Much has been said and written relative to advantages of wood and wire wheels, but the wood wheel in this country maintains its popular position, being the standard type used on nearly all cars, although the manufacturers of wire wheels do a thriving business with car owners who substitute wire wheels for the wood wheels with which the cars are originally equipped by their manufacturers. During the past there have been many attempts made to devise a resilient wheel, silent, and which will not become noisy in use and which will permit of the use of other than pneumatic tires, but judging from the slow progress which the resilient wheel has made, it is doubtful whether this type of wheel will enjoy public approval for some time to came, although it may possess distinct features of merit.

RENEWING ASBESTOS GASKETS.

Frequently when overhauling a foreign-made car the repairman will find copper-asbestos gaskets of odd size. When they have been in use for a considerable period they will have become hard and apparently unfit for further service. If new ones can not be easily obtained, the following suggestion may prove helpful. Hold the gasket over a flame for a few minutes. The heat will remove the old hardened lubricant and also soften the copper.

DECARBONIZING HINTS.

In using oxygen to remove carbon from the cylinders, there are certain points to be remembered in this connection and a recapitulation may not be without interest should be placed at the extreme top of the cylinder, as the intense heat tends to roughen the cylinder walls. The flame should not be allowed to strike the thread of the spark plug hole and the water system should be full during the operation.

AUTO AND CORN CROP.

It is pointed out by G. C. Frey, of the Kissel Kar Co., that the 2,190,597 automobiles reported in service in the United States at the close of 1915 represented only a little more than one-third the value of the corn crop. This throws light on the ability of the average farmer to buy a car.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE IN AUTO SEAT COVERS

The recent refinements that have been made in the production of seat cover material for automobiles is a typical example of the many small improvements that transpire yearly for the comfort and well-being of the motorist.

The better grade seat covers today are waterproof and dustproof. The first covers that a New England textile manufacturer devised were made of a thin grey cloth, with appearance as their sole end. It was found that the soft-toned grays and browns went together well with the heavier body and top colors, and that the patterns of seat covers could be altered to meet the individual requirements of the car and owner. Their use became more general when it was found that seat covers aided in keeping dust and water away from the leather.

The use of the first waterproof materials was not attended by perfect success. It is almost inevitable that grease spots will appear in any cloth that is constantly close to an automobile, and the first aid in such cases is gasoline.

The waterproof materials were made by glueing together a cotton cloth and a rubberized fabric. Since the gasoline reacts with the glues that are used for their purpose, not a few early seat cover users discovered that they had purchased two covers instead of one.

The latest and best covers are made by waterproofing a woolen cloth with a chemical which gasoline will not dissolve. These covers protect the leather against the inroads of both dust and water, and can be made in designs or colors, garish enough to suit any taste.

Most of the better and higher priced cars are equipped with seat covers as a part of the standard equipment.

SCOOP, THE OFFICE BOY, DISCUSSES THE AUTO ENGINE

The office boy, being an enthusiastic automobilist, has been bothering his brain in an effoffrt to work out the functions and the mode of manufacture of some of the intricate parts of the auto engine. He has solved the sleeve valve and has written his version of what it is. It follows: :

The sleeve valve is the invenshun of chas. Y. KNight. it is made out of two chunks of iron shaped like pipes with rings cut in all the way around the outside.

On top of the pipes is more holes on both sides right across from each other. These holes is for taking in the gas and letting it out again. The one hole in the two pipes comes together with the other hole and lets the gas into the combustshun place where a light from the spark plug shoots it off.

Then the holes on the other side of the too pipes comes together and lets the burnt out. The way these pipes works is this way. There is too pipes and one is bigger and fits around the outside of the one what aint so big around and works up and down so dose the one on the outside but not at the same time. This makes the holes on top of the pipes come together so they can let in the gas and out again.

When the dope is shot off it pushes the piston down and the piston turns the shaft and the shaft turns some wheels what makes another shaft go what is hooked with the two pipes or sleevve valves. There is 4 of these and each get a turn at pushing the shat what I explained one after the other and that what makes the engine go.

LOW PRICED OILS.

Lubricating oil that is sold at a very low price cannot have the quality that great care and laborious attention afford. Cheap oil has not the resistance to chemical changes which produce sulphuric acid that a more carefully made oil possesses. Free sulphuric acid in the oil reservoir of an engine is highly destructive.

Raking 'Em Over

By "JINKS"

Those interested in bowling at the local Elks' Club are just beginning to realize the good effect the house league's tournament has had on the pastime in that quarter. The ten teams have all displayed a high calibre of the alley game and the race for first place honors has instilled a keen rivalry that will no doubt inspire the organization to many similar contests. Through this means a number of new pinners have been developed and continued practice would round a number of the leaguers into form for the senior and junior combines next fall. While the league race has not been as close a fight as some of the preceding ones the pinning has been far superior to any previous tourney and each outfit has displayed a degree of "stick-to-itiveness" that assures success for any future organization.

Now that the City Baseball League has completed the preliminary details for another pennant race let's hope that the moguls have not forgotten to appoint an official record keeper. Last year batting, fielding, pitching and base running averages were unknown quantities, there being on official who felt particularly obligated to compile the figures. In one way statistics are an essential feature and in another was they prove a detriment in that they inspire individual animosity, but if Plainfield is going to have a real baseball league it must have all the fixin's. Now is the time to give the secretary his instructions so there won't be any grumbling after the season schedule gets underway.

• • • • • •

Announcement was made Saturday that four Plainfield dog fanciers, A. C. Wilmerding, G. Fred Neilson, John J. O'Donohue and F. N. Anderson, have been selected as judges for important spring meets. This bears out the belief that Plainfield is rapidly becoming recognized as a center for bow-wow critics and again reflects with credit on the merit of the recent exhibits of canines held in this vicinity. All four of these men have been active as dog fanciers hereabouts and they are well qualified to discharge the duties of a judge no matter how big the entry list or how fine the competitors happen to be.

What has become of that baseball outfit to represent the Columbus Club? Not very long ago the West Front street athletes were keyed up to a high pitch of enthusiasm regarding the prospects for a crackerajck combine but there has been a break somewhere and it is likely that it will turn out to be a human tongue circuit rather than the wagon tongue variety. There is no reason why the Columbians shouldn't have an outfit that would rival the City League clubs and it is to be hoped that the originators of the idea revive their efforts to effect such an organization.

• • • • • •

One cannot compile a prospectus for the coming baseball season without feeling that this is going to be one of the most successful years experienced by local teams. The fans are eager for the opening battles and are willing to root to the bitter end for their respective favorites. The City League enters upon its second round on April 29 and is founded on a more secure basis, having in the background one year's experience. The independent teams are just as certain of success and count on making things hum.

• • • • • •

Now that Nat Bernstein has donated a cup for individual batting honors, the leading swatsmiths of the various teams are tuning up. The matter of accurately compiling the batting averages is no easy task. In order that the task may be simplified the League moguls have requested the various managers to submit the name of one official scorer at the next meeting. The decision of each of these scorers will be final and it is not likely that protests—at least individual protests—will be countenanced.

Kachelries, the Farmer hurler, is a good hitter and a corking good fielder. When a pitcher has these additional attributes, he is worth considerable to his team. No one realizes the "Iron Man's" value more than his colleagues do. Still we are told he has a rival, a sort of "Masked Marvel," so to speak.

• • • • • •

Sid Butler, we see by the papers, has signed up with the Queen City outfit. Butler is a speed king of no mean ability and should be a valuable aid to the Queens. There is only one reason why Sid is not the High School pitcher. His it was to remove the reason but he failed to do do.

Howard Drew certainly outdistanced Frank Stephanson and Roy Morse in the recent Young Men's Democratic League games held at the 71st Regiment Armory. All three of the sprinters mentioned have local followings and have appeared here and in nearby cities.

Jack Martin will soon be in the limelight. The team with which he is playing is a hustling aggregation and has a way of making things lively. Jack has the good wishes of the Royal Rooters of Plainfield and can be depended upon to live up to expectations.

"Dippy" Jones is negotiating with the manager of the Bound Brook Bees for a series of three or more games. Jones knows that the Bees are good ballists and simply desires to show them something better. His is the right method.

A persistent rumor insists that Dunellen is to have a representative team on the field this year. The tip comes from reliable sources and should soon blossom forth into a fact.

William Victorson has burst into the pitchers' Hall of Fame rather suddenly. "Vic" has always had the stuff and can use it.

If it's advertised today it is likely that it is of timely interest to you today.

PLAINFIELD SHARPS AFTER $600 PRIZES

State Trapshooting Championship Will Be Decided June 1, 2 and 3.

The work of arranging the monster program for the State trapshooting championship, which will be held at the Little Falls Gun Club, Asbury Park, June 1, 2 and 3, is now under way.

It is estimated that over $600 in money prizes and trophies will be distributed to the gunners who participated in the three days' competition.

The last event on the program, afthe the State individual number has been decided, will be a merchandise shoot, with five prizes.

Plainfield, Somerville, Bound Brook, Westfield, Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken and Trenton will be well represented.

OPENING SHOW INDICATIVE OF INTEREST IN EQUINES

The horse show season of 1916 opened auspiciously last week with the four days' exhibition held by the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club. If the crowds that attended every session are any indication, it should be a banner year for those who follow the circuit, both as exhibitors and spectators.

While a number of old exhibitors whose names are generally associated with the National Show in Madison Square Garden were missing last week, there were many new owners to take their places.

Considering the various breeds as a whole, it would have been hard to find at any show in the country a finer lot of horses than were seen at the Brooklyn Club. In many cases the blues were to comparatively newcomers. This was particularly noticeable in the harness classes, singles and pairs, in which Miss Isabelle Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, won the point competitions with her sterling entries. The polo ponies were strong both in numbers and quality, indicating that these useful mounts are being more extensively bred.

LOCAL FANS SEE GIANTS BEAT NEWARK INDIANS

A sharp single to centre in the tenth inning by Ed Roush, the former local Federal League player, gave the Giants a 4 to 3 victory over Newark at Wiedenmayer's Park yesterday afternoon. Newark tied things up in the ninth inning and Roush's clean drive turned the game in the Giants' favor.

McGraw used pretty near everybody but Hank Fabian and the bat boy in the line, seventeen players participating in the game for New York. Fred Tenney also was generous and gave fifteen of the Indians a chance to show what they could do in the first game of the season.

Many Plainfielders were present at the contest.

GOLF "PROS." COMING NORTH.

As far as the golf professionals are concerned, the Southern season is over, and most of the well-known players have returned to their Northern stamping grounds or are on their way there. Alec Smith, former national open champion, who has been in charge of the Belleair course in Florida for the winter, arrived in town yesteday, and continued his journey to Wykagyl. Three short holes on the Wykagyl course—the fifth, sixth and seventh—that impeded contestants on crowded days last season, are being reconstructed so that a long hole will alternate with a short one, and the former champion's expert advice will be sought in the new arrangement. MacDonald Smith, who recently won the West Coast open championship at Belleair, has also returned, and he will probably remain with Alec at Wykagyl this summer. Others who have returned or are now on their way North are Jack Hobens of Englewood, George Low of Baltusrol, Gil Nicholls of Great Neck, Tommie Kerrigan of Siwanoy, Walter Hagen of Rochester, and Tom MacNamara, Western open champion. MacNamara has had one of the poorest Southern trips of his career. The Western open champion usually makes a great showing on the Southern courses, but so far this season he seems to be off form.

RECREATION NOTES.

Activities at the Washington School tonight will be as follows. Miss Snyder's dancing class will meet; the Glee Club will rehearse at 7:45; roller skating will be held in the basement; the game room will be open, and the Community Center will hold their social in the auditorium.

Tomorrow night the Zephyrs and the Athenians will meet in the High School gymnasium for basketball practice.

HUNT CLUB SEEKING NEW HEADQUARTERS

Rapid Growth and Live Fox Hunting Tendency the Cause.

Owing to the rapid growth, and extensive building operations in Plainfield and the nearby vicinity, the Watchung Hunt Club has decided to find another territory where live foxhunting is available, and also where the club can drag hunt.

The board of stewards has two or three locations now in view, which will afford a larger territory, where both live fox and drag hunting can be given the members, thereby furnishing not only better sport, but more days a week for hunting.

"ANDY" M'DONOUGH A STAR HALF-MILER

Plainfield Runner Elected President of Jersey Club at Notre Dame

Andrew L. McDonough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McDonough, of Randolph road, who is a student at Notre Dame University, has been elected president of the New Jersey Club recently organized at the big Catholic school. McDonough, who is rapidly winning the reputation of being one of the best half-milers in the Middle West, is a leading point winner on the strong Notre Dame 'varsity track team. "Andy's" victory over Ufer and Murphy, the two crack Michigan half-milers, was largely responsible for Notre Dame's winning the dual meet between the two schools recently. "Mac" has made the half-mile in less than two minutes, and he continues to take a few seconds off his best record almost every day, so that if he continues to improve at his present rate, he will undoubtedly be without a peer in the Middle West by next year.

McDonough is in the law school at Notre Dame, and is not only a fine athlete, but an excellent student, and one of the most popular men at the University.

The New Jersey Club, of which McDonough was elected president, is one of the livest student organizations at Notre Dame. It is composed of nearly a score of New Jersey boys who attend the University. The members of the club will return home in a special car in June. New Jersey boys have won a fine reputation both as students and athletes at Notre Dame. One of the greatest athletes that ever attended Notre Dame was "Rupe" Mills, a Newark boy who graduated last year, and who has since played with the Newark Feds. Mills won his monogram in four branches of sport in his last year at Notre Dame, a feat accomplished but once before at the Hoosier School. He was one of the greatest baseball and basketball players that ever attended Notre Dame. He was also president of the senior law last year.

BURLESQUE BASEBALL AS A PRACTICE STUNT

The Farmer A. C. and the Hope Chapel baseball team indulged in a practice game on Soccer Field Saturday and although it is known that the Farmers were a little ahead on the run-making, no official or, in fact, unofficial score was kept. The game lasted ten innings, not because of a tie, but because the participants felt like playing that long. Quite a few spectators were on hand and were treated to a swatfest, good base running and perfect umpiring.

The batters lined up as follows:

Hopes—Martin, 1b; J. Dixon, 2b; Jaeger, ss; Walls, 3b; Hefti, p; Hand, c; Schott, rf; Heron, lf; Snyder, cf.

Farmers—Ryan, cf; Morley, 2b-p; H. Anderson, c; Marsh, ss; Nickle, 3b; Stites, p-2b; Randolph, rf; H. Anderson, 2b; Campbell, lf.

TABS' ALLEY SCHEDULE FOR THE COMING WEEK

The following games are scheduled to be played on the T. A. B. S. alleys during this week:

Monday, April 17—Caffery and Lyons vs. Donnelly and Mahoney vs. Larew and Skinner; Tuesday, April 18—The girls of St. Mary's Social Club; Wednesday, April 19—Cullen and Winzinreid vs. Snyder and Stebor vs. Regan and McAfee.

RALLY IN THE NINTH SETTLES THE ISSUE

Queen City Outfit Triumphs Over the Highlanders in Spirited Finish.

A ninth-inning rally in which Tommy Mullin and Joe Morley played prominent parts, gave the Queen City outfit a win over the Highlanders on the Emerson avenue field. Things were humming along evenly until Billy Ryan bounced up in the fatal frame. Billy pushed a hit through Tony Denny and stole second. Randolph tapped out a slow single, Ryan advancing. Campbell flied out and Tommy Mullin was purposely walked, filling the sacks. It was then that Joe Morley bounced out the winning single.

Butler and Jack Denny both did masterful work on the hillock, while Heberman's sensational one-hand catch in left garden featured an all-around good attraction.

LOCAL CYCLISTS GET IN THE PRIZE MONEY

Simon and Mortenson Do Some Good Work at Opening of Newark Velodrome.

William Simon, Holger Mortenson and Harry R. Meyers figured prominently in the opening of the bicycle season at the Newark Velodrome yesterday, riding before a throng of 10,000. Mortenson came in third in the half-mile handicap with an 80-yard advantage, and Simon was a good fourth. For their performance the former received a $15 cash prize and the latter one of $10. Both displayed clever on the track despite the fact that they were riding with road equipment, and their opponents all were fitted out with the most approved track regalia. Both of the Plainfield winners rode in the third heat, Mortenson winning the heat and Simon coming in second with his 75-yard handicap. Simon and Mortenson appeared to be about on the par in this heat, Mortenson's five yard handicap over Simon giving him the advantage at the finish.

In the one-mile novice for amateurs Mortenson was also a competitor, but failed to qualify in the third heat, which was won by Clarence Bayard, of East Orange, in 2:17 2-5. Alexander Campbell, of Plainfield, was also entered in this event, but failed to start.

Willie Simon rode in the first heat of the two-mile open amateur and was pulling for a good third, when a pair in the field ahead of him went down in a heap and spoiled his chances. The spill was a bad one, but the Plainfield wheelman escaped injury. Harry Meyers was slated to ride for Plainfield in this event, but did not start. In the fourth heat of the same event Mortenson had a bad spill and was forced to retire.

This was the first of a summer series of races to be held under the auspices of the Newark Velodrome Cycle Racing Association, and the representatives of the Queen City Wheelmen organization are planning to take part each Sunday. Among the big throng of spectators yesterday were many from this city and vicinity, and it is expected that big delegations will go over each week to see the local pedalers perform.

The Plainfielders are practicing daily, and George Simon, of North avenue, whose store is the headquarters of the organization, has ordered complete sets of track equipment for the local pushers, and it is expected that they will do much better on future occasions.

FOURTEEN PLAINFIELD GOLFERS LISTED IN OFFICIAL RATINGS

Fourteen Plainfield golfers have been listed by James A. Tyng, chairman of the handicap committee of the Metropolitan Golf Association in his official 1916 announcement made yesterday. One localite, Robert Abbott, is placed at handicap five, while six are placed at six, three at seven, one at eight and five at nine.

The list contains 628 names this year, against 559 for last year. With the exception of the increase in the number of handicapped players, there is nothing startling about the list, except the fact that Phil Carter, junior metropolitan champion and North and South amateur champion, is rated at 3 instead of 2, where it was expected that he would be placed.

Jerry Travers once more heads the list, the solitary holder of a scratch position. His victory in the open championship at Baltusrol was the deciding factor that placed him two classes above all the other golfers in the metropolitan district, for the rest of his work through the season would not entitle him to a position so far in advance of the field. Max Marston has been moved up from 4 to 2, and John G. Anderson, a newcomer on the list, is also rated at 2 with Kirkby and Walter J. Travis, both of whom enjoyed that same distinction last year. Outside of a few minor changes, the rest of the list is nearly identical with that of last year.

Why the "Pro" Golfer Tops the Novice on the Greens

BY JOE GREEN.

The question has often been brought up as to just where the difference lies in the margin of ability between the professional golfer and the amateur. The amateur fails chiefly in his inability to judge correctly his second shot. This is the place where the professional takes his advantage and holds it.

The average amateur generally is short of the green on this shot, and will always hesitate, fearing his ball may run over the putting green into the rough, while the "pro" will take a look at the pin, and with his iron or brassie, or whatever club he chooses to use, let drive, with the result that he generally gets in closer to the hole than his amateur rival. The amateur will spend much time in the perfection of his drive, his putting or short approaching from the outskirts of the green, but you will seldom see him practicing his second shot, which is one of the most important of all.

It is the tendency of the beginner to put all of his time on the drive, the sensation of hitting balls a long distance giving great satisfaction. Then, too, it looks brave to step up to the tee, take your stance and "let her go" for a respectable distance down the fairgreen. If he misses his second shot he doesn't worry much, as it is not considered so much of a disgrace to be caught napping in this department. There also is another phase of the game in which the professionals are able to "put it all over" their amateur brethren, and this has been brought out in every exhibition match which has ever been held. That is in getting out of trouble.

The average good amateur player can do very well as long as he keeps on the course, but let him get in the rough, get a bad lie or go in a trap or water hazard, and nine times out of ten he is a "goner." On the other hand, the professional does not seem to worry when he has troubles of this kind, and some really remarkable recoveries have been made by them on different links. If the amateurs would devote as much time to improving their game along these two lines as they do their driving and putting their golf would improve wonderfully.

SOME GOOD MARKS AT CLIMAX TRAPS

Tom Brantingham and A. L. Seidler Set up Notable Records.

Shooting at the Climax Gun Club's traps, Saturday afternoon, Thomas Brantingham, of Park avenue, established a record that compares favorably with the best ever set up in this section, making four consecutive tens, another ten, two nines and two sevens in a ten-event ten-bird match. Mr. Brantigham was in rare form for the contest, and he handled his gun with a degree of marksmanship that was marveled at by the host of other competitors on the scene. The meet was well attended, and the marks of all contestants were very creditable.

"THE WHITE LIFE"

Sermon of the Rev. William E. Biederwolf to Men Only At the Tabernacle Yesterday Afternoon.

David is king of Israel and Absolom, his own boy, is arch-conspirator against the throne. David has fled from Jerusalem and gone to a city beyond the Jordan, while close at hand in the forest of Ephraim a hard-fought battle is in progress, and at the head of israel's army is the king's son. Great issues are involved; the throne of David and his life are at stake. The king is at the gate of the city while the watchman has mounted the wall to look for coming news of the battle. As he looks he sees two men running alone; he has no sooner told the king below than the men arrive in breathless haste with tidings from the field. The fortunes of the day have been with David's troops. The enemy has suffered defeat, the rebellion has been crushed, and its leader, with three arrows through his heart, is hanging by his hair among the boughs of an oak. But while the returning troops are shouting their songs of triumph, the king, broken-hearted, goes up to the chamber over the gate to weep, and as he goes, thus he says, "Oh, my son, Absolam, my son, my son, Absalom! Would God I had died for thee, oh Absalom, my son, my son."

David was weeping over a wasted life. What splendid opportunities this young man did have for a bright and honorable career! He had had all that any young man could have. Fortune had smiled upon him and laid at his feet all the wealth, the culture and knowledge of an oriental monarchy. What prospects for the years to come, but what a miserable failure he made of it all! And he's not the only young man of whom I know or you know who has had opportunities just as good as his, but whose sun has gone down at high noon and whose life has been wrecked just as sadly as this one of which we speak.

Was Fast Young Man.

Absalom's career might briefly be summed up by saying, "He was a fast young man." He was rich. It might have been better for him if he had been poor. If wealth is the gift of fortune, then the smile of fortune often makes a man unfortunate. You may not have to work for your living, but you do have to work for your character, and the man who has his living made for him has a pretty hard row to hoe if out of the God-given materials of his own self he carves and chisels a character that shall stand the test both of time and of eternity. Money is all right if honestly acquired. Get all you can, but don't can all you get. Use it for God and your family and it will bring a blessing into your life, but remember that great wealth has kept more young men away from a pure life than ever has the want of it.

Great wealth led Absalom as it does so many young men today into high life, and high life led him as it does so many young men today into fast life, and fast life is invariably the macadamized road to hell. Young men, let your ambition rise higher than to be a mere pet in society. Life is a battle, a real stern conflict, and a good many of us have already found it out, and it's not going to be fought with quaker guns and toy pistols and there isn't any room for the feather-brained dude, "the unimportant appendix to the wet end of a cigarette," the young man with more collar than culture:

"The young man who would
Be a women if he could;
But since he can't, does all he can
To show the world he's not a man."

And the young man who finds his chief delight in the wine room and the billiard hall and the cheap theatre and in conversation with questionable women will find himself enervated for the struggle and defeated in the contest.

Need Honest Hearts.

Now if we had time we might easily see that Absalom was guilty of all the sins peculiar to his time and long years after this scene occurred his old white-haired and broken-hearted father took up his pen and wrote these words, "Wherewithal shall a young man cleanse his way?" Now David knew what he was writing from bitter experience; and if there is one man in this audience or in all this city whose life can't be made a little cleaner and a little more Christlike by the grace of God, he's not like the rest of us poor fellows, God help us! and God help him, too, for I verily believe that no man's life is so clean as he who with brazen face will boast that he needs no cleansing whatsoever. God give us honest hearts just now.

What about Sabbath desecration? The former holy hush of God's best day has given away to the rabble rush for pleasure and the greed for gold. If a man had given you six dollars, it would be pretty mean to steal his seventh and last one, wouldn't it? and it seems to me the same principle ought to keep a man from using God's seventh and sacred day in a way to please himself when God has already given him six days in which to attend to the business and pleasures of this world. It may be there are some here who already desecrated this day, and I want to ask you, if God lets you live to see the light of another Sabbath, that you will spend its sacred hours so that at the going down of its sun you can say, I have lived this day just as I would have lived it had I known I was to meet my God at its close.

Profanity.

What about the sin of profanity—this high crime of taking the name of God in vain with almost every sentence that some men utter I wonder if there's anybody here who needs to have his way cleansed from a thing like that? I sometimes feel a sense of pity for the victim of certain habits, but there's no sin that's so absolutely senseless and so little to be excused as this habitual scorching the lips with the name of the most holy God in profanity The man who does it without effort or desire to cease from it is low-grained in his fiber and altogether unworthy of being recognized as a gentleman. You're not having any trouble to understand me, are you? It's a sad commentary on men when a mother can't send her child down the street on an errand unless he has his little heart sowed full of seeds of profanity before he gets back. I heard a father the other day utter a most damnable oath before his little seven-year-old boy. Man, you'd better be dead and in your grave than to be living with those given to you by God and be guilty of a thing like that.

What about the sin of intemperance; this awful vice that holds in its clutch 250,000 of the once fairest of our land, and sends 70,000 of them every year down into a drunkard's grave? I read the other day that the beer drank in this country every year would fill a canal forty feet wide and fourteen feet deep and twenty miles long. I know of a lot of fellows who'd like to swim in a canal like that.

Gambling.

What about gambling? I wonder if there is any need of a cleaning in this place from a thing like that? No doubt there is, and a great need of it, too, unless this place differs from most others where I am privileged to speak in these days; and some of those engaging in it can ill afford to spare the few dollars that ought to go to cheer and brighten the homes and the hearts of the wives and little ones. I think a gambler is about the meanest, lowest, most disreputable thing that passes for a man of anything that breathes under the sun. The man who with a black heart under a white shirt front will take another man's money on the plea that he ran a chance of losing his own—with every cent he wins and with every penny he loses his infernal passion is fanned into a fierce flame until he will sacrifice on the altar of his lust, his money, his honor, his home, his love, and what were once his loved ones, and then will rattle his dice and shuffle his cards on the coffin of his victims and pocket the blood red gold of his murdered kindred. Some one has said that gambling bears the same relation to robbery that duelling does to murder. One man will meet another in a dark alley and take his life at the end of a pistol, and you call that murder; two men will meet each other in an alley and agree to shoot at each other until one or both fall dead, and you call that duelling. But the only difference is that in the first case there is one murdered and in the second case there are two. One man will meet another in a dark alley and take his money at the end of a pistol and you call that robbery; two men will meet each other round a table and agree to take each other's money with dice or cards, and you call that gambling. But the only difference is that in the first case there is one robber, and in the second case there are two. Judas was a gambler and he sold his Christ for thirty pieces of silver, and I read in the Bible that they took the money and bought a graveyard with it, and called it in the Syric lanugage Aceldema, which means "The Field of Blood," and this afternoon over every race course, over every roulette table and every gambling device; over every church fair or anywhere where a man or woman wins or loses what otherwise would not be theirs, simply because they have taken a risk and chanced to hold the lucky number, I would write the word, "Blood Money," and brand everyone who does it as a dishonest man or a dishonest woman.

Impure Imagination.

What about the sins of the imagination? Oh, these imaginations of ours, how often they are unholy; this fairy land, the enchanted ground; the place of odorous flowers and rosy clouds and balmy breezes where all unseen and undiscovered this subtle power creates unholy scenes of lust and dreams, and entertaining the bewitching thought rolls it over and over in the mind like a sweet morsel under the tongue until the deed has been done and the sin committed a thousand times over in the heart, although restraint may be practiced in the outer life. An impure imagination can pierce through anything to see a forbidden object; it can lend beauty to beastlinees and transform a loathsome vice into a bewitching charm and once let an impure imagination be thus brought into play and it will set the whole of a man's sensual nature on fire with hell.

There is not one fallen man or fallen woman—and notice I speak of a fallen man just as I do of a fallen woman; God only knows which one has fallen the lower, but I utterly loathe this sentiment that would "stone the woman and let the man go free;" that would trod the victim of his lust down in the mire and let the man wipe his lips and step back into decent society—but I say you will not find one such man or woman whose fall did not lie through a polluting preparatory process in which the imagination was indulged in the forbidden sweets of sin. Where is the man who would live a White Life! Guard well the sacred chamber of the imagination! You may not be able to keep these unholy thoughts from flashing into your mind, but you can keep from entertaining them after they come. As a quaint old preacher puts it: "You can't keep the birds from flying about your head, but you can keep them from building nests in your hair." If the devil steps on the inside, you don't need to offer him a chair and get on familiar terms with him.

Unholy Conversation.

What about these lips of ours and the sin of unholy conversation? In the presence of a depraved postitute you can hear words that would disgrace the foulest denizen of the lowest pit of hell, but how men of fairly decent type can scorch lips with the self-same stuff is enough to make a pure man sick in his heart.

Father, if you have a pure hearted boy you might better, with thanksgiving, see him go down to his grave than to see him forming associations with such fetid cultures of moral disease, and better go there yourself than to live and be uttering such corruption in his presence. If I had a boy I'd rather see him living in the slimy air of some foul dungeon with lizards and scorpions and venomous toads, if his heart were pure, than to have him dwell with men who deem a little smutty and indecent stories as things to laugh at and then to see in the end a whole nest of hissing vipers wriggling in his heart. Foul language spreads contagion worse than smallpox, and it can't be quarantined, but goes from lip to lip and heart to heart with its withering, damning curse; like a slimy serpent it winds its venomous coils about holy manhood and pure womanhood, and drags them through sensual mire down to hell. Where is the man who will take upon himself the vow of a white life? Let him begin with a white tongue.

Unholy Actions.

And now one step farther. What about the sins of unholy action? Do any of us need to have our way cleansed from that?

One other thing must be mentioned before we are through; I refer now to the human scoundrelism that looks upon woman as the legitimate prey of beastly passions and polluted appetites; the black-heartedness that sacrifices the pearl of a woman's chastity to swinish lust; the foul seducer of virtue, who, under the promise of speedy marriage, will take advantage of that which is best in a woman—her love, and then fling her aside to let her lie, scorned and unhelped in her life in the terrible suffering of a name-shame, or to seek the mire of prostitution, at last to finish up her weary life in the terrible suffering of a nameless disease.

And if there is any heel more to be shunned than another, it is the hell of him who has trampled a mother's fond hopes, a sister's sweet kiss, and a loving maiden's pure confidence in the mire of a life rotten with vice; the seducer of virtue, who goes to meet the victim of his depraved passion in the world of everlasting ruin whence he sent her, and there to hear her reproaches heaped upon him while his own quickened conscience stings him with remorse for what he might have been, and with loathing for what he is; while all the torments of that infernal place take hold upon him—his is hell. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. He that soweth to the wind, shall reap the whirlwind; he that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption."

When Paul whote to Timothy he said: "Keep thyself pure," and the doctrine that impurity is a necessity is a damnable fallacy. If there is a man in your city who calls himself a doctor and will tell your young men that such a thing is a health essential, he isn't fit to go into a decent home in your town; and before God and man he is a wilful liar! God never would have said: "Thou shalt not commit adultery," it was necessary to do so, and all reason and observation and best medical authority declares it to be a chief course of physical debility, in a very strong sense, it is the source of all disease.

He who is not pure is not a man, and out of respect to lower creation we may not call him beast. This does not refer to him who is struggling for the mastery over passión, but to the reprobate who has given himself up to it.

Need a Return.

Is there anything manly about him who expects purity from his wife and can't give it in return?

Sam Jones said it, and it is true, "If there is a deeper, darker hell for one man than there is for another, it is for the infamous scoundrel who will come home at night from a house of shame and pillow his dirty old head by the side of his sweet, virtuous wife."

Is there anything manly about a brother who expects his sister to be purer than himself? In Cincinnati, a young man went to a house of infamy and when the young woman came in, he struck a match to see her, and as the light flashed on her face, he drew his pistol—bang! bang! it went, and the girl fell. The keeper came; the face of the young man was ghastly pale as he said: "That young lady is my sister." Before God, I say that she has as much right there as he.

These things ought be said just here. All these things increase just like the weeds in a garden unless they are rooted out. Out in California where they drive stages down the steep mountain sides, it is necessary to put the brake on hard lest the coach plunge down upon the haunches of the horses. There was some time ago, a very godless driver who had been for forty years on a certain route. He was a vile, profane man, who often boasted that he feared neither God, man nor the devil. At last he was on his deathbed and as he lay there his friends noticed him kicking out with his right foot as if he were searching for something. They thought it too warm and took off most of the covering, but still he continued to reach out with his right foot They spoke to him but received no response. At last his old chum, Joe, came and said: "Bill, what's the matter? Isn't there something I can do for you?" And looking up into Joe's face with a look that Joe said he never could forget, Bill said: "My God, I'm speeding down the hill and I can't find the brake." Speeding down hill and I can't find the brake! Young man, put on the brake at the top of the hill, and stand today in the strength of God and your manhood, and you can live a life that an angel would be proud to own.

None Are Perfect.

The other thing is this. We're all guilty! You may not be a gambler, I may not be a profane man, and you may not be an impure man, but we all of us, are sinners and have within us the root of sin from which these things spring. We are not perfect, and we need to have our lives cleansed. How shall it be done? Listen. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." "Out of the heart proceedeth evil thoughts and such like." If the fountain head of a stream is unclean how can you expect clean water to flow down the river? And if the heart is unclean, how are you going to have pure thoughts to dwell in the mind and pure actions to characterize the life? And now listen: "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sin,"—thank God it makes no difference about the past—"and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." You've tried to win the victory alone and you know how you've failed, but listen again. "The Spirit of the life of Christ makes me free from the law of sin and death." Believe it or not.

And now I want you to listen to four or five brief reasons why every White life, the Christ life, is the Christian life.

First: It is the reasonable life. I have heard of a man who said he was going to decide this thing in a reasonable way, and that he would write down on one piece of paper all the reasons why he ought to be a Christian, and on another all the reasons why he ought not to be a Christian, and then he would weigh the matter in a rational way and decide like a reasonable man. And he so began. He wrote first the reasons why he ought to be a Christian, and his pen just flew down the paper and up on the other side until it was full of reasons; and then he began with the reasons why he ought not to be a Christian. He put down the figure one and there his pen stopped. He could not think of one single reason why he ought not to be a Christian. And you can't either. There are no such reasons. Some men talk and act as though the Gospel was unworthy the endorsement of a thinking brain, but, friends, the brains of the world are marshalled on the side of the Gospel.

My brother, come with all your intellect today and you will find yourself in agreeable company as far as brains go.

A Manly Life.

Second, it is the manly life. I have never heard of but one man who ever gave any reason for not being a Christian and he frankly confessed that he wasn't man enough. It takes a man to be a Christian; anybody can live the other kind of life. A dead fish can go down stream, but it takes a live one to go up. There are some men who are daring to refuse the surrender of their lives to God, thinking to do just as they please, as long as they please, and expecting God to save them when they get good and ready to let Him. Man, if you've ever thought a think like that, never think it again and lay any claim to being a real man.

In the third place it is the life of great blessing. Every man who has tried it knows this is true. Why, man, you can lie down to sleep every night with heaven in your soul if you're living a Christian life; and oh, what it would mean for the home if father and husband were only a Christian.

In the fourth place, it is the heavenly life. Paul says: "They that do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of heaven."

I have read the story of a man upon whom the drink habit had fastened its terrible grip; it took his wife and child from a beautiful home to a miserable garret. One day a message came to him while in a drunken stupor that if he wanted to see his little boy alive he must come at once. It sobered him instantly and going home he found his boy with but an hour of life before him. He had been playing in the street and was run over by a large wagon and terribly crushed. As the father came and knelt at the cot, the little fellow took his hand and said: "Father, I can't die till you promise me you will give up your sin and meet me and maama in heaven." "And," said the man, "with his hand in mine I promised God I'd make an honest effort to give up my sin, and promised my boy I'd meet him in the better world, and ever since that time I have felt the clutch of my little boy's hand pulling me higher and higher, and I know I can't help reaching heaven at last," and man if you ever reach heaven, if in your redeemed state you ever meet again those you love, it will be when you take your stand for God with the other Christian men of this community, and by His help make an honest effort to forsake your sin.

Others Need Help.

Let me now mention a last reason, and it seems to me it ought to stir all that is best and noblest in every man here. It is this: Others need your help. There are men here who could stand up today and say: "I mean henceforth to be a Christian man," and your whole family would come running into the kingdom of God; but because you have not had the courage or have not had the concern to take your stand boldly on the side of God, you have been standing in the way of those whom God has given you.

Oh, man! you've been worse than the Chinese, for while they dwarf the feet of their little ones you have been dwarfing their souls and crushing out of their hearts every inclination to be pure and holy and Christlike. Father, in God's name, what do you mean? You've all doubtless heard the story; I tell it only because it is so forceful, the story of a man going out to his barn one wintry morning after a fresh fall of snow. He did not know his little six-year-old boy was following until he heard the little voice behind him saying: "Papa, I'se putting my feet in your tracks," and looking back he saw the child stretching out his little legs and putting his foot in the place made by his father in the snow. Oh, father, that very thing is true of your child today; putting their feet in your tracks; which way are those tracks leading?

Mrs. J. K. Barney has been called "the prison angel;" she has befriended more prisoners perhaps than any other woman of our day. Entering a New England prison one day the warden said to her: "Mrs. Barney, there is a young prisoner dying! we have sent for his mother, but there has been a wreck on the Old Colony Road and she cannot arrive until her boy is dead. Won't you be a mother to him?" Mrs. Barney knew what that meant; she went up to his bed and talked to him about God, and heard him say his faith was in Christ. Then he said: "Mrs. Barney, they tell me mother can't get here until after I am gone; won't you say to her for me that I asked her to kiss me and say she would forgive me for all my sins against her?" and a few moments after the young man was dead. About an hour later the train came rolling in.

Thoughts For Her Son.

The mother's first inquiry was for her boy, and when told he was gone she had to be fairly carried up the stairs to where he lay. Mrs. Barney delivered the message and what do you suppose the mother did? Just what your mother would have done if you had lain in that young man's place. She lifted back the sheet and while tears streamed from her eyes she kissed his pale face and said: "Joe, your mother has come and she forgives you, but, oh God, his father?"

"Mrs. Barney," she said, "I suppose you think that this is a strange prayer to make, but when this boy was but nine years old I heard him utter an awful oath and when I reproved him for it, he said: "Why, mamma, I heard papa say that last night," and when he was but twelve I found him half intoxicated, and with these arms I carried him into the home and held him until the stupor had worn away, and heard him say the one who gave him the drink was his father. Mrs. Barney," she said, "that was the beginning, this is the end," and stooping down, she kissed him again and again and said: "Joe, your mother has come and she forgives you, but, oh my God, the father."

Listen! men, while I tell you something better than that. A young lad of fourteen lay dying and the broken-hearted father was kneeling by the bedside. "Willie," he said, "I have a sad message for you; the doctor tells me you are dying." The little boy closed his eyes just a minute and then, as a sweet smile stole across his face, he opened them and said: "Papa, I'm not afraid to die and when I die I'll hurry up and find our Jesus and tell Him I had the best papa in all the world because you taught me all my days to love Him."

Oh, father, if your boy were taken from you today could he say a thing like that about you? When the time comes that I must stand by the open grave of those I love I want to be able to lift my face to heaven and say that while they were with me I did all I could to help them to be as God would have them be. Don't you? And God knows I could not say that, and you could not say it, unless we have been earnest men ourselves and positive Christian men ourselves; and when the time comes when I must meet them again in the presence of the God of us all, I want that they shall be able to witness before Him that I was a help and not a hindrance to them on their way to heaven. Don't you? And if you do will you say, "From this day, God helping me, I mean as far as I can, to live the life I believe God wants me to live."

BIEDERWOLF BOMBS

"The dearest place this old world has ever given you or me to know is the place we call our home."

"Most of our children of today don't have a fair chance to get real well acquainted with their parents."

"The home is the moulding room where character is formed, it is the training school where character is shaped."

"If you run a private wine room in your home, don't growl because someone runs a public wine room downtown."

"Look out, old skeptic, old bragger, about your infidelity. It wouldn't be so bad for you to go to hell, but you are taking your children with you."

"We have been talking a good deal about how to get rid of anarchists. I wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing to try the common sense plan and stop raising them in the home."

"The germ that comes out of hell and corrodes and corrupts, and ulcerates and atrophies, and destroys and damns the soul—it begins in a small way."

"Say, I'd rather have the open saloon any time than your high-toned club, with your fine clothes, and its nice furniture."

"It's a sad commentory on men when a mother can't send her child down the street on an errand unless he gets his little heart sowed full of seeds of profanity before he gets back."

"I think a gambler is about the meanest, lowest most disreputable thing that poses for a man of any thing that breathes under the sun."

"I utterly loathe the sentiment that would 'stone the woman and let the man go free.' "

"If I had a boy I would rather see him living in the shiny air of some foul dungeon with lizards and scorpions and venomous toads, if his heart were pure, than to have him dwell with men who deem a little smutty and indecent story as a thing to laugh at."

"Sam Jones said, and it is true, 'If there is a deeper, darker hell for one than there is for another, it is for the infamous scoundrel who will come home at night from a house of shame and pillow his dirty old head by the side of his sweet, virtuous wife."

"THE MORAL LEPER"

Sermon of the Rev. William Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Sunday Evening.

About four years ago I was walking down the street which is called straight, in the city of Damascus, the city in which Shakespeare would try to make us believe that Cain killed Abel. I was there with four or five companions, when the guide led off to one side a bit and said: "This way, please, if you want to see the house of Naaman, the leper." Of couse we wanted to see it, and talking all the time as we went the guide led on. He turned under an open archway and led us through a narrow passage into an open court, and there of all the hide-out, loathsome, nauseating, repulsive, polluting sights mortal eyes ever beheld the worst was there before us.

I saw sitting about on the ground the monstrous and ghastly forms of what were still living men and women. Their bodies were swollen and disfigured and the putrid flesh oozed out through the abrasions of the skin. The fingers were eaten away, and from some the whole hand was gone. The hair had fallen out. The cheek of this one and the lips of another had rotted and sloughed away. Where the nose had been was an unsightly scab and the whole body, more beastly than human, seemed to be rotting piecemeal away.

I said to the guide, "Man, tell us what we ought to know and let us be gone." And he said, "We are now in the house of Naaman and these are lepers."

Lepers Everywhere.

Don't you know, men, that there are 300,000 lepers in the world, many in the United States, but the most of them are in Asia Minor. There are, however, moral lepers in every country, and you have some right here in your own fair city. It is too bad, but it is true; yet Plainfield ought to be cleansed, and you are the ones to cleanse it.

The memory of that awful sight has never left me, and I never think of it but I say to myself, "I never want to see it again."

Leprosy is the most awful disease in the world, the most loathsome, polluting, ulcerating, decomposing thing in the universe, and this is the thing that had laid its withering, blighting, damning touch upon Naaman, the Captain of the Syrian host.

Next to the King Naaman was the most powerful man in the realm. He was a man of great valor, a courageous soldier, brave, patriotic, trusted and honorable; in peace or in war, in camp or in palace, he was the favorite of the king, of the soldiers and of the people. He was a mighty military potentate; the Caesar, the Napoleon, the Cromwell of his time. A man more powerful than the Prime Minister, a man with an influence like the French cardinal, who stamped his foot in the senate chamber and said: "It shall be done," and the king would tremble and nod assent. Such a man was Naaman, but he was a leper and when you say that the very beggars of the street begin to pity him. The worst slave in Syria wouldn't change skins with him, because he was a leper.

A Symbol of Leprosy.

Now you don't need to know very much about leprosy to appreciate the fact that the Bible makes use of it as a symbol of sin, but the more you study the pathology and the pathogony of this loathsome disease the keener that appreciation becomes until you are not surprised to hear God say of a sinner, as He does in Isaiah, "The whole head is faint and the whole heart is sick; from the sole of the foot even unto the head there is no soundness in it, but wounds and bruises and putrifying sores."

I want to say some things about the leprosy and show you how like it your sin really is.

The leprosy gets into a man's system before he knows it and it's a long time before it begins to show itself. And then the sores at first are no larger than pin heads, but they get as big as dollars and bigger; the scales at first are just here and there, but at last they cover the entire body; the body becomes malodorous while the poison bores its way into the veins and nerves and very vitals of its victims until the festering flesh sloughs off and the bones begin to separate at the joints and the fingers drop away and then the hands and toes and feet; the lips and the eyelids rot away, until the man's condition is too horrible to be described.

And that's the way it is with sin, the germ that comes out of hell and corrodes and corrupts and ulcerates and atrophies and destroys and damns the soul—it begins in a small way.

Time to Call a Halt.

And talk about moral lepers and sin; I saw a drunken man on the streets of your city yesterday afternoon; and say, that man never thought 25 years ago that he would be a dirty, rotten, stinking sot, a victim of the open license saloon, but there are thousands upon thousands like him, and it's time the Christian people of this country were putting a stop to it.

A young man told me a short while ago that he got his first drink from an elder in the church at a lodge. He said he had been to the club, it matters not what city, and the elder gave him strong drink. Say, I'd rather have the open saloon any time than your high-toned club, with your fine clothes and its nice furniture. It's this secret drinking, this taking of drinks in private, so to speak, that is the damnation of many a young man; and this young man told me that if his mother knew his real condition it would break her heart. There are many young men like him.

I care not whether you have money or whether you have everything that you may need, you are a moral leper unless you lead a clean life and keep away from the women who use their bodies for commercial purposes. And here's something else:

Young man, you are about to take to the altar some pure and trusting girl, but if your character is befouled and your body is debauched by reason of a lecherous, degenerate life, then in the name of love and justice and in defense of the defenseless one, I demand that you shall stand back and cry, "Unclean, Unclean."

Shun Vile Associates.

And the young man degenerate who thinks it is an evidence of manhood to take a drink of beer, or talk about a woman's shape, or to laugh at your mother's Bible Young man, keep away from associations who are vile. It's contagious to be with them. Be careful.

Girls! You girls of Plainfield, stay out of the public dance halls. I don't know which is the worst, the public saloon or the public ballroom. Girls, if you go to these places and run the streets you'll get your virtue mildewed. Mothers and fathers, have you no thought of the lives of your boys and girls? And you know that one bad peach in a basket can put the whole basket on the bum. How do you expect to be good and pure if you associate with those that are not good?

Then girls, when your preacher attempts to tell you anything that is for your good, you say, "He's too straight laced, he's too strict," and you say you don't want to be tied to your mother's apron string. And parents, listen, it's not always the boys' and girls' fault that they are what they are. It may be the fathers or mothers.

Listen! Let me tell you a story, a story that you all know. It's about leprosy. You all know of Ben Hur; you've read the book. If you haven't let me refresh your minds. You remember the incident leading up to the banishment of Ben Hur and the confiscating of the family estate. Ben Hur was sentenced to be hanged, but he escaped that fate. His mother and sister were exiled and confined to a leper cell. Ben Hur returned one day from his exile. He came back to the old home; listen, and get the story—I want you all, even those away back in the rear, to get it.

Returns to His Home.

Ben Hur returns. He walks to his old home. The doors and windows are closed, the blinds drawn, everything is quiet and deserted. He lays down on the door step and falls asleep, and towards the evening his mother and sister come out of the leper cells to the city to beg bread and secure water. They walk down the street, past the old home, and they see lying upon the door step a man. His sister pulls the handkerchief away that he had used to cover his face and mother and sister recognize him. They dare not awaken him for fear that his anguish in learning of their condition would be greater than he could bear. They dare not touch him, for they were lepers and the law forbade, so they creep stealthily to his side and press their leprous lips against the sandals that cover his feet. Satisfied with their expression of love they secure the bread and water for which they had come and return to the tombs, the dying among the dead. They left Ben Hur sleeping upon the steps. I'll finish this story later.

And you, mothers! You are too easy with your daughters. It has come in the point with you that you give the girl a night key and let her come in when she will. Got pity your lack of sense. And the boys, too, stay out all hours, and you don't know when they do come in. If you will let your girl go out with a fellow to church or some other place, for pity's sake wait up for her, and tell her before she goes out that you'll wait for her; and teach her to be in at a reasonable hour. And if you permit your girl to have company, and you do allow your girls to sit by themselves in the parlor with young men, try and find out who and what these young fellows are before you permit them to call at your home.

Here's a story that I know is true. It is what I heard at one of my revivals:

"Father, listen to me just a minute. What difference does it make what you've been to children in other respects, if you never taught them to pray, but started their feet in the wrong direction by your careless, good-for-nothing and Godless life. Some day they will see you lying in your coffin and then they will take you out and lay you in your grave and when they come back to the home what will they see? Your portrait will be hanging on the wall and when they look on it they will see the beer glass raised to your lips, again profane the name of Christ and belittle the preacher and damn the church. That's all the heritage some of you will ever leave them—the memory of a good-for-nothing, worthless life.

Now let us get back to Naaman! He was unclean!

Grew Steadily Worse.

Now, Naaman tried all the physicians in the towns where he lived, but he grew worse. On one of his military expeditions he captured a little Jewish maiden and took her home as a sort of servant.

This little Jewish girl was installed in his home and she told Naaman that he could be cured. "Why," she said, "we have a God in our country that cures people of leprosy." She kept on telling it, but they paid no heed to it at first. And by and by the report reached old Benhadad, the King, and he sent for Naaman and said: "What is this I hear? They say you have a little Jewish girl in your house, and she says they have a God down yonder who cures diseases such as you have. You had better go and see what he can do for you."

I can see Naaman as he gets ready to make the journey. He can't kiss his wife or his babies good-bye, because he is a leper and the law forbade, so he has to stand and call to to them from a distance.

Naaman dared not go near his wife to bid her good-bye. He had to call to her from a distance. I can see him and hear him say: "Good-bye, wife. I don't know that I will ever see you and the children again. It's a tour days' journey under the hot sun, but it's my last chance. Good-bye."

And I see him as he goes down the highways of Damascus, and as he crosses the plains and until he reaches the city of Jezriel, and goes up in front of the palace of the King Jehoram.

Naaman dare not enter the palace, so he sent his servant in, and the servant bowed with Oriental obeisance before Jehoram the King, and I can imagine him handing Jehoram an epistle from Benhadad the King. Jehoram tears it open and begins to read, and he tore his hair, and put on sackcloth and ashes, and raved, and his knees smote one against the other and he called his people together and sand: "Come here, quick, a military scheme, upon my word, sir. Ah! A letter from Benhadad the King, and he sent Naaman, the commander and chief of his army, and he thinks I can cure his leprosy."

Jehoram, however, said to the servant: "Take him to Elisha, the prophet."

Delivers the Message.

The servant delivers the message, Naaman wheels around and down the street they go with pomp and ceremony and stop in front of the hut of the old prophet. Naaman dare not enter the hut. Lepers could enter no home; every door was shut in the face of a leper.

And so I can see the servant entering the hut. I can imagine Elisha, the prophet, sitting up on a high stool, writing with a quill pen and scratching away, when Naaman's servant enters and with Oriental obeisance bows low and says: "Peace, Master, peace. Great and mighty Naaman, captain of the hosts of the King of Syria, awaits thee at the door. Unfortunately he is a leper, sir, and cannot enter into your august presence, your majesty, but he has heard of your miraculous cures and hopes to become the recipient of your wonderful curative qualities and awaits you at the door." The old prophet of God never looks up, just keeps on writing, and says: "You tell him to go and dip seven times in the Jordan."

Out goes the servant. Naaman sits on his horse.

"Ain't he home?" says Naaman.

"Yes, he's in there writing hieroglyphics on an old manuscript."

"Well, why don't he come out?"

"I don't know; he seems to be busy; he told me to tell you to go and wash seven times in the River Jordan if you want to get well."

And that made Naaman warm under the collar. "And so he refuses to come out. I know I'm a leper, but I'm no ordinary one; I'm a prince, a mighty man, great and honorable. I thought he would speedily come forth and perform his wonderful cure. I thought he would pass his hand over me like a Harlequin's wand and with a 'Hey! Presto! Change!' the thing would be done. I thought he would surely come out to see me and call on the name of the Lord his God and strike his hand over the place and cure me of my leprosy."

Naaman had come to a crisis. He was whirling away in his rage when his servant said, "[illegible], it's a very simple thing the prophet asked of you; there's no use to get mad; you've driven now four days under the hot sun and you'd better try the remedy before you go back," and at last the leper decided to obey God. He drove over to the Jordan and waded in and dipped himself seven times, and his dry palms grew moist and the blood coursed with delicious coolness through his veins and on his brow the dewy softness of an infant stole and his flesh became soft and pure like a little child's; and Naaman was clean.

Should Be Paid.

He put on his robes and drove back to the prophet. He had brought with him as near as I can figure it out about $70,000 to pay for his cure. Some of you kick on a dollar a visit and then when you're well you let the doctor whistle for his money. If there's anybody on the face of God's whirling earth who ought to be paid for his work, it's the doctor. He'll turn out of bed at all hours of the night to serve you; he'll drive through the snow and rain and wade through the mud to come to your bed to cure you and then he'll have to spend as much money for postage dunning you for his bill as it's worth.

And Naaman said, "How much do I owe you?"

"Nothing," said Elisha.

Naaman was surprised, startled, he thought all prophets and preachers and evangelists were grafters. He was like the heathen in that respect.

And Naaman took two mules' burdens of earth and drove home. My, what a home-coming it must have been. He took his wife and little ones in his arms and kissed them—a thing he hadn't dared to do for years, and then he said, "This black dirt here, you want to know what it's for; why that's soil from the land of Israel. I love the very ground where I got my healing and I know now there's only one God and I'm going to serve Him all the rest of my life, and I want you to know Him, too, and children, I want you to love Him and obey Him and we'll pray to Him together in the home; and I'm going to take this dirt and build an altar in the temple and when the king goes in to worship the heathen gods you know I have to go along but I'm going to build an altar out of the dirt and I'm going to bow down and worship the true God and be a good man."

Naaman did not want to do as he was told. He did not want to get down. In this respect he's like many of you. There's too many people in Plainfield that want to get into Heaven with your head up. You say, I will not do this or that, but it's what you say you won't do that you've got to do if you want peace with God.

Now we'll finish our story about Ben Hur!!

Was Not Satisfied.

Ben Hur stirred; he awoke, and he aroused himself from his slumbers on the steps of his old home. He looked around and when he got up he saw a crowd going down the street and he asked the first man that came along what it meant. "Oh, nothing, nothing," said the man; "just some people gone daffy over a long-haired individual who they say is Jesus Christ, who says he is the Son of God." Ben Hur was not satisfied.

Memories of days gone by burn their way into his heart. He had heard of the coming of the Messiah, the New King, and he had prayed that the coming of the King might be hastened. He did not know, however, that his own mother and sister had been so near him and that his mother said to his sister, when she would have kissed him: "As the Lord liveth this man is my son, thy brother." He did not know that his sister was about to kiss him and his mother had said: "Unclean, unclean." He did not know that mother and sister had put their cracked and bloody lips to the sole of his sandal, but he grabbed up his sword and started toward where the crowd followed the Messiah, saying as he went, "If this man needs any defense, my sword will defend him."

Ben Hur went toward the crowd and with his hand upon the hilt of his sword. He had hardly joined the throng about the Messiah when two lepers appeared and falling upon their knees said: "Jesus, Son of God, have mercy on us." Jesus said: "What can I do?" and they asked that they be cleansed. "'Daughters of Israel, be it unto you as you will." And immediately the long white hair changed to black and the former features came back, and Ben Hur beheld his mother and sister. He rushed to them, he kissed them and held them in loving embrace, and then he said: "Oh, thou Christ of God, I will follow thee wherever thou goest and this sword shall be your defense;" and then and there Ben Hur became a follower of Jesus Christ.

Listen, men and women—your sins will damn your soul just as sure as the leprosy will damn your body, but God can forgive your sins. He can cure you your sins. Will you let Him?

Come!

Mr. Sluyter held a "get acquainted" meeting with the Plainfield "kiddies" Saturday afternoon. About 200 of them were out and joined in the singing of some of the children's hymns like veteran singers.

"Mac" was not there, but when Mr. Sluyter mentioned his name in connection with a future meeting the youngsters applauded. Even the children seem to have spotted out "Mac."

It takes an experienced person, and one who is greatly in sympathy with his work to make a children's meeting a success. Mr. Sluyter provided an interesting program and conducted the meeting in a way which proved him to be a champion of this work.

"Mac's back!" All he had to do was to step up on the platform and he was greeted with a great deal of applause.

Tomorrow night delegations of the Federation of Men's Clubs and the Clan McKenzie will be present. The mention of the last organization tickled "Mac."

Duet, trio, quartet and a solo, "My Ain Country," by Mr. McEwan were features of the evening.

"Mac" got about fifty more sopranos for the chorus choir by getting the women to sing the chorus of one of the songs, and then, after they had sung it, asked those who had sung to stand. As soon as they got to their feet he told them they had better leave their places and come up in the choir. "Mac" has a good head for "figuring out."

"When I was a kid," said Dr. Biederwolf, "if I spoke of the Bible irreverently before my father he would have introduced me to the 'Star Spangled Banner.' He would have furnished the stripes and I would have seen the stars."

The people cleared the Tabernacle and fell in line for the big parade in great style. Every suggestion of Mr. Heaton was carried out perfectly, resulting in the largest street demonstration in the city of Plainfield.

The streets of Plainfield seemed to be packed with people who had come out to see and hear the throng of people who walked the streets for Christ. Dr. Biederwolf's talk was short and to the point and was preceded and concluded by selections by the National Male Quartet and a solo by McEwan. The boys certainly won a place in the hearts of those who had gathered on the street, in the windows, and on the fire-escapes to see and hear all they could.

The men came into the great Pine Temple in a steady stream yesterday afternoon and pretty well filled up the seats. "Mac" was on the job and had the men singing some of the old-fashioned gospel songs in a way which showed they were very familiar with them.

Dr. Biederwolf complimented and thanked Mr. Murray, chairman of the general committee; Mr. Rittenhouse, vice chairman of the general committee, and Mr. Estes, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., for their faithful and hard work for this great campaign.

Mr. McEwan was on the job getting men to fill up the choir loft for the men's choir. After the singing of one of the songs he called for volunteers, and as a result received about 150 men. "Mac" looked over the crowd and said, "Even if you don't volunteer I'll get you anyway," and he was true to his word by doing the same thing that he did with the sopranos Saturday night. This brought 100 more.

Mr. Murray led in the opening prayer, and Mr. Estes read the Scripture lesson.

The quartet was kept busy first by singing in the women's meeting in the First Baptist church and then hustling down to the Tabernacle, where they sang several touching songs, "Saved By His Grace Alone," "The Church in the Wildwood" and one or two others.

When Dr. Biederwolf looked over the audience he remarked that he doubted if Plainfield ever saw such a body of men together at one time in its history.

"There is nothing personal in my remarks, but I am like a shoemaker making shoes for the general public and you know your own number."—Biederwolf.

Mr. McEwan sang "Memories of Mother" in a way which made the eyes of many men glisten with tears, as did the evangelist's message as man after man bowed their heads under the conviction of their sins. Many men were moved and came "over on the other side" as a result of this meeting.

The members of the various Young People's Societies of this community were brought together in a great union meeting at 6:30 last evening. Mrs. Brake gave an inspiring and helpful talk to the young people, emphasizing the importance of doing personal work, particularly among their friends and other young people.

The Pine Temple was more like a huge bee hive into which the people fairly swarmed in such swarms that by 7:20 the Tabernacle was nearly filled. At 7:30 the ushers began placing the people to fill in the chinks, in the choir loft, in the ministers' section, on nail kegs, and many were left standing in the outside aisles.

The song service began at 7:25 and after singing one hymn "Mac" just naturally pulled a smile from the choir as he said, "Sing number 102, by request—I request it myself."

Dr. Hudson led in the opening prayer. Mr. Gillespie read the Scripture.

Yesterday was the greatest day, without a doubt, which has ever struck this city. The presence of the Almighty in the men's meeting, the women's meeting, and the great Tabernacle service at night, brought many scores, yes, hundreds of men and women to look at the world and life in a very new and different way. Men and women, boys and girls were penitently kneeling in the sawdust, some of them sobbing as they realized what their past had been, others smiling as they seemed to look far ahead into the joy and happiness which is in store for them.

Mother's Day, which was to have been next Thursday night, has been postponed until one week from next Thursday, or the 27th.

A meeting of the High School girls of this city and the borough will be held in the First Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Mrs. Brake will have charge of this service.

At the same time the High School girls are meeting with Mrs. Brake a children's meeting will be held in Warren chapel under the direction of Mr. Sluyter.

To take the collection from such a crowd as that which gathered in the Tabernacle last night in one minute and forty-five seconds is going some.

"He Died of a Broken Heart" was sung by the little Scotch "Mac" last night in a very effective way. The song was made even more telling as it was sung with all of the electric lights extinguished except the great cross above the pulpit which shed its red and white rays even in the farthest corners of the building.

to join.

One of the most pleasing incidents of the entire day to Dr. Biederwolf occurred last night, after the narrow space in front of his pulpit had been filled with converts. As "Mac" led the choir in the chorus of "Almost Persuaded," Dr. Biederwolf asked if there was not some man in the audience who could be courageous enough to stand up and walk down the sawdust aisle while all others were seated. A well-dressed young man, about twenty-two years of age, arose in the rear of the left section and, amid the cheers from more than five thousand throats, he marched almost the full length of the Tabernacle to shake the hand of the evangelist. Others followed, and his act resulted in more than a dozen being added to the kneeling throng.

Sermon on "The Home."

Saturday evening, Dr. Biederwolf preached to a crowd that more than half filled the Tabernacle, on "The Home." He said that the greatest and sweetest place on all the earth to every man was that which he home, and that all charact formed there; warning fat mothers of the responsibility rested upon them in the influence their lives would have over that of the child. An incident that attracted attention at the beginning of the service was the evident embarrassment of Dr. Biederwolf in forgetting the outline of his sermon. He brought that of one scheduled for a night this week, and Mr. Roberts was forced to go back to the residence for the notes. The quartet filled in with a number of pleasing selections, and it was agreed that such an appeal was well worth waiting for.

The jokes seemed to be on Dr. Biederwolf Saturday. He said in the afternoon he went up to the golf links with Dr. Zelie, and, as he swung his club for a long drive, it met old terra firma with a terrible crash and left only the handle.

The Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, read the scripture lesson. After the service practically every man and woman in the audience marched to the corner of Front street and Madison avenue for the short open-air meeting.

Led by the Dutch Arms band of Trinity Reformed church, with fifty pieces, this parade was one of the most impressive ever witnessed in Plainfield or any other city of its size. Mr. Estes, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Heaton and Mr. Backemeyer marched ahead of the band. Following them came Dr. Biederwolf and other members of his party, and after them, local ministers who are taking part in the evangelistic campaign. "Mac" led the chorus choir and there were more than 400 men and women in this alone. Our reporter counted 237 rows of six each, and even then he did not get them all, for many dropped out before they got to the point where he was standing.

Thousands on the Street.

Dr. Biederwolf stood up in an automobile at the corner and talked for a few minutes. The quartet sang a number of songs, among them "The Little Brown Church in the Dell," which proved immensely popular. The evangelist awakened memories of the days when the men and women present knelt by the side of their mother at some little church, whether in a valley or on a hill, and he urged that every one within reach of his voice come to the Tabernacle meetings at least once for the sake of her love, if for no other reason. Front street was crowded so as to impede traffic for almost a half block toward Somerset, and both sections of Madison at the corner were jammed with people.

The meeting was announced for 9:30. It had been planned to leave the Tabernacle at 9:15 for the march uptown, but the meeting proved so interesting that it was not stopped on schedule. However, none of the hundreds waiting at the postoffice corner left, and it was estimated that at least 2,000 were there when the quartet began to sing, in addition to those that marched with Dr. Biederwolf.

4,500 Men in Attendance.

There was no morning service yesterday, but by 2 o'clock men began to fill the seats in the big pine Tabernacle, and when MacEwan rapped for action at 2:30, the building was almost filled. They kept coming until the crowd numbered 4,500.

Because of the fact that there were no women present, "Mac" was almost without a choir, but not for long. He called for 300 volunteers to come up and help in the singing, and within a very few seconds he had at least 200 of them. This was not enough, however, and after the choir had sung one verse and the chorus of a popular song, he asked those in the audience to sing it. They did, and after complimenting them on the way it was done he requested that each man who had joined in stand up, so that he could see those who did sing it. When about half of the men present arose, "Mac" said, "I thought so. Now come on up here where you belong." This brought him about 200 more choir members, but they were pressed into service, he said, and were not volunteers.

Dr. Biederwolf publicly expressed his appreciation of the hard work done by Chairman W. D. Murray, Vice-Chairman George Rittenhouse and Secretary Estes, of the local general committee, saying that they had accomplished wonders in their preliminary organization.

"The quartet sang "The Little Brown Church in the Dell" and "Saved by His Grace Alone." After Secretary Estes, of the local Y. M. C. A., read the scripture lesson, "Mac" sang "Memories of Mother."

Dr. Biederwolf then plunged into his sermon on "The White Life," which will be found on another page of The Press today.

Tabernacle Filled in Evening.

The sermon at the evening service was on "The Moral Leper," and Dr. Biederwolf compared the man who is touched by sin, with the leper, saying that sin was like leprosy, in that it began in a little way, it was contagious, and it was incurable except through God. His eloquent appeal for a clean living brought tears to the eyes of many and resulted in almost three hundred conversions.

For the first time since the meetings started there were no empty seats in the Tabernacle last night. Even before the evangelist began to preach, ushers were forced to hold late comers in the rear, as there was no place for them to sit and they could not stand in the front aisles. The entire rear of the building was filled with men and even women, who arrived after all seats were occupied. As the Tabernacle seats about 6,450, the attendance at the evening service was in excess of 6,500.

Only one or two seats were left in the chorus choir, and "Mac" and his singers had one of the best nights of the services. After a number of beautiful songs by the choir, the quartet sang "More than Conquerors Are We" and "Still, Still with Thee." Following announcements made by Mr. Heaton, Mr. McEwan sang a solo, "He Died of a Broken Heart," and Dr. Biederwolf asked that there be no applause following this, as he wanted to begin his sermon with the heard chords still vibrating from the tender strains of "Mac's" sweet tenor.

His sermon is printed in full in another column.

WARREN F. RANDOLPH.

Warren F. Randolph, colored, a native of this vicinity, died this morning at his home in Cranford at the age of 87 years. He lived in Plainfield and South Plainfield as a young man, but had made his home at Cranford for nearly half a century. A year ago he suffered a paralytic stroke from which he had never recovered. Beside a wife, Mr. Randolph is survived by one son, William Randolph, who conducts a barber shop on Watchung avenue. The funeral will be held at the undertaking parlors at 402 Park avenue, tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock, and burial will be in Hillside cemetery, Wednesday morning.

SARAH R. POUND.

Sarah R. Pound, daughter of the late David and Sarah A. Pound, passed away yesterday after a brief illness. She was born in Piscataway township, but had lived the greater part of her life in Plainfield. Much of her time was given to mission and charity work. Miss Pound is survived by one brother, Edward D. Pound, 330 East Fifth street, on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will take place in the Bound Brook cemetery. Rev. Lewis Bond will officiate at the service.

PROPOSALS

For Furnishing Crushed Stone and Materials for Culverts and Cross-Walks to the Borough of North Plainfield:

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield at the regular meeting, April 7, 1916, notice is hereby given that the Mayor and Council will meet at the Council Chamber, Somerset Street, in the said Borough on Friday, April 21, 1916, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which time and place said Mayor and Council will receive sealed proposals for furnishing crushed stone and for furnishing materials for culverts and crosswalks, as follows:

For crushed stone for the remainder of the year 1916, the bids to state the price per ton of 2,000 pounds, for furnishing each or any of the following sizes, the bid on each size to be independent of bids on any other size, viz.:

Fine screenings of crushed stone, one-half inch crushed stone, one inch, one and one-half inch, and two and one-half inch crushed stone.

In such quantities, and delivered at such time and places in the Borough as the Street Commissioner may direct.

The above must be of the very best quality trap rock, free from weathered stone, dirt, clay or other foreign matter, and in every way acceptable to said Street Commissioner.

All stone furnished must be weighed on such scales as said Street Commissioner may from time to time direct, and a voucher or way bill must be delivered with every load to the said Street Commissioner or to his authorized representative.

Every bidder to whom any contract for crushed stone is awarded, must enter into written contract to furnish and deliver the same in strict compliance with the aforesaid terms and must furnish bond satisfactory to said Council, in the sum of $1,000 for the strict performance thereof.

At the same time, sealed proposals will be received for furnishing the following materials for culverts, crosswalks, flagging and curbing. The bids on each item to be independent of bids on any other item.

Cover stone for culverts not larger than 4 feet by 3 feet by not less than 3½ inches in thickness, per square foot.

Curbing 16 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Curbing 20 inches by 4 inches, 3 to 6 feet long, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone, 24 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Crosswalk stone, 30 inches by not less than 4 inches, 3 to 4½ feet long, Belgian edge, per lineal foot.

Flagging—4 feet wide and 1½ inches thick, per lineal foot.

Flagging—Concrete walks 4 feet wide, 4 inches thick, per lineal foot. For specifications, apply to Borough Clerk.

Concrete curbs, per lineal foot. For specifications apply to Borough Clerk.

All to be of the best hard blue stone equal in quality and durability to stone from the Hudson river quarries.

Upon receipt of such bids or proposals the Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided such parties or their agents desire to be then and there present; and also to make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes.

The right to reject any and all bids is expressly reserved.

By order of the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield, April 7, 1916.

WOMEN SHOULD GET THE HABIT AS WELL AS MEN

Don't eat bite of breakfast until you drink glass of hot water.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexion; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's idigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store, which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

Planet Jr. Cultivators

—biggest savers for farm and garden

Why worry along with slow out-of-date implements and meagre results? Planet Jr tools are far more economical—they do 3 to 6 times the work, get bigger, better crops, and outlast several ordinary implements. Fully guaranteed. You are actually losing money whenever you cultivate without them.

No. 72 Planet Jr 2-row, 2-horse Pivot-wheel Cultivator saves a man, a team, and a cultivator every day it is used. Cultivates 2 rows of corn, potatoes, beans, etc., at one passage, even if rows are crooked or irregular width. In check rows and listed corn it also beats any other tool. Can be equipped with spring-trip standards, discs, sweeps, hoe steels, and furrowing shovels. Specially hardened cultivating steels add 50 per cent to wear. Also spring lift, new this year.

No. 8 Planet Jr Horse Hoe and Cultivator is stronger, better-made and capable of a greater variety of work than any other horse hoe made. Non-clogging steel wheel. Depth-regulator and extra-long frame make it run steady. Adjustable for both depth and width. 15 other styles of one-horse cultivators—various prices.

Let us equip you with one of these savers.

Fellow Gardeners

"The flowers you grow from the seed you sow
For beauty can't be beaten,
And the garden truck that is yours to pluck
Is the best you've ever eaten."

Isn't this a fact? Well, then, to get the best results from your labors, be sure your seeds come from our well selected and tested stock. For years we have made a special study of your needs in this line, and your success has been our success. Our fertilizers bear the highest analysis, and are recommended by expert gardeners and leading Agricultural Stations.

Our Obligation, Not Yours

SERVICE

Many people feel that to do business with a modern banking institution places THEM under an obligation. We feel, otherwise, for we believe in SERVICE. Every man in this institution knows he is here to give cheerful service to everyone having dealings with us—that is why our many customers do business here without any feeling of obligation—the spirit that rules is service with courtesy—courtesy with service. This spirit is bound to make you regard this as your bank—and this is the result for which we strive.

The Shoe That Always "Make Good"

Shoes cost more to make today than ever before—you know how seriously the war situation affects the cost of everything. Many makeshifts are bound to be substituted for good leather, and many lines of men's shoes will, this season, be decidedly below grade.

So it's a mighty good season to tie up with the "make good" sort like "VAN ARSDALE'S" Men's $4, $5 and $6 Shoes.

The "Van Arsdale Quality" will keep you out of serious "Shoe Troubles," Mr. Man!

"DOLLY LOVEJOY" WINS HER SUIT

"Goliath Bruser" Must Pay $3.33 for Trifling With Her Affections.

TRIAL WAS LAUGHABLE

Mock Proceedings Under Auspices of West End Community Center Heard by Capacity Audience—Miss Lamson Makes Pert Witness.

Love-lorn maidens seeking heart-balm from recreant swains in the form of money damages are hereby warned to keep away from West End juries when bringing their wooing-day affairs into court. Twelve men and women, tried and true, sat in judgment at the Washington School auditorium, last night, on the claim of "Miss Dolly Lovejoy" that "Goliath Bruser" had smashed her simple, trusting cardiac organ to the modest tune of $1,947,538.03, this amount being asked for the sole purpose of avenging the sufferings she had undergone. Despite the fact that the protesting defendant earned but $7.00 a week, she had expected to receive the full amount and when the jurymen refused to fall for her sly glances and coquettish ways she was granted the marvelous emolument of $3.33. The shock was so pronounced that "Miss Dolly" fell in a faint and $2.00 of her award was immediately paid over to a doctor from reviving her, consequently while the buxom plaintiff won her suit, it was far from being a profitable one.

The case of "Lovejoy vs. Bruser" had been heralded far and wide and when the court crier, "Mr. Knockem-all" (F. S. Power), called for order last night, the auditorium was filled to its capacity with interested West Enders who had accepted the invitation of the West End Community Center to view the proceedings. In the regular routine of the Center's entertainment program it was announced as a "Mock Trial," but differed from others which have been given locally in that the entire proceedings were written by John J. Carroll and were twice as funny as any seen heretofore. City Judge William G. De Meza gave a touch of reality to the contest by presiding as "Magistrate" and his critical ruling at various stages helped immensely in the general humor. The part of "Miss Lovejoy" was admirably portrayed by William J. Boyd, who in female disguise fooled some of his nearest neighbors not previously informed as to his identity. "Miss Lovejoy's" story as to how "Goliath Bruser" in the person of Eric Van Norden, had paid court to her and was given a monopoly on her time and affections for nearly three years, only to have them ruthlessly thrown back just previous to the appointed marriage day, was unfolded in such a pitiful recitation that only a hard-hearted jury could have turned against her. If the European war hadn't made prices so high the sympathetic twelve men and women would have undoubtedly have made "Bruser" hand over at least $6.00 of his weekly $7.00 for the rest of his natural life.

John J. Carroll acted as attorney for the plaintiff while the defendant's case was handled by Thomas C. Vail. Both "lawyers" fought every inch of ground and gave the spectators an inside as to what cross-examination really is. Five witnesses were put on the stand by either side; each of the ten having sub-rosa information received from a particular friend who in turn had gotten it from a particular friend of somebody who had watched the couple's courtship. Those for the plaintiff were "Miss Spinster," Mrs. T. C. Vail; "Mrs. Busybody," Miss Lillian Lamson; "Richard Hardhead," Fred Dixon; "Dr. Cure-emall," Dr. C. A. Gesswein; and "Daisy Angelchild," Mrs. Joseph Edgar. The defendant's contention that he had done no wrong was backed up by the following: "Mrs. Percival Smith," Mrs. Fred Dixon; "Simple Simpkins," C. Edward Hadden; "Ebenezer Potash," Joseph Edgar; "Mrs. Archibald Hawthorne," Mrs. W. W. Gallaway, and "Adam Shoemaker," T. W. Power. George Fisher, acting as court stenographer, complicated matters by finding it difficult to read his notes after his writing got "cold," and the following twelve persons kept up the fun in the jury box: Dr. A. K. Brennan, W. W. Gallaway, F. G. Krekell, Mrs. A. B.

FINE MAN AND WOMAN $20 BUT SUSPENDS SENTENCE

Mary Walker and Thomas Kane, charged with disorderly conduct, were tried in police court this morning, and although each was fined $20, the sentence was suspended by Judge DeMeza pending good behaviour. Complaints were made by Mrs. Kane, who charged that Kane and Mrs. Walker had been intimate. She agreed to the disposition of the case.

GLEE CLUB ENTERTAINS PUPILS AT HIGH SCHOOL

The annual Easter observance of the pupils of the Plainfield High School began this morning at chapel exercises in the auditorium and will continue tomorrow and Thursday mornings, when the spring vacation of ten days will start. A number of Easter songs were sung this morning and were followed by a fifteen minutes' entertainment given by the members of the Alfred College Glee Club, composed of seventeen young men, including John Cottrell, a last year's P. H. S. graduate. Many former graduates were present at the exercises.

Tomorrow morning at 8:30 the members of the Junior and Senior English classes will present parts of the Shakespearean play, "Midsummer Night Dreams" in the auditorium and the student body will sing Easter music under the direction of Charles Lewis. The exercises on Thursday morning will be at 11 o'clock, when the Rev. William E. Biederwolf will speak. Other numbers will be rendered by the various students. Parents and friends are invited to attend.

A VIEW OF THE BIG BIEDERWOLF TABERNACLE, THE DAILY OBJECTIVE POINT OF THOUSANDS OF PLAINFIELDERS

TRAIN SCHEDULE TO HIPPODROME

Special Will Make All Stops Between Dunellen and Fanwood.

BEST SEATS OBTAINED

First on Deck Morning of Seat Sale Will Get the Best—Organizations Expected to Send Big Delegations Two Weeks from Tonight.

Final details of the Daily Press excursion to the New York Hippodrome on Monday night, May 1, were completed last night when a representative of the metropolitan playhouse visited Plainfield expressly for this purpose. The big special train will leave Dunellen at 5:54, Clinton avenue at 5:57, Grant avenue at 6:00, Plainfield at 6:04, Netherwood at 6:08, and Fanwood at 6:11. It will arrive at Liberty street at 7:00 o'clock, giving the theatre-goers ample time to get to the Hippodrome before the curtain rises. The return special will leave Liberty street promptly at 11:45 and will arrive here about 12:30, making stops at Fanwood, Netherwood, Plainfield, Grant avenue, Clinton avenue and Dunellen.

The finest 300 seats in the New York theatre have been reserved for the Press party and it is possible that nearly double that number will have to be secured prior to the date set for the event. The seats go on sale at the Press office Monday morning, April 24, at 11 o'clock and the policy of "first come, first served" will be strictly adhered to. A chart of the Hippodrome seating arrangements will be on exhibition in the Press office and societies

SACRED CANTATA AT GRACE CHURCH

Vested Choir Sings "The Darkest Hour" at Largely Attended Service.

"The Darkest Hour," a sacred cantata by Harold Moore, was given at Grace church last night by the full vested choir, under the direction of S. Frederick Smith, organist and choirmaster. The cantata which is new to Plainfielders was impressive throughout and enjoyed by the five hundred worshippers present.

The work of the soloists was especially good, Irving Manley, soprano, being the narrator, had most of the solo parts, his excellent voice being much enjoyed. The other soloists were William J. Tallamy, tenor; John Richards, bass; E. A. Sprowl and E. E. McKay, baritones.

The chorus parts were exceedingly well rendered, showing careful training. Particularly impressive was the "March to Calvary."

Rev. Dr. Frederick Bingham Howden, Bishop of Texas, will be the special Lenten preacher at Grace church tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The full vested choir will sing at this service.

MASONS ACCEPT INVITATION.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, at its annual conclave last night, accepted an invitation to attend the revival service at the Tabernacle on Thursday night, April 27. The Sir Knights will appear in full regalia and will act as an escort to the other local Masonic lodges, who have also accepted invitations to attend the service.

W. C. T. U. TO ATTEND.

The members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of this city, as well as throughout the county, will attend service at the Tabernacle on Saturday night, instead of Thursday night, as previously announced. At that time, Dr. Biederwolf will preach his booze sermon on "The Whiskey Jug."

• Leave subscriptions for the Daily Press with our representative at the door as you leave the Tabernacle tonight. Fifty cents for the entire campaign, including back numbers. •

NO CONFIRMATION OF VILLA'S DEATH

Washington Begins to Fear That There Was no Truth in Report.

Washington, April 18.—No confirmation of the death of Francisco Villa has been received here, or by General Funston in charge of the American punitive expedition into Mexico, and officials are beginning to fear that there was no truth in the report. General Obregon, Mexican minister of war, stated officially yesterday that the body had been exhumed by Carranza soldiers and positively identified. General Pershing journeyed to look at it, but no word has been heard from him. It is believed he would have reported by aeroplane if the body was that of the Mexican bandit for whom American soldiers are looking.

SEWAGE EXPERTS IN SESSION HERE

President Downs Reads Paper —They Will Inspect Local Plants.

More than twenty members of the New Jersey Sewage Works Association are in Plainfield today for the purpose of holding a short business session and visiting the local sewer plants. They were in session in the rooms of the Council chamber until noon. J. R. Downs, municipal chemist here, who is president of the organization, read a paper descriptive of testing sewerage effluent. This afternoon the delegates will visit the old sewage plant and the new one being constructed at Dunellen, after having dinner at the Hotel Kensington.

NEWARK CLASSIS TO MEET AT TRINITY CHURCH

The spring session of the Newark classis will be held in Trinity Reformed church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, instead of the Netherwood Reformed church as previously announced. The latter church is not yet ready for meeting purposes. There will be morning and afternoon sessions and the women of the Netherwood church will serve luncheon at noon.

TWO BUSY DAYS FOR POLICE COURT JUDGE

Judge De Meza has spent two busy days in police court already this week. Both Monday and this morning he had big dockets and it required the entire forenoon to dispose of the transgressors picked up during the night before. Monday morning there were twenty cases to be tried and this morning there were seven, but one took up more than an hour.

SHAKESPEAREAN PLAY.

The pupils of the Westfield High School will present a Shakespearean playlet on Thursday, April 27, at 8 p. m. The whole play consists of several scenes from the more famous of Shakespeare's plays preceded by a prologue. The playlet will be given in the new High School auditorium and dancing will follow in the Washington School. Good music has been hired. Tickets may be obtained from any of the members of the cast.

WILL DISCUSS CITY FINANCES

Taxpayers Invited to Meet in Council Chamber Thursday Evening.

A TENTATIVE BUDGET

Carries All Appropriations for City During Coming Year—Property Owners Will be Asked to Take Part in Deliberations.

Thursday evening taxpayers of Plainfield will be given an opportunity to discuss with Mayor Calkins, the councilmanic finance committee, and members of the whole Council the budget for the coming year. A tentative budget is being advertised today so that all who are interested can be informed in advance of what money the city intends to spend and where it will be put, and two days are allowed for a digest of this statement.

The meeting will be presided over by Mayor Calkins. Heads of all departments will be there to answer any questions and all citizens are invited not only to be present but to take part in the conference.

The proposed budget carries appropriations totaling $256,235, exclusive of schools. The school tax amounts to $237,795, making a grand total of $596,394. These figures have been reached after many hours of hard work on the part of the finance committee, of which Councilman J. A. Babcock is chairman, meeting with Mayor Calkins and President Baltz, and every item has been carefully gone over with the idea of reducing expenses as much as possible without a sacrifice of efficiency in any department.

The municipal advertisement of the tentative budget will be found on page 7.

GERMAN ATTACHE HELD AS PLOTTER

Von Igel Accused of Planning Armed Invasion of Canada.

New York, April 18.—Wolf Von Igel, formerly secretary to Captain Franz von Papen, formerly military attache of the German embassy at Washington, was arraigned before Judge Howe, of the U. S. District Court on an indictment charging violation of the U. S. law in organizing a military expedition with the intent to destroy the Welland Canal in Canada. When arraigned today he claimed immunity as an attache of the German embassy, but Judge Howe nevertheless held him until 4 o'clock this afternoon to give him an opportunity to get a lawyer.

DOROTHY GERTRUDE BOWLBY.

Dorothy Gertrude Bowlby, aged eighteen months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah G. Bowlby, of 219 East Fifth street, died this morning. The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, and the burial will be in Fairview cemetery, Westfield, Friday morning.

MRS. THORP'S FUNERAL.

The burial of Mrs. Christopher Thorp took place in Mt. Peace cemetery, Philadelphia, yesterday, following funeral services at her late home on West Front street, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Lough was in charge of the services and also officiated at the burial.

NOONDAY MEETING.

S. S. Swackhamer will lead the men's noonday gospel meeting at the Rescue Mission tomorrow at 12:30. All men are cordially invited. A short song service will precede the meeting. The time will be devoted principally to prayer for the Biederwolf meetings.

THREE PERFORMANCES OF "THE MYSTIC ROSE"

Elks Make Arrangements to Give Comic Opera on May 1, 2 and 3.

The committee in charge of the "Mystic Rose," the comic opera production to be given under the auspices the Plainfield Lodge of Elks, has made arrangements for the Plainfield Theatre for a third performance. The original dates selected were May 2 and 3, but Messrs. Counihan and Shannon, of the Plainfield Theatre, have been persuaded by the committee to cancel a show which they had booked for Monday night, May 1, and thus allow the production of the "Mystic Rose" for three nights. This move was made necessary by the unusual demand for tickets which has already been made upon the committee, in spite of the fact that no tickets have as yet been issued. It is predicted that the attendance at this affair will break all records.

It has been learned that Somerville, New Brunswick, Elizabeth and Dover will be represented by large delegations from the Elks' lodges, while a great many people from Cranford, Westfield, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Dunellen and Bound Brook will atend because of the fact that a number of residents of each one of these towns are taking part in the opera. With over 450 people in the cast, it is easily understood why the "Mystic Rose" is stirring up such an unusual interest in the city and borough, as well as in suburban towns.

The rehearsals are going along smoothly, and all members of the cast, from the children to some of the older people in the chorus, are working hard and enthusiastically to be perfect in their parts. The children, especially in the wonderful "Flower and Butterfly" ballet, which closes the opera, are doing excellent work. This part of the show has been the object of the most flattering praise on the part of the newspapers in all cities where the "Mystic Rose" has been produced.

Tickets will be placed on sale at the Plainfield Theatre box office Monday morning, April 24, for all three performances. The tickets purchased from members of the Elks may also be exchanged for reserved seats beginning at the above time. The committee has announced that in order to treat everyone fairly, no seats will be held out or reserved, and it will be a case of first come first served in every instance. The only exception to the above rule will be in the case of the Dover, Somerville, Elizabeth and New Brunswick lodges, who will send delegations desiring to be seated together. Proper reservations will be made for these outof-town lodges.

The chorus will rehearse tonight and again on Thursday night, while the principals will hold another rehearsal on Friday evening.

TO OBSERVE TERCENTENARY OF SHAKESPEARE'S DEATH

The tercentenary of Shakespeare's death is being celebrated this year in the schools all over the country. The local High School will have its part in this movement to honor the name and genius of the greatest of English authors. Tomorrow morning, the Senior and Junior English classes will present scenes from various plays and some of Shakespeare's songs will be sung. The exercises will begin at 8:30. The public is cordially invited to attend.

BEGIN ATTACK ON TREBIZOND

Russian Forces Move up to Take Strong Fortress Held by Turks.

VERDUN LOSS IS HEAVY

Crown Prince Used 100,000 Men to Take Few Feet—London Alarmed by New Cabinet Crisis—Note to Germany Ready.

Petrograd, April 18.—Russian aviators have attacked the Turkish port of Trabizond, the last city of military importance held by the Turks in Armenia, doing heavy damage. The Russian aircraft were severely bombarded with high-angle guns, the fire being of such accuracy as to lead to the belief that they were being worked by trained German artillerymen. However, all the aeroplanes returned to their base. Despatches from Tiflis today stated that the Russian army is only about twelve miles from Trebizond, and that in a short time it will be able to bring the city under the fire of the Russian guns.

Germans Lose Heavily.

Paris, April 18.—Heavy losses suffered by the Germans in their attack on the Verdun front yesterday afternoon compelled them to forego any assaults during the night. In Monday's smashing blow with the purpose of capturing Chaufour Wood, the Crown Prince used five divisions, or 100,000 men, with a gain of only a few trenches, from part of which they already have been driven.

New Note on Way.

Washington, April 18.—The German note will be sent on its way to Berlin in about six hours. President Wilson presented it to the Cabinet today, and later discussed it with Senator Stone, chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Affairs. Secretary of State Lansing was in conference with the President for more than a half hour before the Cabinet meeting today going over the note. The communication will be published as soon as it is received in Berlin.

Bernstorff Sees Lansing.

Washington, April 18.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, will confer with Secretary of State Lansing at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The note to be dispatched to Germany will be read to him by the secretary.

British Admit Defeat.

London, April 18.—British forces south of the Tigris river in Mesopotamia have been driven back 800 yards by the Turks, the War Office admitted today in an official statement. The English troops in question are part of the army of General Sir Percy Lake, which is trying to relieve the army of Townshend in Kut-el-Amara.

Russian Bark Sunk.

London, April 18.—The Russian bark Schwanded has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. The crew was saved.

49 Lost on Zent.

London, April 18.—The Admiralty announced today that 49 lives were lost when the British steamship Zent was sunk without warning by a German submarine on April 5.

Cabinet Crisis is Acute.

London, April 18.—Premier Asquith's plan to make a statement in the House of Commons this afternoon on the conscription question was suddenly cancelled. It was understood that the Premier's determination to postpone his announcement on recruiting and the extension of conscription was caused by the new Cabinet crisis.

TO THE PEOPLE OF PLAINFIELD:

I am greatly gratified because of the deep interest already manifesting itself in the Tabernacle meetings. Sunday was the very greatest Sunday of first invitation in my nineteen years' experience. Heaven is bending very low toward Plainfield in these days and Plainfield Christians ought with great thanksgiving to plunge into the work of the coming weeks. Many of the church people of this city are not yet interested in this undertaking for Christ, but what are those who are taking no part in this glorious work going to say to God about it. Does not the fact that more than a thousand men and women and splendid young men and young women will walk heroically and openly down the aisle for Christ and weep their way into the Kingdom of God, stir them? It is an awful thing to live in Plainfield in these days and not do your duty. You must do two things.

FIRST. Make every sacrifice possible to be at the Tabernacle every night. Money could not hire you to come, but you ought to come for Christ's sake and thank God for the chance. Don't let prejudice blind your eyes to duty. Truth is a greater thing than opinion.

SECOND. Pray more. The success of the Campaign will be measured largely by our faith.

Come on men and women of Plainfield, this is God's time for you. Your city is proving its manhood in these days. When you look back from eternity, you will thank God for the Tabernacle.

Faithfully yours,

W. E. Biederwolf

BOROUGH WANTS WATER METERS

Dunellen Trade Board Thinks it Will Result in Reduction of Price for Commodity.

TO CREATE SENTIMENT

W. S. Frederick Heads Committee Will Canvass the Borough for Signatures to Petition to be Presented to the Water Company.

Definite action was taken on the question of procuring water meters for the boroughites who desire them, by the Board of Trade at its meeting last evening, when Wilson S. Frederick was appointed chairman of a committee to take full charge of the matter. His first step will be to draw up a form of application for water meters, with $8 per year as the minimum rate to be charged. The next step will be to call upon each consumer of water and endeavor to get him to sign an application form and send it to the water company. The object of this plan is to create a general sentiment for water meters, which, it is thought, will bring better results than applying to the Public Utilities Commission. The Board of Trade as a whole, and W. S. Frederick in particular, did not seem to think highly of the service rendered to the public by the Public Utilities Commission.

Mr. Frederick said: "There is no use in making application to the Public Utilities Commission for the installation of meters because we are sure to be turned down. They were elected as public servants, but there is a question whether they are or not. They are inexperienced men, and nothing but politicians appointed for purely political reasons."

The water meter question, which had been laid on the table since the Board of Trade meeting several months ago, when George W. Day appeared and showed the members how the majority of the consumers of water might be the losers by the installation of meters, was re-opened by a receipt of a letter from the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce in answer to a letter written by the Board to that organization, asking for advice and information on the new phases of the issue presented by Mr. Day.

The letter, which will be of interest to consumers of water, is in part as follows:

"Your letter was referred to the Bureau of State Research. Two cases which are most revelant to your particular inquiries, viz.: (1) that of a reduction of water rates; (2) that of installing water meters, are the Hackensack and Long Branch cases. These two cases involve the very points in which you desire information and will throw particular light on the question of reducing established rates of private water companies. This investigation has not been completed, however, and the Public Utility Commission has made no decision.

"It would be expedient for you, in the meantime to prepare a brief showing (1) that such a reduction could be made by the water company without cutting them off from a fair return on their investment. Unless you can show the Public Utility Commission this, they will not order the change. (2) Meters—this second point is not laid clear. One case held that a private company of its own volition against the wishes of the consumer can install meters in hotels, boarding houses and halls using excessive amounts of water.

"On the other hand, there is no clear-cut case where a private consumer can compel the company to install a meter. The only case in point which we recall is the Aequackanok-Passaic case, in which it was held that where the water company has installed meters in one section of a municipality, the other section may compel a like installation. The issue in this case is turned on the question of discrimination."

After the reading of this letter, it was pointed out that there are three private consumers of water who have meters in this borough, and that the water company, in refusing other private applicants, is showing discrimination.

Edward Daniels said that he or anyone else under the circumstances could have a plumber install a meter without the consent of the water company. He said that he knew of a case in the borough in which the water company had refused a party a water meter and that party had installed a meter, and the company had been compelled to accept it.

The entire question was discussed at length, quite a number of the members taking the floor and voicing their opinion on the matter. A. F. Todd and William P. Deering sounded notes of caution, their opinion being that while the town might get the water meters, they might also get an increase in rates.

Borough Engineer Churchill said that he understood that the water company was willing to grant the town as a whole water meters, and he advocated that the company be approached and asked what the minimum rate would be. Mr. Churchill said that if the water company thought it ought to be one figure and the Board of Trade another, that a compromise figure might be agreed upon.

After considerable discussion, the question before the meeting was whether the policy of "watchful waiting" should be continued or some action taken. W. S. Frederick here said that "watchful waiting" don't get you very far. He said that he knew of people that were using three times as much water as he, and paying less, and he was tired of paying for water he didn't use. In Plainfield he said that water bills had been cut in half by the installation of meters. As a form of action, Mr. Frederick suggested the procedure decided upon.

"Is the Board of Trade going to have a Fourth of July celebration and parade?" was the timely question asked by G. Sumner Smith as he meeting was drawing to a close. After some little discussion, W. P. Deering said in part, "We have been living in a fool's paradise. We have been under the erroneous impression that our ideals are taken in by everybody coming to our shores. We realize that this is not so now and on this, of all years, the anniversary of our Declaration of Independence should be appropriately celebrated so as to properly impress the strangers in our midst." It was unanimously voted to have the celebration, and President Arthur Cockburn said that a committee, which he would name, would make a report at the next meeting.

A communication was received from Garwood, stating that a Board of Trade was being formed there, and asking the local board for a copy of its constitution and by-laws.

F. M. Van Blarcom and N. G. Forman were admitted into the membership of the organization.

"THE LIFE OF CHRIST" IN PICTURES AND SONG

Interesting Lenten Service Held at St. Joseph's Church Last Evening.

"The Life of Christ" in pictures, hymns and tableaux was depicted by the Young Men's Bible Class of St. Joseph's church, last night, before an audience that taxed the capacity of the large church hall. A stereopticon illustrated fifty of the principal events in the life of Christ from "The Annunciation" to "The Ascension." As each picture was flashed on the screen young men of the Bible Class recited the story connected with the event. During the evening the following vocal selections were sung by the entire class: "Onward, Christians Soldiers," "The Christ Child" (Coombs), "The Palms" (Faure), and "Sanctus" (Gounod). Mrs. Alfred Siedel, the contralto soloist of the church choir, rendered Adams' "Holy City" and Gerbel's "Calvary" in an impressive manner. The solos in Gounod's "Sanctus" were sung by Alfred LaPorte, tenor soloist of the church.

About thirty little girls took part in the tableaux, which interspersed the program, "Jesus and the Children" and the "Rock of Ages" being especially beautiful and impressive. In the former the children held lighted miniature candles and were grouped about the Saviour. Miss Annan Cooper and Miss Bessie Smith were the principals in "The Rock of Ages," while the children surrounded the large white cross, each holding an Easter lily. The entire lecture concluded with the singing by the entire audience of "Holy God." Miss May O'Connor, the instructor of the Bible class, presided at the piano during the evening and directed the various presentations.

"RECENT REFORMS—STATUS OF WOMEN" IS DISCUSSED

The literature department had charge of the meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club in the parish house of the Congregational church yesterday afternoon, at which time Mrs. J. Kirtland Meyers read a delightful and instructive paper on "Recent Reforms—Status of Women." Members of the club devoted the remainder of the session to an informal debate on "Is Russia Civilized?" which was won by the affirmative side.

Announcement was again made at the meeting yesterday of the lecture to be given by General Leonard Wood under the auspices of the club on Saturday night, April 29, in the High School auditorium.

DRAMATIC CLUB MEETING.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by. The man who has a diploma from the School of Experience is pretty well fixed.

MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB IS IN CHARGE OF EXHIBIT

The health exhibit at 521 West Third street is attracting a good deal of attention from the people in the neighborhood. Mothers can bring their babies to be examined Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and again on Thursday from 4 to 5. The exhibit will close Satursday, April 22. It is free to the public, and every one interested in the health of their own children or in the health of the children of the community is urged to see this fine exhibit.

The cards have been loaned from the State Board of Health. Part of the exhibit is owned by the local Anti-Tuberculosis League and Visiting Nurse Association and the Board of Health. An additional exhibit is coming from the Mothers' Congress of New Jersey. The Monday Afternoon Club civic section has charge of the exhibit this week, and representatives from this club will be glad to explain the exhibits to visitors. For one week only, closing this Saturday, and absolutely free to everyone.

GIRLS' BASEBALL IN BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL

Feminine Athletes Organized Combine This Afternoon for Competition.

Girls of the North Plainfield High School this morning took the initial steps in the organization of a representative female baseball team for competition this spring and practiced this afternoon under the leadership of Miss Theresa McCullough. A number of the feminine athletes of the borough institution are said to be clever baseball artists, and it is likely that a challenge will be issued to the male players early in June as a graduation week feature.

Other attempts have been made to organize girls' team of this character in North Plainfield, but on each occasion they have fallen through. This year, however, the talent is plentiful and it is probable that it will become a real thing. Miss McCullough has a knowledge of curvology that would merit attention from many a league scout. She demonstrated her ability in the doctor-business men game on Parker Field last year, pitching the opening inning for the latter combine.

BIRD FAMILY AT "LA CROSSE VILLA"

Interesting Story From the South in Which Plainfielders Have a Part.

The following interesting story appeared in a recent issue of the Daytona (Fla.) Journal, concerning Mr. and Mrs. William M. Stillman, of this city:

"A Journal reporter stopped at the La Cross Villa yesterday morning to enjoy the interesting spectacle of one of the guests of the house feeding the birds. The woman, who was seated on the steps of the side porch, was casting unshelled peanuts on the floor which were being picked by a self assertive jay and a daring little titmouse. The entrance of a third party was not at all disturbing to 'our feathered friends.'

"The woman explained, 'These are William Stillman's wild birds. He has been feeding them all winter at his home just two doors below. He and Mrs. Stillman left two days ago for their summer home in New Jersey. Since then his birds have taken very kindly to their La Cross friends.' As the woman talked she threw the peanuts out to the birds. It seemed a little awkward for them to pick up some of the larger ones, so she shelled a few and laid them on the porch railing. The jay flew down and gobbled up two and flew back to the tree, and balanced on a swaying limb scolded vociferously when the titmouse descended and helped herself to one. But Mrs. Titmouse didn't mind in the least, and came again before the jay had stopped talking about it.

"It is well for the birds that they have a good friend to take Mr. Stillman's place, and no doubt there are enough all year round bird lovers in Daytona to look after the wants of one of Daytona's greatest charms, the song birds, when the season people have all 'flitted northward.'"

MR. AND MRS. IRVING FIFTY YEARS MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Irving, of Central avenue, Westfield, will hold an informal celebration at their home tonight in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. Relatives and friends from this city will be in attendance.

Mrs. Irving was formerly a Miss Dunham, of near Morristown, and the marriage ceremony took place at her parents' home. Mr. Irving is a brother of the late Mrs. Phoebe Irving Smalley, the mother of former Mayor Newton Smalley and Mayor William L. Smalley, of the borough.

PUPILS HEAR ABOUT THE "PESKY SKEETER"

How mosquitoes are propagated, the best method of extermination and how to tell the various kinds of the "pesky varmints" were interestingly related by Russell Gies, of Elizabeth, chief inspector of the Union County Mosquito Commission, in a lecture before the pupils of the Hartridge School this morning. As Mr. Gies talked, his descriptions were enhanced by forty stereopticon slides showing the "skeeters" at home, at work, at play and in other moods, beside revealing some of their favorite haunts in Plainfield that have since been eliminated. Frank Putnam, of this city, another inspector attached to the Commission, operated the stereopticon.

Mr. Gies is one of the best informed men in Union county on the mosquito question and the way he discussed it this morning made it anything but a dry lecture. The pictures he showed were nearly all taken by himself. They presented the four stages in the breeding of the little pests, the three kinds, th malaria, the house and the swamp mosquito. Mr. Gies detailed how breeding places could be removed and the best way to keep the little biters away from the places where they can do harm. The pictures showing the breeding places in Plainfield before and after the Commission located them were among those attracting the most attention and comment.

DOUBT PANCHO VILLA IS DEAD

Lack of Confirmation Disappoints U. S. Officials.

MIGHT BE PABLO LOPEZ.

Border Hears Chieftain Used Demise of Aid as Basis For False Report. American Hears Story From Ranch Foreman In Guerrero District.

Washington, April 18.—The fact that no official confirmation has arrived of the reported finding of the dead body of Francisco Villa has created disappointment among officials here.

Serious doubt began to be entertained whether there was any real foundation for the border reports disseminated by Carranzista authorities.

Neither state nor war department had any confirmation of the reports of the alleged death of Villa. Marion Letcher, the American consul at Chihuahua City, who is the state department agent nearest to Cusihuiriachic, failed to confirm the statement that Villa's body was being sent to Cuishuiriachic.

Secretary Baker said that no military message had been received confirming the death reports, and, furthermore, that there was no allusion to the matter in any of the numerous official reports received through General Funston from General Pershing and other officers in the field.

The only allusion to Villa in any of the military dispatches reaching the war department was this sentence in a telegram from Major Robert L. Howze of the Eleventh cavalry, now in the vicinity of Parral, "I believe that Villa, with a small band, went into the mountains southwest of San Borja." This was interpreted as indicating the belief of Major Howze that Villa was still alive, although it was admitted that his statement might fit in with the story of the death of Villa, because San Borja is the region in which Villa's body was reported found.

May Be Lopez's Body.

El Paso, Tex., April 18.—General Gabriel Gavira, Carranza commander at Juarez, announced that the Mexican telegraph wires between Juarez and Chihuahua had been blown down near Pearson about noon and that for this reason he was unable to get any further details of the reported discovery of the body of Francisco Villa.

A telegram filed at Chihuahua City, presumably before the interruption to the wire service, was received from Consul Letcher saying that nothing was known in the state capital regarding the finding of the bandit's body.

These two circumstances combined to re-enforce the growing skepticism here as to the truth of the story that death had ended the career of the fugitive brigand. The story that the man who is really dead is Pablo Lopez, the notorious butcher of Santa Ysabel, and that Villa has used Lopez's death as the basis of a false report of his own demise, was revived. This story was retold by an American owner of a large ranch in the Guerrero district, who said he had received it from his ranch foreman and believed it to be true.

SAFETY LAWS WIDENED.

Supreme Court Decision Regarded as Precedent In Texas Railroad Case.

Washington, April 18.—The supreme court has so construed the various federal safety appliance acts that all employees—no matter whether engaged at the time in intrastate or interstate commerce—may recover damages for injuries occurring through failure of interstate railroads to comply with the safety appliance laws.

It was regarded as a precedent making decision giving safety appliance laws a scope far greater than the federal employers' liability act.

40,000 GERMANS IN VERDUN ATTACK

Two Divisions Repulsed by French Forces.

London, April 18.—After four days of comparative quiet the Germans have resumed serious operations in force on the Verdun front.

An attack by 40,000 men was launched in the region east of the Meuse following a severe bombardment. The assault was delivered against the French positions from the river as far as Douaumont, a distance of two and a half miles.

The Germans advanced in waves, but the French bulletin, the only source of information, states that they were repulsed except at one point, south of Chaffour wood, which lies to the northwest of the village of Douaumont. There the crown prince's troops gained a footing in a French salient.

The fighting seems to have been particularly severe around Pepper hill, and Paris reports that the Germans lost heavily there.

Intense artillery fire was directed by the Germans against hill 304 and the second lines of the French west of the Meuse.

Aviators on both sides are showing great activity. The two French bulletins record raids by aerial squadrons on no less than nine points behind the German lines at Verdun.

The German headquarters staff reports the destruction of two enemy aeroplanes on the British front.

U. S. OFFICERS CENSURED.

Secretary of War Reprimands Three Members of Aviation Service.

Washington, April 18.—President Wilson approved the recommendation of the secretary of war imposing a sentence of reprimand upon Lieutenant Colonel Goodier of the aviation service.

Colonel Goodier was charged with conduct prejudicial to the service in having used improper methods in seeking to have Captain Arthur S. Cowan, in command of the San Diego aviation corps, relieved from duty.

The charges against Captain Cowan were not pressed, as a report held they did not warrant court martial. Secretary Baker also announced he had censured Brigadier General Scriven, chief of the signal corps, and Lieutenant Colonel Samuel Reber, chief of the aviation corps, for improprieties in connection with the aviation service.

EIGHT KILLED IN RAILWAY CRASH

Gilt Edge Express Hits Local on New Haven Road.

REAR CARS ARE WRECKED

At Least a Dozen Injured When Fast Boston Train Runs Into Local—Cars Burn and Women Meet Death in the Flames—Flagman Was Sent Back.

Bradford, R. I., April 18.—It has not yet been possible to determine how many persons were killed when the Gilt Edge express, a fast all steel through passenger train from Boston on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, tore through the rear cars of a local train taking a siding to let the express pass at this town.

In the grinding crash and the fire that quickly enveloped the two rear cars of the local and spread to the freight and passenger stations near by early reports estimated that from one to eight persons and perhaps more were killed and at least a dozen injured.

It was officially announced by the New Haven road that one of the dead has been identified as Miss Annette Clarke of Westerly, R. I.

The flames destroyed the telegraph wires leading out of the station and made it difficult to send any detailed account of the wreck. All the killed and injured are believed to have been passengers on the local train. They were in the rear cars, which caught fire so rapidly that it was impossible to ascertain whether any more persons were held captive in the splintered mass of crumpled steel, shattered wood and hissing steam from the boiler of the express locomotive.

Many Reported Imprisoned.

Word was hurried over the wires to New London soon after the collision and a special train with about twenty doctors was dispatched to Bradford to aid in the rescue work. Ambulances gathered at the New London station to rush the injured to hospitals when the special returned. New London heard that many persons might have been caught in the burning cars. A report reached Westerly shortly after the wreck that from fifteen to twenty-five persons may have been thus imprisoned.

When the fire spread to the freight station at Bradford a large quantity of gasoline stored in the building exploded and added to the difficulty of rescuing the passengers of both trains. It is presumed that the rear cars of the local were of wood which burned readily. It therefore could not be ascertained definitely whether more persons were imprisoned in these cars.

Word was communicated to the offices of the New Haven road in New York that from one to three persons had been killed and a dozen injured. Another report was sent to Superintendent Litchfield of the New London division that one person had been killed, one seriously injured and that four more persons were missing.

At Westerly it was said that two persons were known to be missing, one a resident of Westerly and the other a resident of Bradford, but all reports are feared to be too optimistic.

The local train from Boston left that city at 5:03 o'clock, and the New York express followed thirty-one minutes later. The local train's engineer and fireman had difficulty with their steam all during the run from Boston to Bradford. It became more serious at Kingston, a few miles east of Bradford, but the pilots kept on to Bradford, where the local was to take a siding to let the express pass. The local was proceeding to the siding when the express struck.

Flagman Sent Back.

According to official information, the local train had sent back a flagman with a red lantern as soon as the local made the stop just beyond the Bradford station. He is said to have gone back half a mile behind the local with his danger signal.

It was also stated officially that the express had explicit orders to stop at the Bradford station. Why the flagman's signal was disregarded, if such was the case, and why the express did not slow down for the Bradford stop if it had orders to stop there remained unexplained.

A heavy fog hung low over the tracks along the road. The local had begun to take the siding at Bradford. Slowly the cars moved out of the main track when the Gilt Edge express, apparently running at high speed, bore down and plowed through the local's rear coach, the big locomotive of the express halting only when the front trucks had shattered the car and sprayed splintered wood and twisted steel in all directions. The rear car of the local was about entirely telescoped, and the broken wreckage immediately burst into flames.

The crash occurred at exactly 7:32 o'clock. It was followed by a wild scramble on the part of the passengers of both trains to leave their cars. Many were catapulted from their chairs and flung to the floor. So near were both trains to the station that when the flames gained small headway the freight house caught afire and then the passenger station, according to reports from the scene. Communication with outside towns was impossible except by telephone.

Three Inscriptions.

On the doorways of Milan cathedral are three inscriptions. The first, placed under a carved rose wreath, runs, "All that which pleases is only for a moment." The second, under a cross, reads, "All that which troubles is but for a moment," and under the central arch is the inscription, "That only is which is eternal."

UNION COUNTY COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

Notice of Hearing Objections to Assessments for Street Improvements in the City of Plainfield.

ARMSTRONG MULFORD, FRANK J. HUBBARD and JOHN ABBOTT, the Commissioners appointed by the Union County Court of Common Pleas, by order entered on the fourteenth day of January, 1916, to estimate and assess benefits conferred by the permanent street improvements in the City of Plainfield, under the ordinance of said city specified in said order (said ordinance being also hereinafter specified), and the character of the work and improvements for which said assessments have been made and a description of the sections of the particular streets and avenues thereof, which are included in said assessment, being as follows, viz.:

West Third street, from the northeasterly side line of Liberty street to the southwesterly side line of Plainfield avenue;

under the ordinance of said City, entitled: "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of a Portion of West Third street in the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Concrete Pavement, and to provide the necessary funds in advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," Approved August 20th, 1914, which ordinance was adopted under and by virtue of the Act of the Legislature, entitled, "An Act to authorize the improvement of streets and highways in cities of this State, and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same, and for the assessment of the benefits of such improvement upon the lands and real estate benefited thereby," approved June 13th, 1898, and the amendments and supplements thereto, having made and filed in the office of the clerk of said court, a report in writing of their estimates and assessments, accompanied by survey and map prepared by the City Surveyor under their direction, showing lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, respectively, the total cost of the whole work upon each of the sections of said streets or avenues improved as aforesaid, under the aforesaid ordinances; the portions assessed upon the City at large, and the names, so far as ascertained, of the owners of the said lots or parcels of land and real estate, and the amount of the assessment to each owner for each of said lots or parcels of land and real estate for the said benefits, and the excess thereof to be paid by the City at large, and raised by general tax; and the other matters required by said acts of the Legislature, as by reference to said report and maps, will more fully and at large appear.

Notice is hereby given that said Union County Court of Common Pleas has fixed the Twenty-eighth day of April, 1916, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as the Court can attend to the same, at the Court House in the City of Elizabeth, as the time and place for hearing before said Court any objections that may be made to such assessments, when and where all parties may be heard, and has directed the publication of this notice.

ABRAM P. MORRIS,
Clerk of the Union County Court of Common Pleas.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

WILL STRENGTHEN FOOTBALL IN JERSEY

Plainfield Soccer Players Are Watching Outcome of Proposition.

Those interested in the Plainfield Association Soccer Football Club are watching a matter that will engage the attention of the executive council of the United States Football Association at the next annual meeting, which will be a proposition to strengthen the state associations—particularly the New Jersey Football Association, which has been more or less dormant during the past two years.

The object of the U. S. F. A. officials is to infuse more interest into the state championships. To accomplish this it will be necessary to either abolish all special cup tie competitions or to compel the officers of to prepare for such so that they will not conflict with the dates of the National Challenge Cup or the State championship series.

Many important bodies will be affected should the legislation prevailing, including the American Football Association, National League, New York State League and several other competitions that have been conducted in this vicinity for several years.

At the same time, some such legislation is necessary, as at the present time there are entirely too many leagues and cup-tie organizations in this section, with the inevitable result that there is great difficulty in finishing the schedules owing to the many conflicting dates. As the National and State association contests take precedence over all others, it has been found almost an impossibility to keep track of the league dates. Take the National League, for instance, this season; there have been only two games played since before Christmas, with little probability of the list of games being completed before the close of the season. The A. F. A. cup competition is also in a rather muddled condition owing to the many postponements, which will naturally prolong the season well into May.

ADVICE TO ANGLERS.

Don't go unless you have plenty of bait.

Don't use a small hook; 22 Cincinnati bass is the proper size.

Don't handle an under-sized fish unless you wet your hands.

Don't keep an under-sized fish too long out of water.

Don't throw an under-sized fish into swift water.

Don't go through the farmer's fields; follow the fences.

Don't abuse property while fishing; avoid climbing fences.

Don't cut small limbs of trees for fishing poles; help forest preservation.

Don't catch more than the law allows.

Don't watch for the fish warden; fish legally.

Don't abuse the privilege of fishing on another's land.

Don't get discouraged the first hour you fish; have patience.

Don't let anyone tell you where the fish are; if he knew it he would keep it to himself.

Don't fish close to the stream; keep back as far as possible.

Don't think the fish will say "Here I am;" try to fool them.

Don't come home and say that the biggest fish you hooked was the one that got away.

Don't think that all fishermen are liars.

EVENING SWIMMING CLASSES AT P. H. S.

Large Number of Men and Women Are Getting Instruction in Big Pool.

Plainfield's men and women are taking to indoor swimming. Several big classes have been organized by the Recreation Committee for instruction at the splendid swimming pool in the High School. George A. Keene, former editor of the department of physical culture in Health Magazine, is now teaching the fundamentals of swimming to the classes. He has taught thousands of persons the art of swimming. His pupils range in age from four to sixty years of age. Members of his classes at the High School are ethusiastic about the work.

"It is a pity," said Keene to his classes last Wednesday night in the High School pool, "that 99 per cent. of the cases of drowning are due to shallow breathing, or a lack of knowledge of breathing properly and relaxation. Many tragedies in the water could be prevented if a non-swimmer would relax the entire body and keep all of the air cells filled with air, instead of struggling and flopping around and taking large quantities of water into the breathing organs.

"There are three essentials to be learned in becoming a strong and graceful swimmer, the first, breathing properly; second, relaxation, and third, executing the movements of limbs and body correctly, and all three are simply matters of practice and habit."

There is a private class for women which will meet in the gymnasium at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evenings, where the dry land swimming exercises and setting up drill will be conducted, before the class enters the pool. The men's class will meet with Mr. Keene in the gymnasium at 8:15 and after the gym work will have exclusive use of the pool. All these classes are to meet on Wednesday evenings. The women's public class is to have use of the pool at 7:35.

COLLEGE ROWING SEASON READY FOR THE GONG

The intercollegiate rowing season will be ushered in Thursday, when the varsity and junior varsity crews of Harvard and Princeton meet in a duel regatta over the mile and seven-eights course on Carnegie Lake. Yale and Pennsylvania will meet in Philadelphia two days later.

Both crews are handicapped by the fact that the late arrival of spring caused work on the water to start much later than usual this year. This has been a severe disadvantage to Dr. Spaeth, faculty coach of the Tiger crew, since it has been practically necessary to develop a new crew. Lee, at four, and Captain Cochran, at stroke, who are the only veterans remaining from last year's varsity, were both green men in 1915, while the rest of the members are inexperienced men. Although Harvard is also handicapped by a late start it will not prove to be such a disadvantage to the Crimson, since there are six veterans on their crew.

VOORHEES ROLLED A 203 IN MATCH WITH CONOVER

After dropping the first Conover took two out of three in the bowling tourney at Gates' North Plainfield alleys last night; Smalley played the same stunt with Conover, and Voorhees took the opening two out of a trio from Conover. Voorhees established the high individual mark of the evening, a 203, in the second game of his match with Conover.

The scores:

Van Zandt	172	144	145
Conover	165	164	179
Smalley	149	191	170
Conover	169	135	148
Voorhees	194	203	160
Conover	188	165	168

Rod and Reel

The trout season opened in Pennsylvania yesterday and quite a number of New Jersey anglers are now in that State in quest of this luscious fish. The prospects for good fishing have been advertised by the State officials as the best in years. Millions of large trout were placed in the streams last fall and they are now ready for a tussle with the anglers.

The catching of tile fish during the last three months in large quantities has been a good thing for the people, as they have taken the place of cod and pollock, of which there has been a shortage. Tile fish are caught about 100 miles due east of Long Branch on a ledge that was discovered several years ago. This fish likes company and usually travels in large schools, a fact that enables the fishermen to catch hundreds of them before something unusual frightens them away. Tile fish weighing thirty pounds have been brought into the New York markets during the last week, where they bring a fair price.

Thousands of flounders have been taken from the waters of Long Island Sound recently. Two Newark fishermen fished near Glen Cove last Wednesday from a New Rochelle power launch and caught ninety-eight flounders as well as eight pounds of large tom cods.

Flounders are plentiful in the boat channel at Water Witch.

Brook and rainbow trout, as well as suckers are to be had in large quantities along the Rockaway river. Some big specimens have been caught there recently.

WILLARD STANDS ALONE.

No One In Sight Now Who Could Give Him a Battle.

Those who make a close study of the pugilistic situation assert that there is no heavyweight in sight who would have a chance of beating Jess Willard. If the champion does not decide to quit the ring it is not likely that any one could be developed within the next few years who could defeat him. Willard found it a difficult task to get down to 250 pounds after training for five weeks, and those close to him say that it would be difficult for him to make this weight again.

It is likely that Willard will have to retire undefeated. If he does he can present his title to any one whom he considers qualified to take it. In 1905 Jim Jeffries did this, when he decided to retire. He refereed a bout between Marvin Hart and Jack Root at Reno and presented his heavyweight title to Hart, the winner of the bout. "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien also claimed it, but his claim was ignored, and the championship went to Hart, who was later defeated by Tommy Burns. Jack Johnson got the title when he defeated Burns. Jack McAuliffe also retired undefeated as lightweight champion, his title going to Kid Lavigne, who he thought was best qualified to take it.

HATS OFF TO OLD ELI!

Johnny Overton, Famous Sprinter, Product of Yale.

Hats off to old Eli and Johnny Overton! Not because Johnny won the Jasper "three-quarter," although there's enough glory in doing that, but because in Overton Yale has produced a runner who has all the earmarks of another Paul Jones.

Overton's first big win was at the intercollegiate cross country championships last fall, when he triumphed in easy style over as classy a field as ever went to the post in the collegiate six mile hilly trail. He then took to the board floor races, competing successfully in many races down east. In January he made his New York debut by appearing in the mile and a half Rodman Wanamaker special at the Millrose games.

THE PIONEER

in the savage wilderness may have his Shakespeare, his Scott, his Dickens or his Burns—but first of all he will have his Bible! The sailor on the boundless main may barely know his letters, but somewhere in his kit you will find a Bible—perhaps with tear-stained inscription written with the trembling hands of old age—from his mother—next to God his best and truest friend! Seek any habitation of men in lands remote and distant—search the rude cabin of the settler—and you will find a Bible—thumbed—worn—ragged, maybe,—but loved and revered as the chiefest treasure of the little family in the clearing!

BIEDERWOLF FORGOT TO MENTION IT.

Dr. Biederwolf has forgotten something. In his sermon on "The Meanest Man" the other night he said nothing of the male biped who spends half his time discussing the faults, or giving publicity to the imaginary faults, of his brothers. A sermon on "The Meanest Man" is incomplete without a reference to this human generator of misery and misfortune and we believe that the great evangelist will admit his mistake.

There is some sort of an excuse for any other crime, weak and idiotic though it may be, but to willfully lie about a brother or sister, or even to parade before all men the sins of a friend is a crime which cannot be excused. A man steals for gain, he drinks for consolation, he tempts others for entertainment, he kills for revenge, but when he loosens a lie he harms another without even the pitiful plea that it gave him pleasure.

Most of the evils of this world come out of ignorance. Although the law says that this shall be no excuse it usually mitigates the crime in the eyes of those whose hearts yearn to forgive, but there never was and never can be an excuse for malicious gossip. A gossip, if there must be such a tribe, should be a woman by all laws of heritage. The crime is peculiar to her sex. While not to be forgiven in the female, it is less becoming to a man than any other sin he can commit.

Without possibly excepting a murderer the two most dangerous males are ingrates and seducers. They commit the greatest, the most treacherous, crimes against society, and yet a gossip by a few twists of the tongue can make of an honest man both an ingrate and a seducer and convict him of the double crime in the eyes of the little world to which all men are confined. He thus murders character, steals hope and destroys ambition, and for his crime there is no worldly punishment. He may not be "The Meanest Man," but other candidates have only to beat him to win.

A QUESTION OF HONESTY.

President Wilson today sends another note to the ruler of the Germans, to the Imperial Government in Berlin. It is not an ultimatum, but simply a demand for some kind of an expression of policy, a request for a reiteration of good faith. There is no crisis except that which has eixsted since the war began. The United States merely wants to know if Germany is trying to keep promises already made, and if she will try to keep them in the future. A frank answer will settle all controversy and if Germany is honest in her submarine warfare, frankness is her chief asset at this time.

Three boys, the oldest but seventeen, sat in police court yesterday morning and told of robbing a store in Plainfield at midnight and then setting fire to the building that housed twenty people in order to cover up their crime. As the one who touched a match to the store talked of the possibility of men, women and children being burned to death as a result of his act he laughed. He will be sent to Elizabeth to be indicted by the grand jury and tried by a promiscuous-picked jury of twelve busy men anxious to get back to their stores and offices and will probably get one or two or perhaps three years in a reformatory. At worst he will be sent to prison for a short term, and this would be the worst that could happen to him or to society. He deserves it, no doubt, and there is nothing else that can be done, but a seventeen-year old boy who will rob and burn women and children to cover up a petty crime is mentally defective. He should not be turned loose now or at any other time unless he has been carefully trained and watched for a long period by those interested in disorders of the brain, and is pronounced a safe citizen. No period in the reformatory, no jail sentence, will ever make of him a man, young or old, who is to be trusted with freedom. Such treatment will but increase his passion for crime and when he is finally loosed New Jersey and its criminal institutions will be responsible for any other crimes he may commit. Is the State willing to accept a partnership in this coming criminal?

Every citizen of Plainfield, whether he is a taxpayer or not, should attend Thursday night's meeting on the municipal budget. If he does not he loses his right to criticise any expenditure during the fiscal year, for it is there that all appropriations are to be decided upon. In another column of The Daily Press of today there will be found a detailed account of the proposed expenditures in all departments. They have been tentatively decided upon by the finance committee of the Common Council, meeting with Mayor Calkins, and they now await public approval. Those who want to oppose any item in the proposed budget are being given due warning of what is contemplated in the way of municipal finances for the coming year, and if they do not speak Thursday night they will not be entitled to a hearing at any later date.

In Brooklyn the other night a thirteen-year-old boy took part in a public prize fight. As his share of the proceeds he received $1, and all New York is horrified at the brutality of the promoters, but prize fighting is a manly sport and $1 for a few minutes' work is great pay compared to the life of thousands of "kiddies" in sweat-shops, and most of those who are yelling loudest over this incident pass hundreds of emaciated, hungry, tubercular little toilers every day without giving them a thought.

Henry Ford wants to run for president. Well, let him. As an advocate of peace-at-any-price he should lead the ticket. Then put on as a running mate William Randolph Hearst, the most prominent of our jingoists, and all who are for peace-at-any-price or war-for-any-reason can vote for the pair. Good citizens will then be able to decide among themselves who will make the best president for real Americans.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

Preparedness.

Look over your togs
And mend your waders;
Throw care to the dogs,
Ye trout stream invaders.

Rig anew your lightest tackle,
Tie another catchy hackle,
Inspect each leader with due care,
For experience has taught
That the big one can be caught
On tackle sound in good repair.

The glowing camp fire brightly burning,
Spreading odors that cause yearning,
Coffee fragrant, trout just right,
Potatoes in jackets, out of sight.

Then your pipe and your dream
Of the beauties that gleam,
And waters that dance
In that cool and winding stream.

It's a Problem.

Did you ever sit and wonder,
Sit and wonder what in thunder
Is the use of all the hurry,
All the skurry and the worry
All the work and all the hustle,
All the rustle and the bustle
That we folks go through?
Every day of life we're slaving,
Skimping, sacrificing, saving,
Planning, figuring and scheming,
And of fame and fortune dreaming,
Just as though we thought we'd never
Quit this earth, but live forever,
Just as now we do.
On the square, now, ain't it funny?
Coveting each other's money,
Pushing, crowding, fighting, striving,
Beating down and bargain driving,
Always looking out for trouble,
Getting it and sometimes double
What it ought to be.
Really, what are we folks doing
With our fretting and our stewing?
Life is one strange institution
That's away beyond solution.
Just one thing after another.
Can you tell the answer, brother?
It's too deep for me.

Did It Ever Occur to You?

Did you ever ride on a train and when you put your head out of the window have the pleasant experience of getting a good hot cinder in your eye? Then, when you drew your head back mighty sudden hit it on the sash and knock a piece of hide off as big as half a dollar from the place where the hair hasn't grown for the last ten years—from your head, not the sash—and while you were rubbing the injured spot, have some old lady in the back seat ask if you had just as soon as not put the window down, and then the train draws into your station, and you go out, leaving your umbrella in the seat? If you ever had any such experience, please keep it to yourself.

No matter how great a prize fighter may be there is always one champ who can knock him out. The champ's name is Al.—Al. K. Hall.

After school

Plainfield Theatre.

The Plainfield Theatre will be accupied today with a new vaudeville bill with pictures for today and tomorrow. The program the last half of last week proved so highly popular that Manager Shannon has sought to not only equal but outdo it, and he believes the acts he has selected will meet the requirements. Ned Nye and Caroline Hunter, who are known as the "Musical Comedy Stars," and whose names are familiar to all Broadway variety patrons, will head today's program. They have a singing and dancing act that was the talk of New York for several months. Supporting this team will be the Ross Sisters, singers of sweet Southern songs; Jack Carroll and company in the comedy sketch, "New York Life," dealing with life in the great city; the ballroom stars, Harry Jackson and Caroline Hunter, in their latest dancing diversion; Joe Rowland, the six-cylinder comedian, and those inimitable jugglers from the Winter Garden, the Hazlocks. Feature pictures will be on the bill each day, the Pathe semi-weekly being the feature for this afternoon and tonight.

For the first time in several years Manager Shannon has arranged for an amateur night at the Plainfield Theatre, and tomorrow night has been set aside as the date for the big event. Seven local "artists" who believe they are destined to become great vaudeville actors, have already entered thir names, and it is possible that four or five more will be received within the next twenty-four hours. Amateur nights are a positive scream, and tomorrow's will prove no exception. It is to be conducted on exactly the same lines as those held each week in Miner's Bronx Theatre, New York, where crowded houses are always the rule. Today at the theatre marks the introduction of a new vaudeville program, which will conclude tomorrow night. Ned Nye and Helen Lazar, the musical comedy stars, whose names are familiar to all Broadway patrons, will present the feature act, offering a novel episode of New York life. Five other big numbers will be on the program. Remember that feature photoplays are shown at every performance in the Plainfield Theatre. Today's special number is the Pathe semi-weekly. Beside Pathe comedies and dramas of one and two-reel duration, the serial film, "The Iron Claw," is scheduled for every Thursday, and the second successfully reigning serial, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," is shown every Friday. Local thespians wishing to enter tomorrow night's amateur competition are asked to leave their names at the box office before tomorrow evening's first performance.

"The Globe Trotters" is the title of the "Blutch" Cooper show, which is to be the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Monday, matinee, and night, April 24. Frank Hunter and Frankie Rice are the co-stars with the organization this season, and surrounding them will be found a company of unusual merit.

The title of the two-act musical comedy which the company is to present is "The Dowery Seekers," the book of which was written by Tom McRae and "Blutch" Cooper, with lyrics by Billy K. Wells. William H. Farrell has provided a musical score which is unusual in many catchy melodies, and the production promises to be one of the best that will be seen here during the burlesque season. Mr. Cooper personally directed the staging of the production, and Raymond B. Perez arranged the brilliant ensemble numbers. In the cast of the company there are to be found, in addition to the two stars, many others who are exceedingly well known to theatregoers, including Will Lester, Robert Aigler, Charles T. Brown, Madge Darrell, Don Trent, Florence Davenport, Sarah Hyatt, Edith Mirfield and others. An all-star olio of vaudeville acts, in addition to the musical comedy, will also be presented.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME...

Proctor's Theatre

AT PROCTOR'S TOMORROW.

Truly a remarkable photoplay feature is presented at Proctor's today, for in it are starred the two greatest exponents of modern dancing ever known, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, the most famous and highest salaried couple in the world, whose fame sprung up literally in a night. These two famous young people were finally induced to appear in a colossal photoplay production prior to Mr. Castle's departing to enlist in the English army, and the result is the presentation of "The Whirl of Life" at Proctor's today. All the leading critics have enthused on the meritorious qualities and attractive features of this production and have been loud in their praises of Mr. and Mrs. Castle's artstic and temperamental acting as co-stars in it. "The Whirl of Life" was produced in lavish style, with no thought of expense, but with perfection uppermost in mind. All the admirers and friends of this famous and popular duo have now a chance to see them on the screen, and patrons are advised to attend early to secure choice seats. Added features today include Norma Talmadge in "Martha's Vindication," Joe Jackson in "Gypsy Joe," Keystone comedy, and the seventh episode of "Mary Page." Tomorrow another stupendous attraction is presented featuring William Farnum, the peer of all dramatic stars. It is an adaptation of Hall Caine's famous novel, "The Bondman," and is produced in true Fox style, being presented in six massive parts. In addition, tomorrow the eighth episode of "The Iron Claw" is shown. Thursday brings to the fore Robert Edeson in "Big Jim Garrity," A. H. Wood's remarkable stage success. In addition, Frank Mills appears in a "somewhat different" Triangle play entitled, "The Moral Fabric," and Charles Murray is seen in a screamingly funny Keystone comedy entitled "The Love Riot." On Friday Blanche Sweet, one of the most popular of Paramount stars is featured in "The Secret Sin," an engrossing story, treated in a novel and pleasing way, and the latest chapter of "The Social Pirates" is also shown. On Saturday, in addition to other features, Charlie Chaplin appears for the children's benefit in "The Knockout"—a picture that literally is a knockout.

A Lyric of Lucre

BY JOHN J. GIFFORD

Whene'er you hear a fellow say,
"I never had a chance!"—
Make up your mind he failed to pay
The fiddler, for his dance.

This world of ours cheats no man,
If all work for their share.
And chances come when chances can,
To them who treat them square.

The trouble is with some young lads
They love to take their fling.
They will prefer their foolish fads
To almost anything.

And then when old age comes along
And finds them down and out,
They'll swear that they've been done a wrong,
Unjustly banged about.

Now laddies, don't think I'm a crank,
Or worse—a slave to gold,
But filthy lucre in the bank
Looks clean, when you grow old.

It goes toward keeping cares away
And bulls' eyes from your pants.
If you'll just bank a little hay,
You'll be your life-long chance.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The High School debating team has sent a challenge to the team of the Rahway High School to hold a debate sometime in the near future on a question of national issue.

Seven members of the Senior Class went to Elizabeth today to take part in an extemporaneous writing contest at the county courthouse. Representatives from all the schools in the county participated. Those from P. H. S. were Richard Borden, Joseph Gallagher, Richmond Ritterbush, Harold Seal, William Backer and Harold Neely.

Members of the Junior English classes will present the comedy parts of the Shakespearean play, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," in the auditorium tomorrow morning. It will be in the nature of an observance of the three hundredth anniversary of the Bard of Avon.

Everybody Is Home From School

And Mothers Are Bringing the Children to Be Outfitted for Easter

For Young Women of 14 to 20 Years

Suits, top coats, sports clothes, afternoon frocks, little dinner dresses and dance frocks. Girls want (and know where to find) clothes that they cannot only wear here, but enjoy "showing to the other girls" when they return. For their particular benefit this week we have

100 New Navy Blue Serge Suits of $18.75 to $22.50 grades, selling for $15 And $17.50, $20 and $25 Easter Suits

Suits that are beautifully tailored; loose models, semi-fitting models and smart plain tailored suits.

The largest collection at $25 includes—

—splashy English looking suits.
—blue Norfolk serge with smart pockets.
—blue suit trimmed with black or white buttons.
—stunning sport tweeds.
—one lovely gray model of "men's material."

$17.50 and $20 Models

—charming serges of cadet or navy blue, with dull black buttons and long slim pockets—a suit that is a subtle reminder of Paris.

Other suits of gabardine, serges, wool velours, checks, taffeta and serge combinations, la Jers silk sports suits, stockinets and shepherd checks.

Frocks

The one-piece afternoon frock is nearly as important as the suit. Combinations in Georgette crepe, crepe de chine, taffeta, taffeta and Georgette; frocks which depend upon youthful lines, smart color combinations, for their charm, and they have charm, distinctive charm. They are the sort of little frocks that appeal to well-bred cultivated young women, to college girls, boarding school girls and convent school girls.

The little evening dresses, in fluffy white nets, airy bright blues and pinks, are simply adorable. So are the quaint demure cotton dresses, which are here unusually early, to accommodate the young girl, who must needs buy her June "commencement week's" and warm weather frocks now.

Dresses, $11.50, $15, $18.75, $20, and from $22.50 to $100. Many of them to select from.

Sports Top-Coats

Spring weight and cool looking as to color, but warm and protecting. In all desirable materials, $11.75, $15, $18.75, $20 and up to $68.50.

Second floor, Old Building.

For the Fillette

who appears on Easter morn in her new Spring suit, there is a $16.50 special (pictured).

Three-piece suit in black and white check, navy and cadet blue.

Many attractive models, within reach of the school girls' ever rapidly diminishing allowance.

Smart distinctive suits, 12, 14 and 16 year sizes, $16.50, $18.75 and $20.

Coats for Little Daughter

(6 to 14 years)

Very good looking coats, many to select from, $5.75, $6.75, $7.50 and $9.75.

Second floor, Old Building.

Gay Array of Blouses

Everything ranging in price from $1.95 to $20, for the Little Women, the Young Women and the Fillette, to choose from.

Charming blouses of sheer organdie, batiste, handkerchief linen, voiles, crepe de chine, Georgette crepe, tub silk, all made with exquisite simplicity that spells "youth."

Appealing are the demurely tucked shirts, pleated tailored blouses and the daintily befrilled ones which cleverly combine different materials, laces, embroidery, or are distinctive with hemstitched ornamentation. The cuffs are unusually fascinating, having so many smart little graces to attract attention, to the dainty, well-kept hands.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Proud Princess In a Small Cottage.

It Made Her Fingers Very Sore.

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

"OH, please, daddy, tell us a fairy story!" cried Jack and Evelyn.

So daddy told them this: "When a king once made his daughter marry the first man who entered the palace and this man happened to be a fiddler the proud princess was sorry when she saw all the land that belonged to the king she would not have. As she walked along the dusty road with her fiddler husband he kept pointing out beautiful meadows that belonged to this king, Grizzle Beard. Then they came to a big city. 'Whose noble city is that?' asked the proud princess. 'King Grizzle Beard's. Had you taken him all this would have been yours,' said the fiddler. 'Oh, why did I not marry King Grizzle Beard?' moaned the princess.

"'That's no business of mine,' said the fiddler. 'Why do you want another husband? Am I not good enough for you?'

"At last they came to a small cottage. 'Who owns that dirty little hole?' asked the fiddler's wife. 'I do. This is where you and I are going to live.'

"'Where are the servants?' she asked.

"'You must do what there is to be done. Now make the fire and put on the kettle and get my supper, for I am very tired,' said her fiddler husband.

"But the princess knew nothing of making fires and cooking, so the fiddler had to help her. When they had eaten a rather poor supper they went to bed. But the fiddler woke her up very early next morning to clean the cottage. Thus they lived two days. And when they had eaten all the food in the cottage the man said: 'Wife, we can't go on like this, spending money and earning nothing. You must learn to weave baskets.' Then he went out and cut willows for her to weave. But it made her fingers very sore. 'I see you can't weave,' said her husband. 'Try to spin. Perhaps you can do that better.'

"So the proud princess sat down and tried to spin, but the threads cut her fingers till they bled. 'See,' cried the fiddler; 'you are good for nothing! You cannot cook or weave baskets or spin! What a bargain I've got!' Then he added, 'I will try to set up a trade in pots and pans, and you shall stand in the market place and sell them.'

"'If any of my father's people from the court pass by and see me selling things in the market place they will laugh at me,' answered the proud princess.

"But her husband did not care and said she must work if she did not want to die of hunger."

"Oh, daddy, will the fiddler let her die?" cried Evelyn.

And daddy smiled and kissed her twice.

HIPPODROME TRAIN SCHEDULE

and other organizations desiring blocks of seats will have to be on hand early.

The round trip, that is the railroad transportation between here and Liberty street and a seat in the Hippodrome will cost the excursionists just $1.75, one of the most remarkable offers ever made to Plainfield people. Big delegations are expected from Scotch Plains, South Plainfield, Dunellen, New Market, Bound Brook, Fanwood, Watchung and other places. Special arrangements have been made with the trolley company to hold the 12:30 east bound trolley car at the depot until the arrival of the excursion train that the Scotch Plains people might have transportation accommodations at that hour.

A big portion of seats will be reserved especially for Scotch Plains and Fanwood people and these will be put on sale at a store in the former place sometime Monday afternoon, the exact hour to be announced later. Similar arrangements will probably be made for Dunellen and South Plainfield.

Some of the feature attractions of the most spectacular show ever put on in America's greatest playhouse are the Kat Kabaret, Charlotte, the famous skater; Sousa's band, Toto, the wonderful clown; cascades at the Biltmore, Chinatown, the baggage smashers, toyland, the march of the skaters and many other wonderful novelties.

TAKES PLEDGE FOR YEAR.

Herbert Jordon, charged with being drunk and disorderly on the streets promised to take the pledge for one year when tried before Judge DeMeza in police court this morning, and was released on suspended sentence.

DISORDERLY CASE GOES OVER.

Carrie Foster, colored, charged with being drunk and disorderly and using profane and indecent language, was arraigned in police court this morning, but her case was continued until Wednesday.

Buying for the home cannot be done wisely and economically unless the "buyer" is a student of the advertisements—no more than a store may be made prosperous without advertising.

The shopper may often reduce the VALUE-GETTING POWER of her dollar to fifty cents—simply through neglecting to read the ads, or to know values—and by buying at "the nearest place."

WHY NOT?

"THAT IRRESISTIBLE FLAVOR."

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

MEATS FOR DINNER.

BRAISED STEAK.—Buy a fine piece of round steak two inches thick. With the edge of a thick plate pound into it one-half cupful of flour. Place a lump of butter in a frying pan and sear the steak on both sides. Season and cover well with water. Cover closely and bake fifty minutes.

Fricassee of Lamb.—Cut two and one-half pounds lean lamb into small pieces. Put into saucepan and cover with boiling water. Salt and pepper to taste. Simmer one hour, then put in one can (or one quart) shelled green peas. Boil ten minutes, longer if peas are fresh, and add a thickening of one tablespoonful each of butter and flour. Boil up for one minute, then it is ready to serve.

Pot Roast.—Take from one to six pounds of fresh pork; wash well, place in medium sized kettle, take half a teaspoonful salt, rub well in top of meat, take one tablespoonful relish, one-quarter teaspoonful sage, one-quarter pound bacon cut in thin slices, one teaspoonful paprika; place bacon across top of roast, put other seasoning in and cover with boiling water. This will be enough water to cook meat done if cooked over slow flame.

Mock Roast Hare.—To make mock roast hare put equal quantities of beef, veal and pork through the mincing machine, or beef and pork will do alone. Mix well in a basin with a round of bread that has been soaked an hour in cold milk and pressed out, pepper, salt, grated nutmeg and lemon peel, a dessertspoonful of grated cheese, a minced shallot and two well beaten eggs. On a floured board form the mixture into an oval cake about four inches high. Cut some small strips of fat bacon and stick them all over the hare, then make some butter very hot in the baking tin. Bake it for an hour in a rather hot oven, basting it a little and adding a small quantity of stock from time to time. Thicken the gravy and serve it in a tureen; garnish the hare with parsley and slices of lemon.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old, famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease. —Adv.

Raking 'Em Over

By "JINKS"

Speaking of bike racing it might be well to suggest that this Queen City organziation take over the annual Decoration Day road meet which was held here for so many years with marked success by the now extinct Plainfield Bicycle Club. Riders from all parts of the country sought the attractive array of prizes which were offered each year for their twenty-four mile competition on the Mountain avenue course and when it was discontinued last year keen regret was evidenced on all hands. Why not let the new organization boost the old event and bring it back again next month? The time for action is now ripe and with a little zealous work we could arrange one that would prove bigger and better than any of the previous half dozen.

• • • • • •

Indications are that Plainfield will be well represented in bicycle racing circles this year by some of the best talent that has ever been turned out of this city. An organization such as the Queen City Wheelmen is well qualified to take care of Plainfield's interests in track competition and with proper management the pedal pushers who have already lined up should be groomed into prize winners. Two performers set up creditable records at the opening show on the Newark boards Sunday afternoon, although handicapped by the lack of proper equipment and a newness to the boards. As the season progresses these difficulties will be overcome and there are a couple of localities from whom much is expected during the coming summer.

• • • • • •

Tom Brantingham's performance at the traps of the Climax Gun Club Saturday afternoon is worthy of a little more than passing note by the followers of the gun sport. Although Tom is well passed the years prescribed for the usefulness of mankind in sportdom by "Doc" Osler he established a string of marks Saturday that comes pretty near to a record for these parts and proves his assertion that he can still bring down the birds with the best gun handlers in the country. Tom has won many a prize for his expertness with the rifle and can be looked upon to pull a few more from under cover before laying aside his trusty weapon.

Whether they'll win the City League pennant or run in the cellar this year will be determined by the Hope Chapel baseball stars tonight at a meeting in the chapel parlors. Britt Martin, the grand old man of Plainfield baseball, will assume the role of trainer for the West Fourth street athletes this season and he'll start his preliminary shaping tonight by coming to an understanding with each and every candidate. Britt is a firm believer in hard practice and it's one safe bet that the candidates for the chapel outfit will have to "shake a leg" between now and the time the season gets under way.

• • • • • •

That Newark will once more be the mecca for Sunday afternoon bike fans is a foregone conclusion and that the calibre of cycling this year will be of a higher plane than any heretofore put on at the Velodrome is indicated by the program at the opener. The management has secured the world's star pedal men and with valuable prizes as incentives to keen competition the weekly meeting of the bike clans is due to revive the old time interest in the pastime.

• • • • • •

This is the season of the year when high school baseball coaches get their shocks when star athletes are barred from competition because of low grades in scholastic work. Not a few of the best performers in nearby high schools have been eliminated by this rule, even though the season is just getting under way, but it is a good thing and its enforcement is a credit to any institution promoting athletics.

• • • • • •

Plainfield is well represented in the official golf ratings for 1916, fourteen players being included in the metropolitan tally. Numerically, however, fourteen is not a large number for a city like Plainfield possessed of such excellent advantages for the promotion of the sport and this number should be tripled ere another year rolls round.

What has become of Warry McLaughlin and those Dunellen colts he was going to mould into ball players? It wouldn't be baseball unless Warry was in it, according to our friend the Dunellenite. Hence the baseball bug will have to take a back seat once again.

Failure at basketball is no excuse for not having a baseball nine at the Y. M. C. A. this year. Not so very long ago the association was a king pin in sportdom around these parts but its popularity has been decidedly on the wane of late.

BASEBALL PROSPERITY MELON FOR 1916 WILL BE SLICED BY CRACKERJACK ARRAY OF COMBINES IN THIS VICINITY

By the "Dopester."

Good Teams Plentiful in and About Plainfield This Year.

That baseball will thrive here during the coming summer is a foregone conclusion, but whether or not sport prosperity will be sufficient to support the array of teams that have already met for organization is another matter entirely. The City Baseball League rises up in the foreground as the big factor in local diamond circles for 1916, six teams composing the circuit. It is certain that Plainfield will not have an aggregation of the semi-pro. type, but there will be several independent nines organized for Saturday afternoon and Sunday competition. None of these will be in the class with those supported by this community several years ago, when Ernest Dorflinger, Bill and Eddie Stallings, Dave Driscoll, Lou Dixon, Warry McLaughlin and a host of other notables were affiliated with the sport hereabouts.

At present the two high schools, North Plainfield and Plainfield, are in the midst of their annual schedules and there is some talk of making the borough scholastic contingent a permanent summer club. It is a known fact that a number of prominent residents of the borough stand ready to supply the necessary financial backing to support this team during the early weeks of its summer campaign, and there is every reason to believe that an aggregation of this nature would prosper in Saturday afternoon baseball competition in North Plainfield.

Joe Albert, the veteran pilot of Scotch Plains' Sunday baseball destinies, is anxious to reorganize the clan of veterans he has at his fingers' tips down that way, and it is safe to conclude that Albert's anxiety will develop into a reality ere the season gets far under way. His one drawback rests in the selection of a suitable playing field, and as soon as this is located, he will schedule a booking of games and send a nine of high calibre out to represent that borough. An almost prohibitive license fee has been placed on baseball clubs for promoting the game in Scotch Plains, and Albert does not feel inclined to pay this big sum in addition to the amount necessary for rental purposes.

Some agitation has been noted in Elks' circles locally for the organization of a club. A number of well-known baseball artists, including Louis Slocum, are members of the Plainfield lodge, and there appears to be sufficient talent to warrant the formation of a combine capable of holding its own with any other municipal or fraternal clan in this State. In fact, the talent is more plentiful among the Elks than it is in any other club or organization in or about Plainfield, and all that is necessary is a little concentrated effort to bring the team together.

It is practically certain that there won't be a Y. M. C. A. team, and baseball will probably lie dormant in Dunellen as far as a representative club is concerned. Up Dunellen way interest is keen in the sport, but since Bob Bogardus retired from the managing game, no one has been found who is willing to handle the managerial reins and do the heavy work. Bogardus cannot be lured back into the sport, and it will be a long time before Dunellen finds one who is

Netherwood will probably be represented again by its independent combine; Watchung will have several clubs, and Bob Hamilton is organizing the South Plainfield forces. Charlie Newhouse has disappeared from Bound Brook baseball circles, and the conditions in "Bee" town are about the same as those in Dunellen. Charlie Newhouse was to Bound Brook what Bob Bogardus was to Dunellen, and the former is just as determined as the latter in the matter of retiring. Somerville will pop up in baseball before another month rolls by, no matter how humble the team may be. Jack Torpey is the ringleader of the national pastime down that way.

Dave Driscoll has a liking for New Brunswick and Sunday baseball, and those local fans who delight in witnessing contests on this day would like nothing better than to see Driscoll at the helm once more. He knows where the talent lies, and it would be an easy matter for him to put a crackerjack outfit in the field. Summarized, the old game appears to be pretty healthy around these parts, and unless something unforseen happens, all managers will get through with flying colors on the financial end. There is plenty of individual interest and good teams will draw big crowds. The City League should prove especially inviting to the game lover, as the organization is made up of good clubs all keenly on edge for a hard pennant race.

FARMERS EXPECT PLAN BIG DOINGS

Indications Point to a Banner Year Under New Managership.

The most formidable independent team to cavort around these parts during the coming summer will be the Farmer A. C., an aggregation which had a most successful season last year and which hopes to duplicate the feat during the coming season. The Farmers are under a new management, and are angling for the use of a field in South Plainfield. Games will be played there on Sundays if the efforts to secure the use of the field are successful.

Last year, Alex. Campbell led the team and did very well. However, as the team intends to extend its endeavors during the coming season, it was deemed wise to place an older man at the helm. Amos Stites, who has taken over the reins, is an experienced man at the game and should prove an efficient leader. There was some talk of changing the name of the team from "Farmer" to "Franklin," but the suggestion did not meet with the approbation of the players; so the cognomen remains as before.

Kachelries, who was the mainstay in the box last year, has signed up for the coming season and should have a banner year. The team will have direct claim to the services of Morley, Sims, Anderson, Friel, Burns and Campbell. This is a clouting crew and will make things hum for any kind of opponents.

The practice game indulged in by the Farmers, Saturday, did much to bring out their strong and weak spots. This Saturday the Farmers expect to tackle the First Baptist bunch in another tuning-up encounter. Evidently the "Seeds" believe in ante-bellum tactics.

SEASON TOO EARLY.

The baseball postponements of the past few days have not been in vain, for yesterday President Charles H. Ebbets, of the Brooklyn Club, stated that the season started too early and should not have been opened in the North until after April 20. He may convert other managers to the same way of thinking. He also advocated keeping the players in the warm Southern climate for a longer period.

NUMBER ELI PLAYERS.

The Yale football players will be numbered next autumn, according to a statement made last night by Captain Black, who said that his earlier decision not to wear numbers was hasty. The staff of the head coach, "Tad" Jones, has been completed by the appointment of Clarence Alcott as coach for the ends.

SAURER STARS WILL FLICKER ELSEWHERE

Array of Factory Notables Being Signed by Other League Organizations.

Now that the Saurer team is no more, fans are anxious to know what disposition will be made of the many stars of that team. The Saurer club has always given Plainfield a high-class brand of baseball, and leaves the field covered with well-earned laurels. The team has been under the leadership of Britt Martin ever since its infancy, and under his guiding hand passed successfully through all the stages of its life. Britt has assumed the reins of the chapel outfit and expects to lead them to the post victoriously.

Jack Wilson, the energetic outfielder of the shopmen, has signed up with the Clinton avenue aggregation and will act as captain for that team. His addition to the avenue boys is augmented by the affiliation of Eddie Bergen with that clan. Bergen is a catcher of note and will probable act as first string man until Box Apgar completes his term with the High School tossers. Then it is most likely that either Eddie or "Box" will be shifted to the outfield. "Kats" Miller, erstwhile pitcher and outfielder of the defunct Saurer outfit, has agreed to don a Jones garb this season, and promises to give the Plainfield A. A. all that he possesses. Johnny Dixon, one of the most promising young twirlers in the State, has also been signed by Jones, who seems to have a string on the surplus Saurer stock. "Tush" Jaeger will mingle with the Jones boys, who seem to have taken a new lease of life. Betzenberger, another Saurer man, has promised to aid the Plainfield A. A. and expects a banner year.

Possessing, as they do, the well-known Saurer spirit, these fellows should greatly enliven the teams with which they have cast their lot. All of which goes to show that this year's City League race is not only going to be a lively one, but is going to carry through its entirety the essence of suspense, as each team is as well fortified as the other.

P. H. S. VS. WESTFIELD.

Plainfield High School will play its second home game and third contest of the season when Westfield High School's nine appears on Parker Field tomorrow afternoon Victorson will probably be Coach Patch's choice for the hurling mound, while the rest the team will lineup as usual. The infield has not yet steadied down as was shown in the Trenton game when nine miscues were made, really losing the game. The hitting, however, is fairly good and so far has come at just the right time.

BIG MEET AT RUTGERS.

New Brunswick plucked the junior metropolitan track and field championship plum yesterday at a meeting of the championship committee of the metropolitan district. The meet will be held under the auspices of the Knights of St. Peter Athletic Association, and will be run on Nelson Field at Rutgers College. It is probable that the national ten-mile run and seven-mile walk championships will also go to Newark again, as the Johnson & Johnson A. A. are considering putting in a bid for them.

Blarney About Jack Martin Proves That Summer is Here

With the opening of the American Association season, interest in Jack Martin's future will begin to take form. The local boy has seen service in as fast company as there is and should have no trouble keeping up with the pace set by the minor leaguers. In fact, it has already been said that he outshines every other infielder in the Association circuit.

The Milwaukee team is considered the second best in the league, as most authorities agree that the Toledo club is the real class of the league. Roger Bresnahan is manager of the Toledo lads, and has under his wing such stars as Ed. Sweeney, the former Yankee backstop; and Mugh Bedient, the Red Sox cast-off. The Brewers, otherwise known as the Milwaukee outfit, base their pennant hopes on Jack Martin and Jim Thorpe, the latter a former Giant and noted Indian athlete. The advent of Thorpe to the Brewers was occasioned by the sale of Ad Durgin to the Newark Indians. Durgin came from the Pirates, but was indirectly the property of the Milwaukee club. President Timme, of the "brewing aggregation," is quoted as having declared Jack Martin to be the speediest shortstop in baseball. The owner of the Brewers believes that Jack can ably fill the shoes of Wortman, who was once pronounced a sensation.

In the battle with Dayton last week, the Milwaukee clouters banged out 24 hits. Local optimists can well surmise that at least three of these bingles went to our own Jack.

N. Y. STATE LEAGUE AFTER "HUB" STINE

Troy Manager Looking Over the Talent in Springfield College Camp.

When the Springfield Y. M. C. A. Training School team lines up against the Massachusetts Aggies in a game at Springfield tomorrow, "Hub" Stine, former North Plainfield High School athlete, will once more be on the receiving end for the Y. M. C. A. collegians. Stine has played two years of baseball at Springfield, and is also a football "letter" man, having played two seasons of football. The Springfield team has a particularly hard schedule this year, and the team is one of the best that has been turned out there in some time.

Manager Zeller, of the Troy team of the New York State League, has been attending the Springfield practices for the past two weeks, and rumor has it that he intends making the Springfield battery men an offer at the conclusion of the college schedule. Stine, however, will not play professional baseball, having formulated tentative plans to pursue his profession immediately after leaving college.

Next Saturday, Stine and his teammates play at West Point, and he will probably take a lightning trip to Plainfield.

FORMER P. H. S. OPPONENT STRIKES OUT 16 BATTERS

Blodgett, the giant navy pitcher who twirled against Plainfield High School baseball teams in 1913 and 1914, while a member of the High School of Commercial team of New York City, struck out sixteen Colgate batters Saturday afternoon and allowed but two hits, both singles; but his team lost by a 2 to 1 score. William Peacock and Monroe Good, both of this city, are students at Colgate, but are not playing baseball this year.

"MAC" BEGAN AS A PROGRAM BOY

Is Now Admitted to Be the World's Greatest Gospel Singer.

HE LOVES HIS WORK

"He Lifted Me" and "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight" are His Favorite Song—Story of Remarkable Career.

McEwan, who sets our hearts beating with pulsations of quickening rhythm, who wields a mastery over thousands in song-stories of the love of Christ, is literally singing thousands to God.

"He Lifted Me," one of Mac's favorite solos, is an inspiration to the multitudes. It nearly tells the story of the singer's own introduction to the beauties of the Christian life. A little eight-year-old boy of Scotland, with the blood of reformers and strict churchmen coursing through his veins, a child of the great city of Glasgow, and a lowly and humble one, too, son of poor parents, William McEwan did not have more than the example of godly father and mother and the environments that surround the average little Scotchman, but he was destined for a wonderful career, a work far beyond any that he had ever dreamed of.

His mother died when the little fellow was struggling in poverty to develop his natural talent in music. The father, James McEwan, was a poor hand loom weaver, earning the munificent (?) wages of approximately $6 per week, so there was little chance for the boy, William, to acquire much except that which his own industry and application brought him. But the youngster had the stuff in him that most Scotchmen possess—a dogged determination to stick and to win if it is in the wood.

Well, Billie McEwan "Stuck."

One advantage in affairs musical is given to boys of continental Europe in the corporation choral societies. Glasgow had such. It is the Glasgow Choral Union. Here one can attend at trifling expense and hear the best artists in the business. It was in this great society that little Mac got his musical start. But the ground had been prepared by godly parents. James McEwan, a stout-hearted Scot, had brought William up in the old Reformed Presbyterian church.

He had often prayed for and with his little son, and the example of Christian parents was constantly his during his youth. Again, Mac's father was a singer. So was his grandfather. The McEwans are a race of singers. Therefore, you will see that William McEwan came by his sweet voice and his remarkable talents primarily by inheritance. But many a man has these same opportunities and more. Often they have the added advantage of wealth and influence to help them on. And sometimes they wreck the whole business.

William McEwan was made of better stuff.

Mac always spent his spare time around the corporation concerts, especially on Saturdays. One day he heard a great bass singer there. Mac was struck with the man's remarkable voice, and soon the little Scotchman was trying out his own vocal abilities. He loved music and he loved anything that produced it—good music.

Mac had been imbued with the love of the more serious and plaintive sorts of song. He never hankered after the comic and funny stuff. He would rather hear the "Miserere" any time than the best dashing military chorus ever conceived. "He Lifted Me," "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" and songs of that sort appealed to him every time. They obsessed his soul.

Got an Idea.

His inclinations kept him in contact with the Choral Union, and he heard so many oratorios, sacred songs and songs that touch the heart as to exalt him to a determination to get into the concert game himself. He started as program boy at the Glasgow Choral Union. It was not long until his abilities as a singer were recognized by the conductor and little Mac was admitted as a member. A rare exception was made and William McEwan was taken in as the youngest member ever accepted by the union. That was going some for a straightlaced, Scotch musical society.

Of course, Mac's voice needed expert attention then. It was all right for a youngster like he to possess a sweet voice and more or less ability to use it well enough to please a home public. It is just like a lot of Plainfield boys. They can sing pretty well and get a hand every time from an audience of their own towns people. But in their hearts they know they would not make good "on the road." It is true, a lot of them think they know it all and have perve enough to try the experiment, but were 90 per cent. of them to try it out they would fall—flat—like the wall of Jericho.

William McEwan persuaded his father to raise some money with which to improve his voice and his musical education. Little Mac got to be chief programmer of the Choral Union, and in this way he earned some money, too, and devoted it to his own education. He finished his training under one of Glasgow's greatest vocal teachers, Robert Dawson.

When he was about eighteen years old he secured an appointment at the Harmonic Concert Hall, Glasgow, and sang straight tenor songs. "Mary of Argyle" was his first public song as a professional. It took the house by storm. This was his first success and it encouraged him to increased energy and ambition. That he progressed rapidly is certain, for in the first year he was able to plaster himself over with a dozen medals, had he so desired, for he got the medals. He literally "swept the carpet," as people of the concert and dramatic stage say when they want you to know that their acts "went big."

Was Married.

McEwan's career from that time on was just like that of any other concert singer of recognized ability—with the exception that he got married. Yes, Mac is a married man and he is mighty proud of it. There are several little McEwans, too. Mac, senior, got it into his head that there is big money in the singing business over here in the glorious United States of America. Perhaps he had, like a lot of little foreign boys, heard that money was to be had here merely for the reaching out for it. He brought his wife to America and he intended to follow the concert hall business. He found that the concert business was not exactly popular enough to suit one of his attainments and that it would not bring him in enough money to suit his ideas. Perhaps Mac's head was swelled a little about that time. He then heard that there was big money in vaudeville, and flop, he went right into it.

His first appearance was at Austin & Stone's Theatre, Boston, Mass He made a hit there and he soon got into Keith & Proctor's Eastern circuit. He stayed in vaudeville seven years and he loved it. McEwan liked the plaudits of the big audiences. It was like wine and it stimulated him to do his level best. To sing a song and then look out over the footlights and see a house full of well-dressed people clapping their hands sore and shouting their lungs out was worth all the years of hard work that it took to make him able to do it.

Then there was the money. Good, big, round American dollars—and stacks of them, too. Why, it was nothing for a singer like McEwan to get as much as $100 a week from the theatrical managers. And then there were the side pickings. Oh, bless you, yes! The pickings sometimes amounted to nearly as much as the regular weekly pay envelope.

Made Extra Money.

You see, where an artist's reputation has preceded him there are clubs and other organizations in all large cities, and in some smaller ones, too, like Plainfield, where they are anxious to have the noted performers entertain them late at night, or perhaps in the afternoons, between the hours of the regular "house acts," and for this service these organization members eagerly "chip in" and give the visitor a royal tip. Sometimes these receipts are $50 or $75 at a time. Mac got $75 side money for one entertainment in a big city.

The little Scotchman's head was buzzing with the huzzas of the crowds and his pockets were bulging with the coin. Of course it was most intoxicating to the young man who had been reared in poverty and who had worked so hard to win his way to public favor.

But over there in dear old Scotland there remained a McEwan of different mind. That old Reformed Presbyterian Scotchman was praying long and often that his son, his dear Little Mac, would desert the vaudeville stage. To the stern old father the theatre was the house of the very devil himself. He despised the theatre and he most ardently despised vaudeville. Many a letter came across the Atlantic to plead with the young man to quit the whole business. To the mind of McEwan the elder nothing good could come out of it, and he feared for his son's soul.

William McEwan never had been a bad man. He was an average good man. While he was not exactly a devoutly religious person, there was nothing particularly bad about him. His heart was full of good intentions, and he was a moral man, and he apparently could not see why he should turn down the nice, big American dollars when he was doing nobody any harm and was getting plenty of the stuff that makes the mare go. Why, even his songs were inocuous.

They never were of the riotously comic sort. He worked up patriotic scenes and pathetic and plaintive songs and dressed them to suit the occasion. He would adopt a costume and a scene for each particular act of his. A London music firm kept him supplied with the latest stuff in his line of vaudeville, and he never was at a loss for material which would get the "big hand" and the large money.

It was while on the vaudeville stage that "Mac" chanced to hear a band of gospel singers on a street corner in London. Something seemed to convict him of his life of sin and when the band moved to the little gospel mission, he went with them. That night he gave his heart to God in that mission. He left the stage at once and promised his talents to the Lord's work. He sang his first gospel song in the little mission where he was converted. With his God-given talent for singing, Mr. McEwan soon became widely known as a gospel singer, and the Columbia graphaphone people had him make gospel song records for them in London. He then came to this country and toured with Rev. Dr. Torrey in evangelistic work. About five years ago, Dr. Biederwolf heard him sing in Tremont Temple, in Boston. He liked the witty little Scotchman with the sweet tenor voice, and "Mac" has been Dr. Biederwolf's soloist and choir director since that time.

SCHILLER INDICTED.

Piracy the Charge—Britain May Ask Extradition.

Wilmington, Del., April 18.—The federal grand jury returned an indictment for piracy on four counts against Clarence Hudson, alias Ernest Schiller, who single handed held up the British freight ship Matoppo on the high seas and compelled Captain Richard Bergner and his crew to bring her into the Delaware breakwater. If convicted Schiller is liable to receive a life sentence.

It is reported that the British embassy will try to have Schiller extradited to England on the ground that the offense was committed against a British ship, but it is believed that if Schiller pleads guilty no such attempt will be made.

SERMON ON BOOZE SATURDAY EVENING

Dr. Biederwolf Will Begin Fight on Saloons—Their Week's Program.

Saturday evening the Rev. William E. Biederwolf will preach his first antisaloon sermon, and he promises that he will talk strong enough and plain enough for any man to understand. There will be several "Booze" sermons during the evangelistic services here, but it is said that the one to be delivered Saturday night is the strongest and best of the number.

Tonight is delegation night at the Tabernacle. The Federation of Men's Clubs will attend, headed by the Dutch Arms Band of Trinity Reformed church, and Clan McKenzie is to have a special section of seats allotted for its members. Members of the Federation of Men's Clubs will meet at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 tonight and will march down Front street to the Tabernacle from there. Although the services begin at 7:30 they expect to arrive shortly after the first song, and as their seats will be reserved, no others will be disturbed when they come in.

Wednesday night is church night. Dr. Biederwolf has asked that every church member in Plainfield be present, as he wants to count them. There will be no prayer meeting services, of course, tomorrow evening, and one of the biggest crowds of the week is expected.

A special patriotic program has been arranged for Thursday evening, when the chorus choir will sing patriotic songs, and all military and patriotic organizations in the city are expected to attend. The Boy Scouts are making arragements to meet downtown and march to the Tabernacle, and others will also have reservations.

All Bible classes of the city, both men and women, will attend Friday night's services.

Sunday afternoon Dr. Biederwolf will deliver his famous lecture on "Russelism." In this he exposes the teachings of Pastor Russel, of Brooklyn, who recently spoke here.

Philip Sidersky, of Baltimore, Md., editor of "The Searchlight on Russelism," read the lesson at the Tabernacle on Saturday night, and in introducing him, Dr. Biederwolf spoke very highly of the good work he is doing in defending the cause of Christ by exposing the errors of Russellism in such an effective way.

Mr. Sidersky participated at Dr. Biederwolf's campaign at Norristown, Pa., and is also expected to speak at Plainfield before Dr. Biederwolf's campaign is brought to a close.

CARTOONS OF "MAC" IN ACTION

"MAC" TELLS HOW HE MAKES PEOPLE SING--GOD LOVES MUSIC, HE SAYS

(By Wm. McEwan.)

I have spent only five years of my Christian life in the United States, so therefore, I cannot criticize the congregational singing of the average church in this country. I have, however, worshipped in many churches throughout the land, and I can conscientiously say that few of them enter heartily into the congregational singing.

I fear that we have forgotten that our God loves to have His children worship Him in song. Every church, chapel or mission that has dead hymn singing, ought to employ a live song leader in order to have hearty, uplifting singing.

The average church choir of today aims at entertaining the congregation instead of leading in the worship. My mind runs back just now to my old home church, where there was neither organ nor choir, but with the preceptor leading the congregation, we all joined heartily in the old "Psalms of David." I can hear our old minister, as he would address the congregation, saying, "Let us worship God by praising Him," and then he would give out the number of the psalm he would have us sing. It was rare to see a church member in the old home church who would not sing.

Musicians often say to me, "Why do you not introduce selections from the oratorios of the high-class sacred song into your work?" My reply to them is that "Oratorios won't serve our purpose better than gospel songs." If they did, I would spend my time introducing them and putting them on the program every night in the week. I am convinced, however, that the beautiful gospel hymns are what really help the people and stir them to think of spiritual things.

Always an Inspiration.

A good choir is an inspiration to a congregation. It helps to keep the people up to pitch, gives them the proper movement, and if their heart is in singing, is an inspiration to those who look at them. I always insist upon my choir members singing as they feel the song grips them.

It is nonsense to think that any person would sing "I Am Happy in Him" with faces set for a funeral. If, at any time, I observe my choir looking gloomy, I immediately draw their attention to the fact, as it will tend to hinder rather than help. The appearance of the choir has a wonderful effect on the congregation, not a flippant look, but a bright, healthy, happy expression.

One important thing is that each singer must have an active interest in the people he or she is singing to. Otherwise their singing will not have that indefinable quality about it which will really touch them. The interest in the work of saving souls and the seeking of results along this line should include choir, pianist and leader.

It was a gospel song, sung by a band of God's redeemed children, which the Holy Spirit used to draw me to Himself. Up to that time I never had learned a gospel song myself, but since that time it has brought joy to my own heart to sing the songs of Jesus and His love to help others to follow my example.

Singing a Message.

Good congregational singing can only be brought about by a choir of consecrated men and women, and using bright gospel songs, never forgetting at any time the message which they seek to bear.

Mr. Moody was one of the most skilled men who ever faced a congregation. Those who knew of his methods, know that he never touched his sermon until he had secured enthusiastic singing. He could not sing the simplest tune himself, but there was no man in all the congregation who enjoyed the song service more than he did. He was always on the platform ahead of the advertised time, with hymn-book ready to begin and take part in the song service. He would announce a hymn and if it was not sung to suit him, he would use his kindly way of talking to the people and induce them to sing their very best. He, himself, always joined in the singing, although it was impossible for him to keep the tune.

Often I give out a song which, if not taken up heartily, I immediately drop and give out some other number in my endeavor to have the congregation join in the song. One thing you may be sure of is, if a leader of song is contented with dead singing, the congregation will also be.

ALFRED GLEE CLUB CONCERT IS ENJOYED

Large and Appreciative Audience Attracted to Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

An appreciative and large audience enjoyed the concert given by the Alfred University Glee Club at the Seventh-Day Baptist church last night, it being the first appearance here of a musical club from the university in many years. The fact that John B. Cottrell, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John B Cottrell, of this city, is a member of the club, lent considerable local interest to the affair

The club, which is under the direction, of Ray Winthrop Wingate, presented a popular program, the Southern melodies being greatly enjoyed. All the members have good voices, and they blend in perfect harmony. A feature was the readings by Robert Greene, his work being exceptionally good. About $50 was netted from the concert, part of which will go to the Boy Scouts. The program follows:

Part I.—"Hungarian Dance No. 6," Brahms, Instrumental Trio; college songs, selected, Glee Club; "Comrades in Arms," Adolphe Adam, Quartet; "The Young Man Waited," E. V. Cooke, Robert A. Greene; "Little Brown Church," Pitts, Glee Club; vocal solo, "Sword of Ferrara," Bullard, Ray W. Wingate; "I'd Like to Go Down South Once Mor'," Parks, Quartet; a new medley, Atkinson, Glee Club.

Part II.—"Herd Girl's Dream," Labitzky, Instrumental Trio; "First Settler's Story," Will Carlton, Robert A. Greene; "Far Away in the South," C. B. Adams, Glee Club; "Rolling Down to Rio," German, and "Banjo Song," Homer, Ray W. Wingate; "Hush, Yo' Honey, Hush!" Griggs, Quartet; "To the Field, to the Hunt," Dudley Buck, Glee Club; "Alma Mater," tune "Amici," Glee Club.

U. S. WARSHIP'S GUNS FAULTY

Michigan to Lose All Twelve Inch Pieces Following Accident.

Philadelphia, April 18.—After a thorough examination a naval board of investigation appointed by Secretary Daniels has decided that all of the twelve inch guns of the battleship Michigan are defective and has ordered them removed, it was said at the Philadelphia navy yard. While at target practice off Guantanamo, Cuba, some weeks ago two of the ship's big guns cracked after firing a comparatively few shots.

It was decided not to take chances with the rest, and the war vessel was ordered to Philadelphia.

YOUTH SET FIRE TO TENEMENTS

Passaic Police Say Boy Is Pyromaniac.

LOSS SAID TO BE $1,000,000

Liked to See Flames and Engines, According to Passaic Authorities—Boy of Twenty Is Held on Six Charges of Arson—Has Been Sought For Four Years.

Passaic, April 18.—Joseph Shedosky of 97 Third street, by his own confession a progressive pyromaniac, was held without bail in the police court on six charges of arson made by Captain of Detectives Benjamin F. Turner. The police say that at least twenty other charges of the same nature could be made against Shedosky, who, though only twenty years old, has been setting fires for several years.

During the last four years, the police say, Shedosky's activities have cost the city more than $1,000,000 in fire losses. He explains he likes to see the flames leap and likes to see the apparatus make fire runs, especially as it is now motor equipped. Content at first with small blazes, Shedosky gradually set larger and larger fires. One for which, the police say, he was responsible was that two months ago, when more than 200 persons were driven from tenement houses in Second street and property worth $200,000 was destroyed.

Shedosky was arrested after he had set five fires. The first fires, which were in three freight cars, did not amount to much, the firebug thought. Twice again that night he got out of bed in the hope of greater gratification and started fires, which were quickly extinguished. One was in the rear of the hallway of a tenement at 44 First street and the other in a feed store next door.

Shedosky was recognized by two women, who saw him near the freight cars and reported to the police. After being questioned seven hours by Captain Turner, he admitted responsibility for the five fires and at least twenty more. The tenement fires, he stated, were set because the landlords had been "disagreeable" to him.

Shedosky was taken into custody in March and held for several days, but no serious evidence was found against him. After his release he left the city for two weeks, during which time not a single fire of suspicious origin occurred.

STRIKE AT PUMP WORKS.

300 Employees Want Forty-eight Hour Week and More Pay.

Harrison, April 18. — The Jersey strike epidemic has hit the Henry R. Worthington Pump works, the largest factory here, which employs 1,600 to 2,000 persons. It is a subsidiary of the International Steam Pump company.

Nine hundred employees have voted not to go to work, and it is expected that the remainder will strike in sympathy. The trouble commenced a week ago when 100 brass molders and chippers struck for a forty-eight hour week and a 10 per cent wage increase. Those who have struck want the same.

The company, which granted a wage increase recently, will give 10 per cent more for a fifty-four hour week, but not for a forty-eight hour week, saying shorter hours would prevent filling contracts.

WOMAN EMBEZZLER FAINTS.

Drops When Sentenced to Reformatory For Theft.

Morristown, April 18. — Mrs. Margaret Keeler Buck, wife of Charles Buck of Dover, who was recently convicted of stealing something like $8,000 from the Common Sense Suspender company here while employed as their confidential clerk and stenographer, was sentenced by Judge Salmon to a fine of $250 and to the Reformatory For Women at Rahway. Mrs. Buck fainted and had to be lifted into a chair and carried out of court by her husband and County Detective Brennan.

Mrs. Buck was brought straight from the hospital to court. Two weeks ago, when called for sentence, she took some bichloride of potash tablets, but prompt treatment brought her out of danger.

Mortally Hurt at Fire.

Jersey City, April 18.—James Murray, fireman, is in the Jersey City hospital, probably mortally injured, as the result of a fall while fighting a fire that destroyed the Erie railroad's coal pockets. Murray slipped into an open coal conveyer, shot sixty feet through the chute and fell twenty feet to the ground.

Bride Gone, Hangs Himself.

West New York, April 18.—With his young wife, his money and his position gone, Frank Ottendorfer, sixty-six years old, of 538 Madison street hanged himself in his apartments with a rope attached to the top of a door.

Steal Jersey Movie Theater.

Boonton, April 18. — The police of this town are looking for three men who drove up to a moving picture house, broke in, took the moving picture machine and eight reels and drove away.

"THE HOME"

Sermon of the Rev. William E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Saturday Evening.

The dearest sweetest place this old world has ever given you or me to know is the place we call our home.

It was on the tenth day of April, 1852, that an American citizen died in Africa. They laid him to sleep beneath the sod over in a little cemetery at Tunis and there they let him lay until America's sense of honor came to her and they sent a United States man-of-war to carry him back to his native shores. They dug up his body and placed his ashes on board the battleship and headed homeward. As they neared the harbor a band of music went out to meet the vessel; the guns in the forts thundered out their welcome and flags flew at half mast to do his memory honor. On a special train they bore his body to the nation's capital. Business in Washington was suspended, the stores were closed and all the departments of Congress adjourned. Down Pennsylvania Avenue the funeral procession went by; the President of these United States, the Vice-President, members of Congress; officers of the army and the navy stood with uncovered head. The rich and the poor were there; the mighty and the humble; all bowed in reverence for the man whose ashes were carried by.

Who was the man?

What great battle had he fought? None.

What great oration had he delivered? None.

What book had the man in the coffin written? None.

What famous painting had he put on canvas? None.

What had he done? He had written a song sung by the millionaire and by the sons of toil, by the rich and by the poor. The man in the coffin was John Howard Paine and the song he had written was:

"Home, home, sweet, sweet home;
Be it ever so humble,
There's no place like Home."

Home, sweet, sweet home, and as you hear that word your minds are no longer here in this great crowd, but you have gone with a flight swifter than the glance of a sparkling star. Back, some of you to the green hills of Pennsylvania, some of you to the whispering pines of Maine, some of you to the rolling plains of the middle West, and some of you across the waters that roll between other lands and this one we call our own, back, back to the place of all places dearest and best, the place you called your home.

Do you know it is a sad thing but its true that the home hardly means to us any more what it used to mean. Modern civilization has robbed the home of its rightful place in our lives. The quiet simple life of earlier days has gone and instead of it we've got the noisy, feverish rushing strenuous life of present day commercialism and the pleasure craze, and no wonder hell creeps into the home and the devil forecloses a mortgage on the children by the time they are fifteen, when you stop to consider the pace the parents are going and the atmosphere and environment the average boy and girl are brought up in.

Spend More Time at Home.

Now I'm not going to live a lecture on home life in general. If I did there are a lot of things it would be proper for me to say.

1. For instance, it would be proper to say that you ought to spend more time than you do in the family circle. Most of our children today don't have a fair chance to get real well acquainted with their parents. Solomon says, "Train up a child in the way it ought to go and when he is old he will not depart therefrom." But it takes time to train a child. Most mothers seem to think that the only salvation for their child is a good dose of hickory about as often as sick people take medicine. But mother, if you took as much pains to indoctrinate a little goodness into your child as you do to whip the badness out of him you would find it a thousand times easier and a thousand times more enjoyable (although that's a question with some others) and a thousand times more effective than keeping Solomon's much abused road behind the motto, "God bless our Home" or "I Need Thee Every Hour."

2. Then it would be proper for me to say that you ought to teach your children more respect for sacred things. Children used to have a healthy reverence for anything that suggested the worship of God. They used to think of the minister and talk of him as the Man of God. But we've got an aged minister in our town and the boys usually speak of him as "Old man so and so." I remember when a godly minister and College President called on one of the families in my church and at family worship asked the little boy what he should read from the Bible and the little fellow said, "Any old thing." The mother thought that was awfully cute, but if I had done that when I was a kid my father would have taken me out and introduced me to the Star Spangled Banner; he would have furnished the stripes and made me see the stars.

The trouble with American boys and girls today is as a friend of mine said, "They're like Tennessee oats in dry weather, they head too soon." And you know that is usually with a question as to the quality in the head.

More Respect for Parents.

3. And then it would be proper to say that your children ought to be taught more respect for parental authority.

I heard of a little fellow who was playing on the floor and the door blew open and his busy father said, "Willy, will you please shut the door?" The kid kept on playing and the father asked him a second time and the kid said, "You shut it." The father said, "Willy, if you don't shut the door poor Papa will have to get up and do it." The kid kept on playing and poor Papa got up and shut the door. A Sunday School teacher was telling her class of little boys about that little fellow and when she finished she said, "Now what did that little boy need. And one of the bright youngsters spoke up and said, "He needed a Daddy."

We've been talking a good deal about how to get rid of Anarchists. I wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing to try the common sense plan and stop raising them in the home.

And this brings me to the very heart of my message tonight—to the thing that I came here to talk about; and that is the responsibility of the home for the children. The home is the moulding room where character is formed; it is the training school where destiny is shaped.

They hung a young man sometime ago and when the judge asked him if he had anything to say why the sentence of death should not be passed upon him, he bowed his head and said, "Oh, if I'd only had a mother." He had no mother, but many a boy could say that with the one close by his side whom God put there to be a mother to him because she has been almost anything but a mother to him. Like the tramp, when he was asked how long he had been an orphan, he replied, "I was born an orphan. Got no mother and never had any."

And you marshal before your vision tonight in one, great, long, sad procession the drunkards and gamblers and liars and libertines of this land and tell me how many of them could have been saved from their sinful, wretched and hell-ending career if they had only had a mother and a father of the rignt kind.

Mother, why is it that your child has such little regard for the truth? Of course you never told it to lie, but do your remember the last time Mrs. Jones came to see you? You saw her drive up and you said, "Here comes that Mrs. Jones with her three kids again. Good Gracious! What have I ever done to that woman that she should inflict herself and her brats on me again? I thought I'd die the last time she was here. Here children get everything out of the room. You won't have a piece of candy or a whole top left. Such ill-mannered folk are a pest any how."

A Lesson in Lying.

And Mrs. Jones rings the bell and you go to the door and then, "Oh, Mrs. Jones, how delighted I am to see you; I thought you were never coming to see me and I'm so glad you brought the children; I don't wonder you are so proud of such well-behaved little dears. Run on in the room now, you'll have a good time, "the London bridge is falling down," "Ring around the rosy," "Whose got the button?" and "Blind man's bluff."

And then the luncheon came and after luncheon you sat around and talked awhile and Mrs. Jones said, "Come children, I think we'll have to be going," and you said, "Oh, don't be in a hurry, I've been wishing you'd come for a long time and I'm so glad you are here. Now don't wait so long before you come again." And then at the door it's "Good-bye, good-bye." Kiss, kiss, kiss and as soon as the door is closed you say, "Bring me the smelling salts, quick. I hope that's the last I'll ever see of her." And then you wonder where your children learn to lie.

And so many a gambler and many a drunkard got his start in the home. I have had mothers come to me and tell me of a drunken boy—boys scarcely out of their 'teens—and these mothers have begged me to do something to save their boy, and then I learned that these same mothers had set beer and wine before their children in their home. I remember years ago how a mother, who had been a poor girl in our village but married a man of some wealth in the city, told me how her little boys would come down in the morning and drink the wine that had been left in the cups from social doings of the night before. No wonder her children have all gone to the Devil. If you run a private wine room in your own home, don't growl because some one runs a public wine room down town.

One Boy's Message Home.

A man waited for me at the hotel in a western city and told me this story. He was coming East to see his mother and stopped at Moody's church in Chicago and in the testimony meeting told them where he was going. At the close a woman with a sad face came to him and gave her photograph to him and told him she had a boy in Auburn prison and asked him if either as he went or returned he would not bear a message of love from her to her boy and give him the picture. On the way back the man stopped and was shown to the cell of the young man. He talked to him a few moments and then produced the picture and said, "I suppose you know who it is?" The young man took it and looked at it and then said, "Yes, I know it; it's mother. Her hair is whiter than when I saw her last and her face is sadder and I guess my wicked life has helped to make it so, but you take this picture back to her and tell her I don't care for it. I am doing fourteen years for killing a man at the card table when I was under the influence of drink, and tell her if it hadn't been for her I wouldn't be where I am now. The first game of cards I ever played I played with her and sister in our home and the first glass of wine that ever touched my lips I drank at her table. I saw her take down the card deck many a time and lead us in the game, but although she was a member of the church I never saw her take down the Bible and lead us in the worship of God; take the picture back and tell her I don't want it."

"Oh," you say, "that boy would have become a gambler and a drunkard anyhow." Well, maybe he would, but if I had a boy and he had to go to a gambler's hell or to a drunkard's hell, I'd want him to go over some other route than his own home.

God pity the home where hell creeps in and robs you of your child. Some of the saddest hearts in God's world move about in the midst of luxury and beauty. I have driven about your city and seen your palatial residences and your beautiful, spacious lawns. I have crossed the threshold of the finest homes in your city and others. I have admired your hand painted ceilings and the master-piece of art upon the walls—copies from Rubens, Raphael, Rembrandt, Murrillo and Reynolds and sometimes the original. I have feasted my eyes upon the snowy statuary-marble from Carrara, from Paroh and Mount Pentelicus. I have gazed upon the handsome funiture—mahogany, birdseye maple and circassian walnut. I have seen the sideboard groan beneath the weight of cut glass and hand painted china and as I have stood there with my feet sinking into the soft Oriental rugs I have said, All this you may have and more; your cook may be a high salaried chef from Paris and you may feed on the choicest food in the land; you may loll on silken cushions and ride in a faultless limousine, but after all if you have to sit by the fireside and wait for the reeling step of a worthless, drunken sot of a son, or pull aside the costly curtain and look out through the plate glass window for the home-coming of a wayward girl who has lost her virtue, I tell you your home will become a mausoleum full of dead hopes and dead expectations and dead ideals and the handsome furnishings will become the skeletons of other days to mock you with the crushing thought of what might have been.

How to Improve the Home.

Now what shall we do about it?

Well, in the first place you need to realize that even though your son or your daughter may never come to that—although God only knows, they may—nevertheless they are lost anyhow if they are not Christians; and God pity them both in this life and in the life to come if they are lost and not saved.

I wouldn't need to talk to you about your responsibility if you realized this, but there are just three things you would give attention to if you did realize it, and I'm going to tell you what they are.

1. In the first place you'd make some personal effort to lead your children to God.

A friend of mine was preaching in Paris, Ill., and one afternoon he left the tent and overtook a splendid young man who had been in the meeting. He asked him if he was a Christian. The young man said, "No sir."

"Is your father a Christian?" my friend said.

"I don't know," said the young man; "he's an elder of the Presbyterian Church."

"Is your mother living?" said my friend.

"Yes."

"Is she a Christian."

"I don't know," he said; "she's the Superintendent of the Primary Department in Sunday School."

"Hace you got any sisters?"

"Yes," he said, "I have two splendid sisters and I know they love me."

"Well," said my friend, "Are they Christians?"

He said, "I don't know; they are members of the Church."

"Well," said my friend, "has your father, or your mother, or your sisters ever spoken to you about Christ or about becoming a Christian?"

And the young man stopped, turned half about and looked my friend straight in the face and said, "Sir, as long as I can remember neither my father nor my mother, nor my sisters have ever said one word to me about my soul or about Jesus Christ, or asked me to be a Christian. Do you believe, Sir, that they really think that I am lost." And my friend has said, "From that day to this those sad words on that earnest faced looking young man have kept ringing in his ears. 'Do you really believe, Sir, that they think I am lost.'"

Oh, Father and Mother, you talk with your children about everything else under the sun but never a word about their soul or about Jesus Christ. You forget Life's greatest obligation; you neglect life's holiest duty; you are insensible to life's sweetest privilege and no wonder our boys and girls are living and dying without God and without hope.

But there are some other things you would do if you realized this awful truth, things in fact that you would have to do if you wanted to have any hopes that your personal efforts would win out.

2. And so in the second place let me say this: You'd have a little more care as to the way you live. It's the life after all that counts and if you don't practice what you profess it would be better for your children and the rest of the world if you didn't profess at all.

Now the best way to find out how much of a Christian a man is is to talk with those who have to live with him in the home. A man's character is what God and his wife knows him to be. And if I wanted to investigate a woman's piety I wouldn't go to her preacher; I want to have a talk with her cook and with her husband and with the folk that have to live with her in the home. And if there's anything I despise more than another on God's earth it is this animalized species of human nature that will get down on its knees and shout in the prayer meeting and then go back to the family and get up on its hind feet and raise the elements of the lower world in the home.

Bad Company for Children.

It would be better for some children if they never knew the influence of the place they call their home, and the biggest curse that ever came into their lives is the fact that they have to live with their parents. You tell your boy to keep out of bad company but the worst company he is ever in is when he walks down the street with the careless, prayerless, irreligious and Godless man he calls his father.

The easiest problem in the world to solve and the easiest question to answer is, Why is a child so much like its parents? Listen, mother; I'm going to tell you something you like. That little daughter of yours hasn't got one nice, sweet, beautiful, winsome trait or one bit of refined, charming manner that to some degree you haven't got it yourself. Now you like that, don't you? You say, "My, that's a good sermon." But, listen; there's another side to it. She hasn't got one mean, little, contemptible, stubborn inconsiderate ugly trait that to a very large degree she didn't get it from you. And you don't like that, do you? But if the first is true, so is the second. You live with wolves and you'll learn to howl. It's an easy question I say to answer, Why are children so much like the parents? Well, God made them to look like you and the very force of circumstances almost compels them to act like you.

Father if you are not a Christian nine times out of ten your boy will not be a Christian either and you profess to be a Christian and are a Sabbath breaking, card playing, beer drinking, tobacco spitting, minister criticising church member you will find that your children will never amount to any more than you do in the kingdom of God. It's the very nature of your child to follow you.

A Pastor was making some of his calls one day and he found a woman expostulating with her little boy who had gotten hold of a scissors and cut nearly all the hair off the top of his head and when she asked him why he did it he said with a triumphant air, "Make My head look like Papa's."

Don't Take Children to Hell.

How often a child's head is like its father's. Look out old skeptic, old bragger, about your infidelity. It wouldn't be so bad for you to go to Hell alone but you are taking your children with you. The grandest sight this old world ever sees is to see a whole family on the way to Heaven together, and the saddest sight this old world ever seeks to see some money hearted, church despising Father and a foolish card-playing, bepowdered and half dressed mother marching straight off for hell with all their children from the oldest to the youngest clinging to their skirts.

Don't Swim Too Far Out.

I went bathing one time in the surf at St. Augustine. I was raised by the side of a river and am about as much at home in the water as I am on the land. I swam out a piece and then turned over on my back to rest myself. And as I floated out about with the warm Florida sun shining down upon me, I sang the song I learned to love since I gave myself to Christ. But by and by I thought it time to go back and as I turned over, Lo, and behold I had been drifting seaward all the time and the coast line was far in the distance. My friend who was with me had gone up the beach looking for shells and was out of sight. I began to swim and as I swam the waves would catch me and toss me toward the shore and then rolling outward with terrific force would carry me back into the sea and I realized I was making very little if any headway. And then every ounce of my energy went into the swim which I knew was the swim for life. The great wave would catch me and carry me forward and then rolling me out again seaward would drag me back with them. I was getting tired and I began to think of the undertow and I thought of other things and I was becoming frightened. But I worked on for how long I do not know until one wave mightier than all the others caught me and swept me far in toward the shore and then rolling back left me in about 18 inches of water. My limbs were so fatigued I could not stand upon them, but I crawled in and out on the beach on my hands and knees and thanked God for my life. But I have often thought many a time since that suppose I had taken some one with me who was not quite as strong as I was and who could not swim quite so well. Suppose I had been like the man down in Tennessee who took his two bright boys and said, "Come boys, we'll go for a swim." And they swam out into the Tennessee River together. When they came to the middle where the current was swiftest, the Father said, "Now boys I think it's time to go back." But the current was too swift and the distance was too great and his two boys went down before his very eyes. But at last at the point of exhaustion he reached the shore in safety himself, crying, "My boys are lost! My boys are lost!" The mistake I made, he said, was I swam too far out with my boys.

And there are fathers and mothers who have been doing that very thing all their lives long—swimming out into the current of social dissipation, wine-drinking, dancing, card-playing and the indulgence with the flesh with its lust—out into the current of Sabbath-breaking, out into the current of indifference to the Church, out into the current of unconcern about religion, out into the current of infidelity and their children are right by their side swimming along with them. And some day you'll come to yourself and say, "It's time now to go back—back to your dear old father and mother's faith, back to the old church, back to mother's Bible, back to prayer and back to God. Well, maybe you'll get back, although you may not, but if you do you'll find the currents of the world were all too strong for some of your children. And you'll say some day in the bitter agony of soul, as you think of the boy who has gone down or too far out to be recovered, "The mistake we made was we swam too far out with our children." Father and Mother in God's name come back tonight and bring your children with you before you swim too far out.

3. And then let me say in the last place that if you want to save your children, personal effort and a careful life are not enough. You've got to make a place for prayer.

There was a time in the life of the American people when almost every Christian family had its family altar, but a lot of you don't know what a family altar is. Your grandfather used to get his family Bible and read the Bible and then they'd get down on their knees and pray. But in how many homes do you find that today? No wonder the boys are becoming gamblers and staggering home drunk at night and so many girls are no better than strumpets and don't know what modesty and womanhood is.

BIEDERWOLF BOMBS

"I'd rather shake hands with an honest skeptic any day than I would with a pious old hypocrite or a backslider who won't acknowledge his guilt."

"The man who is meaner than a thief is the man who won't keep the vows of constancy he made to the woman of his choice."

"A man said to me not long ago that he started to back slide the first time he voted the whisky ticket. I guess he did!"

"Preachers, why do you refuse to let saloon keepers and bartenders join your churches? They are as good as the man who is a member of your church and votes for the open saloon."

"Listen! There is a man—there is a woman—who is an earnest, devoted, conscientious, consecrated, theatre-going, card-playing, dancing Christian. Not much! You can't mix those things."

QUARTET IN CONCERT AT NORRISTOWN LAST NIGHT

Members of the National Male Quartet of the Biederwolf evangelistic party, accompanied by Mrs. Marie F. Brake, reader, and Miss Helen Boals, accompanist, went to Norristown, Pa., yesterday, where they gave a concert last night. The musicians proved so popular in Norristown that they drew a large crowd on their return engagement.

MR. AND MRS. C. M. KELLY GIVEN SURPRISE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Kelly, of New Market, were tendered a surprise reception in honor of their fifteenth anniversary of their wedding at the home of Mrs. Kelly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Doeringer, of 12 Vine street, last evening. Twenty-five guests were present from Dunellen, Brooklyn and that city. The evening was very pleasantly spent, the features of the program of entertainment being games, dancing and music. An elaborate luncheon was served at 11 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly received many handsome articles of cut glass in honor of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly have resided in New Market since their wedding. They have one child, a daughter. Mr. Kelly is secretary and treasurer of the C. E. Kelly Company, dealers in coal, grain, lumber and mason materials, with an office in New Market. He is a member of the New Market fire department and the Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F.

"DOLLY" WINS HER SUIT

Jones, Mrs. H. C. White, Mrs. A. K. Brennan, George Keen, Arthur Hoffman, A. B. Jones, Edward Harding, Charles Beiter and Samuel Robinson. A number of other jurors were included in the original panel called but were rejected when it was discovered they owed the city personal taxes and could not be classed as being impartial.

While all of the witnesses were good in their respective parts, the bright particular "star" was Miss Lillian Lamson, appearing for the plaintiff. She described with great vividness the first meeting between the contesting couples which she said took place at a party of merry young people of whom she was one. Her testimony showed that she had kept a close watch on the two and when the attorney for the defendant intimated that she had done so through a streak of "jealousy" it produced an indignant denial from the fair witness that made the "lawyer's" hair curl. She admitted that she "liked the boys" and the look of contempt that spread over her features verified her assertion that she wouldn't have anything to do with "Goliath Bruser" and if he was the last man on earth and had a billion dollars in cold hard cash. Her story was largely responsible for the jury taking only a few minutes to reach the verdict.

The "trial" was undoubtedly the most successful affair of the many entertaining features the West End Community Center has arranged the past year. Much credit for the commendable manner in which it was carried out is due to the regular entertainment committee, of which J. J. Carroll was chairman. Just previous to opening of court the Community Center Glee Club rendered a number of highly enjoyable selections.

TO ORGANIZE A SOCIETY.

A meeting will be held tomorrow night in the Sunday-school of St. Peter's German Lutheran church, Grove street and Mercer avenue, for the purpose of organizing a missionary society. Theodore Moldenke gave an interesting talk at the church Sunday evening along this line, emphasizing the importance of every Christian doing his duty, and urged all to be present at the meeting tomorrow night and join the society.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT.

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Emmons, of Duer street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jessie Cortland Emmons, to Frederic Gillette Magee, of Cincinnati, Ohio. No date has been set for the wedding.

"Excuse me a moment, please, while I answer the telephone."

Answer Your Telephone Promptly

One habit that will do much to help improve the quality of your telephone service is the habit of answering your telephone promptly.

Records show that in about 25% of the cases where there is a delay of more than a minute before the called party answers, the party calling does not wait. Delays in answering the telephone may therefore mean losses.

To help yourself and others to receive a better quality of telephone service, why not make it an invariable rule to answer your telephone promptly?

PLAIN-COLOR CARPETS

In Stock for Immediate Delivery

The increasing popularity of Carpets in plain colors is readily appreciated when the advantages afforded by this style of Floor Coverings are considered.

For decorative schemes which include fine tapestries and figured upholsteries and draperies, the Plain-Color Carpet provides a wonderfully effective foundation—one of perfect balance, quiet dignity and elegance. Moreover, the unbroken surface of solid color seemingly increases the size of the room.

Conspicuous seams are avoided by the use of our Carpets in very wide widths, and the usual difficulty of obtaining the exact shade of color wanted is practically eliminated when choice is made from our complete stock of Plain-Color Carpets, which we are showing in more than

STRIKERS IN RIOT WHEN OTHERS REFUSE TO JOIN

Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., April 18.—A riot occurred at the plant of the National Cable and Conduit Company today when 1,000 striking employes attacked workers who had refused to go out. Many were hurt.

ANDRIA CATHEDRAL DESTROYED BY FIRE

Rome, April 18.—The famous old cathedral in Andria was almost wholly destroyed by fire today. The fire spread to the bishop's palace, the bishop having a narrow escape. Assistance was sent to Andria on a special train. Andria is in southeastern Italy, 30 miles from Bari.

LOCAL SOCIETY FAVORS A FEDERAL COMMISSION

In response to a question from the National Anti-Tuberculosis Society, the Plainfield society at its monthly meeting last night discussed the advisability of having a federal commission to study the subject of tuberculosis. The national society has sent this question to all societies throughout the United States for the purpose of getting an expression of opinion as to whether such a proposition is favored.

The members attending last night's meeting seemed to be in favor of the plan believing that it would be of great advantage in trying to cope with the dreaded disease.

Miss Jubilee Rowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowley, who is attending Syracuse University, has returned home for the Easter holidays.

FIVE WERE KILLED AND 36 HURT IN WRECK

New York, April 18.—A revised list of the dead and injured in the New Haven wreck at Bradford, R. I., Monday night, was issued at the local office of the road this morning. It places the killed at 5 and the injured at 36.

A SEVERE EARTHQUAKE RECORDED IN WASHINGTON

Washington, April 18.—A severe earthquake lasting for fifty minutes was recorded on the seismograph at Georgetown University just after midnight. It was estimated that the disturbance took place about 4,200 miles from Washington.

REV. J. W. P. COLLIER IS RETURNED TO LOCAL CHURCH

Rev. J. W. P. Collier, pastor of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, was returned yesterday for a third year. The return was largely due to a petition that was sent from the church. One year ago, Rev. Collier was appointed to Madison, and it was only through quick and concerted efforts on the part of the membership that the pastor was returned.

Quite a number of the Plainfielders were present, and when the return of their pastor was announced, Jackson C. Ingram, a steward of the local church and a lay member of the annual Conference, on behalf of members, presented a beautiful bouquet of carnations and roses to the pastor. The pastor attributes the great success attained during the past year to the untiring efforts of the members and friends.

CHANCE FOR PRESS ADVERTISERS TO ATTRACT THE ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTY.

As the result of an agreement between the Plainfield Daily Press and the Elizabeth Evening Times any advertiser placing a classified ad in the Press may have that same ad inserted in the Elizabeth Evening Times upon the payment of one-half more than is charged for the Daily Press insertion alone. Thus, if an advertisement in the Daily Press costs forty cents, the same advertisement may be placed in the Elizabeth paper for an additional twenty cents.

The Elizabeth Evening Times has a circulation of 9,000 and is widely distributed throughout Union County. Thus if an advertiser places his advertisement in the Plainfield Daily Press and Elizabeth Evening Times he places it before the eyes of thousands of readers at a very small cost.

Most advertisers welcome the opportunity to attract the attention of the whole county to their offerings and with the co-operation of the Elizabeth Evening Times the Plainfield Daily Press is now able to make this possible. The Elizabeth Evening Times has earned a reputation for itself as an advertising medium, especially along the classified line, and it is a well known fact that its influence extends into other counties besides Union.

SERVICE

Our Obligation, Not Yours

Many people feel that to do business with a modern banking institution places THEM under an obligation. We feel, otherwise, for we believe in SERVICE. Every man in this institution knows he is here to give cheerful service to everyone having dealings with us—that is why our many customers do business here without any feeling of obligation—the spirit that rules is service with courtesy—courtesy with service. This spirit is bound to make you regard this as your bank—and this is the result for which we strive.

Planet Jr. Cultivators
—biggest savers for farm and garden

Why worry along with slow out-of-date implements and meagre results? Planet Jr tools are far more economical—they do 3 to 6 times the work, get bigger, better crops, and outlast several ordinary implements. Fully guaranteed. You are actually losing money whenever you cultivate without them.

No. 72 Planet Jr 2-row, 2-horse Pivot-wheel Cultivator saves a man, a team, and a cultivator every day it is used. Cultivates 2 rows of corn, potatoes, beans, etc., at one passage, even if rows are crooked or irregular width. In check rows and listed corn it also beats any other tool. Can be equipped with spring-trip standards, discs, sweeps, hoe steels, and furrowing shovels. Specially hardened cultivating steels add 50 per cent to wear. Also spring lift, new this year.

No. 8 Planet Jr Horse Hoe and Cultivator is stronger, better-made and capable of a greater variety of work than any other horse hoe made. Non-clogging steel wheel. Depth-regulator and extra-long frame make it run steady. Adjustable for both depth and width. 15 other styles of one-horse cultivators—various prices.

Let us equip you with one of these savers.

GERMANY HAS BROKEN FAITH, WILSON TELLS CONGRESS, AND U-BOAT ATROCITIES MUST END

"RUTHLESS ATTACKS ON INNOCENT AND PEACEFUL CITIZENS" CITED AS PROOF THAT KAISER'S PROMISES MEAN NOTHING.

SUSSEX SINKING THE LAST STRAW TO AMERICA

No More Diplomatic Quibbling—United States Demands That Inhuman Submarine Warfare Be Stopped—A Refusal Will Mean Immediate Recall of Ambassador Gerard From Berlin.

Washington, April 19.—President Wilson asked no legislative action from Congress in his address before members in special session this afternoon. He set forth all that has taken place in the negotiations between the United States and Germany over the submarine situation and then said that last night he sent forward for presentation to the Berlin Foreign Office a note, explaining that this government considers Germany has broken faith and frankly warning that if existing submarine methods are not changed and international law scrupulously observed, diplomatic relations will be broken off.

After reviewing recent diplomatic interchanges with Germany, President Wilson said:

"One of the latest and most shocking instance of this method of warfare was that of the destruction of the French cross-Channel steamer Sussex. It must stand forth as the sinking of the steamer Lusitania did, so singularly tragical and unjustifiable as to constitute a truly terrible example of the inhumanity of submarine warfare as the commanders of the German vessels have for the past twelve months been conducting.

"A situation has arisen in the foreign relations of the country of which it is my plain duty to inform you very frankly. It will be recalled that in February, 1915, the Imperial German Government announced its intention to sweep the waters surrounding Great Britain and Ireland as embraced within the seat of war, and to destroy all merchant ships owned by the enemies that might be found in any portion of the high seas, and that it warn all vessels of neutral, as well as of belligerent ownership, to keep out of these waters it had thus prescribed, or else enter them at peril. The government of the United States earnestly protested. It took the position that such a policy could not be pursued without the practical certainty of gross and palpable violation of the laws of nations, particularly if submarine craft were to be employed as its instrument; inasmuch as the rule prescribed by that law, rules founded upon principles of humanity and established for the protection of the lives of non-combatants at sea, could not in the nature of the case be observed by such vessels. It based its protest on the ground that persons of neutral nationality and vessels of neutral ownership would be exposed to extreme and intolerable risks and that no right to close any part of the high seas against their use or to expose them to such risk could lawfully be asserted by any belligerent government.

"The law of nations in these matters upon which the Government of the United States based its protest, is not of recent origin or founded upon merely arbitrary principles set up by convention. It is based, on the contrary, upon manifest and has imperative principles of humanity, and has long been established with approval and by the express assent of all civilized nations."

"Notwithstanding the earnest protest of our Government, the Imperial German Government at once proceeded to carry out the policy it had announced. It expressed the hope that the dangers involved—at any rate, the dangers to neutral vessels—would be reduced to a minimum by the instruction which it has issued to its submarine commanders. The Imperial German Government assured the United States that it would take every possible precaution both to re-

HIPPODROME TRIP TALK OF THE TOWN

Big Delegation Will Be on Hand Bright and Early for Seat Sale.

The Daily Press excursion to the Hippodrome has become town talk. Scores of people have already laid plans to take advantage o the wonderful offer. Are you one of those who are going to benefit by the scheme or are you going to be among the left behinds who will say 'I wish I had gone," when it is too late? Get in the first class and have that $1.75 ready Monday morning when the seats go on sale at the Daily Press office. A chart of the Hippodrome seating arrangement will be on view then and the order will be first come, first served. The 300 seats already secured by the Press are the best in the Hippodrome and arrangements have been made to get an added supply for it is expected that the original 300 which was expected will be doubled so keen has been the interest aroused.

The Daily Press special train will leave the North avenue depot at 6:04 Monday night and will leave New York on the return trip at 11:45. The $1.75 includes one of the best seats in the big playhouse and transportation to and from New York.

A number of organizations of a social and fraternal nature have laid plans to go along and those having a sufficient number may charter a special car in the Press train. Further details concerning this and the selection of a block of seats may be secured from the Hippodrome trip manager at the Press office.

The show, "Hip, Hip, Hooray," is the biggest, most spectacular and finest production ever staged and those who have seen it marvel at its wonderful program. One local physician called at the Press office yesterday and declared that although his wife and he had already seen the show twice he intended to take her again on the Press trip and this is the same sentiment that is being voiced by dozens of other people who know a good thing when they see it.

WARREN RANDOLPH'S FUNERAL

The funeral of Warren F. Randolph, the former Plainfield resident, who died at his home in Cranford, was held last night at the undertaking parlors at 402 Park avenue. The service was in charge of Rev. Mr. Cannon, of Cranford, and was attended by many friends. Burial was in Hillside cemetery this morning. Mr. Randolph is survived by one son, William Randolph, of this city, who extends his appreciation to all those assisting him in his bereavement.

EXPECTING BIG CROWD.

The Independent Fife and Drum Corps is looking forward to entertaining a large crowd when its annual Easter dance takes place in Saengerbund Hall next Monday night. A large number of tickets have already been sold and the local attendance will be swelled by visiting drum corps and friends from nearby cities. A brief parade will be held through the business section previous to the beginning of festivities.

NEWARK CLASSIS IN SESSION HERE

Spring Meeting Being Held Today in Trinity Reformed Church.

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN

Rev. E. S. Ralston, of This City, is Elected President—Date Fixed for Examination of Harold W. Schenck Who Will Enter Ministry.

Rev. Edward S. Ralston, pastor of the Netherwood Reformed church, was elected president of the Classis of Newark at the spring session, which convened in Trinity Reformed church this morning. Mr. Ralston was the acting president last year. Rev. Charles E. Waldron, of Brookdale, was chosen temporary clerk.

Among the important business of the morning was the decision that when the Classis adjourns it will be to meetin the North Reformed church, Newark, at which time Harold W. Schenck, of this city, will be examined for ordination and installation to the ministry. He will be graduated from the New Brunswick Seminary in June.

Mr. Schenck expects to become the pastor of the Franklin Reformed church, Nutley, and that church presented the formal call to him through Classis today, the same being approved. The Nutley church has a membership of about 250.

Following the morning session the delegates made a trip in automobiles to the Netherwood Reformed church to inspect the new edifice nearing completion. Upon their return lunch was served in Trinity church by the women of the Netherwood church.

The business at this afternoon's session will include the nomination of delegates to the General Synod, which meets in Grand Rapids, Mich., in June, and the Particular Synod, which meets in Philadelphia on on May 2. The Classis will also take action on the new constitution. There will also be presented the statistical report and one on the state of religion.

The question of transferring the care of the Italian Mission of Newark from the North Reformed church to the Classis will be discussed. These committees were appointed:

Nomination—Rev. Charles E. Waldron, Brookdale; Rev. J. D. Dykema, East Orange; Elder Stephen Cueman, Nutley. Vacancies and supplies—Rev. E. S. Ralston, Plainfield; Rev. Albertus T. Broek and Rev F. J. Henry, Newark. Doctrine—Rev. Uriah McClinchie, Irvington; Rev. Dennis Wortman, East Orange; Rev. W. W. Giles, Orange. Synodical—C. M. Trousdale, Rev. C. H. Stewart and Rev. Giles VanDuyne, Newark. Finance—Elder A. R. Corbet, Linden; Daniel Kay, Newark. The report of Rev. Charles B. Condit, of Newark, treasurer of Classis, showed an excellent condition.

REV. J. Q. A. FULLERTON PASSES AWAY AT RINGOES

Boyd Fullerton, of East Fifth street, was summoned to Ringoes, Hunterdon county, yesterday afternoon through the death of his father, Rev. John Q. A. Fullerton, which occurred suddenly at noon. The latter had been ailing for the past year because of a paralytic stroke but his demise was unexpected. The funeral will be held in the Larison's Corner Presbyterian church, near Flemington, Friday morning at 10 o'clock and burial will be in the Franklin Park cemetery.

Rev. Mr. Fullerton was born at Pittsburgh, seventy years ago. At the outbreak of the Civil War, he enlisted in the 34th Ohio Vols. Infantry, although he was but sixteen years old. He was soon promoted to regimental adjutant and served with distinction throughout the conflict. At the close of the war he entered Princeton University, graduating in 1859 at the head of his class of which he was president. After a post graduate course of four years in the Princeton Theological Seminary he was admitted to the Presbyterian ministry in 1873. He held pastorates at Princeton, in Pennsylvania and several years ago was made pastor-emeritus of the Larison's Corner church.

Mr. Fullerton enjoyed a wide acquaintance throughout New Jersey, many of his friends being in Plainfield. He frequently visited his son here and each time took the opportunity of calling on old friends. Beside Boyd Fullerton, he is survived by his wife and one other son, David Fullerton, of Kentucky, also one daughter, Miss Jessie Fullerton, of Ringoes.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church will hold a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock.

Leave subscriptions for the Daily Press with our representative at the door as you leave the Tabernacle tonight. Fifty cents for the entire campaign, including back numbers.

SEWAGE WORKS' ASS'N CONVENES

Session Held in City Council Chamber When Pertinent Topics Are Discussed.

LUNCHEON IS SERVED

After Which Visitors Inspect City's Disposal Works and the New Beds Now Being Built in Piscataway Township.

Members of the New Jersey Sewage Works' Association, of which John R. Downes, of this city, is the president, met here yesterday and discussed matters pertinent to the work of the association. The session was held in the City Council rooms early in the afternoon.

There was first a general discussion of the subject of "Pipe Stoppages," by C. Herbert Powers, of Merchantville; I. Z. Collings, of Collingswood; Ernest K. Powlison, of this city, and others. Howard J. Phillips, of Audubon, described a burly Polander from whose property the speaker had been ordered to remove a house connection because the owner refused to pay water rent and could therefore not keep the connections clear. As the property-holder's time limit for turning on water is to expire tomorrow, Mr. Phillips humorously requested the advice of the association on how to proceed.

The principal address was by Mr. Downes, who gave a talk on the principles of oxidizing beds and on simple methods of testing the strength or quality of the sewage at different stages of the process of treatment. He pointed out that the oxidizing bed is simply an adaptation of nature's methods of disposition of organic matter which has passed the stage of economic usefulness as such.

He also called attention to the fact that the object sought was to unite oxygen with every bit of unstable matter in the sewage, and that therefore the obvious method of determining its strength was to ascertain the quantity of oxygen which the sewage would ultimately consume.

After stating that the local plant took from the air and united with the unstable portions of the sewage from 550 to 850 pounds avoirdupois of oxy-[illegible] for each million gallons of sewage treated, o[illegible] than twice that quantity daily, he proceeded [illegible] describe methods of estimating this oxygen demand of a sewage.

Mr. Collings told how at his plant the gases given off by the decomposing solids were being collected and used to run the pumping engines. The danger of explosion from such gases was also touched upon.

Lunch was then served at the Hotel Kensington, after which through the efforts of Councilman Hylan, chairman of the sewer committee, the members were taken to both the old and new disposal plants. Those furnishing cars to Mr. Hylan for this purpose were, Richard A. Claybrook, Henry L. De Forest, Charles A. Reed, Charles C. Randolph and Juan A. Babcock.

The crowd left with a happy impression of Plainfield and could not say enough for the thoughtfulness of Mr. Hylan and those who furnished cars, and for Andrew J. Gavett, who as street commissioner did much to assure the success of the meeting.

The members of the association and others present at the meeting were: C. W. Clayton, Point Pleasant; C. O. Ericson, Helmetta; Morford C. Smith, Newton; Roswell Davis, Princeton; W. H. Frapwell, Morristown; Howard J. Phillips, Audubon; I. Z. Collings, Collingswood; Harry Colmer, Beach Haven; W. George Lambert, Riverside; Theodore Fenman, Morristown; C. Herbert Powers, Merchantville; J. Attwood Giddings, North Plainfield; John R. Downes, David X. Clarin, Ernest K. Powlison and Andrew J. Gavett, of Plainfield.

NO INTIMATION MEANT AS TO MRS JENNINGS IN ROBBERY

Under the heading "Aged Woman In Blackmail Plot," the Daily Press of last Saturday contained an article regarding alleged black hand letters, and the arrest of Mrs. Ida Jennings, of Warrenville. In the article appeared the following:

"The alleged 'black hand' letters were in the possession of Judge Codington (of the law firm of Codington & Blatz) until a few days ago, when they were turned over to the prosecutor's department of Somerset county, for fear an attempt would be made to take them by burglarizing the office of Codington & Blatz."

Some time previous to that publication the offices of Codington & Blatz had been entered and a number of papers destroyed by certain young men who were subsequently arrested, and although the statement in the "Aged Woman in Blackmail Plot" story does not mention that burglary and was not intended to convey and does not seem to the Press to infer that Mrs. Jennings had any connection with it, yet she seems to fear that such an inference might be drawn.

The Daily Press is glad to state that it never intimated nor intended to intimate that Mrs. Jennings was a party to the burglary and to disclaim any such inference if it could in any way be drawn from the article in question.

"If all of us knew that Christ was coming to Plainfield at 9:15 tomorrow night, the delivery wagons couldn't pass through alleys for the beer bottles, wine bottles and cards that would be thrown there by church members," declared the Rev. William E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle last night at the conclusion of his sermon.

Dr. Biederwolf preached on "The Backslider." He talked to church members, urging that all come back to the highest day they had ever known religiously, and told of the many ways in which they could be backsliders.

At the close of the sermon more than 150 answered his appeal for pledges for a better life. Dr. Biederwolf asked every man or woman, whether a Christian or not, to come forward and kneel before the Tabernacle audience, thus publicly saying that they would try to do God's will from that minute on. The crowd responded nobly, and the small space in front of the pulpit was almost filled, many of those coming forward being men.

Dr. Biederwolf's sermon was a severe arraignment of the average church member. He told of the many careless traits into which members fall, one of which was illustrated by the remark of a friend who said he "guessed" he started to backslide when he first voted the whiskey ticket. "I rather reckon he did!" was the remark of Dr. Biederwolf. He added that if he were a saloon-keeper he would take his license with him on judgment day, and when called before God for punishment would show it, and then stand on the threshold of hell and cry "Unjust! Unjust!" until he was admitted to heaven or all the church members who voted for his business were ordered to share his punishment in hell. Dr. Biederwolf said that between the two the saloon man was a better citizen, because he did not profess to be a Christian.

He insisted that most church members were careless in the reading of their Bible and careless in prayer, and that they lose their own self-respect and that of their neighbor by "backslidings." His appeal at the close of the sermon brought more than 150 people to the front of the Tabernacle to follow him in the penitent's prayer.

A number of delegations were expected to be present last night. For some reason unannounced the Federation of Men's Clubs did not show up, excepting for a few members, Pipe Major Peter McKinnon and Piper Robert Murray, of Clan McKenzie, were there and received a hearty welcome from "Mac," who is a Scotchman himself, also from others in the Tabernacle. Piper McKinnon played a selection on the bagpipe, which won great applause.

Mr. Heaton and Mr. McEwan sang a duet. The opening prayer was made by the Rev. Dr. Conover.

Dr. Biederwolf again paid his respects to the newspapers of Plainfield, thanking them for their hearty cooperation in the work, and mentioning, also, the New York American and the New Brunswick Times, which have given good stories of the meetings. He urged every one present to subscribe for one of the local papers and send it to a friend during the services.

The evangelist said that no finer parade was ever held anywhere than that here Saturday evening, and he thanked members of the police force, the chief and the Mayor for their cooperation. The crowd, he said, was the most orderly and dignified that he had ever seen. Dr. Biederwolf explained that one member of his quartet had "got it in the neck" singing in the night air, but expected to be back tomorrow night. This is Mr. Roberts, the bass.

After the singing of "My Sins are Forgiven" by "Mac," Dr. Biederwolf preached his sermon on "Backsliders," which will be found in another column.

ANASTASIA DUHNOWSKI.

Anastasia Duhnowski, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Duhnowski, died last night at the parents' home at 657 South Second street. The funeral will be held at the late home tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard Bellis, of 601 East Second street, have removed to 412 East Fifth street.

Richard Burke, of East Sixth steret, is convalescent after a long illness with grip and pneumonia.

WATCHUNG TROOP POSTPONES DANCE

In Deference to Biederwolf Revival Social Function is Given up.

In deference to Dr. Biederwolf's campaign, the Watchung Troop Association has decided to give up the troop dance which was scheduled for April 28. This was the result of a meeting of the board of governors, and the entertainment committee, held last night at the troop headquarters, Putnam and Kensington avenues.

The dance had been planned for the benefit of the Muhlenberg Hospital, and its abandonment was difficult because the arrangements, made largely before the Biederwolf campaign had been announced, had been carried out even to the extent of a sale of a considerable number of tickets, to the printing of posters and the engagement of an orchestra and of the Hartridge auditorium. Nevertheless, the meeting was unanimous in the belief that the association should take no action that would to any degree unfavorably react against Dr. Biederwolf's work, or interfere to any extent with its complete success. The money for the tickets will be returned immediately, and the idea of a dance will be wholly dropped—at least for the present season.

The school for non-commissioned officers of the troop also met last night at headquarters. A week ago a problem of patrolling a hostile country through which an enemy was retreating, had been set for the squad leaders. Their written answers were read alond, and the methods of conducting the patrol which each proposed were carefully followed upon a large map, and criticized and commented upon by Captain Albert G. Borden.

ITALIANS SETTLE TROUBLE WHEN TRIED IN POLICE COURT

Michael Megele, Italian, who works for the Scott Press Works, was in police court this morning on a charge of using profane and indecent language. John Dillipaoli, who works with him, made the complaint. Dillipaoli accused Megele of having talked about his wife and threatened to hit him with a club when he objected. After an argument that threatened to disturb the peace of the court room, the two Italians were finally persuaded by Judge De Meza to forget their differences and shake hands. The charge against Megele was dismissed.

PAINTED SIGNS ON SIDE WALKS--GETS ARRESTED

Rufus O'Dell, of Pearl River, New York, stopped in Plainfield yesterday to make a little change. He is a sign painter by trade and picked up a considerable amount painting signs on sidewalks for local merchants before Lieut. Higgins arrested him. It is a violation of a city ordinance to mark sidewalks. O'Dell was given a suspended sentence by Judge De Meza this morning.

APGAR COMPANY GETS THE CONTRACT

Concern Will Cover Roof of the Borough Hall and Install Leaders for $95.50.

The Mayor and Common Council held a short adjourned session last evening, when the Apgar Construction Company was awarded the contract of placing rubberoid on the roof of the borough hall, making necessary repairs there and placing new leaders. The company's bid was $97.50. Other bidders were Edward Daniels, who bid $110, and Fred E. Smith, who bid $98.

A communication was received from A. F. Conant calling attention to two holes in the back-fill of sewer trench on Orange street, between Washington avenue and New Market road, and suggesting that these be filled in before summer so that mosquitoes will not breed there. The matter will be attended to immediately.

The borough clerk neglected to send notices to those benefitted by the Madison avenue storm drain, and the Council couldn't consider the report of the commissioners last evening. The matter will be re-advertised, notices duly mailed and the report considered at a meeting to be held on May 18.

Chairman Castner, of the street committee, was instructed to make arrangements for oiling the streets of the borough, the work to follow as closely to the rolling of the streets by the sewer contractors as possible.

Chairman Ryan, of the lighting committee, was authorized to have an electric light placed on First street, between the new St. John's church and the Parish House.

In order to make proper sewer connections with certain houses well back from the street on Mountainview Terrace it will be necessary to make the trench excavated along the thoroughfare for the main sewer pipes an average of a foot deeper for a distance of 300 feet west from Lincoln avenue, the borough engineer reported to the Council. He told the Council that the only cost would be $70 for an additional flush tank. Chairman Williams, of the sewer committee, and the borough engineer were given full charge of the matter.

Councilman Williams called the attention of the Council to the improved appearance of the properties on the east side of Prospect avenue between the railroad tracks and Grove street, for which Street Commissioner Paul Reusch is responsible. He said that Mr. Reusch would be satisfied with the appearance of this stretch if he could have a depression which lies between his property and the house tenanted by Peter Ritter filled in. This property is owned by the Craig Marsh estate, and Mr. Reusch thought that if the clerk wrote the execeutors a letter calling their attention on the matter they wuold be glad to take care of it. This was authorized.

Among the bills ordered paid were the following: W. H. Snyder, law and ordinance, $12; Martin Boyle, street, $7; Jack Boyle, streets, $16; Louis Vossler, North avenue drain, $13.50; C. E. Richards, Madison avenue drain, $10.

Joseph Fromeyer and family have moved from the Giles' house, on Dunellen avenue, into their new home on Second street.

George Block has taken a position in the meat market of Frank Neidig, on Somerset street, North Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Percival R Abbott have returned from New York City, where they spent several days visiting Mrs Abbott's mother.

Contractor Charles Wrage has been awarded the contract of erecting a garage for Arthur J. Hamley

William E. Terry has returned to work after an attack of tonsolitis.

E. C Kepler, who was burned badly by molten lead at Westfield three weeks ago, is doing very nicely, and hopes to be able to resume his duties in two weeks

A. E. Smith resumed his duties as trolley motorman yesterday following a layoff of two weeks as a result of a recurrence of eye trouble.

The Apgar Construction Company has been awarded the contract of erecting the bungalow for William Giles, described in this column several weeks ago.

Contractor Fred Kirchner is suffering from a growth on the neck.

A. L. Jones, of Chicago, is making his home with his son, Councilman Earle M Jones.

Arthur Miller has tonsilitis

Carl Hoffman has accepted a position as night watchman at the Hall Press Works in Dunellen.

VESTED CHOIR SINGS "THE CRUCIFIXION"

Large Congregation Attends Service at Church of the Holy Cross.

"The Crucifixion," a meditation on the sacred passion of the Holy Redeemer, the words of which were written by the Rev. W. J. Sparrow-Simpson, M. A., and the music by J Stainer, was rendered in the Church of the Holy Cross last night to an audience that taxed the capacity of the edifice The rendition was in charge of the organist and director, Charles Davis, who deserves much credit for the splendid perfection of the many voices in the chorus.

The soloists for the cantata were William Holmes, bass, and W. J. R. Thiers, tenor. The duets of the two soloists were especially well given, their voices blending in beautiful harmony, while each selection was full of pathetic feeling. Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, officiated during the service.

MUSIC FESTIVAL WILL OPEN MAY 1

Attractive Program to Be Given in First Regiment Armory, Newark.

Music lovers all over the State of New Jersey are now centering their attention on the coming Newark Music Festival concerts which are to be held in the First Regiment Armory, Newark, on the evenings of May 1, 2, 3 and 4, and on the afternoons of May 3 and 4. Such a monstrous affair has not been given anywhere in the country in recent years, and the magnitude of the chorus and orchestra and the prominence of the soloists is attracting national interest.

The patron sale for the Newark event opened Thursday morning when the line of purchasers began to form at 5:30 a. m. From that time to noon over 17,000 tickets were sold. The sale will continue up to the opening of the festival May 1. To date over $11,000 has been subscribed.

The festival, which is to open Newark's 250th anniversary celebration will begin on May 1, with "American Composers' Night." At this time the soloists will be Anna Case, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company; Merle Alcock, contralto, and Antoine de Vally, tenor of the Royal Opera, Antwerp, Belgium. Among the works to be produced on this evening will be the three specially written cantatas, for the best of which Newark, Paterson and Jersey City combined, awarded a prize of $500. The monstrous chorus and orchestra will also take part.

May 2 will be "Children's Night," with a school children's chorus of 3,000 and a high school orchestra of 1,000. The soloists on this night will be Christine Miller, the well-known contralto; Joseph Stoopack, the noted little boy violinist, and George Branton, the celebrated boy soprano of Grace church, New York.

May 3 (matinee) will be "Symphony Concert," and the soloists will be Ethel Leginska, the celebrated little English pianist. The festival orchestra will also take part.

May 3 (evening) will be "Opera Night," with four soloists from the Metropolitan Opera Company: Frieda Hempel, soprano; Margarete Ober, contralto; Riccardo Martin, tenor, and Allen Hinckley, bass. Both the chorus and orchestra will also be featured.

May 4 (evening) will be "Tri-City Night," and on this final evening the festival choruses from Jersey City and Paterson will be brought to Newark to combine with the local singers in the production of the celebrated Berlioz' "Requiem." For this evening the orchestra will be enlarged to 150, and include four brass bands. The soloists will be James Harrod, the sensational new tenor, and Arthur Klein, pianist, who was selected from among twenty contestants to represent Essex county.

Seats for this monstrous event are now on sale at Lauter's warerooms, 593 Broad street, Newark, and the sale will continue there until the opening of the festival, May 1. Requests for information regarding the concerts or orders for seats sent through the mails must be sent to the office of the Newark Music Festival Association, Wiss Building, 691 Broad street, Newark. All mail orders will be promptly attended to. The public sale begins on April 24 at 9 o'clock.

HEARING ON STREET WIDENING IS HELD

Property Owners on Somerset Street Making an Effort to Save Valuable Trees.

Commissioners L. B. Woolston, Morris C. VanArsdale and John Y. Barrett named to assess benefits and damages in the matter of widening Somerset street, the borough, from Jackson avenue to Johnston's Drive, held their second public hearing in the Borough Council rooms last night.

At the first hearing last week no one appeared to enter any protest, but last night there were three property owners who attended and presented their views. They were Miss Anna Miles, who owns considerable property at the upper end of the street; J. A. Powlison and Charles Steiner. Their chief complaint was the possibility of losing valuable shade trees. They apparently had no objection to the street improvement for other reasons, although they were of the opinion that their properties were of more value than the commissioners would probably be inclined to allow.

There was a suggestion that a sufficient amount of land between Jennings' line and Johnston's Drive could be dedicated so that tthe trees at that point could be saved. This could be done by placing the street line inside the trees. This matter will be taken up further. The commissioners will meet with the Borough Council Friday night, when another opportunity will be offered for objections. The commissioners expect to present their report at that meeting.

LEAVES FOR BERMUDA.

Miss Mary E. Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, of Spooner avenue, left today for Bermuda, where she will spend her Easter vacation. Miss Smith is at present a student in the Newark Normal School, and the trip to Bermuda includes about thirty students from the institution. Two aunts of the Plainfield girl are chaperoning the party. Miss Smith was graduated from the Plainfield High School with the class of 1915, being the valedictorian of her class.

SEA GIRT CAMP TO OPEN JUNE 17

General Sadler Announces Detailed Provisions.

STATE WILL PAY FARES.

Officers Failing to Make Up Deficiencies Will Not Be Permitted to Attend—No Pay For Those Who Have Not Attended at Least Four Consecutive Days.

Trenton, April 19.—General provisions for the camp of instruction for officers of infantry and quartermaster corps, Sea Girt, June 19-24, have been announced by Adjutant General Sadler.

Officers on the active list and enlisted men will attend, as follows: General officers, infantry officers and officers of departments, except those who have failed to make up deficiencies; newly commissioned officers and candidates for commission who have been elected upon the recommendation of regimental commander; disbursing officers, one medical officer, major and three enlisted men of hospital corps, to be designated by camp commander.

State funds will take care of the pay and transportation. No one will be entitled to pay who has not attended at least four consecutive days. Exception to this rule is in case of emergency or by leave.

The commanding officer of each regiment is required to forward to the military department here not later than June 1 a requisition covering expenses; also to forward to the camp quartermaster, Sea Girt, not later than June 17, wall tents complete on the basis of one for each field officer, and to camp commander, Sea Girt, not later than June 15, Gettysburg war game and maps and intrenching equipment for three squads complete.

Quartermaster General Murray will provide tentage for the camp commander, staff, instructors and line officers and erect the camp, which will be in readiness June 17.

Organizations will be effected under Brigadier General Edwin W. Hine, who is authorized to detail for administrative purposes one adjutant, major; one quartermaster, major; one assistant to quartermaster, captain and two aids. The student officers will be divided into three classes—field officers' class, quartermasters' class (officers of the quartermaster corps, regimental and battalion quartermasters and commissaries), line officers' class (company officers and regimental and battalion adjutants), to be divided into such sections as may be necessary.

SAY HE KILLED RIVAL.

Jersey City Police Charge Girl's Suitor With Murder.

Jersey City, April 19.—Arrested at his home charged with the murder of Charles Weincz, forty years old, of 534½ Seventh street, this city, his rival for the affections of a girl, Thomas Lane, thirty-eight years old, of 129 McWhorter street, Newark, will be arraigned in the Second criminal court, Jersey City.

Weincz and Lane were competitors for the hand of Delia Hough of 436 Grove street, this city. It is said Lane went to the house, found Weincz there and stabbed him in the abdomen. Weincz went home and was admitted to the City hospital, where he died.

The hospital authorities, according to the police, made no report of having received Wiencz, and it was only by accident the police learned of the stabbing affray. Weincz is said to have made a complete antemortem statement.

$175,000 RAISED IN 8 DAYS.

New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. Tops Limit Set by $25,000.

New Brunswick, April 19. — New Brunswick's eight day campaign for its proposed $150,000 Young Men's Christian association building has been concluded with a total amount pledged of $175,000.

The biggest contribution came by telegram from James B. Ford of the United States Rubber company, Manhattan, who gave $30,000. The foundation of the Ford millions was made in the rubber business in New Brunswick.

HOLD YOUNG FIREBUG.

Passaic Mill Hand to Answer Four Charges of Arson.

Passaic, April 19.—Joseph Shedosky, the twenty-year-old mill hand of this city who confessed to Fire Chief Bowker and Captain of Detectives Turner that he has started more than forty fires here since the first of this year, was arraigned before Judge Costello in the City court, where he pleaded guilty to four separate charges of arson and four more charges of incendiarism. He was held for the grand jury, which will probably indict him next Friday.

Schooner In Distress.

Toms River, April 19.—The coast guard station here reported the two masted schooner Millie R. Frank anchored three miles off shore with a distress flag set in her rigging. The coast guards prepared to go to her assistance, and the coast guard cutter Mohawk was notified. A high wind was blowing.

SUNRISE MEETING.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Trinity Reformed church will hold their annual sunrise meeting, Easter Sunday at 6:45 in Trinity Reformed church. As this service is the only one of its kind held in the city, it is always largely attended, and no doubt will be this year. A. C. Estes, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will be the leader of the service. Special music will be a feature.

TO BREAK WITH BERLIN, IS REPORT

Severance of Relations Now Seems Probable.

JOINT SESSION IS CALLED

President's Summoning of Both Houses of Congress Causes Thrill of Apprehension in Washington—Von Bernstorff Sees Lansing, but Latter Refuses to Discuss Situation With Him.

Washington, April 19.—Washington was thrilled by the announcement that President Wilson would go before a joint session of congress on the German submarine issue. The controversy has been brought to a stage where severance of diplomatic relations and even more serious consequences loom as immediate possibilities.

The president's note to Germany, which is virtually an ultimatum demanding that Germany cease her illegal methods of submarine warfare, has been held up, but will go forward after the president has addressed congress.

The intimation came from high official sources that the president had already determined upon the necessity of a severance of diplomatic relations with Germany.

Secretary Lansing declined to confirm or deny such reports and referred all inquiries to the White House.

A Decisive Step.

There is no doubt that the president's communication to Berlin is a decisive step which leaves the United States no alternative except to sever diplomatic relations in case Germany fails to seize this last chance to modify her methods of submarine warfare to meet the president's implied demands.

The only difference of opinion in Washington is whether or not he has decided to leave no loophole for further concessions to Germany.

The general impression is that he will leave such an opening, but that it will be of a character which offers little hope and that the president has made up his mind that a break with Germany was now hardly to be avoided.

President Wilson had promised the leaders in congress that he would take no decisive step without informing that body of his purpose. He regards the move which he is about to take as a decisive step and in appearing before congress he fulfills his pledge.

Count von Bernstorff had a ten minute conference with Secretary Lansing and stated specifically after the conference that he and the secretary were to talk matters over "in a few days." This was taken as an indication that all hope has not yet been abandoned by the ambassador for an eleventh hour adjustment of the difficulty.

The German ambassador did not look worried after the conference. He said that Germany was willing to meet the United States not halfway, but nine-tenths of the way, in working for an amicable solution of the submarine controversy. The ambassador, however, declared flatly that Germany would never yield on any point which would cripple her submarine warfare in the British war zone.

Count von Bernstorff said he had come without any other purpose than to talk the matter over on behalf of his government. Secretary Lansing emphasized the fact that the ambassador had asked for the appointment. He was not ready to discuss the matter, however, and so informed Count von Bernstorff.

Extreme Cordiality Shown.

The meeting was marked by extreme cordiality on both sides, and the ambassador left with the impression that as soon as the communication has reached Berlin he and Secretary Lansing would be in a position to discuss it.

The ambassador explained that he could not very well discuss the prospects of Germany's meeting the American demands until the communication embodying these demands had been received in Berlin.

Officials point out that the president does not necessarily need to ask for any congressional sanction for the proposed action he will take. His pledge to inform congress before he takes any decisive step is merely of his own making. His constitutional prerogative to sever diplomatic relations without the approval of congress is unquestioned.

But the president is said to realize that any decisive action he takes leading to a break in diplomatic relations is at the same time likely to lead to more serious consequences. Therefore he has interpreted his duties toward congress in their broadest sense and has decided to take congress into his confidence.

The president has been loath even to consider the possibility of hostilities between this government and Germany. But Count von Bernstorff in a conference with Mr. Lansing some months ago said he had grave fears that a severance of diplomatic relations would mean even momentous consequences. Count von Bernstorff emphasized this point again.

Milwaukee Council Rebels.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 19.—If the fusion aldermen stand by their policy adopted in caucus they are likely to drive the city into a literal socialism, without officials, for they decided to confirm no appointments made by Daniel W. Hoan, the Socialist mayor.

ROTH WINS MARATHON.

Boston, April 19.—The B. A. Marathon this afternoon was won by Arthur V. Roth, of Dorchester, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Neidig, of the borough, spent yesterday in New York the guests of Mrs. Neidig's sister, Miss M. Reuter.

WOLF VON IGEL.

German Arrested In Welland Canal Plot.

Wolf von Igel, said to be the successor of Captain von Papen in the pro-German propaganda in this country, was arrested in New York city on an indictment charging conspiracy to blow up the Welland canal. He resisted the officers so strenuously that they were forced to draw their pistols.

VON IGEL'S RELEASE ASKED FOR BY U. S.

Von Papen's Aid Seized as Conspirator.

New York, April 19.—Wolf von Igel, intimate of Captain Franz von Papen, and, according to his own and the German embassy's claim, an undersecretary of the embassy, was arrested charged with having been concerned with Captain von Papen, the recalled German military attache; Captain Hans Tauscher, the Krupp agent in the United States, and others in the alleged conspiracy that was hatched in the early weeks of the war to dynamite the Welland canal in Canada.

Von Igel, when arrested, fought, as one of the government agents put it, "like a tiger," and shouted that the seizure of his person and papers meant "war between the United States and Germany."

The arrest of Von Igel, a dapper young German, threatened international complications. Count von Bernstorff requested the state department to release the defendant on the ground that he was a member of the embassy staff, but United States District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall said he had been informed by the attorney general that Von Igel had no connection with the German embassy that might prevent his arrest for any crime.

However, the state department announced that it had requested the release of the German provided the alleged crime was committed at the time that, according to Von Bernstorff, Von Igel was attending routine work that previously had fallen to Captain von Papen.

1,688 FRENCH CAPTURED.

Germans Take Positions on Meuse North of Verdun.

Berlin, April 19.—Capture by the Germans of French positions west of the village of Douaumont, south of Haudremont, on the east bank of the Meuse north of Verdun, was announced officially. The report also mentions the failure of French counter attacks in the Caillette wood, farther east, and some fighting on the British front at St. Eloi and elsewhere.

In the Verdun fighting, the report says, 1,688 unwounded French prisoners were taken, including forty-two officers, and fifty more wounded prisoners. This brings the total of French prisoners taken at Verdun since Feb. 21 up to 711 officers and 38,155 men, the report says. Their names, it adds, will be published in the Gazette des Ardennes to refute French denials.

PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION ELECTS

Mrs. W. O. Taylor Chosen President of North Plainfield Organization.

The North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association elected the following officers for the year at the meeting held yesterday afternoon in the Somerset school: Mrs. W. O. Taylor, president; Mrs. L. S. Smith, vice-president; Mrs. Frank Rowley, secretary, and Mrs. Judd Stewart, treasurer.

Mrs. David T. Kenney, Mrs. Clifford Brokaw and Mrs. L. S. Smith were appointed a committee to approach the Board of Education with the proposition that the eighth grade pupils have graduating exercises at the close of the school term, the same as the city schools.

Emily Pleydell, Lura Martin, Irving Rody and Ernest Pruden, who are to take part in the interscholastic debate to be given at Rutger's College on May 1, appeared before the meeting and gave their declamations for practice.

The gramaphone selected by Supervising Principal D. Fred Aungst and a committee from the association recently for the Somerset School, was accepted. Its cost is $56.

Next month's meeting of the association, which will be the last for the school year, will be held in the Harrison Avenue School.

GENERAL VILLAREAL.

The chaotic conditions existing in Mexico under which the United States forces are operating in the pursuit of Francisco Villa are likely to become more complicated as the result of the reported uprising under the leadership of General Villareal, a veteran fighter.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE CITY OF TREBIZOND

Turkish Troops Flee After Furious Battle.

London, April 19.—Trebizond, one of the most strongly fortified and most important Black sea ports in Asia Minor, has fallen into the hands of the Russians.

The Petrograd war office announced that, thanks to the co-operation of the army and navy, the city has been captured. A terrific battle appears to have taken place at the gates of the city last Friday, in which the Turks made a last desperate stand, but were defeated by the Muscovite forces, whose attack was aided by the Russian naval guns off the coast. "Most daring" landings were made, the Russian war office reports, under the protection of the naval artillery.

The Russian statement follows:

"Trebizond has fallen, due to the co-operation of our army and navy. The army pursued the Turks without respite after the battle last Friday, overcoming incredible difficulties.

"The navy permitted us to effect most daring landings and gave the troops artillery support.

"Operations by the other troops in Asia Minor assisted the capture of Trebizond."

BRAZIL TO USE GERMAN SHIPS

Berlin Authorizes the Lease of Three Provided They're Immune.

Rio de Janeiro, April 19.—The German government, according to an official announcement, has authorized shipping companies to lease to Brazil for coast service three German steamships interned in Brazilian ports.

The permission is given only on condition that Brazil first obtain a guarantee from the allied governments that the vessels will not be attacked or captured.

Venizelos Defies King.

London, April 19. — Following the breaking up by agents of the Greek government, as the Liberals allege, of the meeting in Athens on Sunday of Venizelos adherents, the former premier, who heretofore has been careful to base his antagonism on questions of policy, has come out openly in opposition to King Constantine personally.

RESUMED HIS DUTIES.

D. Fred Aungst, supervising principal of the North Plainfield Schools, has resumed his duties, following an illness of several days with a severe cold.

CHIEF DOANE HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Quick Action on Part of Driver Prevents Fatality While On Way to Fire.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane had a narrow escape from serious injury shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, when the left portion of the front axle on his automobile snapped as a turn was being made into Central avenue from West Fifth street, on the way to the fire in the rear of "The Paris" store. Fireman James McDonough, who was driving the chief at the time had slowed down considerably to take the turn, and this, together with the quick application of the brakes, probably saved the lives of both occupants. Had the machine been going faster it is certain that it would have turned turtle.

That the axle was defective was indicated by examination after the accident. Marks showed that it had previously been worn away and the part that snapped was only a half-inch in thickness. At the point where the break came there are several large holes in the macadam, and the bumping caused the piece to snap. The left front mudguard and long sidestep were badly damaged, and the machine was otherwise scraped and scratched.

Neither the chief nor the driver sustained injury, but both were considerably shaken up. The automobile of Jerry Manning was commandeered by the chief, and he proceeded to the fire in this. The blaze was in a chicken coop in the rear of the Fass store and little damage was done.

BULLET AIMED AT DOGS JUST GRAZES A WOMAN

A woman visitor at the home of Peter R. Apgar, of Dunellen, had a narrow escape yesterday afternoon from serious injury, when a bullet from a revolver in the hands of Isaac V. Smalley just grazed her thigh. Mr. Smalley discharged the revolver to scare two dogs which were fighting in his yard.

The woman was standing at North and Jackson avenues, many feet away, and he did not know of the close call she had until later. The woman returned to the home of Mr. Apgar more scared than hurt. Dr. T. H. Platt was called but found the wound a slight one.

Watchung.

The monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association will be held tonight, instead of tomorrow night, in the school auditorium. Principal Earley, of the North Plainfield High School, will talk on "Where the Home Fails."

An interesting meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the Wilson Memorial church was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett, "Friendly Farm." After the business meeting Mrs. J. McKelvey, of Plainfield, gave an interesting talk on the "Purpose of the Biederwolf Campaign."

Rev. Denniger, of Princeton, will have charge of the morning service in the Wilson Memorial church, Sunday.

Miss Mary Rose Eaton will have charge of the Junior Christian Endeavor meeting Thursday afternoon in the Wilson chapel.

While playing with his dog, Richard Cass was bitten in the hand yesterday. He had to be taken to the doctor's and had the wound cauterized.

Mrs. Frank Baldwin, of New York, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hippolyte Texier.

Miss Augusta Probst was seriously cut in the hand Tuesday and had to have four stitches taken in the cut. Miss Probst was cutting bread with a very sharp knife and the knife slipped, cutting her finger to the bone.

MRS. HARRIET A. MOREHOUSE.

Mrs. Harriet A. Morehouse, wife of Ezra B. Morehouse, died this morning after an illness of one week at her home, 718 Wallace place. She came to this city four years ago from Council Bluffs, Iowa. Beside her husband, she is survived by one sister, Mrs. T. F. Woodward, of Batavia, N. Y., and two daughters and two sons. These are Mrs. H. W. Webb, of Cresskill; Mrs. A. D. Howard, of Fairport, Iowa; Dr. H. L. Morehouse, of Spokane, Washington, and G. R. Morehouse, of Woodland avenue, this city. The funeral service will be private and interment will be at the convenience of the family.

Cabinet Collapse is Near.

London, April 19.—Premier Asquith, in a speech in the House of Commons, declared that the collapse of the Cabinet is a possibility unless material points of disagreement are cleared up. The differences referred to the extension of conscription to married men. In order to give the Cabinet more time for deliberation on the recruiting situation, the Premier moved an adpournment of Parliament until April 25.

CONCERT FOR RELIEF OF WAR SUFFERERS

Vaterlandshilfe, of the Borough, Gives Entertainment at Garwood.

The auditorium of the Garwood High School was well filled last evening by the musical entertainment given for the Vaterlandshilfe, which will devote the proceeds to the relief of the war sufferers of the Central European powers. The affair was arranged by Central power sympathizers residing in Westfield, Cranford and Garwood. There were thirty members of the singing section of the Gesang and Turn Verein, of this city, and about a dozen other members of the society present. The local singing section took an active party in the program, which follows:

Overture, Ditcher and Bauer, Suppe; piano duet from Trovatore, Verdi, Little Miss Wentland and E. Riedle; Schafers Sonntagslied, Kreutner; Jagerleben, Wengert, Plainfield Gesang Verein; address by Rev. A. Leonhardi, Rahway; Somewhere A Voice Is Calling, Arthur Tate; My Little Gray Home In the West, Sherman Lohr, Miss C. Competition in the Elks' House tournament last night served to strengthen the hold the Cadillac team has on first place, three wins being chalked up by this outfit at the expense of the Chalmers quintet. Sixty-five pins separated the rivals in the first, seventy in the second and ninety in the third. Blimm counted for the evening's high individual tally, getting a 207 for the Cadillac leaders in the first match.

The scores:

FRANK BRUGGY LEAVES FOR YORK STATE CLUB

Frank Bruggy, a Bound Brook boy who started his career with Charlie Newhouse and the "Bees," and later starred for Ernie Dorflinger's Plainfield "Pets," left yesterday for the New York State League.

Bruggy will catch this season for the Binghamton Club, by which outfit he was purchased from the Boston Braves at the National League meeting in New York some months ago. Several clubs were after Bruggy, at the time, and Manager Calhoun was so elated at capturing the prize youngster that he there and then granted Bruggy permission to absent himself from the spring training session. Although he is in the proverbial "pink" after a busy winter on the basketball court, Bruggy refused to take advantage of the privilege, as he is anxious to get away to a fast start and keep going all summer. Bruggy, you see, does not aim to spend all his baseball years in the bushes.

SPITTER DOES NOT HURT ARM

So Declares Billy Sullivan, the Veteran Catcher.

Billy Sullivan declares that throwing the spitball has no more ill effects on a pitcher's arm than the tossing of any other curve—provided it is thrown right!

"The spitball never harmed Ed Walsh's arm," declares Sullivan. "It never harmed it because Walsh knew how to go through with the delivery. Walsh followed the spitball through just as almost any pitcher would follow through a curve. He threw it straight out from his hand, and the fact that he has lost most of his cunning cannot be blamed on the spitter.

"I wish Grover Loudermilk could gain mastery of this delivery. Put Loudermilk in possession of a spitter and it would be almost impossible to beat him. The ball, coming down from the height at which they raise their arms, would break with a suddenness that would baffle the best of hitters.

"If I were a big fellow and a pitcher I would acquire control of the spitter before mastering any other delivery. Having that, you would not need ordinary curves. Walsh in his later years developed a curve that was pretty good, but in the pinches he depended upon the spitter."

WALTER JOHNSON'S PITCHING.

Washington's Great Twirler In a Class by Himself.

Walter Johnson's pitching is the poetry of motion—and it is more. Being mechanically so far the superior of most of his rivals that he is not forced to rely on the cunning which is the stock in trade of many flingers, still there is in the very mechanism of Johnson's pitching something which is the finest of pitching finesse.

hind Johnson's in sheer speed, but they never got quite so much effect from their speed. The reason is found in the fact that Johnson pitches with a semi-side arm movement and brings his arm far in front of him before releasing the ball. With a particularly long stride and bringing the ball far in front of him, as he does, Johnson gets much nearer to the batter with his hand and arm than any other pitcher in baseball. In addition to this, the ball comes floating out of the background created by Johnson's gray or white suit, since he does not release the ball until his arm is in front of him.

Therefore the ball is "on top" of the batter more quickly than when most pitchers throw. Furthermore, the background of gray or white with the white ball affords less in the way of contrast than the batter asks. It is just this mechanism of Johnson's work which accentuates the value of his speed.

Whitney Adds to Stables.

Harry Payne Whitney has received from England a big shipment of blooded horses for his stables. Six pole ponies, eleven young thoroughbred brood mares and two foals of 1915 are in the lot.

Open Door In Baseball Now.

In the future baseball owners will be able to announce what players have not been signed, something which could not be done in recent years because of the Federal league being in the field.

"BACKSLIDERS"

Sermon of the Rev. William E. Biederwolf at the Tabernacle Tuesday Evening.

"Know therefore and see that it is an evil thing and bitter, that thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, and that my fear is not in thee, saith the Lord God of hosts."—Jeremiah 11:19.

I am always sure of the right kind of an audience when I preach the sermon I am going to preach tonight, that is, if I have any audience at all, for the sermon always fits about one-third of the crowd anyhow, and it's a mighty fine thing to have the people present you want to talk to.

If it were not for the way so many church members and so-called Christians live, it would not be necessary for me to preach a sermon like the one I am going to preach tonight. I am going to preach to backsliders, and I've come to ask you to lay your hand over your heart, look up to heaven and tell me if you have ever known a better day religiously. If you have you are the one to whom I implore heaven for grace to speak the truth fearlessly and without compromise tonight. The world despises a sail-trimmer. That's one thing there's no mistake about. No matter how many mistakes I make during the next two hours and a half while I am speaking, there's no mistake about it that the world despises a wishy-washy, weak-kneed sail-trimmer in politics and business and everywhere else, but the last place on God's earth where he ought to stand is in the pulpit.

But it is just as true that there is no one the world so loves and so delights to honor as the man who is true. (I'd rather shake hands with an honest skeptic any day than I would with a pious old hypocrite or a backslider who won't acknowledge his guilt.) (The first thing I want to know of a man is not what do you believe, but are you true to what you do believe?)

Had John Knox Spirit.

Mrs. John Welsh was a daughter of John Knox and she had his spirit, too. Her husband was imprisoned for daring to preach what he believed was true, and after he had been a long time in prison and far gone in consumption, she made her way to the king and pleaded for his release. And King James said, "I'll send him home with you if you will persuade himto submit to the bishops." And the brave woman held out her apron and said: "Please your majesty, I'd rather carry his head home here than tempt him to sin against his conscience." God give us men and women like that, men and women with a conscience and who would rather die than sin against it.

Now of all the sins which a man can commit the most infamous and detestable is that of acting a traitor to some solemn vow and oath that he has taken.

Some of you have gone into the house of God, you have united in the service, you have taken of the bread and wine emblematic of your Lord's broken body and shed blood to show forth His death until He come, and twenty-four hours later you were blowing the foam off a schooner of beer or sitting around with some other turkey buzzards, telling smutty and rotten stories. Untrue, untrue, untrue. God says he is married to the backslider—it says so in the text—and when you forsake Him the same thing transpires in a spiritual sense which takes place in society if I forsake my wife and go off with another woman. The man that is meaner than a thief is the man who won't keep the vow of his choice, and the woman who forgets the same obligation that rests upon her is no better. God laid out the same path for both and a double standard of morality is despised by God and loathed by decent people.

For Man as Well as Woman.

A man expects his wife to walk the straight line of a white life, but I have known married men, prominent in business and society, whose lives were black as hell. If some of you found out your wife had been where some of you have been you would say you were disgraced and refuse to live with her. God laid down a code of morals that bind us all alike, but you think you have privileges that are not for her. No wonder the courts of our land are filled with putrid, malicious divorce cases.

And you respectable men and you decent women who are here tonight thank God that you can look into each other's faces and say, "We are true." You recoil with all the passion of your pure soul from the thought of these things suggested. Thank God for the millions of men and women who would rather die than be untrue to the mutual vows they have taken. And yet some of you same men and some of you same women, who are true to every other vow you have taken, have gone into the house of God and taken upon yourselves the holiest and purest and the sweetest and most important vow the soul of man or woman can take; you plighted your eternal troth and your allegiance to Jesus Christ in return for his own pure, never-changing, soul-redeeming affection. Then what have you done? Gone out, you men, into dishonest business methods and obscene conversations and Sabbath desecrations and dozens of other forms of disgrace to the profession you made.

Untrue, untrue, untrue. No wonder backsliding the betrayal of the marriage vow with Christ is so unsparingly denounced in the Word of God. It is really one of the most awful crimes the human soul can commit, and the strongest language God could command, it seems, he has used to express his contempt and loathing for it.

Got a Little Careless.

There is another class— a second class. You meant well. You started out in fine shape—you meant to renounce the world and the flesh completely. But by and by you got a little careless—careless about a good many things I am going to mention in a few seconds, and you got mixed up with the world and began to drift, and tonight you are like an old battered derelict, dismantled and broken, drifting about on the ocean of life, a menace to other vessels and waiting only awhile till you sink down forever underneath the dark waves of oblivion and despair. You have broken your vow, you have denied your faith, you have betrayed your Christ, you have said good-bye to God and you are a miserable, wretched, backslidden soul tonight. God pity you.

A man said to me not long ago that he started to backslide the first time he voted the whiskey ticket. I guess he did.

And I reckon you also did backslide if you voted the whiskey ticket. Listen, I never said a man that voted the Democratic ticket; I never said a man that voted the Republican ticket isn't a temperance man. You vote your little white pieces of paper for or against the saloon, but if you vote for the open saloon you are not fit to be a man.

I am going to ask you preachers a question:

Why do you refuse to let saloonkeepers or bartenders join your churches? They are as good as the man, who is a member of your church and votes for the open licensed salonn.

Listen, the saloonkeeper is as good if not better than the church member who votes for the saloon. If I were a saloonkeeper and had to go to hell for putting the bottle to my neighbor's lips, I'd take my license with me and let God know that I was running a legitimate business made possible ad backed up by the whiskey voting members of the church, and if God didn't let me stay in heaven or send you to hell with me, then I could stand on the incinerated shores of hell's lurid lake and cry Unjust, Unjust, until the throne of God, where justice is supposed to dwell, would tremble and fall.

Dancing the Tango.

Well, I guess you did backslide when you voted the whiskey ticket. The girl backslid, too, when she began to tango, and she is now going straight to the devil.

Listen! By a national decree in France they banished the tango because it is indecent. Here it is a perfectly harmless amusement. Yes, it is—not! Where is our morality anyway?

1. CARELESSNESS—you get careless about the means of grace.

You got careless about the Bible. You couldn't get along without the newspapers, for how could you keep abreast of the times if you didn't sniff around among the divorce scandals, political chicanery, the great bank embezzlers and their crimes, and wallow your mind in the rottenness of society in general. You couldn't neglect the novels of the day, for someone at the club would be sure to ask what you thought of the last one, but all the time you have been neglecting your Bible and you've got a perverted appetite, of course, and like some goat instead of living on God's clover, you go wandering through the back alleys and feed on old tin cans and brown paper.

David said, "My delight is in the law of the Lord," but there are some who are utterly ignorant of what that means.

2. And then you got careless about your prayer life. How long has it been since you were alone on your knees with God. The Christian experience is upgrade. I saw a car go up the hill and its trolley arm kept hold on the wire above and the power ran down to the wheels. Let the trolley slip and the car goes back. That trolley is prayer, and prayer connects the life with God. And one of the laws of Christian experience is Pray, or you backslide.

3. And then you get careless about church attendance. You forget the solemn vow you took to support the service in the House of God, and you let every sort of a trifling excuse furnish you with a reason for staying away. It was never too hard to plow through the slush and mud to some slush cucumber club or afternoon circle of no consequence, but you will strain your eyes looking for signs of rain on Sunday morning to keep away from church.

Maybe you never joined the church and thought you could be a Christian without it and, as a consequence, you are away from God today.

Had Been in the Church.

A stay-outer is usually a backslider. There is no reason under the shining dome of Heaven that'll pass muster with God why a professed Christian should not join the church and any reason you could give I can apply with equal force to the family, the State, or any other form of organized society. And then you used to be a member before you moved from the old place. And I ask you where your letter is? "Well," you say, "we've never took it out." "Oh, you are expecting to go back some day!" "No, we've settled here now." "Well, why didn't you bring your church letter?"

"Oh, our friends back there said they just couldn't bear the thought of it." "Well, how accommodating you are! Why don't you move back? The people don't seem to be raving over you here. Do you pay as much to the church here as you did back there?" "No." "Do you go to church as often?" "No." "Take any church paper?" "Well, no—Mandy takes the Ladies Home Journal and I've hardly got time for the newspapers." "What about Sunday-school and the children?" "Well, Susie, she goes to the Baptist, and Sallie has sorter taken a fancy to some young people 'round at the Methodist and she goes there; and the boys—well, they've gotten kind of tired ,and you know, I don't believe in making them go for fear they'll get gorged on religion and won't like it when they get older." "My, what a pity it would be if they'd be so unlike their father."

Look here, my friend, you'd have a thousand times more peace of mind, and be in a thousand times better condition to deal with God if you would acknowledge that you are a poor, miserable, backslidden church member.

II. There's a second great cause of backsliding. It's trifling with your conviction of what is right. And that very minute you begin to do that—that minute you begin to drift toward the shipwreck of your faith and your profession.

Trifled with Conscience.

Then again some of you begin to backslide by trifling with your conscience about sensual and worldly indulgences. When you took your vow to renounce the world, the flesh and the Devil, something deep down in your soul said to you, "Better not," about some things, but you commenced to gang with the world and you got close up to the line with the world and with other church members who are no better than the world, and you got close up to the line of separation and the first thing you knew you were over. And then you began to look around for some ground for justification. Other church members dance and play cards and go to the theatre and you said, "I guess I can be a church member and do it too." Sure you can. You can be a harlot and a swindler and a rogue of a good many different stripes and be a church member. But it is one thing to be a church member and it's quite another thing to be a member of the body of the Lord Jesus Christ. Think of Christ shuffling cards at a bridge whist party, Christ dancing about to the music of a waltz. Christ applauding the passion and general rottenness of the present-day theatre.

Listen! There is a man—there is a woman—who is an earnest, devoted, conscientious, consecrated, theatre-going, card-playing, dancing Christian. Not much!! You can't mix those things with Christian experience and keep the spark of your devotions bright any more than you can mix water with fire and keep the flames alive; and if you are galloping away from the world, you are getting away from God and some day you will realize that you've sold out your faith for a mighty small consideration.

I have never known of a Christian of any worth yet who began to mix up with the world along the lines just suggested, whose life did not soon become prayerless, whose attendance at prayer meeting did not cease, whose Bible was not neglected, and as for winning a soul for Christ, would expect as soon to see them fly.

"Thine own wickedness shall correct thee and thy backslidings shall reprove thee. Know, therefore, and see that it is an evil thing and bitter that thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, and that my fear is not in thee, saith the Lord God of Hosts."

Know thou that it is an evil thing and a bitter thing.

You've lost everything that's worth having and made yourself mighty poor indeed.

Lost Self-Respect.

1. In the first place you've lost your own self-respect. It's a sad thing to be disappointed in somebody else, but it's a sadder thing to be disappointed in yourself.

I've had some experience along this line myself, and maybe some of the rest of you have—and I declare to you I never found myself side-stepping in the least degree that I didn't feel like a sheep-killing dog when it was over. I've got to keep right with God to have a decent feeling about myself. If I were treating God half as shabbily as some of you I'd feel so mean that I'd be ashamed to sleep with myself. But some of you have got to lie down every night and hide your face in shame from the book of your Saviour whom you have hurt in the house of his friends.

I'm afraid that's what is the matter with many of you. Let me tell you about a lawyer I know of:

Up in Wisconsin my friend Williams was urging the Christian people to do personal work in the meeting, and a lawyer sitting quite near the front seat started down the aisle and asked a newspaper man to come forward. The editor said, "What for?"

"Why, to be converted; to be religious," said the lawyer.

"What has happened to you?" said the editor.

"How long since you got in this fix?"

"Why," he said, "I have been a church member for a great many years."

"Look here," said the editor, "I was down in court in a certain town with you a short time ago and I drank beer with you and we went to the theatre; and when it was over, don't you remember we sat up in the hotel and played cards and talked with some other fellows about what we had seen at the theatre. But now there is a revival on and you want me to come forward. I am just as good as you are. Go waste your time on somebody who doesn't know you."

The lawyer came back and stood in his place, and Williams said, "What's the matter? What did you come back for?"

(Oh, you miserable backslider; you've not only lost your own self-respect, but you've lost the respect of the world. The world despises you.)

Lost All Hope.

And lastly, you've lost all the hope you ever had. Paul says in Hebrews 10:39 that you "have drawn back UNTO PERDITION." You may say Not, but that shows the trend of your life and some of you are not far from the place where it will be true of you.

There isn't a backslider here tonight who would be willing to die in your present condition, and if you knew that God would come to judge the world some time this week, how suddenly pious you would become. My, what a cleaning up of life there would be. You couldn't drive down the alley for the beer bottles that some of you church members would throw out of your cellars. The theatre and the dance halls and the saloons would all be closed and what a prayer meeting our churches would have if prayer meeting night came before the judgment. But you can't work that game on God. Be not deceived, God is not mocked.

"Know therefore and see that it is an evil thing and bitter that thou hast forsaken the Lord thy God, and that my fear is not in thee saith the Lord of hosts."

But you need not stay in the condition you are, because God calls you back to him, no matter how far you've gone away.

He says, "Return thou backsliding one and I will heal thy backsliding." No matter how long you have forgotten Him. He says, "Return unto me, for I am married unto you, and I will love thee with an everlasting love." And tonight I plead with you to let the memory of olden times win you back to God.

Listen. I'm going to tell you a very touching story.

Lost Her Mind.

There lived some time ago in Chicago a beautiful young woman who was the wife of a man of considerable means. In the awful hour of child-travail her mind gave way and she became insane and was at times violently so. The husband sold his business that he might have plenty of ready cash and devoted himself entirely to his wife. The neighbors complained and said to him, "You'll have to take her away." And then he moved her over on Maud avenue near the edge of the city and built there a beautiful substantial home with an iron fence about it. But the neighbors there complained and some ladies waited on him and said, "You'd better take her to the asylum." And he replied, "I own this house and all the ground between it and the fence. Mary never goes beyond the gate. You may attend to your own business; my obligation is to my wife." They said they feared she might get out. Then came the health officers and said, "You will have to remove your wife because the neighbors complain." But he said, "My wife never leaves this yard and seldom makes a noise that could disturb anyone; if you take her out of this house you will carry her over my dead body at the door." At last an old friend came and said, "John, I've been thinking. Why don't you take her back to her home? Take her back to old Kentucky and let her wander in the fields and gather the flowers; and let her wade the brook and hear the birds sing like she used to; and maybe she'll come back." And so he took her back to the scenes of her girlhood. She heard the birds sing and she gathered the wild flowers and dabbled in the brook, but the summer passed and her reason did not come back. With a heavy heart, he took her back to Chicago in a private car and got to the house at 12:30.

It was a clear night and so frail she was, he carried her in his arms to bed and she fell asleep and slept soundly. This was unusual, for she had not slept so well for years. The husband sat at the foot of the bed and scarcely breathed as she slept on. An hour passed, and then another, and then all the rest of the night, and she slept on, and as the morning light came streaming in and kissed her face, she opened her eyes and smiled and was herself again. And as she looked up into his face, she said, "Why it's my husband," and he put his arms around her and said, "Yes, Mary, and you are my wife." "Where have I been?" she said. "Oh, my dear," he said, as he covered her face with kisses, "you've been on a long journey, but you've come home." "And where have you been all the time?" she said. "All the time right by your side," he said, "waiting, waiting, just waiting for you."

Oh, wandering one, "return," saith the Lord, "for I am married unto you." You have gone away from Him, but He has never left your side. All the time He has been there, waiting, waiting, waiting for you.

He is waiting now!

NEW PROVIDENCE

Fifty members turned out at the meeting of the Italian-American State League branch Monday night in Blatt's Hall.

The New Providence Gun Club will hold a shoot Saturday on its grounds in Elkwood avenue. This will probably be the last of the season.

Mrs. George Spencer, of Stirling, was an over-Sunday guest of her sister, Mrs. John F. Wahl, of Springfield avenue.

Miss Veda Francisco, of Long Island, returned Monday after spending several days with Miss Francis Wahl, of Springfield avenue.

GIVE SHAKESPEAREAN PROGRAM AT P. H. S.

Scenes From Well Known Plays Are Presented Today by Pupils.

A two hours' Sharkespearean program was presented in the Plainfield High School auditorium this morning by fifty members of the Junior and Senior English classes of the school. Scenes from plays written by the Bard of Avon were cleverly presented by the classes of the various English teachers, and a musical program was also enjoyed. One interesting feature was that all of the costumes with the exception of three that were hired were made by the girls of the various classes and were perfect in every detail.

The program follows: Ye Spotted Snakes, from Midsummer Night Dreams, sung by the faculty quartet; The Willow Dedemona's Song, from Othello and composed by Sullivan, Charles Lewis; prologue to Merchant of Venice, written by Katherine Endress and William Daniels and spoken by Mr. Daniels; Portia-Nerissa scene from Merchant of Venice, act 1, scene 2, presented by pupils of Miss Geraldine Brooks' Junior Class; group of Shakespearean songs, sung by Miss Irma Good, of the Senior class; Hark, Hark, the Lark, sung by the school; prologue to Twelfth Night, spoken by Ralph Johnson, scene from Twelfth Night, presented by Miss G. C. Anderson's Junior classes; Shakespearean songs, sung by Miss Irma Good; scenes from Midsummer Night Dreams, presented by the members of Miss Ariadne Gilbert's Junior classes; Who Is Silvia? a Shakespearean song sung by Irving Manley; violin solos, by Miss Lyle Smith; prologue to MacBeth, spoken by Miss Olive Lawrence, with scene from MacBeth, presented by the members of the Senior English classes.

The Easter program will be concluded tomorrow morning, when the Rev. William E. Biederwolf will speak to the student body at 11 o'clock in the school auditorium. The students will also sing a special Easter program of songs under the direction of Charles Lewis.

AUTO RUNS DOWN MAN AT PARK AND SECOND

The automobile of John Haskard, of this city, today at noon struck a pedestrian at the corner of Park avenue and Second street. The victim is employed by the Gordon Towel Company, of Newark. His name could not be learned as he was not injured bad enough to be taken to the hospital.

HOLD VON IGEL OVER HIS IMMUNITY PLEA

Washington, April 19.—Wolf Von Igel, former secretary to Captain Von Papen, recalled military attache, will be held by the Federal authorities on charges of plotting to destroy the Welland Canal notwithstanding his plea that he is immune from arrest because of his diplomatic position, it was learned at the Department of Justice today.

BEEKMAN WILL SEEK CONGRESSIONAL HONORS

Former Assemblyman A. M. Beekman, of Somerset county, yesterday formally announced himself willing to become a candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Fourth District next September. He is now prosecutor of pleas in Somerset county and when he served in the Legislature two years ago made an excellent record as speaker of the house. It was intimated a few weeks ago that Mr. Beekman intended to enter the race. His formal announcement was made in a letter to Counsellor Harry Heber, of Trenton.

WAR NEWS

spect the rights of neutrals and to safeguard the lives of non-combatants. What has actually happened in the year which has since elapsed has shown that those hopes were not justified, those assurances insusceptible of being fulfilled. In pursuance of the policy of submarine warfare against the commerce of its adversaries, thus announced and entered upon by the Imperial German Government in spite of the solemn protest of this Government, the commanders of German undersea vessels have attacked merchant ships with greater and greater activity, not only upon the high seas surrounding Great Britain and Ireland, but wherever they could encounter them in a way that has grown more and more ruthless, more and more indiscriminate, as the months have gone by; less and less observant of restraint of any kind and have delivered their attacks without compunction against vessels of every nationality and bound upon every source of errand. Vessels of neutral ownership—even vessels of neutral ports—have been destroyed, along with the vessels of belligerent ownerships, in constantly increasing numbers.

"I have deemed it my duty, therefore, to say to the Imperial German Government, that if it is still its purpose to prosecute relentless and indiscriminate warfare against vessels of commerce by the use of submarines, notwithstanding the now demonstrated impossibility of conducting that war in accordince with what the Government of the United States must consider the sacred and indisputable rules of international law and the universally recognized dictates of humanity, the Government of the United States is at last forced to the conclusion that there is but one course it can pursue, and that unless the Imperial German Government should now immediately declare in effect an abandonment of its present methods of warfare against passenger and freight-carrying vessels, this government can have no choice but to sever diplomatic relations with the Government of the German Empire altogether."

Note on Its Way.

Washington, April 19.—The note to Germany is now on its way. The cabling of the note started at an early hour this morning.

Looks Like a Break.

Washington, April 19.—Following the conference with the President, Chairman Stone was asked point-blank as he left the executive office: Does the note mean that a severance of diplomatic relations between Germany and the United States is at hand? "In case of a refusal from Berlin," said Chairman Stone, "all indications point that way."

Chairman Flood and Ranking Minority Members Lodge and Cooer, of the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees, still maintained silence after they left the Conference. Representative Flood said that it was his opinion that the note left no loophole for diplomatic quibbling.

Italy Seizes 33 Boats.

Rome, April 19.—Announcement was made today that the prize commissioners have seized 29 Austrian ships and four motorboats.

Infantry is Not Used.

Paris, April 19.—French war statement:

"German artillery at Haudremont vigorously shelled the French positions east of the Meuse river last night, but there was no infantry action."

The French War Office, in an official communique today stated that the French positions northeast of Verdun were under heavy shell fire in the region of Haudremont. The artillery blasts indicated that the Germans were preparing to renew their infantry assaults in that district, but the foot soldiers were not sent forward.

Greece Still Protesting.

A dispatch from Athens says that the Greek Government has made a formal protest to the Entent Allies against the establishment of a naval base in Suda Bay, on the northern coast of crete.

Explosions Destroy Steamer.

Lisbon, April 19.—The Norwegian steamer Terje Viken, 3,579 tons, was destroyed by three eexplosions in Cascaes Bay Tuesday. The crew was saved.

GASOLINE COST HITS JOHN D.

High Price of Fuel Causes Him to Close His Ice Plant.

Tarrytown, N. Y., April 19.—John D. Rockefeller doesn't want to be the ice man. After spending $20,000 for a model ice plant, with the idea of supplying all his needs, he has decided to quit the business.

It was rumored about Pocantico Hills that the nigh cost of gasoline to run his engine hastened the shutdown. The plant produced 1,500 pounds of ice per day, which can be bought in the market for about $5.

INQUIRY GOES TO AUSTRIA.

United States Asks About Sinking of the Bark Imperator.

Washington, April 19.—Ambassador Penfield at Vienna has been instructed to inquire of the Austrian government regarding the recent attack without warning by an Austrian submarine on the Russian bark Imperator, carrying two Americans.

Secretary Lansing said that the inquiry was similar to that recently made of the German government regarding the Sussex.

GOOD BACKS FOR BAD.

Plainfield Residents are Learning How to Exchange the Old Back for a Stronger One.

Does your back ache, feel weak and painful?

Do you suffer headaches, languor and depression?

Is the urine discolored, passages irregular?

The kidneys may be calling for help. Weak kidneys cannot do their work.

Give them the help they need.

To cure a kidney backache you must cure the kidneys.

Use a tested and proven kidney remedy.

Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test.

Convincing proof of merit in Plainfield endorsement:

Mrs. C. B. Coriell, 60 Manning avenue, Plainfield, says: "I suffered from kidney disorders for years and the principal symptom was a severe backache. Since I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills I have taken them off and on, and they have always acted like magic, giving me prompt relief."

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.—Adv.

Corporation Notice.

ALTERING AND WIDENING OF CENTRAL AVENUE.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council has fixed the twenty-fourth day of April, A. D., 1916, at 8 o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 140 North avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., as the time and place for Albert H. Atterbury, J. Fred MacDonald and Arthur E. Smith, the commissioners appointed by the Common Council pursuant to the ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to alter and widen Central avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey," approved December 6, 1915, and the resolution of the Common Council in the premises, adopted April 3, 1916, to meet and proceed with the discharge of their duties and hear all persons interested in the premises, and make their estimates and assessments under said ordinance and said resolution and the statutes in such case made and provided.

The street to be altered and widened to extend from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, the center and side lines of which street, as well as the width thereof, being particularly described in said ordinance, and shown on map therein referred to, and on file in the office of the City Clerk, entitled "Map showing proposed altering and widening of Central avenue, from West Front street to the Central Railroad of New Jersey, City of Plainfield, N. J., September, 1915."

The land to be taken for such altering and widening of said Central avenue on the northeasterly side thereof from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, includes a strip four and three hundred seventy-five thousandths feet wide, being property owned by Charles B. Lufburrow, Ella B. Benson, Charles P. Sebring, Estate of Juliet Runyon, Mary Augusta Runyon, Calvary Baptist church, Plainfield Reform Club, and Wadley & Goodenough.

The land to be taken for such altering and widening of said Central avenue on the southwesterly side thereof, from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly side line of West Second street, includes a strip six and three hundred and seventy-five thousandths feet wide, being property owned by Walter F. Manning, Estate of Lebbeus L. Manning (Elizabeth Manning, Walter F. Manning, Carrie E. MacIntyre), Mary McNamara and Abrams & Kunzman. The land to be taken for such altering and widening of said Central avenue on the southwesterly side thereof, from the southeasterly side line of West Second street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, includes a strip three and nine hundred and seventy-five thousandths feet wide, being property owned by P. Ballantine & Son (a corporation), as shown on said map and said ordinance, to which reference is hereby made for a more detailed description.

By order of the Common Council,

JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

FOR THE SMALL BOARD.

The Elizabeth Times sums up the situation regarding a small freeholder board for Union county so aptly that all of its arguments are well worth reprinting. It calls attention to the fact that every important county in the State except Union has adopted the small board, and most of them have been operating under that method for years. No one has ever suggested a return to the old system. A man who advocated the old pocket borough board system in the larger counties of the State would be looked upon as the secret agent of crooked business and crooked politics seeking an opportunity to rob the public.

Hudson county and Essex county each with annual expenditures exceeding those of Union county many times over have a freeholder board composed of nine members against twenty-three members for Union county.

Small responsible and responsive governing bodies are the rule throughout this and all other progressive countries. Commission government in one form or another for municipalities is the rule of the day in progressive and enlightened communities throughout the world.

In Elizabeth the Council was cut in half in response to the demands for a smaller and more directly responsible governing body. But Elizabeth went further and put her administrative government entirely in the hands of a Board of Works composed of only three members, while the reduced Council was left practically no authority or duties other than those of a finance committee holding the purse strings.

There is no politics in the almost unanimous desire for a change of our freeholder system, as the chances are a hundred to one that the small board under present conditions would be a Republican board unless certain members of the present board undertook to continue their profitable business relations with the county in the new board.

As a citizen and a taxpayer no voter can justify the present system. As a Democrat and a partisan the most biased voter must admit that twenty-one Republicans are three times as bad as seven Republicans. Hence whether as a disinterested taxpayer or a partisan Democrat or a partisan Republican the small Board is the thing and the only thing.

MORE GOOD WORK BY COUNCIL.

Last year when the Mayor and Council finished the work of preparing a city budget, they pared the appropriations down below those of the year before, and the city had money enough for all its needs. Now the finance committee has completed a tentative budget for the current year, with the exception of what may be needed for the schools, and by the same careful methods as those of a year ago have been able to cut the total figures below the ones for 1915. At the same time, by a readjustment, the fire and poor departments, sewer maintenance, Board of Health, printing and stationery, district court, support of indigent patients at Muhlenberg Hospital, dental clinic, and bond interest appropriations have been increased over a year ago, while the estimated amount for several departments has been decreased. The total tax to be raisd for city purposes, exclusive of schools, is $255,630 this year, as against $256,235 last year, a saving of about $600. In other words, if the budget is adopted as printed in the Daily Press last night, any increases in the tax rate will come, not from extravagance on the part of the city fathers, but because of increased cost of running the schools, or a greater demand by the freeholders than was made a year ago.

The members of the finance committee are to be congratulated upon the way in which they have carefully sifted the local situation, and have cut appropriations to the minimum. Their work but again emphasizes the fact that Plainfield has unusually careful and economical city fathers.

THE TOLL OF ACCIDENTS IN NEW YORK.

The total number of street accidents in New York city during 1915 according to Police Commissioner Woods, writing in the April World's Work, was 22,540. In these accidents the number of individuals injured or killed was 23,980.

One person was killed every 13¼ hours, and a person injured every 22 minutes.

As 80 per cent. of the accidents take place during the thirteen busy hours of the day, it follows that during such hours one person was injured every 15 minutes.

There were two and one half times as many persons killed in street accidents in New York during 1915 as were murdered—659 killed in street accidents and 260 murdered.

Twenty-one per cent. of street accidents befell persons who were in the street at some other place than the cross-walk. This is 3 out of 14. Two out of every 7 persons injured in vehicular accidents were in the street at some other place than the street crossing.

The most tragic element of the whole accident problem is the number of children that are victims. During the year, 290 children were killed, and 7,386 injured.

This means that every 69 minutes a New York child is hurt in the streets.

Circus posters about town turn the thought of many a man and woman back to the good old days. Happy occasions are recalled, and not a few are looking forward to the first show of the season, which no doubt will come along before another month has passed. There are mighty few of us who do not look back with fond recollections to the first time that we entered one of these "great tented cities" which had sprung up over night, after wading through great clouds of dust to the main entrance. How the cries of the peanut and lemonade venders thrilled us and we believed everything that the side show barkers said! We heard the red-coated bandmen playing a lively air, saw the acrobats and the clowns go through their paces, the elephants do marvelous tricks, gazed in open-mouthed astonishment at the animals and the bareback riders, and then went home to dream that we were being pursued by a pink elephant, ridden by a gaily bespangled woman in a costume that seemed somewhat scandalous in those days. Those were the day when we all envied the man who owned the show, and our one ambition was to some day occupy his proud place at the head of the parade, or at the front door. Yes, indeed, it all comes back every spring time, and most of us secretly welcome the opportunity to "take the kids" and smell the sawdust again. Wonder when it's coming, anyway?

Animal Aversions

An elephant I'd hate to be,
For how do you suppose,
When he gets grip, like you and me,
The critter wipes his nose.
—Youngstown Telegram.

I'd hate to be a tall giraffe,
With head in air afloat,
For I am sure 'twould drive me daff
To get "frog" in my throat.
—Ashtabula Star.

I'd hate to be a whale these days,
His life is hard, I ween;
He's apt to be, whene'er he strays,
Shelled for a submarine.

I'd hate to be a lulu bird,
I'm very sure of that,
For fear that I might find myself
Upon some lady's hat.

On Offer declined.

We have received recently from a gentleman in Ely, Nev., several letters. We are quite positive that he is a gentleman, and a perfect gentleman at that, because he has offered to make us rich beyond the dreams of avarice. Ere now the reader may have guessed that the gentleman is in the silver mine business. He says if we send him our surplus resources he will, within a day or two, make us as rich as Rockefeller. This seems like a fair offer, inasmuch as our available resources at the present time consist of two Confederate one-dollar bills, a plugged quarter, a brass key ring, two street car tickets and a tin match safe. But still, we hesitate to invest even this insignificant amount, for, when we consider what wealth has done for Rockefeller, we are not quite certain that we want to be rich. Without fear of being called selfish, we will state that we prefer to keep our own hair and an internal organism that can digest such delicacies as corned beef and cabbage, pork and beans, or codfish. Besides we don't like to play golf. Of course, a silver mine is a nice thing to have about the place, but we feel that we must decline the gentleman's offer. Wealth has its drawbacks, and we have all the drawbacks we need now without adding another. Furthermore, if there is so all-fired much money in that silver mine, we would suggest that the gentleman buy it himself.

We have entered into several get-rich-quick schemes in our time and have purchased green goods, silver plating outfits, magic lanterns, wall paper cleaners and furniture polish recipes, but we have never tackled a silver mine, for there is such a thing as getting rich too quick. If the promoter will excuse us we will endeavor to remain poor and as honest as possible in the circumstances.

The Booster.

The booster is the biggest guy that lives in any town; he's always praising up the burg and never runs it down; from early morn till late at night, he's always on the job, with cheery words and winning smile, from him no mournful sob. He boosts himself and fellowmen, he urges them to hustle, and not to stand and whine around, but get right out and rustle; and makes the welkin ring with joy, as business pileth up and brings returns so rich and full, to fill each plodder's cup. For he's the sport that we all love, a good sweet-souled old jigger, and here's success and wealth to him, and may they both grow bigger.

Personal.

Marie—No, we don't know of any eligible bachelor who wants to get married. They may have to some time to stay out of the poorhouse, but we don't know of one who really wants to.

W. E.—The only way you can win any money from a woman playing cards is by keeping a cold hand up the left sleeve and by dealing off the bottom.

Solid Ivory—Give her a good letting alone for about six weeks and she will come and eat out of your hand.

Thrift in the Home

Plainfield Theatre.

Theatregoers in general as well as the regular patrons of burlesque in particular will undoubtedly be interested in the announcement that "Blutch" Cooper's big burlesque organization known as "The Globe Trotters," is scheduled for an engagement in this city at the Plainfield Theatre next Monday, matinee and night. The engagement here is limited to

Frankie Rice,
With the "Globe Trotters," at Plainfield Theatre, Monday (matinee and night).

two performances, matinee and evening. Frank Hunter, the well-known comedian, and the irresistable comedienne, Frankie Rice, both of whom have been favorites both in musical comedy and vaudeville, are co-starring with "The Globe Trotters" on this occasion and surrounding them Mr. Cooper has placed a company of unusual merit. The complete cast includes Will Lester, Robert Algier, Charles T. Brown, Madge Darrell, Don Trent, Florence Davenport, Sarah Hyatt, Edith Mirfield and many others equally prominent. The program that is to be presented during the engagement here will consist of a two-act musical comedy entitled, "The Dowery Seekers," and an olio of all-star vaudeville acts. The book of "The Dowery Seekers" is the joint work of both Tom McRae and "Blutch" Cooper. The lyrics for the production were provided by Billy K. Wells and William H. Farrell supplied the musical score which is said to be replete with many tuneful melodies. Mr. Cooper personally directed the staging of the production and Raymand B. Perez was specially engaged to arrange the ensemble numbers. In the olio which is to be presented between the first and second acts of the musical comedy there will be found Edith Mirfield, a wonderful female baritone who will offer a repertoire of specially selected songs, The Flying Weavers and others.

Vaudeville's latest novelty, "The Mysterious Kettle," a scientific device which performs all sorts of wonderful stunts, is announced as the headline attraction in the Plainfield Theatre's new six-act bill commencing tomorrow afternoon. The kettle in question has puzled people throughout the metropolitan district and will mystify many others when it comes to Plainfield. It defys all laws of heat and cold or in fact any natural process that we have come to look upon as fixed. One moment the kettle will freeze a substance solid and the next moment burn it to a crisp without any apparent changing of ingredients. Dozens of wonderful feats are performed by its operator, yet none can understand how it is done, hence the term "The Mysterious Kettle."

Five other first class acts, all of them worthy of headline places, will supplement the feature number. They offer a wide variety of entertainment, including singing, dancing, comedy and other like diversions that rest the weary mind. Tomorrow's picture feature is the continuation of the absorbing serial, "The Iron Claw," and on Friday patrons will be enabled to see more of "The Strange Case of Mary Page."

In addition to the regular vaudeville program tonight, Manager Shannon has arranged one of those side-splitting amateur sessions. Seven embryonic vaudeville performers will compete for handsome prizes. Of course the hook will be given and maybe something else to those who do not come up to the mark. Be numbered in the audience to get enough laughs to make yourself immune to the blues.

STANDARDIZE HOSE COUPLINGS.

East Liverpool, O., April 19.—In order to put the fire departments of neighboring towns and cities in a position to render effective aid in case of emergency, a movement is being launched here today for a standard hose coupling. Firemen, fire prevention organizations, city officials and insurance men from Ohio and Western Pennsylvania are taking part in the meeting. In numerous fires it has been demonstrated that fire departments of outside cities have been powerless to give effective aid because the fire hose did not fit the plugs of the city that was in danger.

WILLIAM FARNUM IN "THE BONDMAN," AT PROCTOR'S TODAY.

Hall Caine's novel of love, hate and sacrifice, "The Bondman," appears in photoplay form at Proctor's today only, with William Farnum, the greatest delineator of powerful dramatic roles, assuming the leading part. Mr. Farnum's work in this colossal six-part production is doubtless the best he has ever done in his career as a portrayer of strong men shaken by elemental emotions. Hall Caine's novel is a household classic, and we will not presume to tell the story here, but suffice to say that the adaptation to the screen of this remarkable story by the Fox Company, their selection of so able a star, and the rugged scenery and beautiful lighting obtained, in addition to such thrilling scenes as those showing the wrestling bouts at the festival of the Mount of Laws, and the realistic explosion in the sulphur mines, make for this photoplay a reputation for excellence that is unsurmountable, and it is a picture that is well worth going out of one's way to see. In addition, today, the eighth episode of "The Iron Claw," with fearless Pearl White in the leading role, appears at Proctor's to the delight of the hundreds of patrons who are following this awe-inspiring spectacle. On Thursday, a big double program of wonderful features will form the entertainment at that popular playhouse and will include Robert Edeson, long famous as a stage star, and who is now recognized as one of the greatest of screen dramatic actors, who is ideally cast in the title role of "Big Jim Garrity," adapted from the stage success, and containing any number of tense situations with the customary thrills. The great scope of the motion picture camera has been advantageously adapted to this feature, especially in regard to the mining scenes, which are truly the best ever depicted on the celluloid. A more intensely interesting feature of the melodramatic type is hard to find, and "Big Jim Garrity" will prove a revelation to local film enthusiasts. In addition, tomorrow, Frank Mills appears in a "somewhat different" Triangle feature, entitled "The Moral Fabric," and Charles Murray is seen in an uproarious Keystone entitled, "The Love Riot." Friday, Blanche Sweet is seen in a gripping Paramount picture, "The Secret Sin," and the third episode of "The Social Pirates" is also shown. On Saturday, Charlie Chaplin will appear to the delight of the kiddies in "The Knockout," one of the best of his screamingly funny films.

SPEAKING OF THE NEW POSTOFFICE

BY JOHN J. GIFFORD

We'll have a new postoffice, bye and bye;
A mighty fine postoffice, bye and bye.
They lay one more brick each day,
And then gather in their pay.—
That's the reason why I say bye and bye.

They've been building near a year.
Am I right?
And they'll build another year. Am I right?
Our anxiety is heated,
And our patience quite depleted.
We'll be glad when it's completed.
Am I right?

What a joke,—but not so funny. Is it now?
They are wasting time and money.
Aren't they now?
If the humorists behind it
Think there's humor,—let them find it.
If the joke's on US,—we mind it.
Don't we now?

WARREN CHAPEL TO ORGANIZE MAY 25

Elizabeth Presbytery Formally Approves Action Establishing Separate Church.

Formal action approving the setting apart of Warren chapel as a separate church body from the Crescent Avenue church, this city, was taken at the meeting of the Elizabeth Presbytery in the Greystone Presbyterian church, Elizabeth, yesterday. The petition from the chapel requesting this action was signed by 237 members. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, explained somewhat in detail the arrangements made to establish a church at Warren chapel, and spoke favorably of the plan. He said that the members are now able to support themselves.

Warrein chapel has been in existence for twenty-three years, and has been growing considerably from year to year. Dr. Zelie explained in full the financial arrangement that had been made between his church and the chapel. The new church will be formally organized on May 25.

During yesterday's session, Rev. Ernest Brown, of Dunellen, was reelected temporary clerk of the Presbytery for one year. Rev. Dr. Clarence G. Reynolds, of the Madison Avenue church, Elizabeth, and Rev. Harry Nesbit, the retiring moderator, were elected delegates to the General Assembly to be held at Atlantic City, beginning May 16.

Why blame the calendar?
Why blame the tailor?
Why even blame yourself?
Your Easter cutaway is ready, waiting for you now.
With or without braid. One and two button models.
Don't blame us if we surprise you with such a good that you want to come in.
That our prices are much less than a good tailor's goes without saying.

For an Easter overcoat, what's dressier than a trim looking black or dark Oxford?
Silk-lined to the edge if you like or braid trimming.

Westfield.

It has been decided to hold clean-up week here from May 1 to May 5. Andrew Carney, health inspector, has been made chairman of the committee and director of the work. The town is to be divided into districts and the municipal wagons will be assigned to the districts to cart away the refuse.

A new schedule of working hours is to go into effect May 1 at the Aeolian works in Garwood. The schedule provides for fifty-one working hours a week, in place of fifty-seven. The employes are satisfied with the change.

A meeting is to be held here Saturday night to take up the question of forming a branch of the Security League. A committee of fifty has been organized to take up the work and report with recommendations.

As a source of revenue, Spring street, which has been designated as a one way street between Westfield avenue and South avenue, is becoming of some importance. Five automobile drivers were arrested Sunday for going through the wrong way. Three of them paid fines of $5. The other two will be given a hearing tonight before the recorder.

MRS. TEXIER FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE AND ALIMONY

Mrs. Eldora A. Texier yesterday filed suit in Chancery Court in Newark for divorce against her husband, Leonce A. Texier, of this city. Statutory grounds are set out in the application, which is signed by W. A. Coddington as attorney. Mrs. Texier charges that her husband has been unfaithful, accusing a number of actresses whose names she does not know, and a Plainfield woman named Lillian Shirley, or Lillian Williams. She asks for a complete divorce, restoration of her maiden name and custody of the seven-year-old daughter; also a reasonable alimony, to be fixed by the court.

MOTHER UNWORTHY, CHARITY TAKES HER THREE CHILDREN

The three children of Mary Walker were this morning taken from her and turned over to the local charity organization by order of Judge De Meza in police court. The Walker woman was in court yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct made against her by the wife of another man. It was brought out that Mrs. Walker had been careless of her conduct before the children, and Judge De Meza did not think she was worthy to mother them. Miss Philips will take charge of the three children and will probably turn them over to the father, but will keep a watch over them.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How a Lady Boiled Water In Two Eggshells.

The Elves Trooped Into the Kitchen.

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

"OH, daddy, we can't go to sleep till you tell us a story!" cried Jack and Evelyn as soon as daddy sat down.

So he took them in his lap and told them: "Once upon a time there was a lady who had a baby she loved very much"—

"Don't all ladies love their babies, daddy?" Evelyn wanted to know.

"And somebody stole her baby from her," daddy went on. "The somebody was elves. They took the lady's baby out of his cradle and put there instead a changeling with a large head and staring eyes. This strange baby could do nothing but eat and drink, but her own baby was beautiful and healthy, so that the poor lady grieved very much and kept planning and planning how she might get her own child back.

"But time went on, and still the changeling lay in her baby's cradle and stared up at the ceiling and never smiled. At last in her distress she went to one of her neighbors and asked her advice.

"'Take the changeling into your kitchen and seat it on the hearth before your fireplace,' said the neighbor, who knew all about babies. 'Then light a fire and boil some water in two eggshells.'

"'What good will that do?' asked the mother.

"'I have always heard that water boiling in two eggshells will make a stupid baby laugh, and if once the changeling laughs all will be over with him.'

"Still not believing, the poor mother thought she would do anything that might get rid of the changeling without making the elves angry. So she went back home, made a big blaze in her fireplace, set the changeling in front of it and found two eggshells. Then she put water in them and placed them over the fire."

"Did the changeling go away?" asked Jack.

"Soon the water in the shells began to bubble, and the gnome child said:

"'I am as old as the woods,
But from ages of yore
I never saw shells
Used for boiling before.'

"With this he began to laugh, and while he was laughing a big company of elves trooped into the kitchen, bringing with them the lady's own baby. Quick as a flash they put him down on the hearth, snatched up the gnome child and vanished through the window," daddy ended.

"What a funny story, daddy! Here are two kisses for you!" cried Evelyn.

Finding that fines do not sufficiently discourage bootlegging the prosecuting attorney of King county, Washington, thinks the most effective means to enforce the law will be to proceed against the owners of buildings in which the law is violated and this he proposes to do. Evidence is constantly accumulating that the liquor traffic is everywhere and always an intentional law-breaker. Its emissaries calculate with deliberate cunning to violate every regulative and prohibitory feature intended to curb or remove their business—hence the cry, "Prohibition does not prohibit," a slogan most industriously used by those who most certainly plan, by their own criminality, to bring about the condition they profess to deplore. The very assertion that prohibition will not prohibit is a prior confession on their part that they fully intend it shall not prohibit, always hoping by this means to bring about its repeal. There is but one remedy for such conditions and that is the annihilation of the whole business by national constitutional enactment.

A correspondent from Walla Walla, Washington, calls our attention to the unusual promptness with which taxes have been paid this spring in the county of Walla Walla, and the fact that one of the formerly anti-prohibition papers believes it to be closely related to the fact that Washington is now a dry State. This paper, the Morning Union, states the case as follows:

"Whatever the cause the fact remains that five weeks after taxes became payable half the total amount, or a big half million dollars in cold cash, has been paid into the county treasury as taxes on Walla Walla county property.

"Not only that, but people who before have been paying half their taxes by June first and the other half before the first of December have paid the entire amount and taken the cash rebate.

"Never before has the payment of taxes been so heavy in this county. Scores and scores of people have told the county officials that this is the first time they have ever had enough money ahead at this time to make their payments.

"The payments and the fact that the State of Washington went dry January 1 are believed to be closely related.

"County officials agree in giving prohibition the credit or at least a good deal of the credit.

"At any event page after page of the county books, where ordinarily it would have shown that half the taxes have been paid by June 1, now record that all the money has been paid."

At a recent social gathering in the First Methodist church, Seattle, Wash., Governor Lister in a brief address, referring to the prohibitory law said:
